Biggest boost in tuition fees came at Dalhousie. The fees previously were based on the number and type of classes taken, besides courses. Now it is a flat rate for a given course and in effect means a general all - round increase of $465 this term, pays $80 more than he would have last year.

SASKATCHEWAN AT LOW

Tuition fees are up between $35 and $50 a course at New Brunswick, Acadia $40 and $50 a course at Acadia, between $25 and $65 a course at Mount Allison and $100 in the over-all tuition - residence rate at St. Francis Xavier's. The provincial school where room, board, laundry, medical services and tuition charges total $1,125 for a general arts student.

These compare with $220 at Memorial in Newfoundland; with $485 at Western, McMaster, Carleton and Assumption and $410 at Queen's and Toronto in Ontario; with $425 at McGill, $460 at Bishop's and $300 at Sherbrooke and Sir George Williams in Quebec, and $348 at B.C., $300 at Manitoba, $250 at Alberta and $300 at Saskatchewan.

A general arts student living in residence at these schools need $1,103 for tuition and room-and-board charges, or only by the $1,175 for the same at McGill.

At the other end of the scale is Manitoba at $720, Saskatchewan's charges are $740, Alberta's $800 and British Columbia's $936 while Queen's totals $980 and Toronto $1,000—all figures including the arts tuition fee and room and board where a student shares a residence room.

Tuition fees pay less than one-third of the operating costs at most of the universities in Canada. At Manitoba, for instance, student fees comprise 18 per cent of the total budget.

At other universities the percentage covered by student fees is Alberta and Saskatchewan 20; B.C. 26; Toronto 21.5; Assumption 25; Ottawa 30; Western 32; McMaster 36; Carleton 42; McGill 27; Laval 25.

In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, these fees cover half or more than half of the operating costs at every school except the University of New Brunswick where the figure is 49.

In most areas, provincial, federal and municipal government contributions provide the larger share of university costs with the Prairie provinces leading in this regard.

ALBERTA PAYS MOST

Alberta gets 79 per cent of its costs from government grants, Manitoba nearly 60 per cent, Saskatchewan 52 per cent. British Columbia gets 42 per cent of its budget from government contributions.

In Ontario, the percentages run from 33.8 per cent at Trent to 40 at Western and McMaster, 42 at Queen's and 50 at Ottawa.

In Quebec, where student fees have been boosted and most schools since the provincial government agreed two years ago to accept provincial government contributions to universities, McGill receives 41 per cent of its costs through provincial contributions, the University of Montreal nearly 50 per cent and Sherbrooke 75 per cent.

Premier Frank Xavier gets 41 per cent of its costs from governments, but no exact figures have been given the other schools in the Maritimes.

Dr. Claude Bissell, Glover, comptroller of the University of Western Ontario, said fees there have been being increased generally this year "because of moderate increases in government aid, especially from the provincial government."

Principal Douglas Wright of McMaster and Dr. Bissell also suggested that one reason for holding the line has been that the provinces have become somewhat more liberal in increasing the needs of universities.

MORE FROM PROVINCE

Dr. Bissell, the comments to this effect were more pronounced.

"We are now getting generous assistance from the provincial government," said registrar Colin Douglas of McGill, "and we would not be justified in raising fees and making the students pay more under these conditions."

Vice - principal Douglas Burns Clarke of Sir George Williams University said "we now are getting adequate grants . . . and the provincial government has asked Quebec universities not to raise tuition fees."

Andre Bachand, assistant to the rector at the University of Montreal, said fees have not increased because "the provincial government feels this is what students should pay and they can pay."

Laval have given us additional grants to maintain these fees," he said. "They are apparently trying to make higher education available to a larger part of the public in Quebec."

Higher salaries to keep professors on staff and increased cost of materials and modern teaching plants have brought increased charges to students at nearly every university in Canada during the last five years.

QUEBEC FEES DOWN

At British Columbia, all tuition fees went up $100 this year. Alberta boosted its fees by from $70 to $115, those at Saskatchewan went up $50, Manitoba's engineering fee is $75 to $100 a course higher than five years ago, Queen's is $100 to $150 higher and McMaster $50 to $100.

Only in Quebec, where fees came down in 1960 after several years when the late Premier Maurice Duplessis refused to allow the universities to accept federal grants because he claimed they interfered with provincial autonomy, has the trend been reversed.

At McGill, for instance, fees for general arts are $25 lower than they were in 1957-58 and those for medicine are $50 lower. At Laval, fees have not been changed since 1956-56.

Spokesmen across the country indicated that costs will continue to rise at more expensive equipment is required and as salaries go up to keep professors in an extremely competitive field.

More fee increases appear almost inevitable, their size depending in large measure on the amount of support given to universities by governments.

SAILORS QUIT

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) — An Italian freighter sailed for Cuba Friday night with a Soviet cargo and a new captain and crew members replacing those who quit in last week rather than ferry goods for Fidel Castro. The 6,908-ton Atrevo was tied up in the port for a week after 12 sailors left during bunkering operations while en route from the Soviet Black Sea port of Novorossisk.

Coil Plays Vital Part In Ignition

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

Ignition coil failure is not one of the more common headaches . . . thus, many car owners may be unaware of the vital part it plays in the ignition system, the condition which affect it, and the troubles it can cause.

The coil acts as a transformer, converting low voltage from the battery generator circuit to high voltage, which is delivered through the distributor to the spark plugs.

Although the coil gives comparatively little trouble, it is affected by excessive heat, moisture, corrosion, grease and dirt. Loose connections or a cracked tower are also conditions to watch for.

Erratic missing, stalling and hard starting are the usual symptoms when the coil is failing or not functioning properly.

From M. R.: "Why are frequent oil changes needed if the filter cartridge is replaced often enough?"

(A) The filter doesn't screen out everything — gas, water, acids or tiny particles of grit or metal can still contaminate the oil.

G.C. writes: "A well-known firm, which I thought was above such tactics, is using the "scare" angle to promote absorber sales. Sure, defective shocks are bad for the car, but what's so dangerous about them?"

(A) Why not stress safety, when it's true? Faulty shocks can cause several unsafe conditions — swaying, pull to one side, severe dipping, excessive wheel bounce.

N. R. asks: "When country driving, my car usually loses water and begins to overheat. New hoses were put on last spring and I just replaced the thermostat and pressure cap a few weeks ago. I've examined the radiator a dozen times, but there's no sign of leakage there. The most puzzling part is that there's no trouble of this kind when the car is used around the city."

(A) A slightly loose hose connection may allow leakage only when the engine is running at a hot, hard pace.

From L. H.: "Can a small amount of alcohol be added to the tank in winter to prevent any water in the gas from freezing in the line? What about anti-freeze?"

(A) Pure alcohol can be used, but the commercial water absorbers sold for this purpose are preferable. Never use anti-freeze. It will gum up the engine.

Stirling

STIRLING — Stirling Agricultural Society under the direction of president Earl Wallace, had a successful Fair on Saturday with a large attendance. The principal members of the engine to rear axle power-train on all 1963 Chrysler products are now backed by a 5-year-50,000 mile warranty.

HOUSTON (CP) — He's 32½ years old, weighs 180 pounds and he stands five feet, 9½ inches tall.

He has a college education, a good job, a wife, and offspring.

His may be one of the most famous names in history because he wants to go to the moon, and there's a good chance he'll get there.

You can read his name right now:

Neil A. Armstrong; James A. Lovell; James A. McDivitt; Elliott M. See; Thomas P. Stafford; Charles Conrad Jr.; Frank Hedig Borman; John W. Young, Edward H. White.

These are the nine men chosen by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration as astronauts for Project Apollo, the U.S. endeavor to be first to the moon.

The composite picture of the new astronauts also shows that they have logged an average of 2,800 hours' flight time. Four are from the U.S. Air Force and three from the navy. The other two are civilians.

Why did they want to become astronauts?

LIKES CHALLENGE

Armstrong, 32, said the challenge of the unknown was his primary motivation.

Borman, 34, said: "I want to be on the first team, and as far as I am concerned, this program (the Apollo project) will be the first team as far as space progress goes. I am particularly interested in the flight phase of the program."

Stafford, 32, said: "I feel it is a real privilege to be a representative of 180 million Americans in this program. I am particularly interestd in the flight segment."

Young, 32, said: "I feel this is a real opportunity to be able to make a significant contribution to the nation, and possibly to all mankind."

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre here, said there were these basic qualifications for the final selection of the nine:

Experience as a jet test pilot; Experimental flight test status; Possession of a degree in physical or biological sciences or engineering; U.S. citizenship; age less than 35 at the time of selection and height six feet or less.

FLEW 78 MISSIONS

Armstrong is a graduate of Purdue University with a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering. He later attended the University of Southern California. As a navy pilot from 1949 to 1952 he flew 78 combat missions in the Korean action. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Armstrong of Wapakoneta, Ohio. He is five feet, 11 inches tall, weigs 165 and is married to to former Janet Elizabeth Shearon of Chicago. They have one son, Eric, 3.

Borman graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree. He received a master's degree in aeronautical engineering from the California Institute of Technology in 1957. He entered the air force upon graduation and had pilot training at Williams Air Force Base in California. From 1957 to 1960 he was an instructor in thermodynamics and fluid mechanics at the Military Academy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Borman of Phoenix, Ariz. He is five feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 153. Married to the former Susan Bugby of Verona, N.J., he has two sons, Frederick, 11, and Edwin, 9.

Conrad, 31, received a bachelor of science degree in engineering from Princeton. He entered the navy upon graduation and from 1959 to 1961 was flight instructor and performance engineer at the naval air station at Patuxent River, Md. He is the son of Charles Conrad of Sarasota, Fla., and Mrs. Frances V. Sargent of Havertord, Pa. He is five feet, 6½ inches tall and weighs 138. His wife is the former Jane Dotson of San Antonio, Tex. They have four sons, Pete, 9; Thomas, 7; Andrew, 3; and Christopher, 2.

Lovell, 34, attended the University of Wisconsin from 1946 to 1948 and the U.S. Naval Academy from 1948 to 1952. From 1958 to 1961 he was test pilot at the naval air test centre at Patuxent River, Md. He graduated from the aviation safety school of the University of Southern California in 1961. He is the son of Mrs. Blanche Lovell of Edgewood, Ariz. He is five feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 165, and is married to the former Marilyn Lille Gerlach of Milwaukee. They have three children, Barbara Lynn, 10; James Arthur, 7; and Susan Kay, 4.

McDivitt, 33, received a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1959 and graduated first in his class. He joined the air force in 1951 and See 16 combat jet missions in Korea. He attended an air force experimental test pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base and the air force aerospace research pilot school there. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McDivitt of Jackson, Mich. He is five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 165. His wife is the former Patricia Ann Hasa of Cleveland. They have three children, Michael, 3; Ann Lynn, 4; and Patric, 2.

See, 35, received a bachelor of science degree from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in 1949 and a master of science degree from the University of California at Los Angeles just this year. Since then he has worked for the General Electric Company as a test flight engineer and as an experimental test pilot except for his naval military duty from 1953 to 1955. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliot M. See of Dallas. He is five feet, eight inches tall and weighs 150. He is married to the former Marilyn Jean Murphy of Georgetown, Ohio. They have two daughters, Sally, 6, and Carolyn, 5.

Stafford went into the air force after graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1952. He moved to the spacecraft centre from Edwards Air Force Base where he was chief of the performance branch of the experimental test pilot division of the air force aerospace research pilot school. He is the son of Mrs. Ellen Crabtree of Weatherford, Okla. Stafford is six feet tall, weighs 170. He is married to the former Faye Lavene Shoemaker, also of Weatherford. They have two daughters, Dionne, 8, and Karen, 5.

White is a bachelor of science degree at the U.S. Military Academy in 1952 and a master of science degree in aeronautical engineering in 1959 from the University of Michigan. He joined the air force on graduation from the Military Academy and attended the air force test pilot school in 1959. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. White of St. Petersburg, Fla., He is five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 176. Married to the former Patricia Eliott Finnegan of Washington, D.C., he has two children, Edward, 9, and Bonnie Lynn, 6.

Young joined the navy in 1952 upon graduation from the George Institute of Technology with a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering. From 1958-1962 he was program manager and test pilot for the Navy's F-4H project, flying and writing technical reports and test results for preliminary evaluation by the navy. He is the son of William Young of Orlando, Fla. He is five feet, nine inches tall and weighs 173. His wife is the former Barbara Vinctint White of Savannah, Ga. They have two children, Sandra, 5, and John, 3.

Eight Canadian Ships Running Cargo To Cuba

Said to Be Picking Up Loads in Soviet Ports

AUSTERITY PLAN STIFFEST ISSUE FACING GOVT.

Likely to Face Harsh Criticism

OTTAWA (CP)—As the new Parliament opens, Canadians will be waiting for Prime Minister Diefenbaker to drop the other shoe.

Three months ago he announced his government's emergency "austerity" program to save the Canadian dollar from a bad international beating.

Now the country — and especially his political opponents—are waiting to see the nature of the "long-term measures of a positive, constructive nature" which he promised in June to help meet the root cause of the dollar's troubles.

It is generally conceded here that the austerity program, with all the economic questions surrounding it, will be the toughest issue facing the minority Progressive Conservative government in the new Parliament opening Thursday.

If any one issue can unite the three opposition parties into voting down the government and forcing a new election, this issue seems the likeliest one. But it would take all three parties to do it, and both Social Credit and New Democratic parties don't want an early election.

Liberals, New Democrats and Social Creditors have agreed in their dislike of some of the measures introduced June 26 to halt a precipitate fall in Canada's foreign exchange reserves. All agree that austerity must be replaced by policies of economic expansion.

It remains to be seen whether Mr. Diefenbaker can fill this bill with his new policies, the outline of which will be sketched by the session-opening speech from the throne on Thursday.

Full details won't be known until the legislation is introduced and Finance Minister Nowlan presents a September budget—his first budget speech.

In any event, the government faces the prospect of some harsh opposition criticism. Not only over what it has done but the way it did it.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has already accused the government of "gross and unpardonable deceit" in having denied the existence of economic problems up to the August 18 election and then introducing its emergency measures six days later.

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight Canadian-owned ships have been running cargo between Russia and Cuba in the last 12 months, a reliable informant says.

Some of the deep-sea ships have been operating a regular shuttle service between ports in the Soviet Union and Cuba, the source says.

The ships are owned by Canadians but registered under the British flag.

Officials here believe the ships carried Cuban sugar to Russia, but they have no knowledge of the cargoes hauled from the Soviet Union to the Caribbean island of Premier Fidel Castro.

The American government's warning in recent weeks of a Communist build-up in Cuba, moves by Ottawa to persuade its NATO allies to stop their flag ships from participating in the Russia-Cuba trade.

The National Maritime Union in the United States also has called for a world-wide boycott of ships taking part in the trade between the two countries.

THREE LINES

Three Canadian-owned lines operate the eight ships, the source said.

The vessels were identified as: Bencroft Ltd. Cedar Hill, Fir Hill, Mulberry Hill, Sycamore Hill, Sandhurst Ltd. Bay-Ocean-ex-Fir Freight Limited: Maiden Hill and Streatham Hill, both owned by Maiden Hill Navigation Co. Limited of Halifax, and the Sudbury Hill, owned by Vancouver Oriental Line Limited of Vancouver.

The two Halifax shipping lines are linked with I. H. Mathers and Son Limited, a major east coast shipping firm.

The Streatham Hill, for example, was in the Baltic Sea port of Leningrad last November and December, then turned up at Havana and other Cuban ports in mid-January until early March. On May 31 she was back at Odessa in the Black Sea, returning to Havana in June and then to Santiago de Cuba in August.

The other ships have carried cargo between Cuba and such Soviet ports as Stalingrad, Riga, Mudmansk and Archangel.

Fast Driving Showing Off

TORONTO (CP)—More fire men are killed in traffic accidents than in fires and fires are killed while fighting fires, the International Association of Fire Chiefs' annual convention was told here Monday.

Chief Ed Kennedy said high speed is nothing more than showing off and reflects a lack of training. He observed that the association's director of fire prevention, cost some 3,000 fire chiefs from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Keep Hands Off Warn Douks

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—The Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, camped 1,000 strong near here, issued a handful-of-children warning to the provincial government Monday night as spectation grew that the government might reactivate the New Denver detention school.

The Freedomites, reaffirming their determination to join "our brothers in Agassiz," warned that if their children are taken to New Denver "we are prepared to sacrifice everything in their defence."

Today's Chuckle

Conceit is a strange disease that makes everyone sick except the one who has it.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A weather system extending from near Windsor to North of Ottawa is moving eastward about 20 mph. It will be a little cooler over southern Ontario tonight under clear skies. Another weak low pressure system is moving out of the northwest and will move through the province Wednesday. This will give some light rain in the southern section tonight and early Wednesday and may cause a few showers over Southern Ontario.

College Board Faces Contrary Court Orders

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) Armed with a promise from the Mississippi state college board Negro James H. Meredith was to try again today to enroll at the University of Mississippi.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans forced the promise Monday with a threat of contempt action, and gave the board until 6 p.m. EST to make good.

Meredith planned to register in Jackson, where the board normally sits, rather than the campus at Oxford. This was part of the board's agreement with the court.

But other court agreements were being made in New Orleans, Governor Ross Barnett of Mississippi was making counter moves in Jackson, the capital. Barnett, who has pledged he promised to go to jail rather than see Meredith knock down 114 years of segregation took these actions:

1. He established a state court order forbidding university officials from enrolling Meredith and forbidding Meredith from enrolling.

2. He issued an executive order directing state police to arrest anyone who tried to arrest or detain a state official in connection with the Meredith case.

Without explaining why, the highway patrol announced a "special order" that on the hearing in New Orleans was drawing to a close, "more than 80 patrol cars were moved into the Oxford area.

100 KILLED

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — More than 100 persons were reported dead today in monsoon floods and storms which have swept southern India in the last few days.

Four Wounded as Mob in St. Louis Seeks Policeman Who Slew Youth

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Three policemen were shot and wounded today in the predominantly Negro suburb of Kinloch as they were trying to quell shooting for the scalp of an officer who killed a youth Sunday.

Four persons also were wounded.

As the crowd began milling in a series of shots were fired out in scattered houses in Kinloch, including the new home of Police Chief Roosevelt Hoskins.

Firemen from Kinloch and neighboring communities were fighting blazes when a shot was reported at the Dunbar elementary school. A frame structure was destroyed.

Hoskins, who checked his home, said he was unable to extinguished the fire. He said there is a two-gallon can of kerosene in the basement.

Two of the wounded policemen, Kenneth Armstead, 28, and Hugh Hodges, 26, were in serious condition in hospital. William Ewing, 24, was treated for superficial shotgun wounds and released. So was the civilian, Anthony Williams, 22, who was sitting in a parked car in the mob, estimated by police at 200 to 300 persons. All suffered gunshot wounds.

Williams is a Negro.

Armstead and his police dog were at the head of about 50 policemen seeking to control the mob. The shots were fired when a policeman tried to arrest a Negro woman who was shouting insults at the officers.

Three Kinloch men were arrested and booked on suspicion of felonious assault.

The rioters formed outside the police station chanting: "We want Mason, we want Mason."

They were referring to patrolman Jerry Mason, 24, who shot and killed Donnell Dortch, 19, of Kinloch Sunday.

Mason, a Negro, said Dortch, also a Negro, resisted when he attempted to serve a warrant charging reckless driving on the youth. Mason said he pulled his gun and it fired as he and Dortch struggled for it.

Mason was suspended by Mayor Lee pending a court of inquiry. Mayor Lee has ordered a curfew tonight to begin at 10 p.m.

Feeley Denials Patter Like Rain on Roof Before Bd.

TORONTO (CP) — Denials patter like rain on a roof were before the Ontario royal commission on crime Monday as gambler Edward Feeley's disclaimers ranged from the swinging of political influence to having connections with crimeland's Mafia.

What the co-kingpin of Ontario gambling did not deny, he would not remember clearly, except for a few scattered and relatively - dead misdemeanors such as:

1. Forging his way out of the Canadian Army in the Second World War with phoney discharge papers—an offence now spoofed by the Statute of Limitations.

2. Paying between $100 and $200 in 1954 for a charter of a now-defunct social club, which he used for a time here as a gambling house.

3. Owning a revolver found some years ago in a police raid on the home of a gambling associate.

At the end of four days of bombardment from lawyers for the commission and the Liberal party — and before his own lawyer was to take over the questioning today—Feeley came through with a final denial that he had corrupted or tried to corrupt, police to keep his gambling operations protected.

He rejected particularly allegations concerning present Police Chief W. J. Shrubb of Peterborough, former Ontario Provincial Police and - gambling squad corporal and his chief accuser before the commission, and-former squad chief John Ornish, who retired as a sergeant with $50,000.

"What could he do for me?" Feeley said of Shrubb, who has testified the gambler offered him luxury money to co-operate.

"He couldn't do nothing for me. We didn't need no tipoffs. I didn't need anything he could do for me.

Neither Shrubb nor Cronish nor any of the could be of any help whatsoever," Feeley declared. Shrubb, he added, was "a little strange anyhow."

Finance Companies Defend Present Interest System

OTTAWA (CP)—The existing system of setting out instalment buying costs causes less confusion and inconvenience than would the use of simple interest per annum, the Federated Council of Sales Finance Companies said Monday.

It also told the royal commission on banking and finance that it would appreciate consultation with the finance companies rather than getting word about policy changes second - hand through the daily newspapers.

It called for clipping the hands of the Industrial Development Bank, a federal crown agency whose business expanded last year after suggestions that it strive for a broader role.

The council, national trade association for sales financing companies, claimed that it does not claim all such as members, said the present system of setting out the cost of credit charges on instalment credit in dollars and cents is the one understood best by the consumer.

Elements such as risk and service charges were included in the price of instalment buying and these could be expressed accurately at a simple interest rate over a year, it was contended.

Dr. W. S. MacIntosh, commission member, asked whether the council spoke and the simple interest couldn't be set out. That would be done, the spokesmen said, but why continue the public when they were using instalment terminology costs expressed in dollars and cents.

The cost of instalment credit now was "fully exposed" and a different system might well send the costs underground—to be hidden in higher prices for the commodities bought on credit.

The council brief said that on matters purely directed to the sales financing industry, the Expert Doubts ECM Will Make Tariff Concessions

WASHINGTON (CP)—A qualified U.S. authority just returned from Brussels said Monday he doubts the European Common Market will accept immediately Britain's proposed elimination of tariffs on industrial raw materials. Such a move could benefit Canada, the U.S. and other non-European exporters.

This official said that while the U.S. has given the Inner Six assurance that the U.S. will repay later any benefits it may get now through Britain's duty-free proposals, the U.S. offer has not impressed the tough Brussels negotiators.

They want compensation now —not vague promises for the future, he said. The official's view is that if Britain joins the Common Market, it will have to be on existing Common Market terms and tariff schedules.

However, the Inner Six likely will say they will be prepared to negotiate reductions or elimination in tariffs on industrial raw materials at some later stage when countries outside the Common Market who might benefit are prepared to provide immediate concessions in return.

Under existing Commonwealth tariff preferences, there

NUCLEAR HEADS FOR BOMARCS WILL BE ISSUE

Bases to Be Ready By Late November

OTTAWA (CP)—All warhead-less missiles will be in place on their launching pads at Canada's second Bomarc base by late November — and thereby may hang another parliamentary defence debate.

In the new Parliament opening Thursday, the opposition likely won't forgo the opportunity of again trying to pin down the government on the issue of acquisition of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti - aircraft guided missile and CF-101 Voodoo jet interceptor.

The Bomarc base at North Bay, Ont., received its missiles last spring. Bomarcs now are being installed at the other Canadian base at Le Maceza, Que. The RCAF unit which will man the base completed its training Sept. 14 at Hurlburt Field, Fla. The missiles will be in place at last Bomarc base to be built in North America.

No conventional warhead for the Bomarc was ever developed and so the Canadian Cabinet government has declined to use nuclear warheads with which U.S. Bomarcs are equipped. Canada now stand, therefore, the two Canadian bases are useless.

GOOD FOR BANDS?

In a previous Bomarc debate in the Commons, on March 14, 1960, Mervyn Hardie, late Liberal MP for Mackenzie (Saskatchewan) and a specialist on issues he used as bandstands for RCAF concerts.

Defence Minister Pearkes has left no doubt that he believes Canada should acquire nuclear warheads, and Conservative Marc and Voodoo, Canada's air defence weapons are nonetheless trated in the Sault Ste. Marie-Toronto - Quebec City triangle which likely would be the main corridor for any Soviet bomber assault on North America.

The government as a whole has held up to now that Canada should have the best weapons which might impede disarmament negotiations. Canada is a signatory to the non-proliferation Geneva disarmament talks.

The Bomarc base at Le Maceza cost about $14,000,000 to build and will cost about $1,000,000 a year to maintain. The U.S. government provided the missiles and launching equipment at a cost of some $77,000,000 and is reported entitled that Canada, which originally asked for the Bomarcs, hasn't yet attracted to accept the nuclear warheads.

Air Force Alert In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Mass resignations from the powerful officer corps of the armed forces by President Jose Maria Guido with a new crisis today. The ir force, pledged in his support, ordered an alert of all of units in the Argentine Air Force.

There were reports of pockets of discontent in all the services that could lead to a new leadership that kicked out the army commander - in - chief and Guido ing. The rebels accused the army command of holding back the country's progress and plotting a military dictatorship.

Gen. Leandro Anaya, air force commander, announced the alert at midnight. He said: "There is a threat to the armed forces which at this time have not defined their allegiance."

Voting Lineup Shaping Up To Save Govt.

Socreds Flatly Reject Invitation by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — A voting lineup appears to be forming which could preserve the minority Progressive Conservative government from Liberal attempts to force a new election before next spring.

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, Monday night flatly rejected the invitation of Liberal Leader Pearson to join with the Liberals in voting nonconfidence in the Conservative government as soon as possible after Parliament opens Thursday.

Only hours before Mr. Thompson made public his refusal, Prime Minister Diefenbaker signalled that Mr. Pearson will get a chance to propose non-confidence in the government early next week.

With Mr. Thompson prepared to throw his influence against Mr. Pearson's attempt, it remained unlikely the third opposition party in the Commons, the New Democrats, is ready themselves on the question of non-confidence. This is likely to be a prime topic at a caucus meeting of the 19 New Democratic MPs which opens today.

THREE MUST AGREE

A combination of all three opposition groups — Liberals, Social Credit and NDP — would be needed to defeat the government and force a new election. Liberals hold 100 seats, Social Credit 30, New Democrats 18 and Progressive Conservatives 116.

To force an election this winter would be wrong," Mr. Thompson said in an address in Rockcliffe Monday night. An immediate election would lead only to another minority government.

"The opposition parties and the government must save the opportunity to make their alternatives clear. Canada's future demands something better than something better than demands something better than government which is immediate election would bring."

He said Mr. Pearson "knows that his time now is over, insists that we must have an election immediately and thus adds fether to the confusion that has presently overwhelm it."

Commented Mr. Pearson: "There's no foundation for such a statement because I'm not for an election this year, another election, would only add confusion by returning a Liberal government to power with a clear majority which, in my view, is required at this time."

Asked why Mr. Thompson and his party do not want an election because they see no possibility of changing the present position or taking a decisive position, Mr. Pearson said they opposed it: an election."

Shortly before Mr. Thompson's address, a summary of the text of it was circulated among reporters in the press gallery. Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that unless the Commons debate on the throne speech or the throne speech debate, traditional springboard-for non-confidence motions, there is no evidence over any legislative business.

At the same time, he made plain that he considered Mr. Pearson has been frustrated in getting voting support among the two small opposition groups to overthrow the government.

HOPE FADES FOR 16 PERSONS STILL MISSING

Rescue Ships Told To Resume Ways

CP from Reuters-AP

LONDON—Hope faded today for 16 persons still missing in the North Atlantic after the crash of a U.S. airliner carrying 76 persons.

The search was to be called off later today.

A Royal Canadian Navy ship that played an important part in it radioed an account of the plane ditching and the rescue of survivors from the stormy seas.

Three ships and several aircraft continued the search today. Merchant ships that had left the area 500 miles west of Ireland after engine trouble forced the plane down Sunday night were told to resume their voyages.

Twelve of the 76 persons aboard the plane, including eight crew members, are known to have died when the Flying Tiger Line Super Constellation ditched. Their bodies were recovered.

All the passengers were U.S. servicemen or their families on the way to West Germany.

SINKING AWAY

The British admiralty said the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure, which led the search, sent the merchantmen on their way.

The Bonaventure also relayed this report of the crash and rescue today:

"There are a total of 48 people who are miraculously alive. Even here the wind and seas are as strong and rough as they were Monday night when Super-constellation 922 crashed into the Atlantic with 76 persons aboard.

"On hitting the water, the port wing broke off, taking with

General Electric Co. Working On 'Lifeboat' for Space Ships

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) Man out of space exists.

That's the name of the General Electric Company's new space capsule being designed to help astronauts stranded in space in disabled craft headed back to safety.

At GE's space technology centre here, they call the project MOOSE and engineers say the job is operational by the late 1960s.

Moose is kind of a ready-made, one - man lifeboat. It packs weighing a total of 322 pounds, doubles as a shielded plastic sack, a folding heat shield, a retrorocket pack, a parachute and several containers of foaming plastic.

GE officials explaining today how it is supposed to work:

Imagine yourself an astronaut stumbled during an orbital flight.

Zip yourself into the plastic bag, enclosing other ingredients of the rescue system.

Step out into space, via the escape hatch.

Theoretically, you, a weightless astronaut, would continue to orbit with the ship you just reached the pre-calculated position to start your descent.

At this point, you, armed with a special scope and fire the retrorocket, hurtling yourself out of orbit and earthward, back first.

As you fall, flick a switch to unfold your heat shield.

The plastic foam should fill the bag around you, hardening quickly to form a protective cocoon, helping you withstand forces caused by rapid deceleration.

At about 30,000 feet, open your parachute. Send out beacons and flares to alert rescue forces as to where you landed when you are back on earth.

Plan to Close Two Streets When Bridge Is Completed

Grier and St. Charles Streets in the, College Hill district will be closed at the CNR double track crossing, it has been decided by city council.

The recommendations to close the two streets were brought in to council yesterday by the city traffic committee.

Two other remaining streets in the same area — East Moira and Geddes — will remain open and will be protected by new type crossing lights and signals.

Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the traffic committee, told council that the two streets designated for closing would not be closed until construction of the proposed new overhead bridge on North Front Street was completed.

He noted that closing of Grier and St. Charles Streets was necessary from an economy standpoint. Under regulations the city paid 15 per cent of crossing signal installations but was required to pay half of the maintenance costs.

At the same time council agreed that Rumewood Drive should be a through street from Carlaw to Southview.

Inclusion of a flasher in the installation of traffic lights at the intersection of Bridge and Hochelmer street was approved by council.

Meanwhile the committee has directed Inspector J. Clair Hayes to engage a temporary school guard at the intersection of Rollins Drive and Victoria Ave., while the guard previously at the intersection of Bridge Street and Farley Ave. has been transferred to Victoria and Farley Ave.

Changes in the school guard system were said necessary because of an increase in classes at the Harry J. Clarke School.

He said it was very "high handed" for the traffic committee to move school guards without council approval.

Again, however, Alderman Ireland said it was all a matter of finances.

He said the budget of $20,240 for school guards would be completely used up by the year end.

"We would be only too happy to hire more guards if the city would provide the money", he said.

Santa Claus Parade Officers Are Re-elected

The first of many meetings to be held to assure Belleville of a bigger and better 1963 Santa Claus Parade was held at No. 2 Fire Hall, Monday night.

The meeting was well attended and much of the ground work for the parade was covered.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance opened the meeting by thanking all those present for showing up to help in this very worthwhile cause.

Mr. H. Vaughan, secretary of the 1961 committee, read the minutes of the last meeting of the 1961 committee meeting. Following Mr. Vaughan's report Chief Vance advised those present that a couple of the reindeer on the Santa Claus parade float had suffered slight damage on the trip to Bowmanville last year and would be repaired in lots of time for this year's parade float.

The election of officers for 1962 parade committee was quickly disposed of. Chief Vance was unanimously re-elected to carry on as chairman, following which Don Foster moved that in view of the fine job done by the 1961 committee, that the same slate of officers be re-elected for the 1962 committee with new members to be added to the various sub-committees as required.

The children along the parade route are assured of a bigger bumper year of treats as the refreshment committee was authorized to order 5,000 small chocolate bars. Deputy Chief "Wargo" O'Brien, will be sending out invitations to the various bands, which is hoped to add music and class to the parade.

Many floats have been already pledged, but many more are needed to ensure a colorful and interesting parade. Anyone wishing to enter a float is asked to contact Captain Ted Post at the fire department.

The next meeting of the 1962 Santa Claus parade committee will be held on Monday, October 1, at No. 2 Fire Hall, at which time all new helpers will be welcomed. We are not in a position to give of your time, a cheque payable to the Santa Claus parade committee, and mailed to George Rutledge, 80 Highland Avenue, Belleville, will be kindly appreciated.

Chief Vance advises that help is urgently needed to make this year's Santa Claus parade a tremendous success. There are hundreds of children in Belleville and the surrounding area, who eagerly look forward to seeing the Sabia Claus parade.

Fire Rating

Tweed Forest District

Humidity was rated at 95 as cloud levels rolled lower and a light rain fell over the northern areas of the district.

No fires have been reported for the past three days and the hazard rating is down to normal.

Night School Registrations Being Made

It is night school time again in Belleville. Adults wishing to improve their educational background, or to follow up special interests in which they have not previously had time, will be registering tonight at B.C.I.V.S. and tomorrow evening at Moira Secondary School. The courses are substituting a record enrolment this year. Registration begins at 7.00 tonight at B.C.I.V.S.

Most of the courses are taught two hours per night, two days a week, from now until the end of March There are a few short courses of six weeks' duration. Night school principal is Mr. Sterling and B.C.I.V.S. points out that, "The very low fee of $5 for most courses is a real bargain for all Ontario".

W. J. Musgrove, principal of Moira Secondary School, stresses that "We shall try to offer any course, regardless of the brochure or not, if enough students of sufficient skill indicate a desire to take it and if an instructor is available".

The courses which the schools hope to teach this year are subject to enrolment and are as follows: advanced technical course (A.T.E.C.), art, auto mechanics (elementary), brick - laying, conversational French - ten week course, English for New Canadians, millinery, sewing (advanced), shorthand (Pitman), shorthand (advanced) ten-week course, small engines (air cooled), stationary engineering, typewriting (elementary), typewriting and business machines, V.L.A. home construction, welding and woodwork (cabinet making) at B.C.I.V.S., registration tonight at 7.00).

In the advanced sewing class students will be enrolled only if they have not previously spent more than one year in the course.

At Moira Secondary School (registration Wednesday at 7.00 p.m.)" Algebra (Grade 13), auto mechanics (elementary), bookkeeping (elementary and advanced), carpentry, chemistry (Grade 12), drafting, electronics, (elementary and advanced), machine shop, public speaking, sewing, sheet metal work, and typewriting will be taught.

The entire program is under the general control of the advisory vocational committee of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

TRUSTEES TO MEET

SARNIA (CP)—More than 900 delegates are expected to gather here Saturday for the annual convention of the Public School Trustees' Association of Ontario.

Obituary

JOHN ARTHUR DUCK

CAMPBELLFORD — Funeral services were conducted on Saturday, from Bonnett's Funeral Home, Campbellford, for John Arthur Duck of 168 Quest St. N., Campbellford, who passed away in Kingston Hospital on September 19 after a short illness.

Mr. Duck was born in Dartford, Ontario being the son of John Duck and the late Sarah Hardy. He married the former Beatrice Collard and for 30 years worked as a spooler in the Campbellford Cloth Company.

Besides Robert, also survives, as well as two sisters, Mary Duck of Newmarket, Ontario and Mrs. Mabel Hatry of Flint, Michigan.

Funeral services were conducted by Capt. Langdon of the Salvation Army. The bearers were Messrs. Peter Monaghan, Peter Wilson, Bruce McComb, Jack Pringle, Lloyd and Bill Wilks.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Driver Suffers Broken Ankle In Accident

A 26-year-old Belleville man is in Belleville General Hospital following a car accident one mile west of Wallbridge Road on the 2nd concession of Sidney, at 2.30 p.m. Monday.

Martin Barlow of 179 Foster Ave., was admitted to the hospital suffering fractures of his left shin, a broken left ankle and possible rib injuries.

Shell Oil Co. To Be Allowed New Station

It looks as though the Shell Oil Company will after all be allowed to construct its proposed service station at 119 Cannifton Road, for which a building permit was taken out four years ago.

Earlier this year council passed a motion to withdraw the Shell permit and grant a permit to Gordon Chalmers, for a service station at 410 Dundas Street, West.

Yesterday, however, council voted to rescind the previous recommendation when it was pointed out that Shell Oil had taken steps to commence construction.

According to a city-by-law the number of service stations in the city is restricted to 35, but Alderman Ben Corke suggested the by-law might be amended, with the number of allowable stations being raised to 50 and thus give Mr. Chalmers an opportunity to build his station.

No action was taken on the suggestion.

Offer Closed Street for Sale

The city is getting around to the sale of Bridge Avenue on the East Hill which has been closed for several years.

The closed street allowance is that of Lingham Street between Dundas Street and Queen Streets.

Property owners on the east side of Chatham Street between Queen and Bridge will be given the opportunity to purchase the adjacent land.

If the adjacent owners do not wish to purchase the property, it will be added to the East Hill Playground property

IN MEMORIAM

McFARLANE — In loving memory of a dear mother, died September 23, 1961.

Eleven years have passed away

Since one we loved so well
Left home and gone to dwell
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The Lord gave and the Lord took away.

May wither and decay,
But the love of her who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
—Sadly missed by son George.

BENN — In loving memory of William G. Benn, who passed away Sept. 24, 1959.
Time heals the broken hearted,
Years make the wound less sore
But it can not fill the hole
For the loved one gone before.
Who shall say the pain is ended
Though the smile may hide the tear
Memories keep the wound still open
Death the passing of the years.
—Sadly missed by his wife, daughter and son-in-law Jack and family.

MACDONALD — In loving memory of Richard MacDonald who passed away one year ago today, September 23, 1961.
His memory is so dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.
—Sadly missed by his brother William, sister-in-law Mary and family.

membership of the council would prefer to deal direct contacts with the monetary authorities rather than second - hand translations from the corresponding financial institutions."

Council spokesmen said they found competition from banks and credit unions stiff but they were not prepared to shout competition.

What they did want was direct discussion with the Bank of Canada when the need arose—so that perhaps mutual views could influence moves affecting the supply of money.

Council Turns Down $9,000 Payment to Sewer Company For Mistake in a Tender

City council yesterday turned down a recommendation from its special sewage project committee calling for payment of approximately $9,000 to the Beaver Construction Company of Montreal to recompense the firm for an error made in tendering on one of the city's main trunk sewers.

The $9,000 figure was one half the amount of the error, which was termed an "honest" mistake on the part of the Montreal firm. The work covered in the contract has already been completed.

Specifically the recommendation asked that the Ontario Water Resources Commission be authorized to change the rock excavation price on Contract No. 2 to read $2.25 for a total of 13,074 yards.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the sewage project committee termed the mistake an "honest" one. He said that consulting Engineer Gore and Storrie claimed the city would be wising itself up in paying the additional money while the Ontario Water Resources Commission also favored the city's attempt to go half way in correcting the mistake.

But Alderman Don Whalen felt differently claiming the city was not obliged to correct the mistake. To do so would be unwise and would be setting a dangerous precedent he said.

Alderman Ben Corke held that Alderman Ellis and also Ald. Ross Bailey were being inconsistent in their thinking.

He said they refused to go along with payment of back salaries for the McFarland Hockey players but now wanted to pay out money to correct an error made by a construction company in tendering.

Payment of one was just as right as the other, he said.

"No connection whatever", disclaimed Ald. Ellis.

MAYOR IN FAVOR

Mayor A. M. Haig said he had felt all along that the city should correct the mistake of the contractor had drawn it to the attention of council before the work was even started.

He noted the company would not withdraw from the contract because its dependants with the city exceeded the amount of the error.

"I am convinced that the people of Belleville want their business carried on in an upright, honest and proper manner, and would want this error corrected," he said. "I feel the same way about the hockey players."

Alderman Stuart Robb wanted to know what effect would have been on the contract if the error had not been made.

"Nothing," was Ald. Ellis' reply. They would still have been $50,000 below the next tender, even with the full amount added."

"I'm all confused," admitted Ald. George Wishart. "As far as I see it, either we owe Beaver Construction the full amount or we owe them nothing."

The recommendations was lost on a 9-5 vote. Approving payment were Mayor Haig and Aldermen Bailey, Ellis, Harrison and Lowen. Casting negative votes were Aldermen Corke, Elliott, Ireland, Jarvah, Haycroft, Robb, Temple, Whalen ad Wishart.

Council, however, did authorize the Ontario Water Resources Commission to allow one extra Beaver Construction for the installation of a special sewer pipe fitting on the Cedar St. sewer. The amount was $655.56. The installation was recommended by the consulting engineers.

Dr. P. G. Loder Appointed to H. S. Board

Dr. Peter G. Loder, radiologist at Belleville General Hospital has been named by city council to fill the vacancy on the Bay of Quinte District High School board left by the resignation of J. E. McArthur.

Dr. Loder was the choice of council over three other men whose names had been suggested to fill out Mr. McArthur's term.

Alderman George Wishart said he thought it would be fitting if council directed a letter of appreciation to be forwarded to Mr. McArthur thanking him for his service on the high school board and in other field of municipal works.

"I have already taken that liberty" returned Mayor A. M. Haig. "I have written to Mr. McArthur and included Mrs. McArthur's name. It is seldom that you find a couple like Mr. and Mrs. McArthur who both contribute so much to the municipality."

Percy Wood Honored on 80th Birthday

The Prince Edward Room of the Hotel Quinte was the scene of a happy gathering on Saturday when Percy M. Wood, of Picton, was guest of honor at a family dinner party celebrating his 80th birthday.

Douglas Blackburn, a nephew of Mr. Wood, acted as master of ceremonies and expressed appreciation for the great interest "P.M." has always shown in the welfare of his nieces and nephews throughout the years.

George Wood, also a nephew, presented Mr. Wood with an engraved pen set on behalf of those present.

In his reply, Mr. Wood thanked the group for their thoughtfulness and expressed hope that the various families represented would continue to keep in close fellowship once with another.

He also stated that "Pleasant Moments" his summer home at Moira Lake, was always open to the family.

Picture taking and visiting made a pleasant afternoon for all.

Those present were — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blackburn, Orillia; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Blackburn and Jo Anne, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blackburn, Cindy and Jackie; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stubbington and Anne, Belleville; Mrs. F. 281 Persons Cast Ballots At Advance Poll

Heavy interest in tomorrow's liquor vote in the city has been forecast with the turnout at the advance poll on Pine Street which after a total of 281 persons cast their ballots.

The advance poll was held on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Tomorrow the polls will be open from 10 a.m. in the morning until eight in the evening when city residents will decide whether they want cocktail lounges and dining lounges.

Returning officer Adam Stalker noted today that the polling stations for tomorrow's vote, with a few exceptions, will be the same as those used in the June federal election.

The exceptions are that for tomorrow's vote there will be no polling stations at church properties.

Parking Meters On Church St. To Be Taken Out

Parking meters on the east side of Church Street between Bridge Street and Victoria Ave., are not paying their way and having regretfully only is being an expensive way to restrict parking.

So the meters are to be taken out for use in off-street parking areas soon to be developed. But the "no parking" restriction on the east side of Church Street will stand.

Alderman Stuart Robb yesterday at city council brought in the recommendation for removal of the Church Street meters.

"The reason is they are not paying and are serving only to restrict parking," he said.

He asked also that the by-law governing Church Street be amended to rule out parking except on the Sabbath.

Later in the meeting council was told that tenants in the Stoble building at the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell Street, and also at the Donald Hotel on Front Street had been given notice to vacate.

The Stoble property has been acquired by the city for use as a parking lot, while the Don-Har property has been expropriated for the same purpose. Buildings on both properties will be razed to allow development of the property for off-street parking.

Kinsmen Hold Second Meeting

The Belleville Kinsmen held their second meeting of the new season at the Shrine Club last night. Special guests present were Past Deputy-Governor "Bernie" Hamlin and Past President Jack Murphy both of the Kingston Kinsmen Club.

The chairman of the night bulk campaign, Don Schatz, asked that the members turn out to sell light bulbs again Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, as there are still a great many homes in the city yet to cover in the annual door-to-door canvass. The Kinsmen also wish to express their thanks to the people of Belleville for the wonderful reception that they have enjoyed so far during this fund raising drive. The proceeds help to support the Kinsmen Eye Clinic and the Kinsmen Community Swimming Pool.

Nova Scotian Minister Sings Praises of Province

TRENTON—"Is the province 'poor cousin' to the other Canadian provinces?"

Rev. Douglas Wilson, a native of that province and recently inducted as minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Trenton, says "No."

Mr. Wilson told the members of the Trenton Rotary Club last night that his "country," Nova Scotia, which he referred to as "the greatest in the world," abounded in minerals, "a nice chest; streams and hunting grounds, unexploited and in immense historical significance.

"Nova Scotia," he said, "was a land first here. It was set up Canada's first printing press; Canada's first post office; Canada's first newspaper; Canada's first school; Canada's first law court; Canada's first university.

Here too, occurred the first heavier than air flight within the British Empire (McCurdy's Silver Dart, Feb. 1909.)

Mr. Wilson said that he had found a vast ignorance about his province existing in Canada, as well as in the United States. In fact, he said, one American had startled him by referring to Nova Scotia as "part of Maine."

"Nova Scotia," he said, "with is rolling hills and rugged sea coast, was reminiscent of Scotland; in fact, the very name, Nova Scotia, means 'New Scotland'," although Mr. Wilson said that the Scottish element would be "The Garden of Eden."

"The beauty of this province knows no season," said the speaker. "Its beauty is something that gets in your very life and fibre and being and her sons and adopted sons return there time after time."

Dealing in facts and figures, Mr. Wilson told the club members that the creative effort of Nova Scotia is three times as long as the Pacific coastline of Canada and the United States combined. In actual figures, this represents 46,000 miles. Yet few places in the province are more than 35 miles from the coast. There are 30,000 miles or rivers and streams in the province and 40,000 square miles abound in fish and the forests abound in game.

Population runs to 800,000, with 150,000 of these being centred in Halifax. Large numbers in other urban centres, with the rural population being very small.

Bordering on tragedy is the fact that Nova Scotia's greatest export is skilled and unskilled labor, leaving people just don't stay in the province.

Mr. Wilson urged the Rotarians to interest themselves more deeply in this province which has made a significant contribution to the Canadian way of life.

Mr. Wilson was introduced to the club by Rev. Jack Irwin and thanked by Jim Duncan.

New Fire Hall At RCAF Station To Be Opened

TRENTON — Next Sunday the new fire hall at RCAF Station Trenton will be opened and to mark the occasion, volunteer firemen from the united counties of Northumberland and Durham will join with RCAF firemen in staging a demonstration of fire fighting techniques.

The new hall, situated on the west side of the 6RD Road, will house the RCAF's fire fighting equipment . . . four crash trucks and two regulation fire trucks. The unit at the Trenton station is among the largest on RCAF stations across Canada.

The RCAF unit handles not only fires and emergencies on the station but also responds readily to appeals for assistance in the country around Trenton or to centres in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

William Riley Chairman of Bonspiel Com.

TRENTON — A meeting of the 1962-63 Trenton Bay of Quinte Bonspiel planning committee was held at the Trenton Country Club last night and Bill Riley of the Bay of Quinte Curling Club was named general chairman for the event, which will be held towards the last of January or during the first part of February. There will be 56 entries.

Represented at last night's meeting were the Belleville club, Trenton and the RCAF curling club Committee chairmen from all three clubs will be here at a later date. Next planning meeting will be held on October 11th.

Quick Action Saves Lives of 3 Little Boys

Quick action on the part of three men contributed yesterday morning to saving the lives of three little boys, who were plucked from the CPR track just west of the Bay Bridge road, seconds ahead of a fast moving freight train.

Inspector C. Hayes of the city police department said they received a call from an unidentified person just before noon, that three little boys were sitting on the railway track between the Bay Bridge road and the pump house and that a train was coming.

Constable Bill Stephenson, who was on cruiser patrol at the time, was alerted and raced to the scene. Constable Stephenson jumped from the cruiser at the crossing on Dundas Street West, and raced up the tracks towards the three boys.

At almost the same time of the constable's arrival, the engineer Allan Reid of Smiths Falls, saw the boys and put his train into reverse in an attempt to stop it before reaching them.

Fireman H. B. Cubbitt, also of Smiths Falls, was in the cab of the train at the time.

He raced along the catwalk along the engine, went down over the front of the engine and onto the cowcatcher. He jumped onto the tracks just ahead of the train and raced toward the boys.

Just a few feet short of the third boy, engineer Reid managed to bring the train to a halt. The train had been travelling at about 40 miles per hour, when the engineer first spotted the boys.

Their ages were given as two-and-a-half years, three years and two years, eight months.

Inspector Hayes said, "there is no doubt but what great credit should be given to our constable, Bill Stephenson, engineer Allan Reid and Mr. Cubbitt".

Recommendation Advocates Attendant on Parking Lots

Off street city-owned parking lots should have an attendant in charge to collect parking fees rather than have motorists' nickels and dimes taken by parking meters.

This is the feeling of the Belleville Chambers of Commerce directors who yesterday passed the above recommendation on to city council.

The Chamber also wants the courtesy parking ticket principle extended to parking violators who park along meters streets rather than only on off-street parking lots.

The submission by the local Chamber of Commerce on the city's parking problems was presented to council by Irv Shulman, chairman of the Downtown Retail Merchants' Association, who said attendant type parking lots and the provision of an easier method of paying parking violation fines would repay the city in better relations and uphold Belleville's tradition of being "The Friendly City."

Mr. Shulman noted that following an earlier recommendation this year courtesy parking tickets had been printed to be issued to parking violators both in parking lots and on streets where meters are maintained.

The recommendation had been adopted in principle by the parking authority but the complete recommendation has not been carried out. The Chamber asked that courtesy tickets be extended to metered street parking as was being done in the metered parking lots.

Mr. Shulman said attendant type parking lots would result in the patron being charged only for the amount of time used rather than having to estimate the stay expected and then have to dash back to the parking lot in time to avoid a ticket.

The chamber also feels the city should investigate the possibility of using fine boxes to provide a more convenient method of paying parking tickets. Instead of having to go to city hall.

As an illustration the use of such boxes in the town of Lindsay was cited.

In that centre bright orange fine boxes are located on meter boxes in the middle of the block and on both sides of the street.

Parking tickets put on cars are in the form of a small envelope and the amount of the fine is written on by the officer. The motorist has the privilege of placing the fine money in the envelope and then depositing it in one of the fine boxes.

In Lindsay when fine boxes were installed the parking meter fine was lowered from $1 to 50c which was more in line of a penalty for failure to comply fully with meter regulations than an actual fine.

It was felt in Lindsay that this was less of an irritation to motorists and did not drive them out of town.

Too Long in the Cradle?

An interesting observation was expressed recently regarding the Canadian manufacturing industry by an industrialist from abroad. He suggested that Canadian manufacturers were not aggressive enough in their approach to potential markets. It was this lack of aggressiveness which was the real reason for the weak competition by Canadians in foreign markets, he suggested.

If we seek to learn why Canadians lack aggressiveness in foreign fields we might find that it is due to two things. One is the protectionist policies of the federal government ever since Confederation which have allowed Canadian industrialists to rest on the cushion of high tariffs or customs protection and charge the domestic market for what the traffic would bear.

This concentration on a captive market has resulted in a singular lack of salesmanship, or promotional ability, being developed. Few Canadian-created and managed industries have been weaned from the cosy warmth of the home market and have got out into the chilling and highly competitive streets of the world markets. Within our territorial boundaries we have seen some real industrial bears which seem to become cubs when it comes to international trade, specifically export trade from Canada.

On the other side of the fence we have those industries in Canada which have been developed, and are usually administered, by foreign interests. The activity of these firms in the world markets is usually determined entirely by their home office in some other country. If outside interests feel that some crumbs of world trade can be sacrificed to their Canadian subsidiaries, then some export trade commences. Similarly if the parent firm feels its own interests are jeopardized by its Canadian offshoot's activity in the foreign markets then such activity is curtailed.

The unfortunate result of this is that Canadians have an extremely high standard of living, even if they are not employed, but a substandard means of producing and maintaining this high level of living.

The baby has grown too large for its cradle. Either the cradle will break and leave baby on the floor or baby is going to have to learn to stand on its own two feet before such an event takes place.

The latter course will undoubtedly take some hard work which will be characterized by both frustrations and successes but it would be easier than trying to mend the broken bones which would result from a fall.

Unfortunately, it might well be that Canadian industry is incapable of making the necessary adjustments to change over from producing for and selling to a protected home market to entering the world markets. We certainly hope that this is not the case.

It will require the full co-operation and effort of every Canadian to achieve such a goal, however, and we hope that sufficient guidance in this direction is forthcoming from government, labor and industry.

We have been too long in the cradle.

A New Kind of Terrorism

Joshua Nkomo is leader of Southern Rhodesia's African Nationalist Party. His party has been banned by the Southern Rhodesian Government. The reason—it is alleged to have been behind African terrorism. After the ban Nkomo emerged from hiding and issued an appeal. To his people to take up arms? By no means—to the British Government to send troops to Southern Rhodesia. It is, he says, the "only way to save the country from disaster."

Commonwealth leaders like Prime Minister Nehru of India and Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, when they read of this, will be forced to conclude that the world does, indeed, move at a very fast clip in this century.

When the nationalists plead for British soldiers to move in, something new has been added to the commonly-accepted picture of colonialism.

Come to think of it, wonder how Nikita is going to make sense of all this. Are Sir Edgar Whitehead and Sir Roy Welensky suddenly going to emerge as brave lovers of freedom, with Nkomo as the terrorist stooge of British imperialists, or will the communists find some way to drape Tommy Atkins in the Red Flag and urge his despatch to Africa as the representative of an enroused proletarian Britain?

Ottawa Offbeat

'Pinch a Penny' Halpenny Clamps Down on C.B.C.

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — It has not been long, as government goes, since the prime minister reorganized his Cabinet, handing new duties to a few men.

But one department has already felt the firm hand of its new political ruler and is beginning to squirm under it.

State Secretary Ernest Halpenny was handed the CBC as his personal responsibility when the changes were made five weeks ago.

He had long held some firm opinions on the operations of the national broadcasting organization and had no hesitation in expressing them once he assumed control.

The result? A financial squeeze which the top brass of the CBC do not like and are fighting against.

They are fighting the wrong man and losing. Their budget was cut by $5,000,000 last week.

"Ernie" Halpenny is a businessman, with a businessman's firm views on smooth organization, efficiency and profit margins.

The CBC does not make a profit —it loses about $70,000,000 a year. This looks bad to a man like Mr. Halpenny.

He is willing to give the full allowance for the fact the CBC must operate some losing stations if the country is to be provided with radio and television.

CHIEFS MAKE IT

But he is also able to see that the country's new television net would be a profitable undertaking to show a profit after little more than a year of operation.

There is a better spot for the CBC, which could have been developed, and are usually administered, by foreign interests. The activity of these firms in the world markets is usually determined entirely by their home office in some other country. If outside interests feel that some crumbs of world trade can be sacrificed to their Canadian subsidiaries, then some export trade commences. Similarly if the parent firm feels its own interests are jeopardized by its Canadian offshoot's activity in the foreign markets then such activity is curtailed.

The unfortunate result of this is that Canadians have an extremely high standard of living, even if they are not employed, but a substandard means of producing and maintaining this high level of living.

Burglars broke and entered the premises of the Foy and Irwin bottling works on Pinnacle Street, sometime Friday night and although they ransacked office drawers the marauders found no reward for their efforts. The breakin was discovered by employees arriving for work the following morning.

More than humans enjoy a bit of good Canadian cheese, according to Barrister Master Joseph Waddell. With cheese grading going on for several days of the week at the local dock throughout the summer months, it becomes somewhat of a problem to dispose of cheese borings; and so it was only natural that the gulls call their to the tid-bits. One old gull in particular seemed to enjoy the fare.

Mr. Waddell took note of him because of the fact he had lost one leg in an accident. Every time the old gull came back to his haunts along the Bay of Quinte but this year he was showing up. The harbor master considered that little bad on his course; but on yesterday the old one-legged bird showed up for his share of the cheese borings.

Most Jails Deform Rather Than Reform

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the most heartening stories I have read in months was an item in a magazine not long ago, describing the "work release program" in North Carolina's prison system.

More than 300 convicts are now in this program, which comprehensive health books you don't even find the term listed in other books explain that there are several organisms that can cause the trouble, and that there are other diseases which resemble this ailment.

Some of the patent medicines will control some mild varieties of the disease. I suppose that most of the nostrums will help somebody. And it's a goal of freedom to let everybody do what they want to, so long as they don't hurt others by people. From that standpoint, I agree with letting some people sell salts and other people buy patent medicines.

But if I had a case of one of the ailments called athlete's foot I'd choose the quickest and surest and most likely way of curing it. I'd go to somebody who can diagnose correctly just what I have. Because does people will write to me demanding the name of the "sure-fire" remedy you used.

And you know what? I'm not going to tell them. Because what was right for you may not be right for me, and also because you did not tell me what it was.

Switch Jobs On Sixth Day

Windsor Star

A man we know in Boston says he likes the five-day week. It gives him a chance to work six days.

He works six days for his own employer.

On the sixth day he goes over and works at straight time for a competitor. At the same time, an employee of the competitor comes and works for his firm.

The man explains that if both of them worked the sixth day for their own employer, they would be paid time and one half for the day.

But, by switching firms, the companies only pay straight time for the sixth day.

And, because there is work available, as many as desire get in six days weekly.

The man can hardly wait for the four-day week, because then he can get in two extra days

Must Control Birth Rate

New York Times

Two major problems face mankind today. The first we hardly have to mention. It is in everyone's mind. It is the threat of atomic war, which would bring destruction and huge scores of millions of lives and of most of the apparatus that we call civilization.

The second is precisely the opposite: the increase of the population which is taking place all over the world and at an extremely rapid rate as the result of the underdeveloped countries and especially the Oriental explosions continue without reducing the whole earth to misery.

Great parts of the world are already miserable enough. A recent United Nations report states that "about one-sixth of the world's population — that is roughly 600 million people — today suffer from active hunger."

Nearly one-third, the report continues, "suffer from malnutrition or'diet deficiencies. Much can be done to alleviate these conditions through research. We are the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. But the time is coming when food supply cannot be increased as fast as the population.

Civilization is confronted with the need for a rigid and scientific control of the birth rate. Our progress toward meeting this need will be aided by Secretary Celebrezze's wise decision to consider the Public Health Services suppression of a report on governments and private birth-control research. We are concerned, however, over Mr. Celebrezze's announcement that the report will be "thoroughly reviewed" before it is made public. We hope this does not mean that useful scientific information will be eliminated out of a mistaken belief that the subject is too delicate for open discussion under governmental auspices. A censured report could be almost as bad as the original decision to prevent its issuance.

Letter To The Editor

Not All Who Drink Are Shy Dullards

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

Regarding the vote coming up tomorrow there are some things about which I can no longer remain silent. One of them concerns an article which made by one of those opposed to the proposed licensing. His statement concerned those who indulge in alcoholic beverages and made out that to be shy, to secure dullards was only have our morals if left during evening spree. This I resent greatly and so too, would Sir Winston Churchill I am sure.

I do not condone over-indulgence in alcohol, neither do I condone over indulgence in food. These both constitute sinfulness. But I would seem perfectly ridiculous to me to try and prohibit the opening of more restaurants because someone might have too much to eat in one of them. This is not reasonable. When you come right down to it, to indulge or not to indulge will always be a personal decision and will not be significantly affected by the number of drinking places open. After all, you can only be in one place at a time.

The same before-mentioned spokesman also came up with some interesting statistics, one of which was that the per cent age of alcoholics in Ontario was higher than in Quebec. We all know that Quebec is more or less wide open when it comes to the ability to get a drink when one wishes, so this statistic becomes even more interesting. Perhaps Premier Frost was right when he called Ontario's liquor laws outdated.

Abstinence is no vice but neither is it necessarily a virtue in itself as it is so often made out to be. To be allowed to temporarily forget the world's problems through a glass of spirits is not such a terrible thing in these modern times. Quite the opposite I would say.

No Old Soak.

Cases of Athlete's Foot Are Not All the Same

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Having been afflicted with athlete's foot at one time, ads for various remedies catch my eye — and I found all of them absolutely useless.

It was my good fortune to be given a solution by a podiatrist about ten years ago and I was amazed to find the athlete's foot completely eliminated after one application.

You must be a newcomer to our group, or you'd know my answer to this. Patent medicines have two basic weaknesses. First, they must be innocuous, and hence often not very effective, before they are approved for sale. Second, patent medicines are mostly bought by people who make a flying guess at what ails them. They may be right or they may be wrong, and if they are wrong it's guessing the cause of the disease, they are pretty certain to select the wrong patent medicine.

In your case, after spending considerable money on patent medicines, you somehow had the good fortune to be recommended a podiatrist who, being trained in care of the feet, gave you a remedy that corrected your trouble. That's no proof that the remedy would be, as you put it, "sure-fire" for everybody else who has something wrong with his feet. But it is in the last few years some new and highly effective drugs for such skin diseases that are superb — provided you apply the right medicine to the right ailment.

Athlete's foot is a general term meaning that some sort of itchy affliction has you in a toe-bind. In some very comprehensive health books you don't even find the term listed in other books explain that there are several organisms that can cause the trouble, and that there are other diseases which resemble this ailment.

Some of the patent medicines will control some mild varieties of the disease. I suppose that most of the nostrums will help somebody. And it's a goal of freedom to let everybody do what they want to, so long as they don't hurt others by people. From that standpoint, I agree with letting some people sell salts and other people buy patent medicines.

But if I had a case of one of the ailments called athlete's foot I'd choose the quickest and surest and most likely way of curing it. I'd go to somebody who can diagnose correctly just what this kind and that kind — and would tell me which medicine is best for me.

As a result of today's remarks I know perfectly well what will happen. Several does people will write to me demanding the name of the

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We are told that the basic needs of man are food, shelter and that old devil, sex. What comes fourth is a matter of wide conjecture, but after viewing the parade over the seventy years today, it is my opinion that self-esteem is the fourth deep need of mankind. There are those who work at self-esteem day and night, from birth to death. At the more pathological end of the scale it is called status seeking these days, but even at the humblest levels, there are men who esteem themselves solely on the basis of their women, and women who cherish their self esteem on the basis of their cookies or scalloped potatoes. And there are those who base who base their self esteem on the fact that they do not esteem themselves at all. Their humility is their treasure. To the consternation of the theologians there are those who esteem themselves for the depth of their depravity. I have met proud men who were the slickest pickpockets north of the Mexican border.

Yes, self esteem must be the fourth of our basic needs. And if we lose that, we are worse off than hungry, homeless and loveless.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP)—An aura of expectation swirled around Canadian Oil on the stock market today, lofting it to yet another record price.

Although no new developments have been reported by the company, Canadian Oil stock soared to 46¾, ahead 2¾, on a turnover nearing 50,000 shares.

The hopeful attitude of traders was also reflected in the performances of Power Corporation, largest shareholder in Canadian Oil. It climbed 3¼ to 65¾—best price this year.

Meanwhile, Gatineau Power and Steel split slipped to their lowest levels of 1962, off ⅛ and ¼ respectively. Bank of Nova Scotia fell ¾, Dominion Foundries and Steel ¾ and Aluminium ⅛.

Gainers included Abitibi and Imperial Oil, each ahead ⅛, Interprovincial Pipe Line, up ⅜, Steinberg, Argus and Shawinigan, up ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials slipped .07 to 531.06, golds .36 at 92.03, base metals .28 at 176.07 and western oils .21 at 107.82. The 11 a.m. volume was 678,000 shares compared with 861,000 at the same time Monday.

Among base metals, International Nickel and Noranda both fell ⅛ and Hudson Bay Mining ¾. Denison advanced ⅜. In the golds, western oils fat. Great Plains Development declined ¼ and Hudsons Bay ½, while Calgary and Edmonton rose ½.

The market took its most severe pounding in three months Monday.

Key losers among industrials included Imperial Oil, Walker Gooderham, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Imperial Oil and Distillers Seagrams, all of which fell a point or more.

Canadian Oil showed the only pronounced strength as it climbed early in the day to a record 46¾, but it closed unchanged at 44. Power Corporation, largest Canadian Oil shareholder, gained ¼.

Among base metals, Hudson Bay Mining fell 1¼ and International Nickel ⅝. Noranda declined ⅛ and western oils ⅛ at 21½.

Approve Walks In Council On Area Basis

Construction of two-four foot sidewalks on an area basis, one on the south side of Village Ave, from Humewood Drive to Herchimer, and on the north side of Dundas Street, West, from Sidney Street to the city limits was approved by city council yesterday.

But residents in the respective areas will have their opportunity to oppose the construction.

Cost of the Dundas Street walk has been estimated in the neighborhood of $21,000, with the Ontario School for the Deaf being prepared to pay the cost of the walk across its property, estimated at $6,000.

Mayor A. M. Haig advised council members against voting for payment of the proposed walk on Dundas Street being on an area basis.

He said such a system was very complicated and would cause considerable additional work for the city assessment office.

Also he noted that this area would be faced with heavy sewer installation for the the next few years.

Alderman Jack Ellis said the cost of the walk had been tentatively worked out at 16.7 cent per foot frontage for ten years for properties fronting on Dundas Street, while side street owners would be assessed 6.2 cents per foot for the same period.

He said the cost was not prohibitive and would be borne by an easily outlined area.

Ald. Ellis emphasized that the walk was badly needed for safety reasons.

Before the walk is proceeded with there undoubtedly will be a municipal board-hearing on the question.

PICTON — Prince Edward County Centre Commission (which operates the Agricultural and Recreation Centre for nine months of the year under lease by the Agricultural Society) reports a profit of $2,913.70 on operations which ended June 30. The audited report was presented by treasurer Arthur Hamblin to commission members.

Receipts totalled $25,143.57 and disbursements $22,228.87. Bank balance at June 1961 was $829.76. Bank balance June 30, 1962, was $3,843.46. Of the latter, $1,548.95 was placed in a trust account for eventual replacement of ice making equipment.

Of the balance, $2,296.51, the sum of $1,085.59 was spent on improvements to the building during the summer months, leaving a present balance on hand of $1,210.92. The improvements included removing wooden walls in the interior and erecting another tier of seats to increase accommodation. Some painting was done and the ice machinery is now being overhauled. It is the commission's plan to put any profits into a replacement reserve and to improve facilities.

Receipts included: canteen, $8,504.35; junior OHA hockey, $5,981.58; county league hockey, $905.85; minor hockey, $1,025.02; public skating, $4,-198.71; curling $2,050.30; ice rental, $1,998.12; season skating tickets, $135.00; reserve seats in hall, $220.00; hall rental, $200.00; advertising signs, $120.00; interest on savings, $1.22; sundry, $124.02. Total $25,142.57.

Disbursements:

Canteen, $5,544.32; junior hockey, $3,859.08; county hockey, $201.90; minor and Wellington league, $472.17; light heat, power, $3,488.27; wages, $4,423.88; insurance, $2,098.64; repairs, maintenance, $1,295.72; printing, ads., $89.18; general operating, $855.47. Total $22,-228.37.

Bank balance, June, 1961, $929.76; bank balance, June, 1962, savings, $1,548.93; current, $2,296.51. Total $3,-845.46.

The small balance at the beginning of the year was due to the Centre contributing $9,803 toward the cost of erecting the new building.

CALL MEETING

On Tuesday, Oct. 2, organizations are being asked to send representatives to the annual meeting at the County Centre. From these directors will be elected to serve on the commission. At the last meeting A. Hamblin was named to the Board of Governors to succeed Chris Lockyer. Other members are Mike Finnegan and Phil Dodds.

Widow With 6 School Age Children Left Homeless

PICTON — A widow with six school age children was left homeless when fire destroyed their residence near Demorestville Sunday afternoon. All the contents in upstairs rooms were lost but furniture in lower rooms was carried out. Mrs. Carter and children, were absent at the time, but a married daughter, Mrs. Peter Daly was in the house working in the kitchen, she smelled smoke. Opening a door leading to the upstairs she was greeted by smoke and flames.

The fire spread rapidly and the house was soon a smouldering ruins. Neighbors have assisted in supplying bedding and clothes for the children. Mrs. Carter and her family have been carrying on the farm since Mr. Carter's sudden death a year ago.

Elm Disease Used as Basis For Paraders

PICTON — Recent discussion of the menace of elm disease gave Mrs. Florence Needham, teacher at Solmesville school, the idea for her pupils in the parade to Picton Fair. Some of the pupils carried elm boughs while others were dressed as bugs and the importance of the need for effort against the disease was stressed.

Other winners in the general appearance class were Waupoos, Mrs. Sandra Hughes, teacher; Hillier 8, Mrs. Velma Matthews; Demorestville 1, Mrs. Annie Terwilligar and Mrs. Hazel Ketchenson; Big Island Southside, Mrs. Margaret Richards; Bloomgards, Mrs. Shirey Knox; Cherry Valley, Mrs. D. Eveleigh and Mrs. M. A. Ryall; Melville, Mrs. Sharon VanGyzen; South Marysburgh Central, William Pettingill; Woodrus, Miss Sharon Vance.

Prizes for marching went to East Lake, Mrs. Trumble, teacher; Cherry Valley; Bloomfield, Cecil Forrest; Wellington, Milton Snider; St. Barbera's, Picton Heights, C. F. Young; Waupoos, Mrs. Hughes; Demorestville 1, Mrs. Terwilligar; Athol 4, Mrs. Gordon Bell; Cressy, Mrs. Powers; Big Island, southside, Mrs. Richards.

A Letter To The Citizens of Belleville

On Wednesday, September 6th in this paper an announcement was made that a Vote Yes Committee was formed and the Committee Members' names were published. At that time this committee stated that it would centre its activities on a "get-out-the-vote campaign" and truthfully explain what lounges would mean to the citizens of Belleville. To help get the vote out, cards were sent to each voter . . . showing how each name appeared on the voters' list to explain the questions, the exact wording of the ballots was shown on these cards. Ads were run in this paper pointing out the true policies, as laid out in the Liquor Control Act, about licencing outlets in cities comparable in size to Belleville. We had similar announcements made over CJBQ Radio. Every home was sent an additional card showing the place they are to vote. and the procedure to expect at the poll.

While we were doing this we were not without opposition. These people have a perfect right to oppose. To this moment, however their advertising, leads us to draw to your attention, one very important conclusion. These people are not opposing lounges...

Statements have also been made that what we the Yes Committee propose would cause our children to become alcoholics -- would cause broken homes -- would cause increased deaths and accidents on our roads and many other alarming and hysterical statements.

We only wish to point out that we the Yes Committee members are citizens of Belleville, family men with wives and children we love very much. We are seriously concerned with the future of our children. We are also very concerned with the future of the city in which we earn our living and raise our children and it is for this precise reason we are proposing these facilities for Belleville.

We find it regrettable that the Belleville "No" Committee for reasons best known to themselves, either did not choose or did not want to publicly name the members of their committee.

It is with pleasure and pride that we announce to you once more the members of our Committee and we ask you the citizens of Belleville to vote tomorrow on the questions before you. We ask you in the interest of all Belleville to

CO-SPONSOR

In the article in Monday's issue concerning the Eastern Ontario Drama League conference, it was omitted inadvertently, that the National Ballet Guild, Belleville Branch, co-sponsored the evening lecture given by Mr. Arnold Edinborough, a director of the National Ballet School, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Marian Vincent Mofina are shown signing the register in Holy Rosary Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Sandra Rose Slade, daughter of Mrs. Harold Slade of Belleville, and the late Mr. Slade. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mofina, of Corbyville, Ont. (Photo by "Don" of Belleville.)

MOFINA — SLADE

Sandra Rose Slade, daughter of Mrs. Harold Slade, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Slade, became the bride of Marian Vincent Mofina, of Corbyville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mofina, in a lovely wedding ceremony in Holy Rosary Church, Belleville, Ontario, on Saturday, September 1st at 1.00 p.m. The Reverend Maurice Imhoff of Belleville, officiated before a background of white and yellow gladioli.

Mr. Ernest Reed provided the wedding music, and accompanied his son, Michael, the soloist, in his rendition of "O Lord I Am Not Worthy" and "Hail, Holy Queen Enthroned Above", during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Kenneth Haines, of Belleville, was radiantly lovely in her floor - length bridal gown of white peau de soie, embroidered with seeded pearls, featuring a high square neckline, short sleeves and fitted bodice, extending into a Queen Anne skirt. She wore elbow-length gloves and white satin shoes; a pillbox peau de soie headdress with finger-tip veil and carried a cascade of red roses and white stephanotis. A drop pearl with matching earrings, completed her ensemble.

Miss Madeline Trepasso, of Oswego, N.Y. attended the bride as maid of honor; while Miss Sandra Crawford, of Belleville, and Mrs. Charles DeMille Fonboro were bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned alike in Kelly Green peau de soie with short sleeves and elbow length gloves. The bodices featured high square necklines and the skirts full panels. They wore matching pillbox hats and satin shoes, and carried bouquets of lemon-yellow gladioli blooms with gold leaves. Drop white gold hearts centred with seed pearls, with matching earrings, the gifts of the bride, completed their costumes.

Mr. Walter Mofina, of Belleville, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Charles De Mill, of Foxboro, and Harold Buckley of Melrose, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Club Canara rooms, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in navy crepe with side drape caught with rhinestone clasp. She wore beige accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was charmingly appointed with white damask linen, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with rosebuds, fern and baby's breath, and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall tapering candles in black diamond and crystal holders completed the setting.

For travelling to Syracuse, New York; Philadelphia, Penn.; Baltimore, MD.; Delaware and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a three-piece ensemble in double-knit taupe with gold-tinged accessories, and corsage of yellow roses, with gold heart-shaped locket, and matching earrings, the gifts of her bridegroom.

Guests were present from Owen Sound; Toronto; Orillia; Corbyville; Camilton; Fulton, N.Y.; Oswego, N.Y. and Belleville, Ontario.

The bride, prior to marriage, was the honored guest at showers held by Mrs. Charles De Mill, of Foxboro; by Mrs. Elgin Crawford, of Belleville; and at a dinner given by the bottling room staff of Corbyville Distillery, when she was presented with an electric mix master.

Mr. and Mrs. Mofina are residing at 5 Albion Street, Belleville.

St. Michael's CWL Reopens With Supper

St. Michael's CWL, which terminated for the summer with a delightful pot-luck supper at Mrs. H. Brown's home in Rednersville, re-opened with a repeat of this popular supper event in the C.W.L. meeting rooms, September 10.

Although diet conclous members may have spent an agonizing supper hour, for the most part, members enjoyed the delicious array of favorite culinary achievements.

Before the business meeting, an interesting talk was given by Mr. Bruce Lynch, a graduate of St. Michael's Academy and well-known for his interest in parish affairs.

TUBERCULAR TESTS

He spoke about the importance of the tubercular tests, for oneself, and as a means of protecting the family. The simple and painless method Mr. Lynch explained is available to everyone and by catching the disease in the early stages, treatment is not lengthy and most successful.

Mrs. J. J. O'Connor thanked Mr. Lynch on behalf of the league, for making the members more aware of their responsibility in this matter.

Once again, everyone will be invited to attend a dessert and bridge party in September.

Plans for the November bazaar are well underway and should even surpass the past successes. New booths have been added, one being a delicatessan where salads, baked dishes, chickens will be available. This booth should attract the many women who have taken the afternoon off to browse through the various booths displaying home made creations. Supper can be taken home all prepared. What better finale to a happy afternoon?

Mrs. Jas. Gallagher called on the other committees to report and then adjourned the meeting.

A lovely milk glass case with a colorful arrangement of fall flowers was drawn for and won by Mrs. Albert.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Grace P. — Ever since his Army service, my brother has been interested in weapons and firearms, and has built up quite a valuable collection of rifles and pistols. That's his own affair and I say each to his taste. But I must ask him to quit letting his enthusiasm for such things spill over on my 5-year-old son.

For the past few birthdays and Christmases, Tracy's gifts to Roger have been plastic guns and caps. In addition, he has mailed the child models and replicas of antique revolvers from whatever part of the world he happens to be in — Mexico, Armona, even Japan! His hope is that Roger will begin his own collection.

I think a child should be led along more worthwhile paths. We'd welcome gifts that teach him how to build and solve things, not just shoot down!

Tracy J. — As a child I had my best times playing exciting games of cops-and-robbers or cowboys-and-Indians. And all a kid needs to get into the game is a toy gun. Then he can join in the fun and be either the "bad" guy or the "good" guy, have plenty of exercise, use all his imagination and wind up with lots of friends. Each day a new game begins, and as it lasts till the mothers call the kids home for supper I can't see where I'm doing Roger any harm sending him these interesting playthings.

Would Grace like it better if Roger were the only kid of the bunch who didn't have a fancy gun? Why not let him like the others and join in a real boy's game? Would she rather have me send him bubble pipes or butterfly nets?

The Council: Many parents, as well as the toy industry, will side with Tracy in this debate by insisting that gun play can be good red-blooded fun. By playing up the role of the "good" guys who carry lethal weapons — the police, American soldiers, sheriffs, etc., they can even mention character-building values for children in make-believe warfare.

We won't take sides on the general issue because all depends upon the moral climate of the child's upbringing. But in this specific case, we're for Grace.

There's no point making such a fetish of bang-bang excitement for a little boy. Tracy needn't worry that he won't have fun or that he may be deemed a sissy if he don't tote a gleaming pair of shooters! The boy who gets out neighborhood headlines on a toy printing press or studies an ant colony in an amateur display hasn't can have fun, too, and at the same time he can cut an important figure among his peers.

Actually, guns and violence are becoming passe, except in what Rod Serling calls "The Twilight Zone" — the world of fantasy, "death rays" and shock comic books! When it comes to guns, you don't know it's "cold" nowadays, isn't it? No shooting any more! It's all to be psychological henceforth.

So, Tracy, you may continue to round out your exhibits of bologna and arthritis, but when it comes to your nephew, heed his mother's plea to spend your gift money on toys which are dedicated not to violence but to growth. Even if you stick to plastic playthings, you'll find a skeleton or a bone to unearth. Even if you put together and take apart, games to teach him geography and art history. Pre-Christmas announcements tell of new products which will "teach" and "develop" and challenge a child. When Roger is older, for example, how about a working model of Edison's original record player?

As playthings, guns can't stimulate or inspire, the educational toys can. And when overstressed, they may really brutalize. Both Grace and Tracy may enjoy this street scene: a 5-year-old girl wearing a gun-belt. In the holsters were two beautiful dolls!

Here's Praise for the Teen-Ager

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DORIS—People say teen-agers are a useless, self-centred bunch. Let me tell you about our teen-age summer volunteer program.

It's when the "regulars" go off on vacation that hospitals and agencies find themselves stuck for hands to do the jobs. And, as it happens, this is when students are looking for things to do.

Last summer our Cerebral Palsy Day School agreed to try a few. We appealed for girls to work a half day a week and the offers poured in. The Teen-Age Squad swung into action.

At the end of the summer the reports were glowing. The girls were quick, friendly, reliable. Always on time. Efficient. The children loved them.

This summer a half dozen more agencies jumped on the band wagon. Health camps, clinics, reception desks blossomed with fifteen-year-old marvels. Every single girl showed warmth and a desire to help.

Let's give our teen-agers a little well-deserved praise. —MARY PEYERS, Volunteer Bureau, Calgary.

DEAR MARY—I say Amen! How about this, In Shock?

DEAR DORIS—I have been invited to three showers, also to the wedding of the daughter of one of my friends. I do not know the daughter except to see her on the street. I have given one shower present and a wedding present.

Is it quite a good form for me to let one shower gift go, as I did not feel I could afford the two other gifts?—WEDDING GUEST.

DEAR WEDDING GUEST—Quite proper. To be invited to three showers for one girl is a bit thick.

DEAR DORIS—I disagree with your advice some weeks ago regarding a woman whose sister visited her yearly with four or five little monsters. You recommended these dreadfully behaved children to be taken to a motel next time. Heaven help the poor owners!

I should advise the sister to stay home with them until they were taught to behave and respect other people's property.

I always read your column and wish you continued inspiration.—WIDOW No. 2.

DEAR WIDOW No. 2—Not bad advice. Who will tell the cat?

Thanks for the unpublished part of your letter. I have already printed a correction.

Lutheran Women Hear T. B. Talk

The first meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women was held on September 12th at the parsonage, 37 Melrose Crescent.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Lorne Finer, after which the business was turned over to the president, Mrs. O. Grills.

The topic for the meeting was "Leisure that Recreates". A short skit was put on by Mrs. Wotzak, Mrs. Grills, Mrs. Linderman and Mrs. Wellman and Mrs. Quast, showing what women can do with their leisure time, creating things and making things and how some would like to idle their leisure time away.

The missionary benediction closed the meeting, which was followed by lunch, served by Mrs. Gerald Grills and Mrs. Lorne Fiver.

Lunches at Home

by Mary Moore

School lunches are a good thing and thousands of Canadian mothers want help with them, which I gave you when school started.

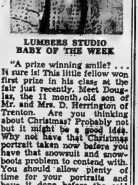
But, what about the mothers whose husbands and children come home for lunch? Read this excerpt from a letter I received this week. "What to feed my family for lunch five days a week. We live 10 minutes' walk from the school and 10 minutes by car from my business. So everyone is home at 12 on the dot for lunch. Already I am starting to hear, "What! Soup again!" Do you have any different suggestions as to what I can feed them that would be fast and also substantial for our 30 deg. below winter weather here?"

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chop Dinner-in-a-Dish (with Noodles — see Monday); Baked Squash Halves; Cole Slaw with Olives; Baked Apples; Tea.

The ideas I have had spring from the dishes that my family enjoyed when they were young and that are popular with lots of others with young children now: Canadian Pork Pies - large or individual made in advance and stored cold or frozen; Spanish Noodle Lunch - noodles with a tomato-meat sauce; Burgers of all types - chicken, hamburg, cheese, salmon, etc.; Grilled Cheese or Liver Spread Sandwiches; Salmon and Pickle Whole Wheat Sandwiches; Bacon and Tomato Sandwiches; Hard-Cooked Eggs in Cream Sauce or Curried-Cream Sauce; Scottish Woodcock - bacon on top of cheese-topped bread - grilled; Pilaf - steam-fried rice with tomatoes, onions and celery; Creamed Salmon or Tuna on toast; Scrambled Eggs.



You know how to make many of these items and do make them often. But for a few of them you might welcome some details. I will devote two columns to recipes for home lunch ideas mentioned above - one today and one next week. If you have a freezer make double the quantity of Canadian Pork Pies and freeze half for a future meal.

CANADIAN PORK PIE (or pies)

1½ lbs. boneless butt or shoulder pork, 1 medium onion, chopped, 3 or 4 celery tops, chopped, 2 sprigs parsley, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, pastry, water, flour.

Cut pork into little chunks. Then cook pork, onion, celery tops, parsley, salt and pepper in enough water to almost cover until meat is very tender when tested with a fork. (Pressure cook at 10 lbs. pressure for 1 hour or simmer for 3¼ hours covered.) Pour off and measure liquid. You should have at least 1 cup of liquid. Thicken it by stirring in the flour paste until thick (1½ tablespoons flour, 1½ tablespoons water stirred together until smooth). Taste for seasonings and add more. Cool. Line a 9" pie plate with rich plain pastry (or line 4 or 6 individual muffin tins with pastry). Fill with meat filling. Seal on greased top crust. Brush with egg yolk diluted with 1 tablespoon water.

Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes longer. (Shorter time for individual pies.)

You should allow plenty of time for your portraits and have it done before the cold weather sets in. Fraser Lumbers Studio at WO 2-3954 and make your appointment early this year.

LET'S BE HONEST

The Question to be decided tomorrow is not the right or wrong of liquor. Belleville already has liquor and has had it for over 35 years.

It follows then that the basic question to be decided is: If it is right to buy 25 ounces as we can now---is it also right to buy 1 ounce if we so wish?

LET'S LOOK AT THE FACTS:

NO person under the age of 21 may enter a cocktail lounge.

The policy of the Liquor Control Board has been one of not granting licences to restaurants in local option areas. As proof of this just think of any restaurant that has been granted a licence in cities the size of Belleville or even larger. There is not one you can think of or we know of because: THE POLICY OF THE LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD IS AND HAS BEEN ONE OF NOT GRANTING LICENCES IN THESE AREAS.

SECTION 21, PARAGRAPH 2 of the Liquor Licence Act states; "The board may restrict the NUMBER OF LICENCES OR OF ANY CLASS OF LICENCES which it issues in any municipality."

The City of London with a population of 150,000 has 7 licences. The City of Kitchener with a population of 50,000 has 3 licences. NONE OF THESE LICENCES WENT TO RESTAURANTS. The City of Belleville has a population of 30,000.

THE FUNCTION OF THE LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD IS NOT TO PROMOTE WIDE OPEN FACILITIES IN ANY COMMUNITY. THE FUNCTION IS INHERENT IN THE NAME OF THE AGENCY "CONTROL."

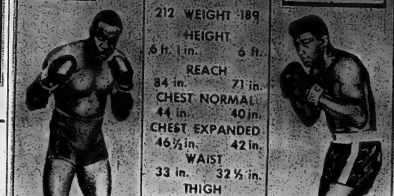
WHO ARE THE OPPONENTS OF LOUNGES?

The opponents claim that lounges would create widespread drinking.

To suggest that lounges would cause more drinking in a city that has already had outlets for beer, liquor and wine for over 35 years is very hard to accept.

If a man is intent on drinking it is naive and ridiculous to suggest he would drink more because of lounges.

Prohibitionists had their wishes granted during the days of prohibition in the United States and Canada. During this time these countries suffered the greatest crime wave they had ever known.



DON'T BE FOOLED. THE OPPOSITION IS NOT TO CONTROLLED LOUNGES IN OUR CITY, IT IS AGAINST LIQUOR IN ANY FORM.

VOTE 'YES' ON BOTH QUESTIONS . . .

Liston Is 7-5 In 5-Million Spectacle

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Patterson or Liston?

Tonight tells the story. Can the man with the sledge-hammer right and the piston-like left pierce the peek-a-boo defence and the swift paralyzing punches of the champion?

Some champions, near-champions and ex-champions think he can. Others are of the opinion he cannot.

The Yess believed Liston's explosive right fist, something with ham-like proportions, if it connects with the thunder and force it is claimed to have, will send Patterson bye-bye with one application. It could happen as it did against the Germany Westphal.

The Nay boys believe that the champion with his flicking left jabs and punching speed can throw four or five punches to Liston's one and this will retain the title for him.

The boys in the back rooms have favored Liston since the fight was first broached. But the odds have dwindled at an alarming rate since the fighters went into training. At this writing they are 3-2 in favor of the challenger. They could change by fight time.

Former champion Joe Louis likes Liston. Jack Dempsey prefers Patterson. And get this one. Tommy Loughran, former light heavy champion, predicts a first-round knockout for the challenger. Ingemar Johansson: the Swedish ex-champ, and British champion Henry Cooper like Patterson. Eddie Machen and Zora Folley prefer Liston.

Marty Marshall, the only man to defeat Liston and who in turn was beaten twice by him, says "Liston is tough. That's one thing you cannot deny that man. He hurts when he breathes on you."

"But", Marshall maintains, "Liston has a fault. He drags his right hand, carries it too low. He came in with a left and I crossed over my right to his jaw. He went down. But he hit me after that like nobody should be hit. I think about it now and I hurt."

"It was in the rematch in St. Louis eight months after the first fight when I knocked him down. It was in the fourth round. I knew I had to stay away from him because, if he hits you . . . Man," recalls Marshall.

Liston's background and stories that Patterson has yet to prove himself a real champion have made this fight the most-talked about heavyweight bout in ring history. It could be one of savagery. There has been talk of "viciousness" being the foremost aim of both fighters.

Liston, they say, is naturally vicious. Patterson worked himself into a degree of viciousness in that memorable fifth round against Johansson in their third fight. With tension increasing every minute both fighters could be in a savage mood by the time the opening bell rings.

Rocky Marciano, undefeated champion, says if he were fighting Patterson he'd swarm over him in a corner and try for a knockout. "In order I'd be in trouble. His big problem is escaping Liston's terrific left jab. Their cobtrasting styles make it a toss-up."

Doc Kearns thinks Patterson can hit harder. Ezard Charles says he cannot predict the winner. Archie Moore likes Patterson and cocky Cassius Clay prefers Liston.

Liston said in a magazine interview: "I jab to hurt. I fight my own fight. It doesn't matter to me what the crowd is like, I don't pay attention to it. It doesn't matter who I ever fought. I felt he made just one mistake and that is getting in the ring with me. The worst person to fight is a scary person."

Said Patterson: "I'll bring myself up to this fight and if I'm sharp that's all I need to win. Mental alertness is it. If I have to think what I'm going to do after a punch or before one, I might as well give up. I will train hard for this one.

And genial Tommy Mascaro, manager of the Park Theatre here, says he will be showing the fight pictures on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Knockdowns and a knockout, if any, will be shown in slow motion. Watch the Park ad for times.

The Limb? Patterson in the fifth or sixth.

Jolting Jab Versus Speed

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—The richest fight in ring history, a $5,000,000 electronic age spectacle, tonight unleashes the undog heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson against challenger Charles (Sonny) Liston for the world title.

In a Comiskey Park setting—merely a backdrop for a vast closed - circuit television show worth upwards of $4,000,000—an outweighed Patterson may be taking on the toughest foe in his all-bout pro career.

Fight time is 10:30 p.m. EDT. Weather predictions were favorable, calling for fair, cool climate with temperatures in the 60's.

As pre-fight preparations were climaxed with a 9:30 a.m. EDT official weighing, Liston's long established favoritism still held at 7-5. It was expected Patterson would scale about 189 pounds, spotting some 23 to Liz, too, likely to weigh some 212.

A crowd of about 35,000 was expected in the White Sox ball park, with promoters of a $750,000 gate.

The sponsoring Championship Sports Incorporated, however, was keeping its eye mainly on returns from 264 closed-circuit TV outlets in the United States and Canada.

The sponsors predicted some 800,000 of a potential 1,010,000 seats would be filled, assuring a gross of $4,800,000.

Radio receipts, with ABC and CBC broadcasting the fight nationally, are pegged for about $400,000 and another $200,000 is expected from movie rights.

It all seems to assure the 27-year-old Patterson kingdom's richest purse — perhaps, $700,000—but the fight may also bring his dethroning by the bruising Liston.

Liston, 28 and a powerful man —against both the law and ring opponents in the past—may lack the right-hand thunder of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, who dethroned Patterson, June 26, 959, flooring the champ seven times.

Patterson's great speed, flashy combinations and big heart — he has scored 12 knockdowns in his 38-2 record — have prompted many to pick him to whip Liston.

Liston has knocked out 23 in his 33-2-1 record. His only loss was an eight-round decision to Marty Marshall, whom he later twice defeated.

Patterson has 29 knockouts in a pro career many have criticized as being a crusade against cheesecake opponents.

But Patterson came back against Johansson to take a second bout from the Swede and become the first heavyweight ever to win back the title. Then he polished off Johansson in a third meeting at Miami Beach March 13, 1961.

Patterson's appearance marks the ninth time he has put the heavyweight title at stake, pulling him behind Joe Louis, the all-time leader, with 27, and Ezzard Charles with 13.

The bout will be judged on the Illinois five-point must system, scored by two judges and a referee to be named at ringside.

Trail Series By 3-1

Aussies Predict Win For Gretel

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) —It's since 1934—in heavier weather, win or else for Australia's and lost the next two in lighter hopes in the America's Cup stuff.
series, but the popular Aussies But the Aussies, perhaps refuse to act-their role of under- buoyed by the fact that their dog. last defeat was by only 26 sec-

"We will win," flatly predicted Sir Frank Packer, head of the syndicate that mounted the costly Australian challenge for the 111-year-old mug that is emblematic of yacht racing supremacy.

The Australian yacht Gretel is down three races to one in the best-of-seven series, and must win today to keep alive.

A victory for the American defender Weatherly would keep the silver cup in the New York Yacht Club showcase for another two years, at least.

The British are expected to mount the next challenge in 1964.

If one may believe the weatherman, it will be Weatherly's favorite weather today — northwest to westerly in the 10-to-20 knot range. That would stimulate duplicate the conditions of the first race which the American defender won handily.

MAY BE BRISKER

But the old salts around this town say the winds will be considerably brisker than that.

The more wind the better for the Australian Greiel. She won the second race—the first victory for a challenging yacht since 1934.

ond lost the next two in lighter stuff.

But the Aussies, perhaps buoyed by the fact that their last defeat was by only 26 seconds, the closest margin in the history of Cup racing—are taking like the favorites.

The Americans won the last two races. There's no reason we can't take the next two," said spokesman Hank Sloane.

An old hand at coming from behind, Harold S. Vanderbilt, who carried America's colors in majestic "J" boats in three Cup challenges before the war, agreed.

"The series isn't over yet," he said at his Newport summer home where he has been an interested spectator.

WON FOUR STRAIGHT

Vanderbilt lost the first two races in 1934 and was well behind in the third before he turned the British tide with four straight victories to save the cup.

Skipper Bus Mosbacher, who has lost 20 pounds since the challenge series began, said "we just want to win the last race."

Mosbacher called Weatherly's crew the day off Monday, when the backlash of a tropical storm was still churning up the Atlantic with winds up to 40 knots.

Gretel made a short trial run, perhaps to work on tactics for the 24-mile upwind - downwind course that will be sailed today.

Odds May Wind up At 5-7

LAS VEGAS, Nev (AP)—Challenger Sonny Liston is the 3-to-2 favorite to fight the heavyweight title tonight from Floyd Patterson.

Las Vegas odds-maker Jimmy Snyder said he opened his book on the heavyweight fighters at 5-to-6 and take your pick. A week ago, he said, Liszin was the 8-to-5 favorite, and later went to 8½.

"But it looks as though this thing will wind up at 5-to-7, that's how close it is," said Snyder.

Win Tonight Does It

Ford Can Clinch Flag

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It'll be wily Whitey Ford on the mound tonight when New York Yankees take on Washington in an attempt to clinch their 13th American League pennant in 14 years and set up the first coast-to-coast world series in baseball history.

Meanwhile, 3,000 miles away, Los Angeles Dodgers will go with relief specialist Ed Roebuck in a bold bid to increase their three-game National League edge over the second-place San Francisco Giants.

Ford, who has posted a 164 record despite off-and-on arm trouble, will face the Senators Dennis Daniels (7-15), and can nail down the Yankees' 27th pennant if he wins go neither what the second-place Minnesota Twins do against Cleveland Indians. At the same time, the Minnesota loss would eliminate the Twins regardless of what the Yankees do.

The Twins will start Camilo Pascual (19-10) in an effort to stay in the race, Minnesota is 4½ games behind with four remaining play. New York has only five games left. Pascual will be opposed by Pedro Ramos (9-12).

SURPRISE CHOICE

Roebuck (10-0), the undefeated relief ace who had a dead arm in the spring, was the surprise choice for the Dodgers as they prepared to battle Houston and former teammate Dick Farrell (9-10) while trying to set up their first Series since 1956.

The Dodgers lead the Giants by three with six games remaining for each contender. Any combination of four Los Angeles victories or Giant losses or defeats will give the Dodgers the NL flag.

The Giants will be at home to St. Louis, starting veteran Billy Pierce against the Cardinals' Ernie Broglio (11-8).

The Athletics scored first in the fourth, getting three runs off Jack Fisher (7-9) on singles by Jose Tartabull, Ed Charles and Norm Siebern. The bases loaded walk to Johnny Wojcik and a wild pitch. Siebern scored Joe Lewis's fourth run in the sixth when he singled and eventually came across on a grounder, then closed out the scoring in the eighth with his 20th homer, a blast measured to five hits by Ed Rakow (14-16) picked up runs in the fifth and sixth.

NHL Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins, who finished a poor sixth in the '61-62 National Hockey League season, Monday night became the first NHL club this year to lose a pre-season exhibition to a minor league club.

In defeating the Bruins 3-1, Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, defending champions of the Eastern Professional League, became the first EPHL club ever to beat an NHL team. Canadiens only last Thursday bowed 8-1 to the National-league Toronto Maple Leafs.

Playing before 1,500 fans at Hull, the Canadiens held to a 1-0 lead after the first period and led 2-1 after the third. The Bruins pulled goalie Ed Johnston in the game's dying moments but couldn't manage a shot on the Hull-Ottawa goal.

Bruins have yet to meet an NHL club in their pre - season tour but beat Quebec Aces of the EPHL in their first two exhibition games.

The story was different in Monday night's only other exhibition involving an NHL club. The game was at Victoria, where New York Rangers soundly trounced Portland Buckaroos of the Western League 6-1.

Detroit showed even more scoring power in the third game of the night, bumbling Calgary Stampeders of the WHL 12-3 before 3,291 fans at Calgary.

Chicago Black Hawks' "million dollar line" of Bobby Hull, Murray Balfour and Red Hay was reunited Monday when Hay made his first appearance at Hawks' St. Catharines, Ont., training camp. Hay, starting his fourth season in the NHL, missed the first two weeks of training to recuperate from a cyst operation.

Toronto, who will play an exhibition encounter tonight at Chilliwack, B.C., against San Francisco Seals of the WHL, spent Monday at Vancouver.

Latest word from the Leaf camp is that most of the team, led by left winger Frank Mahovlich, are still holding out for better contract terms from the club.

Lopez Back With Chisox

Casey Signs With Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Grizzly, old Casey Stengel and eloquent spoken Al Lopez signed contracts Monday to manage their respective clubs again in 1963.

Stengel, 72, agreed in New York to return as skipper of the defeat-ridden New York Mets, who made their debut in the National League only this season.

Lopez, 54, signed an unprecedented two-year contract in Chicago to guide the fortunes of the White Sox through the 1963 campaign. He is finishing his sixth season with the White Sox.

Salary terms were not disclosed in either case.

The announcement of Stengel's return came from club president George Weiss in this last week of the current campaign with the Mets wallowing in the league's basement 60½ games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers.

Stengel, more serious than at most of his press conferences, hinted that he signed for more than the $80,000 he reportedly received this year.

"I always get a little more money — you can say that again," grinned Casey. "I got cooperation."

When a reporter asked if he learned anything managing a team like the Mets, Casey quipped:

"Lopez, I found out I better get out to the pitcher's mound in a hurry."

Lopez, a respected baseball rival of Stengel's, through the years, reportedly received near $50,000 this season at the White Sox.

The White Sox have won 83, lost 74, are in fourth place, nine games behind the league-leading Yankees.

Lopez, incidentally, is the only manager to whip New York Yankees' American League supremacy in the last 14 years. He won the flag with Cleveland in 1954 and with the White Sox in 1959.

Stamps, Eskys Clobber Cats, Argos

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The cowboy may be the most widely-known hero of the West, but to eastern sports fans he doesn't rate with the Western Conference football player.

They think the fastest draw in the West is the play on which Johnny Bright takes the ball from Don Getty.

Western Conference teams have lost only one game in the east this season, a 21-19 win for Montreal Alouettes over British Columbia Lions on Sept. 6.

Monday night, Day led Calgary to a convincing 38-21 win over the Eastern Conference-leading Hamilton Tiger - Cats, and Edmonton Eskimos rocked Toronto Argonauts 31-22 at Toronto.

It was Calgary's fifth straight win, making Stamps the hottest team in the Canadian Football League, and moved them within one point of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, leaders in the West, who dropped a 27-22 verdict to British Columbia Lions.

HALF AS GREAT

Edmonton, capitalizing on breaks and an Argo error, moved into third place in the western standings and halted Argos' win streak at one game.

Toronto now is deep in the cellar in the East with six losses and one win.

At Hamilton, Stampeders went wild in the second quarter, scoring 28 points after getting Ticats a 6-0 first-quarter lead.

Ticats, ineffectual against the fleet running of Ed Buchanan, the superb pass - catching of Pete Manging and the powerhouse plunging of Lovell Coleman, had 32,100 Civic Stadium fans booing at them.

Day, who completed 21 of 29 passes against Ottawa Friday, completed 22 of 35 Monday night and mixed plays like a master craftsman.

Frank Cosentino, who started at quarter for the injured Bernie Faloney, threw scoring passes of 17 yards in the first quarter. That was the only threat of Ticats until Joe Zuger replaced Cosentino in the fourth quarter. Zuger threw touchdown passes to Tommy Grant and Dave Viti. Don Sutherin kicked two converts and Zuger booted a single in the third quarter.

SPORT FACTORS KILL

Getty, substituting for injured Jackie Parker as Edmonton's quarterback, killed Argos with short passes and had Bright and Mike Lashuk running hard from their fullback spots.

Lashuk, Bright, Bill McKenny and E. A. Sims scored touchdowns for Eskimos and Ted Fuller kicked three converts and a field goal. Vic Chapman added the other point with a single.

Dick Shatto scored two touchdowns for Toronto and Gerry McDougall one. Bill Mitchell converted all three and picked up a single on a late field goal attempt.

Edmonton romped to a 15-0 lead in the first quarter and seemed to be well on their way, but Argos erupted to provide the most exciting football of the season for 34,117 Toronto fans.

Edmonton, which held a 27-21 lead at halftime, started rushing passer Tobin Rote in the second half and kept Argos at bay.

TWO ARE HURT

The westerners turned a punt into a touchdown in the second quarter, Chapman's kick was taken by Lynn Bottoms who ran headlong into Edmonton's Oscar Kruger at the Toronto 40-yard line. Bottoms and the ball were knocked apart and Sims, again on the spot, picked it up and raced for the end zone.

Coach Eagle Keys said after the game that Getty and Bright had both suffered knee injuries, extent of which will not be known until the team gets home. Both Parker out until Oct. 8 an injury to Getty would be serious.

Ticats received bad news at Hamilton when it was announced that Faloney will undergo surgery for removal of a torn knee cartilage later this week. This means Faloney will be out of the lineup a minimum of six weeks and possibly for the rest of the season.

At Vancouver, the Lions went into the game 18-point underdogs, a last-place club facing league-leaders who boasted a skein of 25 straight road victories dating back almost three years.

Halfback Willie Fleming scored two B.C. touchdowns, one on a 109-yard pass-and-run play that fell short by one yard of the conference record. Halfback Tom Larscheid and fullback Nub Beamer scored one other, and George Grant converted three of the four.

Winnipeg fullback Jerry James scored one touchdown, and kicked two converts and a single for nine points. Leo Lewis and Ernie Pitts scored the other Bomber touchdowns and Jack Delveaux kicked a single.

New 4-Team League Formed

City Hockey Organized

Will Organize Int., Junior Hockey Loops

Efforts will be made to organize two OHA Intermediate loops at the Legion Hall, Madoc tomorrow night, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Hastings and Northumberland Intermediate "C" League which last year consisted of Warsaw, Campbellford, Madoc Juniors, Bancroft, Marmora, Frankford-Stirling will come up for re-organization.

Efforts will be made to organize a new OHA junior "C" or "D" loop. Proposed teams are Wellington, Havelock, Campbellford, Marmora, Madoc, Bancroft, Stirling, Frankford and Madoc.

OHA executive member Jack Devine will convene the intermediate group with the OHA president Lorne Cook looking after the proposed junior setup.

It is felt that the centres named have good juvenile clubs brought up under OMHA training and hockey facilities should be available when the players become over-age for juvenile activities.

Most of the youngsters cannot make the jump from juvenile to intermediate clubs and it is felt a junior "C" or "D" circuit will provide the answer to their hockey problems.

Four definite starters, the election of a strong executive and promise of co-operation from several key points indicated a successful season for the newly-formed Belleville City Hockey League at a meeting last night.

The organization adopted the official name of "Belleville City Hockey League" and named Ike Hirst president. Cliff "Sonny" Belch, a well-known and hard-working member of the district's sports world.

Belch will have as his immediate executive Buzz Soule, commissioner of last year's Industrial Hockey League, as vice-president and Bert Faulkner, as secretary-treasurer. Each team will have one representative named to the executive body.

Definite entries represented at last night's meeting were Trudeau Motors, The Pepsi's, Joyce-Collins Combines and Vesdey - Welbanks Combines. South TV's and Bob Bland's Sports, who indicated earlier that entries might be forthcoming were not represented.

Plans at the present time call for at least a four-team league which would open around October 24 and play double-headers on Wednesday nights.

If more ice time can be obtained there is that possibility, efforts will be made to line up at least two more teams.

Mr. William Loewen, chairman of the Arena Commission attended last night's get-together and promised co-operation from that body. He expects to have definite word concerning ice time and the costs of such at the league's next meeting on Monday, October 1. Mr. Loewen showed genuine interest in the league and appeared impressed with the organization as it now stands.

An advisory committee was named and will consist of Jack Carson, Gerald "Shud" Ethier, Atlanta at Jacksonville, ppd.

George H. Carver, Jack Devine, rain.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood would have no runaway production problems if all stars were like James Garner.

He has just finished shooting The Great Escape in Munich for three months.

"I've been in worse places: I was in Korea," said the former infantryman.

Garner's opinions aren't likely to cement friendship with our West German allies, but then, he has a knack of living up to this original character of Maverism.

"I'm part German myself—the part that isn't English, Irish, Scotch, or Cherokee," said the actor.

"My name was Bumgarner, so you can see that I'm pretty German.

"But I found the Germans don't like Americans. Oh, they're civil, all right, but they're never really friendly."

"The whole thing started when three German students brought their guitars and started singing songs on the Munich version of the Via Veneto. A crowd started to gather and the cops came along and told them to break it up. When the students refused to stop singing, the cops started swinging their billy clubs and smashed a few skulls.

"The next night about 400 students came and staged a sit-down strike, and some citizens of Munich joined them. The police came again with their clubs —oh, it was just like the '30s again.

QUAINT NOTION

"This went on for seven nights. One of the nights, I was sitting at an open-air cafe and I found myself right in the middle of it. I didn't know what I was going on, and I had the quaint American notion that if you weren't creating any trouble, you didn't have anything to worry about.

"Suddenly one of the cops started coming at me with his club raised, ready to drop it on my skull. I just lifted the back of my hand and started to aim it at his nose. He stepped right back. I guess he wasn't used to having anyone fight back."

The Great Escape is the story of a mass escape from a German prison camp and Garner grudgingly concedes that the scenery was necessary for the story.

"The scenery was marvelous," he admitted. "But if anyone goes to Europe merely to make a picture on outdoor sets they're nuts. The weather is so much worse over there than in California that you lose whatever savings you make in production costs."

AT THE PARK — Murray Melvin and Rita Tushingham, winners of top acting honors at the Cannes Film Festival in a scene from "A Taste of Honey", the picture that established them as stars and now showing at the Park Theatre. The screen version of Shelagh Delaney's provocative stage hit, written by her in collaboration with Tony Richardson, was produced and directed by Richardson and stars Dora Bryan and Robert Stephens. The Continental Distributing, Inc. release garnered four major awards from the Academy — for Best Actress, Miss Bryan; Most Promising Newcomer, Miss Tushingham; Best British Film and Best Screenplay. Complete show starts at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Shirley Knight watches apprehensively in the background as young man suspected of being a psychopathic killer, portrayed by Grant Williams, approaches her stricken uncle, played by Onslow Stevens, in this tense scene from the Warner Bros. suspense thriller "The Couch", now showing at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd feature attraction is "Bombers B-52", in color and stars Natalie Wood and Karl Malden.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Those double doors finally opened again after all the months and Loretta Young strolled out and introduced us to her new series.

Miss Young's new CBS show is a continuing story about a widow—played by Miss Young of course—and her seven children. The first show Monday night was amusing and highly improbable but served to introduce the large family. It was played mostly for laughs.

It was a rather pleasant beginning—for the feminine audience, anyway.

High point of the evening, however, was The Road to Button Bay, a warm, loving and brilliantly executed documentary film about last summer's senior girl scout roundup in Vermont. Producer Robert Drew chose three girls, every one a charmer, and followed them from their Kansas homes through the entire girl scout gathering.

It was a perfectly delightful hour.

CBS' other special was Opening Night, boasting five big stars—Lucille Ball, Jack Benny, Danny Thomas, Andy Griffith and Garry Moore. Unfortunately they had pretty feeble comedy material but tried vainly for laughs.

It will seem like old times Saturday when Art Carney returns to his role—once—of Ed Norton in a Honeymooner sketch on the opening Jackie Gleason Show on CBS. Jackie, as Ralph the bus driver, and Art, the sewer worker, will have new wives—Audrey Meadows and Joyce Randolph, the original Alice and Trixie of the piece, are busy elsewhere and unavailable.

"Give the United Way"

Dear Fellow Citizens:

Our annual fund-raising campaign in aid of the thirteen agencies that participate in our United Appeal commences Monday, October 1st. From then until October 16th, a large group of volunteer workers will contact the people of our community to enlist their generous support.

There is no doubt whatsoever that our member agencies perform invaluable work in Belleville and its surrounding area. If we would only stop to think, we would probably discover that each and every one of us, perhaps directly or through friends or relatives is touched by their service in one way or another. Therefore, are they not worthy of our support - support that will enable them to carry on with their dedicated programs in 1963.

Our objective this year is $93,000, and I sincerely ask that you give serious thought to their needs, be generous and help make our Campaign this year a truly united one.

Sincerely yours,
J. J. TRUDEAU, President

Yul Brynner Stars as Arab Rebel in Technicolor Feature Film

"Escape From Zahrain," an exciting adventure thriller set in modern Arabia is the feature attraction Tonight and Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily. The film in Technicolor and Panavision, stars Yul Brynner as a dedicated leader of rebel forces in a corrupt Arab state, and co-stars Sal Mineo and Jack Warden and Madlyn Rhue.

The exciting drama concerns Brynner's release from captivity, while awaiting execution as a traitor, his release having been engineered by fanatical followers led by University student, Sal Mineo.

Mineo idolizes Brynner and joins forces with him and several of his fellow-prisoners as they make their dash for freedom. To do so they high-jack an ambulance belonging to the oil refinery, kidnapping as hostage a company nurse, played by lovely Miss Rhue, who recently scored a hit as the ingenue in "A Majority of One".

Jack Warden, whose talent is so varied that director Henry Hathaway can't tell of him, "Put a bib on him and he could play a baby." will be seen as a tough American embezzler, former employee of the refinery and one of the escapees. A sadistic killer Tony Caruso, and a gentle murderer Jay Novello make up the oddly assorted group, whose lives depend upon their successful flight.

The film deals with their adventures as they cross desert and mountains, pursued by land and air, beset by privations, accidents, sand storms, dissension and tragedy. It was produced and directed by Boris Ageak Neame, whose last film, "Tunes of Glory," received an Academy Award nomination.

Astrological Forecast

Wednesday, September 26

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) —Expand activities, perform greater services. Also, take time to praise those who serve you daily. The more you give, the more you receive today.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) —Expect sudden changes and you won't be left "holding the bag". Persons close to you may act in eccentric manner. Especially true where romantic partners are involved. Day for change, end of status quo.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Very important to communicate. Make sure your ideas are clear. Persons apt to be ultrasensitive today. And some don't "hear" so well, either.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) —Today you seem to come out on top of a jumble of confusion. Quick changes made. Snap decisions recorded. Maintain sense of balance. Be versatile, display sense of humor.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — You may be bored by the points involving money affairs. But some attention is necessary. Get details out of way early so you can pursue creative activity. Read to understand.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Day to-be daring. Invest in your own abilities. Trust your own judgment. No time for extreme caution. Excessive waiting could see real opportunities fly by.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Today promises to be one of contradictions. Be prepared for surprises in connection with family members. Keep mind and heart open. Live by Golden Rule.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —Favorable lunar aspect today stresses constructive activity. Friends play important role. Sweep away self-doubt. But be practical. Don't "drown" artistic gifts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Let experience be your guide. Individual who offers constructive advice means well. You profit by listening. Be willing to accept added responsibility.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Tendency to make known your views should not deteriorate into common arguments. Natural for you to be restless, ambitious. But be calculating when it comes to presenting beliefs.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Minor irritation should not deter you from exhibiting independence, initiative and enthusiasm. In past days you have been seeing persons, situations as they really exist. Be grateful for ability to perceive truth.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) —Members of opposite sex provides challenge, inspiration. Means there are greater things in store if you can master a degree of self-discipline. Don't jump at first offer.

If today is your birthday you are never satisfied with second best. And this year you have been able to have your way to a great extent. Now take more time to consider others. Let others see you can be sympathetic, too.

General Tendencies — Cycle of Leo, Virgo, Libra. There could be big news in scientific thinking, as added dimension of "natural law" is revealed.

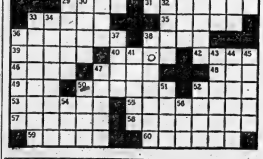
Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.



And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And this entire relief was made possible by a very special healing agent which acts in one of two ways, depending upon the requirements in individual cases: it relieves pain by anesthetizing the nerve endings and relieves itching by counter-irritation; it shrinks hemorrhoids by reducing the swelling and congestion in the affected parts.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Rope, With Congress about to meet in Ottawa, Canada's greatest tariff negotiating power ever handed a president, American officials are hoping to get the Canadian Market the U.S. would like to enjoy. But any tariff benefits it may get are bound to the British proposals.

The U.S. official who was at recent Brussels talks said he firmly believes Britain will gain entry into the European community.

CANADIANS SEARCH

The Bonaventure, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Owasco and the search-weather ship of Station Juliett will continue combing the area for survivors through the day, the Bonaventure reported.

The Canadian carrier planned to start a 30-hour voyage to Shannon late today with four inquest into the bodies of the dead.

is no British tariff on a large group of industrial raw materials from her Commonwealth partners. But Britain's Labour ... kept maintains a variety of external tariffs on such products.

If Britain were to enter the European Economic Community under existing Common Market rates of duty, Canadian aluminum exporters, for example, would find a nine-percent tariff nailed on Britain's door.

The U.S. also exports aluminum, as well as copper, wood pulp and other materials to Europe.

FEELEY DENIALS

"He's an honest policeman—that's a little strange to you," snapped Liberal counsel S. J. MacKinnon.

Today, Feeley will be examined by his counsel, Walton C. Rose, and after that it was expected he would be followed as a witness by partner Joseph McDermott, now being held in Kingston Pen. on a duty await the outcome of an appeal from conviction on a charge of conspiring to obtain police protection.

The long list of details ratified off in his previous three days in the box last week, and added these Monday:

1. He and McDermott did not post bail bonds totalling $2,000 in connections" with the late Ontario mines minister James Maloney, and the minister never had an interest in their mining company.

2. He had no recollections that an attempt was made by himself or McDermott to suggested by Mr. MacKinnon, to have the late minister extend a gentlemanly courtesy to their mining claims after a departmental geologist had wound it up.

3. He did not pay money for Mr. Rose's services in the Gaboury charter—the Centre Road Vet. Club—but a nearby Cookeville—but moved to Ottawa former "Big Harry" Taylor's bank manager.

4. He and McDermott had no connection with the now-closed but existing Belleville Lounge near Windsor and Frontier Club near Niagara Falls, Ont.

5. He has no knowledge that five Detroit men who accompanied McDermott to James Bay hunting lodge in 1958 were gangsters. Mrs. Mafia, as alleged last December by Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver, proved to be the men that the five were reputed big-time gamblers.

6. He never employed a muscle of such men as Johnny (The Enforcer) Papalia of Hamilton and the late Harry Blair of Toronto to collect gambling debts 7. When confronted with a list of Cookville Club members' names, found in Gaboury's home and showing figures which police suggested added to gambling debts of $20,000, Feeley did not recollect ever preparing such a list.

8. He denied ever talking—except possibly during yield—PPP-Dan Allen Birington of Peterborough, who also has denied providing tipoffs on raids for gamblers.

9. He had never flown to Barry's Bay in a lands and forests department aircraft to visit Mr. Maloney at his cottage although he admitted he once had flown a short hop in the department plane around the area of the McDermott-Feeley mining claims at Big Duck Lake near the Ontario-Que.

10. He had never been on parties with Mr. Maloney, the late E. V. McNeill, OPP commissioner, or James Barrington, present OPP deputy commissioner. He was asked this by Mr. Birch-on a.

"PUSHED HARD"

Feeley was pushed hard by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the commissioner, on his contacts with admitted connections with the Cookville and Frontier Clubs, but he steadfastly denied any Mr. McKinnon asked there been evidence given that per obtaining provincial charters for the three clubs had been paid in a "pressure" way. Feeley said he could not remember that if he paid for others, he would have collected.

Mr. Justice Roach asked him if he would pledge his oath that no money was paid to him or Feeley by either Frank Gardiner or the late Leo Finn gan, the ostensible operators of the Cookville Club, or any percentage rake off or for protection.

He said he would.

"You deny that definitely?" "I do."

He did not know Billy Giacalone, Detroit gambling figure, and had no knowledge of any Giacalone interest in the Rosland. He had never been told there was Detroit money in the club.

ASKED ABOUT LAWYER

Asked why he and McDermott had retained a lawyer in connection with the Frontier Club, he said that would have been out of friendship for Sam (Ginie) Hirtzel, a Toronto associate who died this year.

A number of other trials pursued by the commission examining Feeley had hit a dead end with the late Glenie.

During discussion of his association with the Cookville Club, Feeley said he bankrolled gambling operations up to as high as $10,000 a night and some nights dropped as much as $7,000.

Asked why he had agreed to drop the club's federal charter and switch to a provincial one, he said he believed the suggestion had been made either by the provincial or the attorney-general or provincial secretary.

He went along because "one charter was equally good as another."

"Were you advised that there would be a lessening of police raids" he was asked by the Liberal lawyer.

"No, I don't recall that."

REPORT IMPORTANT

Actually, he said, a report by OPP Const. Robert J. Wright had been very instrumental in putting the club out of business.

Wright was convicted with McDermott and Feeley on the conspiracy charge, and three face 18-month sentences.

Feeley's $10-$200 purchase of the Toronto club charter, he testified, was from a man named George Allys and was the charter of the Finnish Social Club of Timmins.

He had not discussed moving other Timmins charters to Toronto and had nothing to do with the reported transfer of the Porcupine club to Hamilton by Papalia.

Mr. Justice Roach showed interest in Feeley's claim that the revolver registered in his name and found in gambler George Kaplan's apartment had been bought as a "souvenir."

"Souvenir of what" the judge asked.

"Of Toronto."

"Surely you don't expect me to believe that," the commissioner observed.

Feeley testified that neither he nor Reid had been able to recollect how it came into former employee's possession. It was registered to Feeley's name, but he had no permit to carry it.

BOUGHT AIRLINE

Feeley was also unable to explain why he and his gambling partner McDermott bought an airline without notifying federal authorities.

He admitted that their names did not appear on Airgo Limited's list of officers until they disposed of the company.

Asked by Mr. McKinnon why they didn't take it in their own names, Feeley said he didn't remember the reason.

He said the airline was bought as an investment with a view to using aircraft for mining exploitation in Northern Ontario.

Mr. McKinnon observed that the gamblers didn't buy the airline until international passenger and cargo flight rights were granted by the air transport board in October, 1959. However, Feeley said this was not a factor.

"Did you ever ride in one of these planes to the United States?" asked Mr. Justice Roach.

Feeley said he didn't think he had but he recalled a flight McDermott made to New York with lawyer David Humphrey.

Area Manager Says CNR Not Going Out of Passenger Business at Rotary Meet

The Canadian National Railway is not intending to get out of the passenger business, J. A. Pollock of Belleville told Belleville Rotarians at their meeting yesterday. Mr. Pollock should know, he is the general manager of the CNR's Rideau area.

Railways formed the theme of the meeting, and Mr. Pollock, as guest speaker, told club members about the Canadian National's plans, program and problems. He stressed the railway's two-billion dollar investment in modernization since 1950, and said the program, not yet completed, was alesdy saving one hundred million dollars a year in operating costs.

Some of the invested capital has bought the railway's 2,100 diesel locomotives, and some of it has gone to the purchase of cars. Of 168,000 railway cars owned by the CNR, more than 40 percent, Mr. Pollock said, are less than ten years old. The investment also covers the better roadbed and heavier rail required by the longer, faster trains of the diesel age and the special servicing equipment and more efficient signals required to keep them going.

He added that the CNR now has 2,400 miles of rail under centralized traffic control, and this line can safely handle from one-half to two-thirds more traffic than block controlled sections.

REORGANIZING COMMAND

The CNR according to Mr. Pollock, is also reorganizing their chain of command, and their policies, to meet the challenge of modern railroading, and the Royal Commission's Report on Canadian Transportation is directly in line with the railroad's present views. Mr. Pollock explained that the first laws covering railroads were passed in 1858, when there were no competing forms of transportation, and although the laws have been revised, in part, they have never been completely reviewed. The railroads, according to Mr. Pollock, do not want regulations handed in their favor, but he pointed out that the railways were not holding their share of the transport market. Pipelines and trucks were taking their freight business, he said.

Mr. Pollock also blasted the term 'subsidies', as applied to government payments to railroads. "They're not subsidies", he said, "they should be called indemnity payments. They help pay for some of the uneconomic services we offer to certain shippers and to certain regions.

NEED MORE FREEDOM

What the railways want, and need, Mr. Pollock concluded, was more freedom. Freedom for all transport systems, for instance, to set their own rates, subject only to maximum and minimum regulations, would assure the lowest possible rates and the highest possible efficiency for all, he said. Freedom to eliminate "loss operations," to discontinue unprofitable lines, he said would assure better overall service. And freedom to diversify their operations and to develop new truck services, would permit a better coordination of highway and rail operations, and produce a more efficient service.

Mr. Pollock was introduced to the club by Rotarian Newt Thompson, and thanked by Rotarian W. C. Slack.

PM Faces Rough Ride In House Over Trade Trip

Opposition to Attack Stand Taken in Talks

His government's handling of the British bid to join the European Common Market will be the focus of one of the liveliest issues in the first session of the new Parliament opening Thursday.

But underlying the heated arguments will be the far larger question of the future shape of world trading arrangements and Canada's role in them.

On this subject of trade goals, there is an unusual amount of inter-party agreement, but deep differences remain on the path that should be followed.

The prime minister is expected to give the Commons an early report on the Commonwealth conference in which he outlined the trade terms—many of them still secret—being negotiated by Britain as the proposed membership in the six-nation European Economic Community.

TERMS UNCERTAIN

In London Mr. Diefenbaker and most other Commonwealth prime ministers made clear their dissatisfaction with proposals covering their countries' export markets if Britain should the United Kingdom go behind the EEC's common tariff wall. In Canada's case, terms are still uncertain; for most of this country's vital exports including wheat, other grains and foodstuffs, processed foods and a group of major industrial raw materials.

Mr. Diefenbaker also presented, in the closing stages of the conference, proposals for a free-world trade conference aimed at reducing tariff barriers. The other prime ministers gave this idea no support at the official general terms.

CALLS SMOKE SCREEN

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson called the proposal a "smokescreen" and a "tail Credit Leader Robert Thompson described it as "statistical tic" — a valuable idea but too late.

Mr. Pearson accused the government of making "carping criticism" of Britain, which he should instead be helping the British government achieve a successful association with Europe.

Tommy Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, described as "fantastic" Mr. Diefenbaker's contention that in joining the question of whether North America might feel less obliged to help Europe. Canada's defence should most of western Europe come together in a major power bloc.

To all this criticism Mr. Diefenbaker has replied that he was doing his duty in seeking protection of "Canada's legitimate interests."

He said that most of the other Commonwealth countries had taken the same stand as did Canada, and he has emphasized that the British Government and the Common Market aren't finished "and it's too early to pass judgment on whether adequate trade safeguards have been assured."

While the British market is important, taking some 16 per

MANY PROBLEMS IN MEDICAL CARE PLAN SMOULDER

Program Operating For Last 3 Months

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's compulsory medical care insurance plan has been operating for nearly three months without all of its problems boiling to the surface.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, whose CCF government inaugurated North America's first tax-supported, compulsory medical care plan July 1, said in an interview Tuesday: "As was to be expected, problems are developing and some of them will consume much time and effort before they are resolved."

Dr. H. D. Laiglesia of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said "it is too early to say if the medical care plan is acceptable to doctors."

SOME DIFFICULTIES

Difficulties Premier Lloyd mentioned were the failure of the government and the province's radiologists and pathologists to reach an agreement, the department of individual doctors from the province — "not an unusual phenomenon — and apparent difficulty of some citizens in making arrangements with doctors who will bill the administering medical care insurance commission directly.

The premier said he does not feel that public discussion of the details of problems will help obtain solutions.

"My colleagues and I are agreed that the spirit of the Saskatoon agreement requires us to refrain as much as possible from public comment on such issues until the emotional atmosphere which developed earlier this year has had a better chance to dissipate".

The Saskatoon agreement, worked out between the provincial government and the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, ended withdrawals of normal medical services from July 1 until Aug. 23.

The doctors, fearing government control over medical services, refused to work under the plan and provided only emergency services during the 23 days.

CAN WORK OUTSIDE

In the settlement, doctors won the right to practise outside the government plan, succeeded in lessening the powers of the medical care insurance commission, and made it possible for private voluntary medical insurance agencies to operate with the government plan.

Dr. Laiglesia said in an interview the terms favorable of the current situation is the activity of community clinics — co-operative forms of practising the medical care stalemate to provide facilities for doctors who want to work under the medical care commission.

"There is continuing harrassment of doctors in smaller communities and this is caus-

Spanish Storm Kills Hundreds, Hurts Thousand

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Two hundred persons are believed dead in severe storms that struck Spain Tuesday, reports received by the government said today.

These reports indicated 63 bodies have been recovered in Tarrasa and Sabadell, the two most important Spanish textile centres where a number of workers were trapped by the collapse of factories.

The migning were estimated at 200, and 1,000 injured at not less than 1,000 in Barcelona province.

The victims included families who were sleeping at the time of the disaster. Their houses caved in and trapped them under the debris.

Barcelona was caught in a torrential, down pour which quickly flooded the Ripoll and San Quirico rivers.

Rushing water toppled buildings and turned city streets into Similar floods struck nearby towns.

Those who died in Tarrasa included the local police chief inspector, his wife and their three children.

DAMAGE IS HIGH

Damage were estimated at more than $4,000,000, though they might be much higher," a government spokesman said.

At first Barcelona people welcomed the rain because it was the first in nearly four months. But the downpour continued and around-the-clock people living in the downtown district began climbing to the highest storeys of buildings trying to escape the swirling waters.

Those killed in Sabadell included 12 workers unable to leave their plant when it was covered in five minutes by the rushing waters.

Ambulances, doctors, medical clinics, and fire brigades were rushed to the disaster area as heavy parties tore at the debris in the search for more victims.

CORK, Ireland (AP) — Two RAF helicopters plucked 37 injured survivors of a ditched American airliner off the Swiss rescue ship Celerina today for transfer to hospital at a U.S. Air Force base in Britain.

The 9,041-ton freighter, still carrying 27 others it rescued after a Flying Tiger Super Constellation plunged into the mid-Atlantic Sunday with 99 persons Sunday night, headed on to Antwerp, Belgium, its next port of call.

The U.S. Army in Europe prepared to send rescue ships and other aid to Antwerp for the group. American servicemen and their wives, whose flight from the United States ended with a forced landing in the sea 500 miles west of Ireland.

Many of those who lived through the ditching were suffering from chemical burns, a skin inflamation caused by contact with high octane gasoline which spilled into the sea when the plane was wrenched apart. But there was no fire.

The first to be removed in the hazardous aerial operation were three stretcher cases and four persons less severely injured.

The Celerina had radioed that a total of 14 of the 44 survivors aboard—American servicemen and their wives—needed to be taken to hospital quickly.

Ambulances, doctors and a police escort waited at the Cork docks as the helicopters flew in the survivors from the Celerina 30 miles southwest of the Irish coast.

The Celerina also said it was in great need of 100 pounds of rice and 50 pounds of flour to feed its un-

Survey Shows Some Areas To Have Best Crops in Years

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A veteran Saskatchewan farmer climbed down from his combine and with a look of undisguised delight on his face surveyed the wheat field his big machine had just finished harvesting.

"This is next year country, you know," he said. "We've been waiting for 'next year' ever since I started farming and this is the first 'next year'."

As farmers toil up their profit and loss sheets following this fall's harvest, in many parts of the country it looks as though a goodly number will be able to share to some degree the pleasure enjoyed by the Estevan-area farmer at his abundant crop.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicates some farming areas may reap the best crops in many years and even where output is lower than usual few farmers will face a complete write-off.

Brightest news comes from the Prairies, which last year suffered their worst drought since the "dirty '30s." Saskatchewan expects the largest wheat crop since 1956, Manitoba forecasts its over-all grain yield may be the best in 10 years

POLICY SHAPERS FOR PC's NAMED TO SENATE

Five Appointed By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Two of the chief behind-the-scenes shapers of Progressive Conservative policy—a newspaperman and a public relations expert—were appointed to the Senate Tuesday.

They are eloquent M. Gratton O'Leary, 73, president of the Ottawa Journal, and jowly and chubby Allister Grosart, 53, national director of the Conservative party.

Three other new senators appointed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker are Edgar J. Fournier, 54, of Iroquois, N.B., and Clement O'Leary, 46, of Antigonish, N.S., former Conservative MPs defeated in this year's general election, and Frank C. Welch, 62, of Wolfville, N.S., president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association since 1953.

New Senate standings are: Liberals 82; Conservatives 31; Independents 2; Independent-Liberal 1; vacant 10. When there were five Conservatives in the Senate when Mr. Diefenbaker came in power in 1957.

TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Mr. Diefenbaker also appointed the Speakers of the last Houses of Parliament to the Privy Council. This will permit former Commons Speaker Roland Michener, defeated in the June 18 election and former Senate Speaker Mark Drouin to affix "honorable" before their names for life.

Comments Conservative on the appointments, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said he will make known in the House of Commons next Monday "what views we have on the appointments of this kind being made by a minority government whose views not received a vote of confidence."

Mr. O'Leary, born at Calgary, born in a farmhouse at Perce on Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula, is a bachelor who has spent nearly all his life. In his 51 years with The Journal, he rose from $17-a-week reporter to the presidency in 1937. He has never held any political preference, gladly. Mr. O'Leary is probably best known for his magnificently-written editorials in The Journal. Though he never went to high school he has always been a voracious reader and his command of language is well known. He has set a standard which few of his colleagues have ever been able to surpass.

TRIED FOR SEAT

Mr. O'Leary has been called the chief architect of Conservative party. He has always denied that he was not able to serve in the cabinet when he tried for a seat in Gaspe in 1935 but was defeated by Liberal Speaker Rodolphe Lemieux.

His son-in-law, Frank McGee, is Conservative MP for Peterborough.

Mr. O'Leary reported Parliament for The Journal during the First World War and went to the imperial conference with Prime Minister Meighen in 1921.

He was chairman of the royal commission on price relations in 1960-61.

Its recommendations have never been acted upon.

Justice Doubts Evidence Given Probe by McDermott

TORONTO (CP)—Thousands of gambling clubs are operating in Canada, Colonel McDermott said Tuesday before the Ontario royal commission on crime.

Gambling boss McDermott, March, the 41-year-old McDermott delivered a rapid-fire series of all-embracing denials of allegations that he paid police or politicians money or ever solicited influence or inside information from them.

His denials followed much the same ground Feeley had covered in the previous four days—as the commission sought, with no visible success, to find damaging admissions from the nimble gabber.

McDermott was explaining that he had never owned a piece of the plush, Roseland Club near Hyannis and had only helped out in defence strategy after a 1957 raid because Frank (Curly) Gardiner, one of the operators, owed him money and he didn't want to see Gardiner "out of circulation" in jail.

"You want me to believe that?" inquired the commissioner.

"Yes, I think you should," McDermott replied.

"Well, I'll tell you I do not."

Russia To Build New Fishing Port In Havana Bay

U.S. Officials Call It Disguised Naval Base

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba has signed an agreement with Russia to build a fishing port for Russian trawlers in Havana Bay.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro announced the pact Tuesday night, saying the Russians would furnish credits for building large docking and freezing facilities. He said the Soviet trawler fleet would have use of the facilities for at least 10 years.

Castro said in a television address that the port facilities would provide headquarters for a joint Cuban-Soviet Atlantic fishing fleet. Some Soviet trawlers arrived last summer and Castro reported at that time they would be turned over to the Cubans.

A Cuban commentator on television said the facilities will be "a Cuban port and Cuban property." He ridiculed reports he said were circulating in Miami that Russians would control the port.

PRAISES SOVIET UNION

The commentator praised the Soviet Union for extending credits to finance more than half the cost of the 12,000,000-peso ($12,000,000) project.

A communique reported the fishing port would provide facilities for 115 to 130 medium trawlers.

The communique said the port will include piers, refrigerators, an ice factory, repair shops, shops, a floating dock, fuel supply stations and a radio station.

Castro said Cuban-Soviet fishing ties will make it unnecessary for Soviet trawlers going into the Atlantic to return to home or east European ports for maintenance and repairs.

Cuba now has only a small fishing fleet, made up of Cuban-built, 33-foot trawlers.

Mob Incensed Over Police Killing of Negro

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fires destroyed three homes Tuesday as scores of officers continued to search for snipers who fired on a mob incensed over the police shooting of a Negro youth.

Kinloch Mayor Clarence Lee said the fires were set by arsonists." There were no injuries.

Officers said Joseph Houston, 23, of Kinloch admitted setting fires in the 3 homes, including suspicion of arson. Police said Daniel Cherry, 18, admitted setting one fire. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

A city-wide curfew remained in effect Tuesday night as a Negro bystander Tuesday as the officers moved to the area in force and about 200 Negroes. None of the wounded was critically hurt.

The violence in the all-Negro community followed the shooting Sunday of Darrell Ray Hunt, 20, by police officer Israel Mason, 24. Mason, a Negro, resigned. He said Dortch refused to accept a careless driving warrant and was shot as he struggled for possession of Mason's gun.

Russia's Markets Attract Britain's Interest

MONTREAL (CP) — Immigration Minister Fulton said he would be encouraged to maintain Canada's stable balance, says Most. Rev. Howard H. Clark, Anglican Primate of All Canada.

"We in the immigration branch believe that a man's race, color or religion should neither bar nor qualify him for entry into the nation," he said in an interview.

"However there is clearly a need for a certain balance in the immigration policy."

Immigrants from Britain would be people who "understand the traditions and institutions which are a part of Canadian life" and would help preserve the "distinctive flavor" of Canada.

U.S. Officials Call It Disguised Naval Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. defence sources said today they believe the fishing port to be built in Cuba with Russian assistance is a camouflage for a naval base that could threaten the Panama Canal.

They said such a port equipped to overhaul, repair and supply Russian and Cuban trawlers also could serve as a support base for submarines and torpedo boats.

The plans to build the port in Havana Bay as headquarters for Cuban-Russian Atlantic fishing fleet were unveiled Tuesday by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Many of Russia's 3,000 trawlers are known to carry radar and other electronic equipment with which they have monitored U.S. missile test shots from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and have observed U.S. fleet manoeuvres.

WORLD-WIDE PLAN

Some military authorities said construction of a Russian port in Cuba appears part of a world-wide plan to position Soviet naval power where it could pinch off key Allied shipping routes.

Sources familiar with the movements of Russian fishing trawlers said they normally work along the East Coast.

They don't get down that far as legitimate fishing — one officer said in referring to Cuban waters where the new base will be built.

Officially, the U.S. government kept silent on Castro's an-

PM Faces Rough Ride In House Over Trade Trip

Opposition to Attack Stand Taken in Talks

His government's handling of the British bid to join the European Common Market will be the focus of one of the liveliest issues in the first session of the new Parliament opening Thursday.

But underlying the heated arguments will be the far larger question of the future shape of world trading arrangements and Canada's role in them.

On this subject of trade goals, there is an unusual amount of inter-party agreement, but deep differences remain on the path that should be followed.

The prime minister is expected to give the Commons an early report on the 10-day Commonwealth conference in London that ended the trade terms—many of them still hanging—being negotiated by Britain for its proposed membership in the six-nation European Economic Community.

TERMS INCREASED

In London Mr. Diefenbaker and most other Commonwealth prime ministers made clear their dissatisfaction with prospects for protecting their countries' interests. They said they should the United Kingdom go behind the EEC's common tariff wall. In Canada's case, farms are still uncertain for most of the country's vital exports including wheat, other grains and butter, processed foods and a group of major industrial raw materials.

Mr. Diefenbaker has already presented, in the closing stages of the conference, his proposal for a free-world trade conference aimed at reducing tariff barriers. The other prime ministers gave this idea no support at least in broad, general terms.

CALLS SPEECH SCREEN

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson called the proposal a "smokescreen" and the Leader Conservative Robert Thompson described it as a "stalling tactic" — a valuable idea but too late.

Mr. Pearson accused the government of making "carping criticism" of Britain when it should instead be helping the British government achieve a successful trade association with Europe.

To all this criticism Mr. Diefenbaker has responded that he was doing his duty in seeking protection of "Canada's legitimate interests."

He said that most of the other Commonwealth leaders, at London, took the same stand as did Canada, and he has emphasized that Britain's negotiations with the Common Market aren't finished yet—it's too early to pass judgment on whether adequate trade safeguards have been assured.

While the British market is important, taking some 35 per

MANY PROBLEMS IN MEDICAL CARE PLAN SMOULDER

Program Operating For Last 3 Months

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's compulsory medical care insurance plan has been operating for nearly three months without all of its problems boiling to the surface.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, whose CCF government inaugurated North America's first taxsupported, compulsory medical care plan July 1, said in an interview Tuesday: "As was to be expected, problems are developing and some of them will consume much time and effort before they are resolved."

Dr. H. D. Lalgieish of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said "it is too early to say if the medical care plan is acceptable to doctors."

SOME DIFFICULTIES

Difficulties Premier Lloyd mentioned were the failure of the government and the province's radiologists and pathologists to reach an agreement, the department of individual doctors from the province — "not an unusual phenomenon" — and apparent difficulty of some citizens in making arrangements with doctors who will bill the administering medical care insurance commission directly.

The premier said he does not feel that public dissemination of the details of problems will help obtain solutions.

"My colleagues and I are agreed that the spirit of the Saskatoon agreement requires us to refrain as much as possible from public comment on such issues until the emotional atmosphere which developed earlier this year has had a better chance to dissipate."

The Saskatoon agreement, worked out between the government and the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, ended withdrawal of normal medical services from July 1 until July 23.

The doctors, fearing government control over medical services, refused to work under the plan and provided only emergency services during the 23 days.

CAN WORK OUTSIDE

In the settlement, doctors won the practice of working outside the government plan, succeeded in lessening the powers of the medical care insurance commission, and made it possible for private voluntary medical insurance agencies to operate with the government plan.

Dr. Dalgleish said in an interview the worst feature of the settlement is the inability of community clinics — co-operatives formed during the medical care stalemate to provide facilities for doctors who would work within the medical care commission.

There is continuing harrassment of doctors in smaller communities and this is caus-

U.S. Revenue Officers Fan Out To Seize Entire Fight Proceeds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of federal revenue officers fanned out across the country in a massive drive to seize the entire proceeds of Tuesday night's Patterson heavyweight title fight. The aim was to collect $1,000,000 in taxes which the government claims is owed by the fight promoters.

The Internal Revenue Service announced that officers moved in on about 300 fight sites throughout the U.S. which collected an estimated $4,000,000 from patrons who watched on closed-circuit TV as Sonny Liston grabbed the heavyweight championship from Floyd Patterson.

The threatres were instructed to turn over all receipts from the TV show to the revenue service.

Other agents, in an unprecedented move, served levies against the promoters of the fight and the organizers of the TV showings, demanding that all receipts be handed over to the government.

Then the revenue service acted to seize the entire gate receipts from the one - round bout at Chicago's Comiskey Park, as well as fees paid by Sam A. Goldwyn Broadcasting Company for rights to cover the fight via radio.

If the revenue service collects as much as it expects, it will receive an estimated $5,000,000 or more. However, it would have to refund part of this amount later to the promoters and TV organizers because tax receipts total a lesser amount—$3,985,000.

Anglican Primate Wants British Immigrants to Maintain Balance

MONTREAL (CP) — Immigration from British Isles must be encouraged to maintain Canada's ethnic balance, says Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Anglican Primate of All Canada.

He is the first prelate who can recall who can recall believe that a man's race, color or religion should neither bar nor qualify him for admission." he said in an interview.

Immigrants from Britain would be people who "understand the traditions and institutions which are a part of Canadian life" and would help preserve the "distinctive flavor" of Canada.

"We do not want to stop anyone from coming to Canada," he said, "but the matter of balance is very important."

Most Rev. Clark was in Montreal to address the 77th annual meeting of the Montreal Auxiliary of the Anglican Church.

During the day he had time for detailed study of recent criticism by United Church leaders of Canada's policy on the immigration of Roman Catholics to Canada. The Anglican Church had not discussed nor investigated the situation and "I don't think there would be any reason to do so."

However, it was the opinion of the Anglican social services bureau that it would be desirable to bring British immigrants here.

Cuba now has only a small fishing fleet, made up of Cuban-built, 33-foot trawlers.

U.S. Officials Call It Disguised Naval Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. defence sources said today they believe the fishing port to be built in Cuba with Russian assistance is a camouflage for a naval base that could threaten the Panama Canal.

They said such a port equipped to overhaul, repair and supply Russian and Cuban trawlers also could serve as a support base for submarines and torpedo boats.

The plans to build the port in Havana Bay as headquarters for Cuban-Russian Atlantic fishing fleet were unveiled Tuesday by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Many of Russia's 3,000 trawlers are known to carry radar and other electronic equipment with which they have monitored U.S. missile test shots from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and have observed U.S. fleet manoeuvres.

WORLD-WIDE PLAN

Some military authorities said construction of a Russian port in Cuba would be part of a world-wide plan to position Soviet vessels where it could pinch off key Allied shipping routes.

Instances familiar with the movements of Russian fishing trawlers said they normally work along the Grand Banks.

They don't get down that far on legitimate fishing," one officer said in referring to Cuban waters, where the new base will be.

Officially, the U.S. government kept silent on Castro's an-

Mob Incensed Over Police Killing of Negro

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fires, destroyed three homes Tuesday as scores of officers continued to quell troubled northside Kinloch, scene of a demonstration by a mob incensed over the police killing of a 20-year-old Negro.

Kinloch Mayor Clarence Lee called the fires "the work of arsonists." There were no injuries.

Officers said Joseph Houston, 23, of Kinloch admitted setting four fires. He was arrested on suspicion of arson. Police said Daniel Carter, 18, admitted setting one fire. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

A shotgun blast wounded three officers and a negro bystander Tuesday as the officers moved to a house from which a shot about 200 Negroes. None of the wounded was critically hurt.

The violence in the all-Negro community followed the shooting Sunday of Darrell Dovell, 20, by police officer Israel Mason, 24. Mason, a Negro, resigned. He said Dortch refused to accept a careless driving warrant and was shot as he fought for possession of Mason's gun.

2 Belleville Girls Report Profitable Summer Abroad

Kathy Heard and Karen Batchelor, two of this year's grade XIII students from Belleville Collegiate who last summer participated in a French Summer School project in the Swiss Alps, came home singing praises of their experiences during the holiday period.

The French Summer School project was conducted by Toronto Secondary School teachers at Les Diablerets in Switzerland.

The course has been open to students 15 to 18 years of age who are willing and able to profit from the "conversational approach" in French, stressing grammar and vocabulary in morning classes, while the social and recreational life of the community during their free time.

WRITE REPORT

Following is a report of their summer experience written by the two Belleville girls —

"To the student who is interested in seeing Europe, we recommend a tour for teenagers planned by a Toronto high school teacher. The aim of this tour is to better acquaint students with the French language and to give them an opportunity to see another culture.

"From high schools in Eastern Canada, a group of some sixty students, including ourselves, arrived at Schipol Airport, Amsterdam, July 3rd, and before we knew it, were aboard another plane en route to Paris. A quick drive took us to the Palace of Versailles where we saw as much as possible before travelling on through the countryside of France to Switzerland.

"For five weeks we lived in a small Swiss town, Les Diablerets, high in the Bernese Alps and only thirty miles from Lake Geneva. Our two hours each morning French grammar was taught by Toronto teachers and Swiss teachers conducted conversational classes. Afternoons were free for following the cultural life of the village and evenings were devoted to social functions. Each weekend there were excursions to Italy, Geneva, Lausane, Berne, Montreal and surrounding cities.

TOUR GERMANY

"After five weeks of this atmosphere we again set out by bus to travel through Germany. Instead of staying in hotels where tourists usually congregate, we lived among European teenagers in the Heidelburg and Trier Youth Hostels which are supported by the government.

"During Travelled this distance, the group was very cautious as it was much of Paris as possible in three days. From the Arc-de-Triomphe, the Eiffel Tower, Montmartre, Sacre-Coeur, Le Louvre, Notre Dame to the Folies Bergeres — we saw it all.

"Leaving Paris on a noon plane, we arrived in London in time for a short tour of the city before seeing our first live London play.

"The changing of the Guards at Buckingham Palace and the church service at Westminster Abey were most impressive.

"Unfortunately, as with all things must come to an end, we said "au revoir" to Europe to return home at the end of August with unforgettable memories of the wonderful summer abroad."

cent of Canada's total exports, the dominant concern of government policy-makers is over a far larger trade field.

It is here that the divergent positions of government and opposition parties begin to approach each other.

The government has repeatedly stated its willingness to play a constructive roll in the expansion of world trade as a multilateral, non-discriminatory basis" — in the words of Secretary of State Paul Fleming, in other words, Canada is ready to join in general international effort to lower trade barriers.

Camp Director Tells of Work At Oak Lake

Guest speaker at the weekly supper meeting of the Belleville Y's Men's Club was Donald Julian, camp director at the Y.M.C.A. Camp at Oak Lake. Mr. Julian, who has been camp director since 1950, reported on the operation for the past summer.

Because of the increased popularity of the camp it was necessary to increase the sessions to three from the customary two of previous years. The speaker noted that the three sessions contained a total of 90 boys and 77 girls. A varied program of waterfront activities, handicraft, nature study, etc. combined to provide a beneficial as well as a valuable experience for those attending.

Mr. Julian expressed his appreciation to the Moira Valley Conservation Authority for arranging camp visits to the Vandusen Botanical Gardens in Canada and Audubon Society for the materials it provided for nature study. It was his view that, as camp director, he was merely the "playing coach" co-ordinating the splendid efforts of the counsellors who assisted him. Five such counsellors, Janice Allison and David Hitchon, accompanied the speaker at the meeting.

Gary Sherman introduced Mr. Julian. Ron Lockyer, in thanking the speaker, observed that the Belleville Y's Men's Club was truly fortunate to have Mr. Julian as its Day Camp director and expressed the hope that he would continue to serve as director.

Introduction of Mr. Sherman was in charge of the meeting.

Boat Equipped To Carry Only Four Passengers

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)— The owner of a borrowed boat in which four persons were killed and six others survived in an Aug. 25 accident told a coroner's inquest Tuesday that the vessel was equipped to carry only four passengers.

Fred Boothby, operator of a Fort Cunnington boat livery, told an inquest into the death of Wolfgang Block, 24, that the boat's capacity was not marked anywhere on the vessel. He said none of his boats had government-approved plates supplying this information.

The inquest into the Lake of Bays boating accident, in which Mrs. Gordon B. Cave, 31, was also killed, is being conducted by Coroner E. G. Ellis of Bracebridge and Dr. H. B. Colpman, supervising coroner for Ontario.

Mr. Boothby told the inquest the boat's running lights were not operating at the time of the mishap. Asked by Dr. Colpman whether boats were rented without lights, Mr. Boothby replied "not for night use—just for fishing."

GAVE WARNING

Mrs. Boothby told the jury Block was accompanied by two men when he borrowed the boat about 7 p.m. She said she reminded him that the boat had no running lights but said nothing more because he had been warned previously not to use an unlighted boat at night.

Nicolas Plazas testified he was seated in the rear of the Block boat. He said Block was shining a flashlight powerful enough to reach the shore when the accident happened. Plazas said he kept a lookout to the right for other boats but saw none.

Harley Neilson, owner of the 18-foot inboard that collided with the borrowed craft, said he did not see the outboard until it bobbed up about 15 feet behind him after the collision.

Neilson said he realized the danger of operating a boat at night and "was scanning the horizon."

"I knew exactly where I was all the time. I hit something and the bow went high in the air. I stopped the propeller immediately."

Socreds Decide Against Entering Quebec Election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Social Credit party's decision to stay out of the Nov. 14 Quebec election has overshadowed the first political exchange of the campaign between Premier Jean Lesage and opposition leader Daniel Johnson.

The 26 Social Credit MPs from Quebec and 10 members of the Quebec provincial executive made the decision Tuesday night at a secret meeting held in Ottawa after reports had been told it would take place in Hull.

A party spokesman said candidates running in Quebec under the Social Credit label would not have the support of the Ottawa wing of the federal party headed by Real Caouette. This represented a victory for the stand taken by Mr. Caouette who maintains the monetary measures needed to enact Social Credit policies can only be made at the federal political level.

Dr. Guy Marcoux, who said previously pressure had been put on him to run as a Social Credit candidates, concurred in the decision.

REPORTS NEW PARTY

However, there are continuing reports of efforts by Social Credit supporters to form a new Quebec election. The Quebec City newspaper Le Soleil says a new party to be known as "Le Credit Social Provincial" is being formed. It is to be patterned after the Ottawa decision but will have no these efforts.

With Dr. Marcoux officially out of the provincial race, it is reported that A. A. Mongrain of Trois Rivieres will be asked to head a slate.

Mr. Mongrain declined comment on the report.

Premier Lesage lambasted the Union Nationale's election platform Tuesday in Quebec City, saying it promised what it couldn't be realized because it would cost the provincial treasury $40,000,000.

He said the opposition party's pledge to increase exemptions in personal income tax was deceptive and would help persons with high incomes more than those with lower ones.

"The higher a person's taxable incomes," the premier said, "the more tax he pays."

Higher salaried persons would thus find themselves paying on a smaller taxable income, Mr. Lesage added after a reclassification as proposed by the Union Nationale.

He said the opposition party's election campaign as a platform calling for the immediate expropriation of two small privately-owned power companies and a future referendum on the fate of the others represented the "left-overs" of the Liberal program.

The government is seeking re-election on a stand calling for the immediate expropriation of all private power companies in Quebec.

Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale, replied to the premier's criticisms at a press conference in Montreal.

"I wouldn't call the Lower St. Lawrence, Gaspe and Saguenay regions left-overs," he said. He was referring to the areas served by the Lower St. Lawrence Power Company and Northern Quebec Power Company, companies which the Union Nationale proposes to expropriate.

POWER EMERGENCY

Private power companies should only be taken over by the government when it is necessary, he said "but these areas have the most urgent needs for electricity of any area in the province."

Referring to the premier's attack on his tax-cut policies, the opposition leader said "Mr. Lesage need not worry where we'll get the money to make up the difference. The treasury will be in a better position than it is now under Mr. Lesage."

Meanwhile, a second separatist candidate has entered the campaign. Marcel Chaput, president of Le Rassemblement pour l'Independence Nationale, will contest the Bourget Riding in the Montreal area. If elected, he said he would refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the Queen. His announcement follows a similar pledge given Tuesday by Gerard Brossean, president of Le Rassemblement in St. Johns, Que.

Mrs Grossart, born in Dublin, came to Canada in 1923 and was graduated from the University of Toronto. He was a reporter and editor of the Toronto Star from 1929 to 1933, and in 1934 set up the second public relations firm to be formed in Canada. He merged this business with Mc-Kim Advertising Limited of which he became vice-president.

Mr. Grossart was named national director of the Conservative party in 1957, and is given a good deal of the credit for the party's victories in the 1957 and 1958 elections.

During the 1962 campaign he was reported at odds with John Fisher, Mr. Diefenbaker's special assistant. The prime minister declined Tuesday to say whether Mr. Grossart will continue as national director.

Mr. Groshart said he didn't know — that was up to the chief. He added that his Senate appointment had come "quite suddenly".

Mr. Fournier was an MP for 12½ months. He was elected in Maisonneuve-Rosemont-wake in a by-election May 30, 1961, and defeated in the June election the following year.

He was elected to the New Brunswick Legislature in 1953 and served in the former Hon. John Baird Cabinet as chairman of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission.

Clement O'Leary was elected to the Commons in 1958 for Antigonish-Guysborough and was defeated last June. He becomes the youngest member of the Senate.

Mr. Welch, an apple grower, is president of Welch-Le Farms Limited and a director of United Fruit Companies of Nova Scotia Limited. He has been active in municipal affairs in Wolfville.

French-Canadian Rights Ignored Here Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ontario Provincial Association Tuesday night demanded amendments to the Ontario Education Act to give French-speaking students more rights.

The association and its 11 affiliated organizations said it was disturbed by the non-existence of the "unfair situation" at Scarborough where a fifty-year bilingual class was ended by the Toronto metropolitan separate school board despite demonstrations by parents.

"The recent incidents which took place in Toronto when a bilingual class, ousted from its school, had to resort to picketing, illustrate fairly well the degree of prejudice of some separate school trustees against French - speaking taxpayers," said the association in a statement.

The fifth-year bilingual class opened Sept. 4 but was closed Sept. 12. The students were told to attend English - language schools, separate or public.

Kingston, Galt, Belleville and Sioney Creek were other places where French-Canadian rights were ignored, the group said. The association represents some 607,000 French - speaking Ontario citizens.

It said French - Canadians in Ontario ought to have the educational treatment comparable to that of the English-Canadian minority in Quebec.

IN MEMORIAM

BLEECKER — In loving memory of our dear father, Harvey Bleecker, who passed away September 26th, 1958.

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweet and dear as ever more
There is just a vacant chair,
We do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Irene and grandson Larry.

BLMT — In loving memory of our brother, Albert Edward Elmy who passed away one year ago September 25, 1961.

I often sit and think of bygone days
When we were all together,
The family chain is broken now,
But memories live forever.
We miss him out home away,
But just remembered day by day,
Until sweet memories of home,

Madoc Lawyer Named Speaker For Senate

OTTAWA (CP) —Appointment of Senator George S. White, 64, as Speaker of the Senate, has been announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Senator White first entered the Upper House appointed by Mr. Diefenbaker after he became prime minister in 1957, succeeds Senator Mark Drouin, St. Speaker since Oct. 4, 1957.

A Madoc lawyer, Senator White was appointed Sept. 20, 1957.

Senator White's 1957 appointment was followed just over six weeks later by a by-election in which Sidney E. Smith, former president of University of Toronto, was elected to the Commons.

Mr. Smith then became secretary of state for external affairs, but died in 1959.

Senator White was member of Parliament for Hastings-Peterborough from 1940 to 1953, when the ridings were realigned to form Hastings - Frontenac. In his latter riding he served from 1953 to 1957, when he was appointed to the Senate.

The senator was first elected as a National Government party member. This party returned a handful of members in the 1940 electin, all dedicated to having a coalition government run the affairs of the country. By and large, the NG members were Conservatives.

Senator White was returned as a Progressive Conservative in the general elections of 1945, 1949, 1953 and 1957. In 1940 he succeeded a Liberal, R. S. Ferguson, as MP.

Two Examples Wall Paintings Found in Area

What happened to the wall paintings? Mrs. Jeanne Minhinnick and Hastings Historical Society the question at the Society's monthly meeting in the auditorium of the Corby library.

Mrs. Minhinnick, of Upper Canada Village, near Morrisburg, Ont., and guest speaker at Monday's meeting of the Historical Society described her "find" of two examples of very fine wall painting, dated about 1820, one found just west of Brockville and one in Prince Edward County. The paintings have been identified, by Miss Fletcher Little, per authority on early wall painting, as the work of one Moses Eaton, an itinerant painter, originally from" Boston, who apparently came through this district between 1800 and 1830. "And there are very few like these", she said, "there are dozens".

But the other samples of Moses Eaton's work are all lost; covered by wallpaper, or newer coats of paint and the Society fears that if they are uncovered, the persons who uncovers them probably will not recognize them. They will probably be destroyed. The paintings are usually garlands of fruit and flowers surrounding doors or mantles. Some samples may appear as ceiling trim.

J. E. McArthur Given Farewell Party, Gifts

J. E. McArthur, manager of the Royal Bank and who will be leaving the city for the future to accept a higher position with the bank, at headquarters in Toronto, was the guest of thirty personal and business friends at a farewell party held at the Hotel Quinte on Tuesday night.

Dr. R. T. Potter presented Mr. McArthur with a bouquet of roses for his wife, Vera McGuire presented a brief case and Dr. Harold Williamson a camera for Mr. McArthur, children from his own family. It was an informal affair and there were many short and crisp addresses given extolling the worth of Mr. McArthur in a community he has resided in for the past ten years. In that time the guest of honor has taken part in the civic, religious and sporting life of the community, while his wife has been active in women's affairs in the church and socially.

Both were valued members of the Rotary Curling Club and a number of speakers expressed the thanks of the club for the assistance they was given in the formation of the Club. Those who were heard during the evening were the Deputy Mayor, Ald. Ben Corke, Ald. George Wishart, Ald. Walter Elliott, Jim Joynes, Dr. Harry Burns, president of Rotary, Bill Gault, W. N. Hurst, Jack Yanover. Bill McKenzie, assistant accountant at the Royal, Bryson Leslie, Pat Houston, Bob Phillips, speaking for the Fair Board, Court Miller, Art Frankhill Bell, Harold Mott, Don Williams, Harry Fuke, Tom Simpson, Manager of the Royal of Commerce, Ross Colling, Enos David and Claude D. Tice.

SPEAKS REPLY

In reply to the many kind remarks, Mr. McArthur thanked all for their attendance of the kindness shown himself and family during their ten years of residence in the city. "We will take away fond memories of our life in this community" said Mr. McArthur and "We are not saying good-bye for we hope to see other to renew acquaintances. The Royal bank has been very interesting as they have practically grown up among many friends. The city has been most friendly and it has been a pleasure to be able to contribute a little to the progress of this "Friendly City".

Before a delicious roast beef dinner was served by the management of the hotel a social hour was spent. It was a delightful affair and capably arranged by John W. Deacon.

They argued Tuesday as they drove.

Suddenly Mrs. Parris gestured with the sack containing the family savings. "Buying that car," she said, speaking of her husband's choice, "would be like throwing money away."

Out the car window went the sack of money. It disappeared down a storm drain. In it, said Parris, was $2,500 in cash.

Parris slammed the car to a halt. Mrs. Parris jumped out and lunged for the money sack—and almost got stuck in the drain herself. They could see the sack, lying there, 16 feet away.

Parris called friends, sheriff's deputies and a road department crew to come help him.

As they tried to reach the sack with sticks, a plumber's snake and a fishline, it happened.

SHELTER STRIKES

An attendant at a nearby gas station decided it was time to turn on the drive-way with a hose. The water poured into a drain, down the hill—and to the sack.

As the would-be rescuers watched helplessly, the sack floated away.

"It's hopeless," said the county crews. "You'll never recover it, now."

Parris and his wife drove away—in their old car.

Sheriff's deputies noticed that his conduct didn't seem to be talking to each other.

Wilfred Carr, Rossmore, Dies Of Broken Neck

A 38-year-old Rossmore, Wilfred Carr, was fatally injured as the result of an automobile accident on Dundas Street West, Tuesday evening. The accident occurred about 8.18 p.m. in the vicinity of Elliott Motors.

Inspector C. Hayes of the city police department said Mr. Carr was proceeding west when his vehicle left the road and went into the south ditch. The car rolled over, coming to rest on its left side facing south. Damage to the car was estimated at approximately $350.

Carr was pronounced dead on arrival at the Belleville General Hospital. He was alone in the car at the time of the accident. Dr. Rota, pathologist at the hospital, said death was caused from a broken neck sustained as a result of the accident.

Coroner Dr. John Stock has ordered an inquest to be held at a later date. City police investigated.

Mr. Norman Hickson, of the City Hotel, Mr. Carr's employer, said he was an excellent worker and that he has been with him just a few minutes prior to the accident.

BORN AT BARRHEFIELD

The late Wilfred Carr was born at Barrhefield, the son of Mrs. George Plowright and the late Charles Carr. He was discharged in Bancroft before moving to the Rossmore community, where he and his family had lived for the past two years.

He was employed as a waiter at the City Hotel and was a member of Parkdale Baptist Church.

In 1940 he married with the Army Service Corps and was discharged in 1946. During his enlistment he served on the western front. Mr. Carr was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters at Kingston.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue. Funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Bailiff Finds He Is Host To Menagerie

TRENTON —Trenton's bailiff, Art Holley, has a menagerie in his hands. Besides a problem, Art has 25 assorted, several thousand tropical fish, an undetermined number of hamsters (he guesses about 50 new ones a day) some finches, guines pigs and rabbits (whose exact number also changes from day to day) on his hands.

According to Art, he spends 24 and goodly number of hours a every day thinking about his little "pets." Great gobs of canary seed, canary gravel, finch food, hamster food and hamster "scrips", lettuce, etc., etc. has to be bought and distributed.

At night and especially these chilly fall nights, canary cages have to be covered; finch cages have to be covered; the hamsters have to be kept warm.

The whole thing is, Art isn't necessarily a animal lover. He fell heir to his menagerie when a local pet shop went out of business . . . temporarily. Art took on his charges until such time as the pet shop proprietor gets back on an even keel, finds a new location and so on.

sod Alberta's wheat return will be up considerably for the season.

In spite of moist, cooler weather, farmers in Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland are reported generally satisfied with their crops. On the whole its also been a good, average year in British Columbia although soft fruits have yielded as well or better than last.

The situation is less cheerful in the Maritimes, where rain has been the chief villain. It is expected to be one-third lower Nova Scotia the apple crop is than last year and in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the potato yield per acre also will be down, although market prospects may remain fair.

ONTARIO NORMAL

In Ontario, Arthur H. Martin, director of the provincial agriculture department's field crops branch, says most crops have been harvested with about normal yields.

Main features have been a "remarkable increase" in grain corn and a rise in soybeans with a big drop in winter wheat to 450,000 from 561,000 bushels, due chiefly to an unfavorable planting season and late harvest of last year's crop. Principal cause of the grain corn increase to 418,000 from 292,000 bushels, Mr. Martin says, is because farmers are running more steers.

Picton Youth Pleads Guilty Given 10 Days

TRENTON—In magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday, Glendon Palmer, 17, of Picton, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was sentenced to 14 days in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Palmer was fined $13.50 on a further charge of driving without a license.

Constable Fred Nokes of the Trenton police department, told the court that on Sept. 19 he had chased a car, owned by a Picton man and driven by the accused, at speeds varying from 60 to 80 miles an hour, along Dundas Street West, through the downtown section of the town, south on Dufferin Ave., west on the Carrying Place road, to the Murray canal, where the accused had turned and driven to the east end of the canal, whipped around and retraced his path to the canal bridge, across the bridge and on down Highway 33 to the Carrying Place, and through to the Weller's Bay area.

In the words of the constable, "the back end of the car driven by the accused practically disintegrated," at this point, and the police officer was able to apprehend the driver.

TRIED TO RAM CAR

Constable Nokes said that while travelling along Dufferin Ave, the accused had deliberately tried to pass the police cruiser with his car and force it off the road, "at least 12 times." Constable Nokes said that Palmer had continued the same tactics when the two vehicles were travelling along Prince Edward County highway at one point in the chase, the cruiser from Trenton was joined by a police cruiser from the Ontario provincial police detachment from Brighton. Trenton police had radioed to Brighton asking that a road block be set up at the Murray Canal, but Palmer's car and the Trenton cruiser had passed this spot by the time the Brighton vehicle arrived at the canal bridge.

The car driven by Palmer had gone through a considerable amount of punishment, the constable said, as it had mounted the curb on Dufferin Ave. and proceeded along for some 200 feet in an up-sided position. Twice, the car almost overturned, Palmer screamed the car around a curve. Constable Nokes said that beside Palmer, two females and a male passenger were in the Picton car.

In sentencing the youth, Magistrate Wills told him, "this sort of thing has got to stop. This showing off stuff is a menace to the public and to the people in charge of public safety."

The magistrate indicated that because of Palmer's youth, he was letting him off easy.

"If you drive before you get a licence, you'll be sent to jail," the magistrate warned Palmer, "if you like jail, just keep on."

Senior Public School Pupils Elect Council

TRENTON — While politicians in Ottawa are wondering just when the next federal election will be held, students at the Marmora Street senior public school in Trenton have done something about it.

Last week, a red-hot political campaign was waged with nominees for office making speeches to the student body, (including the usual election promises).

On Monday, the election for student council seats was held, complete with scrutineers, secret ballots and all the trimmings.

Police Court

TRENTON—In magistrate's court at Trenton on Tuesday, Mervin Dodd, 22, of Nelson Creek, B.C., charged with disturbing the peace by swearing pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded until Oct. 2. Bail was set at $200.

Dodds pleaded guilty to the charge but hesitated when he was asked to plead to a further charge of "assault against Constable Max's Holden, while attempting to resist arrest".

Magistrate T. Y. Wills defined "assault" as striking, holding, grabbing, shaking your first under the constable's face or shaking a stick at him".

"Guilty, I guess", said the accused.

"Well, don't guess", advised the magistrate. "This is a serious matter".

"Would I be sent to jail if I pleaded guilty?" asked Dodd.

"I really don't know", was the magistrate's answer, "but I'm not here to give advice".

Dodd decided to retain the services of a lawyer before proceeding, as did 21-year-old William Bradley of Ottawa, charged with similar offences, involving assault against Constable George Prevedi.

Clare Day of Colborne, charged with passing a worthless cheque, explained to the court that he had had the money in the bank when he made out a cheque for $30 to pay for a pair of shoes, but had withdrawn several cheques at the same time, without realizing that his account would be overdrawn. Restitution has been made. Day pleaded not guilty to the charge and the case emlarged until Oct. 12.

Not Worth Wasting Lead On

Arturo R. Espaillat, former secret police chief of dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, says U.S. agents will kill him if they get a chance. Since it couldn't happen to a better victim, one is tempted to dismiss this pipes against deportation from Canada without bothering to examine it. That, though, would be unfair to the U.S.

The secret service of a nation which still glorifies the law of the six-gun in the Old West may conceivably be tempted to apply it in certain modern situations. It so happens, though, that Espaillat is of the wrong political stripe to be a likely candidate. His boss was Castro's most bitter enemy; the U.S. took the trouble to provide military training for Trujillo's son, along with the opportunity to enjoy the scenery in that country, with Zsa Zsa Gabor and Kim Novak being amongst the more spectacular sights he inspected. It is true that, finally, somebody succeeded in persuading the U.S. State Department not all anti-communists were saints, and that Trujillo's republic fell rather short of resembling heaven. But there is nothing in the record to suggest the U.S. would bother wasting government-bought lead on a two-bit toady of a dead dictator.

That there may be many private individuals who would be eager to aerate Espaillat for the sheer love of the thing is all too probable, having in mind the playful habits of his former associates when handling prisoners. There may even be a ship's boiler which is being stoked up, to dispose of the body after torture, as a means to eliminate the corpus delicti of a Dominican refugee who mysteriously vanished from New York. But none of this is any concern of the U.S. secret service, nor should it be any concern of the Canadian immigration authorities. As far as Canada is concerned, he is persona non grata and if somebody unceremoniously shortens the phrase by rubbing out the grata, and Senor Espaillat, that is strictly his problem.

Name From the Past

Robert M. Morgenthau has been nominated by New York State Democrats to contest the governorship, opposing Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

This will be a battle of famous names.

Older observers of the U.S. political scene will recall the days when the name of Morgenthau was associated with one of the most controversial issues—the treatment which a defeated Germany should receive at the hands of the allies. Henry Morgenthau, a member of the Roosevelt administration, advanced a plan which would have stripped Germany of her war-making potential. . . It was never officially endorsed — though certain features of the post-war initial policy, no doubt, followed it in some particulars. For instance, there was the provision for the breaking up of the Krupp empire, now long since abandoned.

It is interesting, but doubtless futile, to speculate what the international situation would have been today had the Morgenthau plan been placed in effect. A prosperous West Germany is the linch pin of the NATO ground forces in Europe. No such powerful state could have been built under the restrictions Morgenthau proposed. But, on the other hand, who can guess with certainty what effect the absence of such a re-armed and re-vitalized Germany would have had on the attitude of such countries as Poland and Czechoslovakia, not to mention Russia itself?

Most interesting speculation of all—if Roosevelt had lived, would Morgenthau have been able to persuade him to follow at least the basic outlines of his plan?

Four Score and Seven Years

The United States Department of Justice asked the courts to cite the top leaders of the University of Mississippi for contempt. This followed the action of Governor Ross Barnett, of Mississippi, who was granted special authority to act as University registrar, to reject the application of negro James H. Meredith for entry to the university. Meridith's application was backed by a supreme court order.

It's just a little more than a hundred years ago that the governments of the Southern States attempted to stand on "states rights" and move independently of the central government. Another civil war would be unthinkable, but one suspects most Northerners can now understand the feelings that made the first one possible.

Protection Not Its Aim

By Derek Paine-Smith, United Kingdom Information Service

One of the commonest misconceptions outside Europe of the European Common Market is to regard it primarily as a protectionist device to shelter Europe's industries from world competition. That such a view should have got about is in a way quite understandable. For it is on the aspect which most immediately affected it — that is the Common External Tariff — that attention has been drawn by the protectionist lobbies in the countries of Europe which have opposed the Market. Their aim was to achieve a compromise between the separate economies of member states by removing not only fiscal barriers on the movement of goods within the Community, but also by erecting at all kinds on the free movement of people, things and money.

It is obvious that in a combination of this kind member states would combine every aspect of their economic policy in complete harmony with one another; and how this policy of over-all economic harmonization the co-ordination of tariff barriers with the outside world has its necessary place.

But, and it is a fact frequently lost sight of, what is essential to the Community is the Common External Tariff. The fact that they are "Common," not the fact that they are "external." The Community could in theory exist without them. In fact it would probably have to for the very reasons any other independent-ly-run economy would have to, because it thinks this may be to its advantage. It may, on this criterion, decide to abolish high tariffs or low tariffs — or even, though this is highly improbable to say the least of it — no tariffs at all. What matters from the point of view of preserving the Community is that any decision of this kind should be applicable to all its members.

Even as it stands at present the tariff policy of the European Economic Community can hardly be described as "illiberal", at least judged by previous standards. The whole of the future? What are the chances that it will reduce those external tariffs as time goes on? The answer to this must be qualified. Because it is, I think, fair to point out that in the preamble to the Treaty of Rome the authorities explicitly state their desire to contribute to the progressive abolition of restrictions on international trade". Here an important difference of view will undoubtedly be the experience of the present conference in Brussels. The task of negotiating the terms of entry for one of the most highly developed nations is forcing the leaders of the Community to think hard and concretely about the trading problems of the world outside Europe. Already they are showing some disposition to modify their arrangements to take account of this.

This "outward looking" habit of mind will probably take deeper root if Britain herself becomes a full member of the Community.

What are the present tariff policies of the EEC? This brings us to a second point about which there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding. The EEC is not, as for instance some Soviet spokesmen have implied, creating new trade barriers where none existed before. Western European countries, like countries in every other part of the world, had tariffs against the goods of other coglinents and against one another for that matter — long before the Common Market was born or thought of.

In establishing its Common External Tariffs the EEC is doing no more than bringing the original duties which its members had on imports into line ensuring for instance that the French tariff on motor cars is no higher and no lower than the German by 1970 when the change will be complete. It is doing this generally by finding a compromise level between the existing tariffs of the various countries, raising some and lowering others. The effect will be to raise tariffs on goods entering Germany and Holland, but to reduce by very substantial amounts the duties on most goods entering France and Italy. Broadly speaking the average level of Common Market external tariffs will be lower than the actual levels of tariffs imposed by its members before the Common Market was created.

It should also be borne in mind that on some very important commodities the Community will impose no Common External Tariff at all. Talk of a tariff wall" here is misleading; the average world will have a good many holes in it. In general the EEC's tariffs, following Europe's traditional tariff pattern, will apply mainly to manufactured goods. Many raw materials will enter duty-free — raw wool and raw cotton for instance — and natural rubber, jute, copper, flax, nickel and tin to take a few other instances. On a range of manufactured goods the EEC has recently lowered its external tariffs by 20 per cent as a result of an agreement with the United States concluded within the GATT negotiations. These concessions extend to all GATT members.

Cost Is High To Swill Pigs

Montreal Star

The fact that the government — in other words, the taxpayer — has had to pay out $614,277 so far this year to compensation for the destruction of cholera-infected pigs, on top of $1,750,000 for the same purpose last year, is enough to give pause for consideration of the policy which makes it all possible.

The primary source of the epidemic has been established without difficulty. It is the use of uncooked garbage as fodder on farms which are licensed for the purpose. On those farms the garbage is supposed to be cooked. Sometimes it is not or not enough to eliminate danger, with results which have become too much of a pattern.

The simplest corrective measure would be the outlawing of the use of swill, with prosecution of those found guilty. But owing commercially the practice in the old-time one-pig family. An embargo against United States pork (which was found in the pork which started an epidemic this summer) has also been suggested. So has a punitive drastic revision of the rates of compensation.

There is no question that an embargo would block the disease, and it would probably be a deterrent to the compensation for slaughter, meanwhile, covers only roughly 50 percent of the farmer's herd potential. The farmer is out of operation for two months and not all those with infected animals are responsible for what has happened. In the case this year auction sales of a herd infected from garbage of a Montreal restaurant riddled herds in at least three widely separated areas. Besides underlining the innocent victims, elimination of communication might lend a farmer with sick pigs to rush them to market, thus speeding an epidemic rather than reporting his auspicions and losing all.

If we were to root out the obvious source of the disease, the problem of payments and embargoes would not need to arise.

Letter To The Editor

Every Day of Peace Victory in Itself

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

"The world is sitting on a powder keg." So said American statesman Adlai Stevenson recently. In the light of all the terrible knowledge we have today, if all the nations could only keep their heads when tensions mount, each and that's all war is forestalled is a victory in itself.

It puts one in mind of the heavy cigarette smoker who in view of his doctor's warning illness, decides to give up his favorite pastime. Although each night and day he starts afresh in the beginning, each twenty-four hours passed without succumbing to the temptation is a battle won. The elated feeling of having conquered the habit is one of the most marvellous medicine in the world.

The same could be true of nations. Each time two factions clash and a solution other than the one of open conflict succeeds, that is a victory for mankind. Let no nation act with impetuosity or irresponsibility, for, unlike the reformed cigarette smoker, a nation's temporary relapse may be its last and mark the annihilation of civilization.

Anxious Mother.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 26th, 1942

Belleville's main thoroughfares assumed a "four a.m." appearance early Sunday night as the new "dim out" regulations went into effect. Gone was the sparkle and brilliance of cafe and other outside electric signs and window lights. There was a funereal appearance to Front and Bridge Streets that was relieved by the gay chatter of Sunday night pedestrian crowds. However, street lights were not dimmed; officials of the Belleville Utilities Commission stated today that these had been had not been able to accomplish the complete dim out suggestions.

Director of the fair for 55 years, and in that time never having missed attending, Tom man at Shannonville's World Fair on Saturday was more interested than in the success of the venture than 94-year-old Jonathon Deline, pioneer farmman of Tyendinaga Township, and one of the best known men in the county. Mr. Barlow was born on the old Bleecker Farm on the east edge of the Belleville now stands. He remembers when there was a toll gate on what is now Dundas Street at McDonald Avenue. He helped to drive cattle for some of the oldest buildings in the city, including the local city hall which was built "about 1874".

Thought to have started as the result of faulty wiring, fire completely destroyed the fine farm residence of Mr. David Rosenberg on the Bessemer-Redeserville road early on Monday morning. All members of the family got safely from the building but all household contents were a complete loss.

City Living Can Alter Ones Talents

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There now reposes on my desk the knife that was brought back from my vacation — an genuine Swedish steel hunting knife, presented to me by the Monroe County Sportsman's Club, for no reason except good fellowship.

Although I was proud and honored to receive the gift, I must admit to a few moments of grave doubt when the presentation was made. Was I expected to venture forth that very night and stalk a bear? What exactly does one do with a hunting knife? I was too embarrassed to ask.

Like most city dwellers, my working tools consist of a can-opener (which somehow always manages to puncture the palm of my hand), and a screwdriver from an old boyhood Meccano set (which invariably gives me an electric shock when I am probing dark and similar corners in the house). There is no more use for a hunting knife that Cleopatra had for a charm course.

The knife, I must confess, looks impressive — a fine-appearing thing out of Deerslayer. One side is sharpened for an excoriating fine point — for slicing the underbelly of mountain lions, I presume, and the other side is saw-toothed with a peculiarly ugly hook near the handle which, no doubt, for ripping the entrails out of wolves. I also know I have strangled them with your bare hands.

Now, I have an immense respect for those hearty men who love to discuss, in rugged monosyllables, how adroitly they bagged that big buck last October. I am not that kind of type. In the woods, on a chilly autumn morn, a hunting knife is of vastly less use to me than a hot-water bottle and a box of bandages.

My disinclination to grapple with wild beasts springs not so much from a fear of animals as from a profound distrust of my own dexterity. A bear, at most, might tree me — but this is nothing compared to the horrible damage I could, and would, inflict on myself with a Swedish steel hunting knife.

City living has sharpened our wits, but almost paralyzed our fingers; another marvellous example of nature's compensation. No one is clumsier than the average city dweller, whose mechanical skills include a Red Cross field hospital. He cannot hang a picture on the wall in time. His recurring compound fractures on at least four fingers.

I hope the Monroe County Sportsman's Club doesn't mind if I bum the knife for a letter opener. And the boys might remember to send me a bottle of merochrome, or Chlorasol. Even opening letters, I'm bound to gash my thumb for that evil-looking hook.

Foods Allowed Persons Having High Cholesterol

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm hoping you have a list of allowable foods for a person with high cholesterol count. — Mrs. C.W.

There is no need for so cumbersome a list. But you can cut out today's column and carry it with you. Or better yet, just memorize the fundamentals.

Avoid the "saturated fats" like the plague. This means fat that is solid at room temperature. Such fat is nearly always animal; the fat you can see on beef, pork, lamb. Eat the lean part of the meat.

Since butter is an animal fat, and follows that same rule, "solid at room temperature," it is perhaps wise to substitute margarines made with a high content of polyunsaturated oils. With all the current uproar over cholesterol, you'll have no trouble finding margarine so labeled.

For cooking, use vegetable or nut oils. There are plenty available.

That's about it, so far as fats are concerned.

But there are two more important rules which, as a matter of fact, may be much more significant.

First: Keep your total calories down because overweight, more than fats — sugars and starches — are readily turned into cholesterol by your body supply. If you are of average weight, stay that way. If you are a little underside or, heaven forbid, fat, start reducing. There's really not much point in worrying about all this cholesterol speculation to weight normal. The purpose of all this cholesterol control diet is to protect your arteries. Being fat may do as much damage — or even do more damage than the mere cholesterol figure. Let's face facts.

Second: It has been observed among seemingly healthy adults that the cholesterol level declines for those who start getting regular exercise. Get it all around and expect diet to do for you what exercise ought to be doing.

I repeat, as I have said in previous columns, the cholesterol picture is by no means settled. Low cholesterol diets may prove to be important, but it is equally possible that other factors may be just as important or even much more so in protecting your arteries — such as exercise and keeping your weight correct.

If I sound a bit testy about this, it is because I am. People who fuss and fret about cholesterol in their food but don't do the things we already know to be important are beginning to problem into little more than a food fad.

Personally, I think the evidence points to cholesterol being of some significance, but it is

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some businesses and industries spend hundreds of thousands of dollars a year on high class advertising and then hire some old crock with a truck and delivery drivers to knock them down for thousands of dollars worth of advertising. In one morning I encountered three instances in Belleville of ridiculously rude and inconsiderate drivers were infuriating not only me but everyone with whom they passed or cut in on or obstructed.

The first was down town, when the delivery car of a fashionable store, a beauty, emblazoned with the name of the firm, came to the end of a line of us, halted for a red intersection, crept along with barely any room between us and the curb, and then robbit-jumped ahead of the leading car so narrowly that we all had to hump on our brakes when the lead car made the sudden stop required. Even the passers-by took a dim view of that delivery car, and the name on it.

On the suburbia, a delivery truck, of a big department store spread across an intersection, raising the hair of thirty or forty other drivers. Out on the highway, giant breweries' trailer truck, with a roar like a lion, broke out of line to pass a stretch of car, and will had to screech to the shoulder when it suddenly had to get back in line.

The advertising department of promising business should be in charge of the selection of driving personnel.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian ers edit 1.14 at 109.47. Gold. Oil stole the show in the opening hour of trading on the stock market today.

A takeover bid by Shell Investments Ltd., announced last night, sparked furious trading in Canadian Oil, as the stock leaped to 56¾—a record price—before easing to 53¾, ahead 6¼ points. The stock churned through more than 40,000 shares.

The Shell bid amounted to about $52.50 a share. Power Corporation, biggest shareholder in Canadian, jumped four points to 70.

Canadian Oil, however, was not the only issue to show unusual action. Canadian Husky climbed 1⅝ to 7⅝ on extra heavy volume. Dominion Bridge dropped to a 1962 low of 16 before reviving to 16½, off 1½.

Industrials were generally stronger, with fractional gains going 4¼ Walker - Gooderham. Aluminium, Imperial Oil, Massey-Ferguson and Shawinigan.

On the exchange index, industrials gained 2.22 to 536.66, base metals .84 at 177.27 and western oils 1.14 at 109.47. Golds dipped .25 to 91.77. By 11 a.m. volume was 691,000 shares compared with 619,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Among base metals, International Nickel rose ¼ and Falconbridge ⅛, United Keno Hill gained ⅛ to 10¼—equal to its 1962 high —despite trading ex-dividend.

On a turnover topping 120,000 shares, the stock climbed to a record 48¾ before settling at 47½, ahead 3½. Power Corporation, largest Canadian Oil shareholder, rose to a 1962 high of 66¼, closing at 66 for a substantial gain.

Fractional gains were widespread across the industrial board.

International Nickel paced base metals, up ¼ to 43¼, which began last week with announcements of a fourth-quarter dividend cutback. The stock advanced 1½ to 60½.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 7-32-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 7-32-31.

Pound sterling stood at $3.01 9-16, unchanged.

Canada May Pay For Indian Atomic Plant

OTTAWA (CP) — India's Finance Minister Morarji R. Desai said Tuesday the Canadian government is considering a loan or grant of $32,000,000 to help India start building a Canadian-designed nuclear plant for production of electricity.

If the aid is forthcoming, he told a press conference, India would be able to start building the plant during its current five-year economic plan instead of waiting until after 1966.

Mr. Desai indicated the power plant was one of several items discussed with Canadian ministers and officials during his two-day visit here on his way home from World Bank meetings in Washington.

The $32,000,000 would cover the foreign exchange cost of the plant to be built in Rajasthan, in northern India. He estimated the total cost at around $100,000,000.

JUSTICE

the commissioner said.

"That's your prerogative," McDermott shrugged.

McDermott said he had never advanced anything like $50,000 over some years to Gardiner, as that grandbaby suggested in an earlier secret session—and said the total would be closer to $5,000.

Like Feeley, he admitted to having a major piece only of three now-defunct operations—the big and prosperous Centre Road Club at nearby Sodom, on which closed this year, and the long-gone Flintab and Riverdale crapsh.ooting clubs in Toronto.

He denied an allegation that he and Feeley had provided police protection at the Riverdale Club for a fee and said that when former Riverside operator Dominic Simone recently came to him for $6,000 or $7,000 to get out of the country rather than go before the commission, he told Simone he would "give him carfare to go and put on his exhibition" at the inquiry.

Simone has not yet testified but has been examined by commission officials and, from the trend of McDermott - Feeley questioning, evidently has claimed that the pair fell down in pr.viding "security" with the result that the club folded after a successful raid.

McDermott was still under examination when the hearing adjourned until today and he rejoined his partner in the Don Jail here, where they await the outcome of an appeal from a conviction last March on a charge of conspiring to obtain gambling raid information from police.

Though fresh from the cells, the portly bald McDermott was dapper in a conservative checked grey suit and matching tie as he talked of gambling, the law, he is a noted curbstone lawyer, the Canadian heritage every citizen has a fundamental right to gamble, his philosophy if gambling is your business, don't gamble; his mining business, he and Feeley face $25,000 stock fraud charges.

"Everybody," he advised the commissioner at one point, "has different ideas of right or wrong. Don't you?"

Mr. Justice Roach, a member of the Ontario Court of Appeal, just looked back frostily.

Feeley for the most part entered his denials of major wrongdoing smoothly and concisely but exploded into volubility when he got on the subject of present Police Chief W. Jack Shrubb of Peterborough, former OPP anti-gambling squad corporal, and OPP Const. George Scott his two other accusers before the commission, and former Const. Robert J. Wright, convicted with him, of Feeley.

His version was that Wright and Scott had badgered him with telephone offers of tipoff information in 1960 but he had merely told Cookeville Club policitor Louis Herman of Toronto and followed his advice to "jolly them along."

He said it was his opinion at the time that the pair had been "brainwashed" about graft and corruption—a view crystallized by Cookeville Club and would go to any lengths to get the club's charter cancelled. He accused Shrubb of planting the "graft and corruption" idea.

"They have brought they were doing the job they were sent out for—a 'cloak-and-dagger investigation," he said.

"I never needed police information and didn't get it," said McDermott, who declared all the information Shrubb said he needed was a club charter and a very strong door.

The Cookeville charter was cancelled after he and Feeley pleaded guilty this year to gaming house charges, McDermott said Tuesday they pleaded guilty because they thought they could not get an impartial jury after more than a year of publicity over the conspiracy charges.

McDermott's claim that great numbers of other gambling clubs exist came when he denied—as Feeley had done previously—planning with the OPP organization had to a successful raid on the old Rameo Club at Niagara Falls, Ont.

He said he had been bothered by competition from other clubs. Back in the liberal days of the 1930s, Ontario had lots of clubs and they thrived, and 30-34 police worked under a current Conservative regime.

"Clubs sprung all over the country—have them," McDermott said. The Chinese community had "lots".

SAYS NO CONNECTION

Besides disclaiming any connection with a rival of the Rameo Club, Canterbury Realties in Township—McDermott also denied any connection with the Tiadale at Peterborough and the Parkdale at St. Catharines, all of which have been described as under the Feeley-McDermott tentacles in cob degree or another.

Like his partner, McDermott was questioned through the curious any long list of police, law enforcement officers and politicians' names, showing any illicit hookups with one and all.

The only influence he might have tried to bring to bear on any of them, he explained, was that of "due process of law," Road Club at nearby Sodom, which closed this year, and the long-gone Flintab and Riverdale crapsh.ooting clubs in Toronto.

He denied an allegation that he and Feeley had provided police protection at the Riverdale Club for a fee and said that when former Riverside operator Dominic Simone recently came to him for $6,000 or $7,000 to get out of the country rather than go before the commission, he told Simone he would "give him carfare to go and put on his exhibition" at the inquiry.

Like his partner, McDermott was questioned through the curious any long list of police, law enforcement officers and politicians' names, showing any illicit hookups with one and all.

The only influence he might have tried to bring to bear on any of them, he explained, was that of "due process of law."

Specifically, he had never been in a business venture jointly with the late mines minister James Maloney — mentioned frequently in earlier evidence as an associate of the gambling pair — and Mr. Maloney had never obtained any stock in Feeley - McDermott companies.

He never knew OPP Insp. Allan Stringer of Peterborough, who had denied tipoff suggestions, and he had only one brief meeting with OPP Commissioner James Bartlett, who also has denied reports of payoffs.

RECEPTION CHILLY

McDermott said he had been "embarrassed" at a chilly reception from Bartlett when Feeley took him along in an attempt to get the OPP official to use influence to get the gamblers a service station licence on Highway 400.

Bartlett has told the commission that $1,000 turned up in a flowerpot at his home after the meeting and he sent it to Feeley by gambling intermediaries.

McDermott denied Tuesday—as Feeley has — any knowledge of the $1,000.

Like Feeley again, he knew nothing of reports relayed to the commission that he had —that Deputy Attorney-General W. B. Common had been on the underworld payroll. The deputy has denied it.

McDermott followed the example of his partner, too, in expressing regret that a couple of jailed gamblers are not around now to explain points of interest to the commission.

Leo Finnigan, Curly Gardiner's partner in the Roseland Club, who died recently, could have cleared up a couple of questions suggesting, on their face, that McDermott had more than an academic interest in the Roseland.

McDermott had paid the lawyers for the club's defence, but said it was out of money. that Finnigan had given him to hold after the club's collapse. Some $5,000 or $7,000 of this fund had been used to pay off a mortgage on Finnigan's home. Finnigan wanted the balance given to the widow, he payer because he didn't want his partner to know he had the money and also figured Gardiner was more likely to repay McDermott.

McDermott also denied evidence by two lawyers before the commission concerning the role he played in the unsuccessful Finnigan-Gardiner defence.

His present counsel, Walton Rose of Toronto, has testified he believed it was McDermott who set up a meeting between Rose and Sol Jack Hatch of the OPP at Windsor — now head of the anti-gambling squad — at which if Hatch was buying anti-Rosel.and testimony out of a "slush fund."

"He believes wrong — he made a mistake — about me," the gambler said.

Lawyer Harold Humphrey had described McDermott as "master of ceremonies" at a Detroit meeting at which strategy including that included Detroit gambling boss Billy Giacalone, but McDermott observed that "Dave had quite a vivid imagination" and denied part of it.

"I don't know how he Giacalone happened to sit in," McDermott said drily.

According to earlier testimony, Detroit underworld interests owned a large slice of the Rosoland operation.

REPUTATIONS BANDIED

Another dead gambler brought in Tuesday was Sam Silverstein of Niagara Falls, whom McDermott said gave him and Feeley the use of a supposedly secret subscriber Toronto telephone number, whose records were subsequently uncovered by the OPP.

McDermott said some of the calls found on the records, which doubtedly could be explained by Gimzie, whom he also tickled as the principal of Niagara Falls arena gambling clubs hitherto believed to be under McDermott — Feeley control.

McDermott came to the defence of a Toronto lawyer and beauty Port Credit — John Grunin, 47, who for several years ago as head of the anti-gambling squad after accumulating $500,000 in what the officer called legitimate savings.

McDermott described Cronin, another suspected tipoff as a "clean-hearted" and dedicated".

"When he pinched you, you knew you were pinched," the gambler said. "He's the only one who ever pinched Cookeville".

OSD Teachers Taken On Tour of the City

Teachers from the Ontario School for the Deaf went on a get-acquainted tour of the city yesterday, taking in various points of interest and winding up with a tour of the Northern Electric plant.

Bill McKay, announcer of the popular "Country Junction" show on CJBQ, is a popular attraction on Front St., Belleville, as he broadcasts his show from the front window of Rolf's camera shop, while the CJBQ studios are being renovated.

Banners outside Rolf's camera store, on Front St., Belleville, discreetly hint that radio station CJBQ is operating from the store, while its Victoria Ave. studios are being renovated. The radio on a stand outside the store provides onlookers with the shows, as they are being broadcast from inside.

People Who Work in Glass Houses Just Have to Expect Spectators

Radio station CJBQ's temporary studio in the window of Rolf's camera store, operated Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, is attracting crowds to the store, but is also providing some problems. Most of the people who come are to be watched by the announcers, have to buy cameras, records, or films, or are on tap during broadcasting tours. Sometimes the regular customers find themselves crowded.

The radio operation is complete with a telepye machine, connected through the station to a news bureau in Toronto, record players, and the staff required to run the studio. An intercommunication system connects the staff at the store with the staff at the radio station, on Victoria Ave.

The downtown merchants are taking advantage of the event with special bulletins and sales. At Rolf's, free records are being given away during the evenings, and free refreshments are on tap during broadcasting hours.

Joseph Berglas Named Rabbi Of Synagogue

The Sons of Jacob Congregation in Belleville Ont. has announced the appointment of Rabbi Joseph Berglas as Rabbi and Hebrew Teacher. Rabbi Berglas comes here after a rich and rewarding career.

Rabbi Joseph Berglas was born in Krakow, Poland, where he received his Rabbinical Seminary. He also attended a theological rabbinical seminary in Brooklyn, New York where he renewed his license as a Rabbi. He attended the Hebrew Teachers Seminary in Montreal where he obtained a diploma as a Hebrew teacher. During the years in Canada he served for five years as Jewish education and has participated for five years in Hebrew Summer Seminars where he learned the new ways of teaching modern Hebrew. He was also active in congregational spiritual leading.

During World War II, he was attached to the British 8th Army. With it, he saw active service at Dunkirk, Africa, the Middle East, and Europe. During this period he visited the then Palestine. He was also in Norway for five years.

After returning to Poland at the conclusion of the war and finding no chance of his safety, Rabbi Berglas, together with his wife, Sylvia, settled in Australia, where he served as Rabbi, Cantor and Hebrew Teacher.

Rabbi Berglas is the possessor of a beautiful tenor voice trained under masters of music in Montreal and New York.

AUTOGLOCKENPOLYPHON

LONDON (CP)—Artist Bruce Angrave has bought an autoglockenpolyphon. His description of it is "an automatic polyphon with glockenspiel attachment." In fact, it is a Victorian juke box which changes its own steel records.

CIM

(Certificate of Industrial Management)

The Canadian Industrial Management Association

in carrying out their primary objective (Education in Industry) offers a four-year course in Industrial Management leading the successful student to a Certificate in Industrial Management and the designation C.I.M. This is an educational program carrying both Dominion and Provincial Charter and administered and supported by several universities.

The course is designed to give students a broad knowledge of management techniques and enable them to see in perspective the various major fields of responsibility in an industrial organization.

COURSE OUTLINE

Section I — Production Organization and Planning

This year covers the fundamental areas of the business enterprise and includes discussion on:

Business Systems — Planning and Procedures — Organization for Material Control — Planning Purchasing — Equipment Replacement — Industrial Statistics

Section II

(A) Industrial Engineering

A sound background, at an appreciation level, is given in:

Operating Analysis — Work Simplification — Work Measurement — Time Study — Pre-Determined Elemental Times — Work Sampling — Incentive Systems

(B) Labor Relations

Industrial Relations, Personnel Administration, Union Relations, Communications and Public Relations are covered in this section.

Section III

(A) Accounting and Finance

This section is designed to provide a fundamental appreciation of accounting procedures, both general and cost accounting, and budgeting are dealth with to enable the student to understand the function of accounting in industry.

(B) Marketing

This section includes discussion in Advertising, Market Analysis, Product Design, Manufacturing Planning and Public Relations.

Section IV — Administrative Practice and Policy

This section is conducted by using the "Case Study" technique, the cases used being on a post-graduate level. This section culminates the previous studies of the student and provides an environment in which they can learn much from the experience of other students and develop their own powers of self expression.

Enrollment

Enrollment is restricted to persons over 25 years holding a supervisory or staff position within industry. Further enquiries may be made to:

College Hill Wedding Ring Club Enjoys Fine Meeting

The Wedding Ring Club of College Hill United Church began its fall season on Monday evening at the church hall with the president, Monty Moorcroft, presiding.

Boyd Moorcroft, secretary, read the previous meeting report and June Gray gave an encouraging treasurer's report, while Evelyn McIlquham, convener of the June strawberry social, reported a substantial profit.

The hockey team committee did not present a report as they had not sufficiently discussed the project, but will report at a later date, if possible.

Plans were started for entertaining the elderly residents at the County Home. It was suggested that each group provide a number for the program, while the men will provide several numbers.

Several volunteers were also heard and the project should be a good endeavor on behalf of the group.

NAME CARDS

The secretary stated that if name cards were left with him he would attend to the distribution of same at each meeting of same at each members' identification.

Some discussion on a sick call committee and flower gifts also took place, but decision was held over until a later date.

The president stated the United Church Married Couples Club fall rally would be held at Tweed on November 25th, this year and that he would provide more data when they were sent to him.

Social activities for the Club were discussed by the social conveners, John and Millie Townsend. A suggestion box will be prominently placed at each meeting where members may place all and any ideas for the activities suggested, and they will be reviewed by the conveners and accepted or rejected by the Club at future meetings. All suggestions must be signed by the couples placing them.

A rule was also passed for all meetings to begin at 8.15 sharp and be closed at 10.30 p.m. Also a motion regarding lunches was made by a member which was accepted.

DEVOTIONAL PERIOD

Leaders of group 1, Carman Sine and Doris Sine, were in charge of the devotional period and of the evening's entertainment. Doris opened the devotional and Millie Townsend read the Scripture on the "Good Shepherd." Don Dafoe led in prayer for all, especially for the married couples and their families. Carman Sine gave the theme, under the title, "Brothers All." He told about a missionary, James Stuart, a Scottish farmer, who had left his furrows when he felt he must teach others in Africa.

The missionary had many setbacks and disappointments but managed to provide beauty and education for a school in an otherwise barren section of land. He became the "Great White Father" to many tribes and Africans and helped them to become worthy followers of the Good Shepherd. "All of these," said the speaker, "are brothers, no matter what the color of the skin, or features, all are brothers."

BIBLE STUDY

The Bible study was conducted by the leader, Carman Sine, which showed much thought given to the topic, and the teachings of Jesus. "What do we expect from Him? What He can do for us, remembering as He said, "that we must love our neighbor as our self, and find indeed that God is love."

The program was presented with John "Mitch" Townsend, hilariously attired as the famous TV leader, complete with moustache and beard, with the club's own "Liberace", Bill McIlquham, at the piano. A sing-along-with-John evening was much enjoyed by the group.

The men entertained the ladies with "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," with a lone male having a penalty request solo. The women sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and several of the old and not-so-old numbers were enjoyed by all.

PIE RELAY

A pie plate relay race provided some excitement, the winning team being that of June Gray and Lewis McMullin, as leaders.

Appreciation of the group was extended to Evelyn McIlquham for this part of the evening's entertainment.

Refreshments were served by Group 4 in buffet style, and a hearty social hour enjoyed.

Many thanks are due for the relaxing and entertaining evening to Group 1, tendered by the Wedding Ring Club.

H-S Council To Present 3-Part Course

A Home and School in Action—three part course will be presented by Belleville and District Home and School Council at Bayview School, Dundas Street East, just east of Farley Avenue, Belleville, on September 27th — "The Why" on October 4th—"The What" and on October 11th "The How."

The course is for presidents, vice-presidents, future presidents and all who require leadership training skills. All the sessions will begin 7.30 to 10 p.m. at the same location.

On September 27th, Mrs. Robert Jones will be chairman with guest speaker, Mrs. L. Courtice, past area vice-president of Ontario Federation, with the topic "The Real Purpose of Home and School and Organization."

On October 4, the topic will be "Administration and Policies," presented by Mr. Don Maddocks, community programs branch, Department of Education, by film and discussion groups. The chairman will be Mrs. B. Stenson.

On October 11, "Programming," the chairman will be Mrs. A. J. Fort, assisted by Area "C" vice-president, Mrs. A. R. Gariepy, of Peterborough.

At all sessions there will be an excellent display of publications of benefit.

In all associations there is a great need for trained leaders, and it is the purpose of this course to try to do just that so it could be of help to many who are not only workers in Home and School and all are invited to be present, participate and profit on all or any of these three dates.

VON Gives June, July August Report

The opening fall meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held recently at the YMCA with Mr. Frank Follwell in the chair.

The secretary, Miss I. Burnside, read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were adopted. The treasurer's report followed, given by Mr. K. Mc-Donald.

Mr. Follwell stated that he had received pledge cards from the United Appeal to enable board members to donate through the board. The donation should be indicated on the card by September 30. Everyone was urged to support the efforts of the United Appeal.

Miss Dorothy Conner advised the board that she had attended a publicity meeting of the United Appeal, at which she had heard particulars of the forthcoming parade to be held on September 29. The Victorian Order of Nurses will endeavor to have their three cars in this parade. Miss Conner also stated that the campaign begins on October 1 and each agency is to handle its own publicity. A rally to be held on September 26 should be attended.

NURSE'S REPORT

Miss D. Connor, head nurse, presented her report for the months of June, July and August. A total of 164 patients were under V.O.N. care. The nurses made a total of 1,261 home visits. Seventy-seven percent of the visits were nursing care visits to medical and surgical patients, the chronically ill and the aged. The remaining 23 percent of the visits was for nursing care and health instruction to mothers and babies. In June, a total of five half-days were spent in special activities, which consisted of two half-days at Douglas Allan School, and three half-days at Canniton-Centreville School.

Support the V.O.N. by supporting the United Appeal.

A $25 scholarship will again be awarded by the chapter to a BCI girl leaving Grade 12 to continue her education.

Mrs. Dorothy Whitman, chairman of the Service Committee, read a letter from the Cystic Fibrosis Society of Kingston and area, asking for a contribution to this Society. It was decided that when possible a donation be made to this organization.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostesses bringing the evening to a close.

Gamma Mu To Give $25 Award

On Tuesday evening Gamma Mu Sorority held its first cultural program of the year. Mrs. Doreen Greer presented an interesting and thought-provoking talk on "Happiness." This talk was followed by a discussion period with all the members actively taking part.

The meeting was held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Black. Mrs. Allaneen Murray and Mrs. Helen Woodland acted as cohostesses for the evening.

During the business meeting Mrs. Robin Jeffrey, president of Gamma Mu, announced that

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

PLEASURES AND PITFALLS OF THE THEATRE

The theatre take on added drama in the fall.

The brisk air makes it more bearable to stand in line to buy tickets. Then there's the added stimulation when theatre night rolls around following seats in a fashionably dressed audience and waiting for the curtain to rise amid murmurs of expectation and subdued excitement.

Finally, the curtain goes up and the great moment arrives — along with a battalion of thoughtless theatregoers who come in late and cause those around them to lose all sense of the expedition as the tardy ones find, and get settled in their seats.

Although curtain time is clearly posted in newspapers and on tickets, many playgoers still insist on arriving after the first act starts in the mistaken notion that they'll miss any crush at the doors. Some producers have tried in the past to retaliate by refusing to seat late arrivals until after the first act. It was a good try, but some die-hards still prefer to arrive in their own good time — instead of at a time that is for the good of all.

When going to the theatre, it's just common courtesy to arrive before curtain time so that the seat-banging and program-rattling will be over before the play starts. Ticket-holders whose seats are well in the middle of the aisle have even more of an obligation to be on time, so they won't force others to rise while the action is going on and obstruct the view of those behind.

Another good reason for being punctual is to have enough time to remove wraps and get them properly settled. A woman may wiggle out of her coat and gather it neatly around her, but it shouldn't be allowed to flap over on others in adjoining seats, nor should the collar be allowed to drift onto the lap of the spectator in back. Getting settled takes a few minutes of manoeuvring. It can be a nerve-wracking few minutes for other spectators when done during the all-important first scene.

If a woman wears a hat other than a tiny theatre hat that doesn't cut off a view of the stage, it's considerate to remove it before anyone has to make a special request. During the days of the high-and-wide haleds, with its severely-leased fullness, many theatregoers were tempted to ask exponents of the style to remove their heads as well. Now that coiffures have settled back into a more relaxed contour, playgoing should be a little more relaxed, as well.

Aside from arriving early, playgoers can show considerate-ation for those onstage and off in several other ways. Talking — and even whispering — carries far in a silent house. Discussion of the play and the acting should be confined to the outer lobby, during intermissions.

Waving and greeting friends is also taboo within the darkened confines of a theatre. Coughing and sneezing, of course, are spur-of-the-moment distractions beyond the control of even the most dedicated drama-lover. If an attack is prolonged, though, a nasty retreat to the rear of the theatre until it subsides might very well save the play for those on both sides of the footlights.

BCIVS H-S To Hold School Day Schedule

On Monday evening, October 1st in the auditorium of BCIVS the Home and School Association invites parents of the school to a program of "A Parent's Eyeview of a Regular School Day Schedule."

Beginning with assembly in the auditorium and then proceeding, for five minute periods with the students' teachers, just as your student does on his Wednesday time-table. The purpose is not to have interviews with teachers, but rather, the teacher will explain the courses taught and a few pertinent facts about activities in the particular subject.

Lunch hour will be observed half-way through by parents going to the cafeteria for coffee, then proceeding on with the afternoon scheduled subjects, this covering the full time-table for Wednesdays.

This should be of interest to all parents and they are urged to avail themselves of this excellent opportunity to become acquainted with the teachers.

Since this will involve the whole teaching staff it is hoped the Home and School Executive, whole heartedly and come out to support them and the Home and School Association and meet with your fellow parents.

The executive of BCIVS Home and School Association extends a special invitation to all parents of grades 9 and 10 to avail themselves of this chance to acquaint themselves with the school and its teachers.

It is essential for parents to bring along a copy of their student's Wednesday time - table and to be sure to know his grade such as 9A or 9B, C, D, to be present in the right room.

U.C.W. Meetings

WOOLER U.C.W.

WOOLER — The September meeting of Unit 2 of the Wooler United Church Women was held on the evening of September 18th in the church basement.

The president, Mrs. J. Paisam, opened the meeting with a verse of Scripture taken from the 34th Psalm.

"Faith" was the theme for the worship led by Mrs. William McColl assisted by Mrs. J. Dorland.

Mrs. J. MacCallum introduced the new study book, "The Word and the Way," with an interesting review of the chapters.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. McColl.

Following the business, lunch was served by Mrs. R. Putnam and the ladies enjoyed a social hour.

SLOW MOVEMENT

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The latest dance craze in Europe, especially Italy, is the Madison, says European singing idol Vico Torriano. Here for a one-night appearance, the 42-year-old Swiss-born singer said the dance is "like a slow twist."

Seneglese Guide Wanted To Buy Pretty Montreal Student for His Wife

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — "How much is that woman? I would like to buy her for a wife," said the Senegalese guide when he met Michele Jodoin.

"I don't know if he was joking or not," laughed the attractive young Montrealer, who has returned to Canada from a year of studying in Senegal, French West Africa. "Most Africans are quite well informed now about the customs of whites."

Michele, 23-year-old student of geography and graduate of the University of Montreal, was the only Canadian studying at the university of Dakar and the first Canadian to win a scholarship from the French government to study in Senegal. She was doing research for her master's thesis on economic geography in an underdeveloped country.

"Senegal is a country where students have a soft life," said the brown-eyed scholar. "Most are guaranteed scholarships, because who haven't got them can live and study for 500 a month."

MAMBO AND SAMBA

She was particularly struck by the heavy - going life there. "The young people danced and danced. They seemed to spend all their spare time doing the mambo, the samba and the cha-cha-cha."

But the modern, bustling city of Dakar indicated that the people of the new republic were doing other things besides dancing. Senegal is at an interesting stage in economic development. Michele explained, because it is breaking away from a "mono - economy" based on the export of peanuts and their by - products. The Senegalese were striving to diversify their economy.

Now they want to look somewhere else for industry other than France and peanuts," she said.

She toured Ghana and Nigeria during her summer holidays to ge material. Once in Ghana she visited an all-Afric can hotel where the staff was so surprised to see a white woman they stood at attention and called her "sir."

Not many women are attending the University of Dakar, she said. Consequently African male students often married French girls because African girls with the equivalent education were rare.

MARRIAGE PROBLEM

One of the biggest social problems in Senegal now was that of young African girls who did not want to marry because most eligible bachelors with steady income were "old men." Many of them went to cities and became prostitutes for this reason.

Michele rode camels, tasted monkey and snake meat, and rode through jungles and deserts in trucks in her travels through Africa. But what she misses most about the dark continent is the heat. "I'm happiest when the temperature is 100 degrees," she said. The natives were amazed when she came out at noon to play tenhis, when they were sleeping to escape the heat.

She enjoyed her stay in Africa so much that she hopes to return some day—to work. She wants to specialize in regional planning in an underdeveloped country.

This year she will complete her master's degree in Canada with the help of a Quebec Government grant.

WEDDINGS

PHILLIPS—JAQUES

ST. OLA—Mr. and Mrs. Kennard Carman Phillips are honeymooning in Vermont, and the New England States following their wedding on September 15th, at Marlboro United Church. When they return they will reside at Brantford, Ont.

Peau de soie fashioned the floor - length gown which gracefully swept to a chapel train. A gathered pouff with two large self flowers accented the back of the bouffant skirt.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jacques of 94 Strathcona Avenue, are parents of the bride, the former Miss Betty Joyce Jacques. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips of Steenburg, Ont.

The Rev. Morris Sellars solemnized the afternoon rites.

Wearing identical street length, rust colored frocks, styled with bell skirts, were the maid of honor, Miss Kaye Park, and bridesmaids Miss Ola Phillips and Miss Faye Catherwood.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. J. Phillips as best man, and Mr. Douglas Hudgins and Mr. Ben Carrol. Mr. Tommy Catherwood, of Brantford, and Mr. Clyde VanAllen of Belleville, were ushers.

For the reception at Holel Kerby guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a mink trimmed beige sheath dress. The bridesmother chose a brown sheath frock.

A black double knit suit with white pillbox feather hat, red shoes and a corsage of red roses was the bride's going away ensemble.

Showers were given by Mrs. Douglas Nolan, Mrs. Kenneth Moore and Miss Velma Carrol, also a personal shower by Mrs. Ted Catherwood and Miss Faye Catherwood. The administrative staff at the Brantford General Hospital presented a gift to the bride. Mrs. Ken Moore entertained at the rehearsal party.

The couple returned to St. Ola on Friday where a reception dance was given by the bridegroom's parents at St. Ola Orange hall.

Many lovely gifts were received and the happy couple returned to Brantford on Saturday.

FOST — BIRD

MARMORA—A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 16th, 1962, in Marmora Free Methodist Church, when Carolyn Joan Bird, graduate nurse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bird, of Marmora Township, was united in marriage to Vello Fost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrik Fost, of Toronto.

The Rev. P. O. Miller, recently retired minister of the Marmora Free Methodist charge performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Harry Mawer played the traditional wedding music and the soloist was Edna Healey, singing "The Wedding Prayer," preceding the ceremony, and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her floor-length gown of white peau de sole fashioned with fitted bodice with long pointed sleeves. The high neckline and skirt were enhanced with medallions of opalescent sequins and pearls.

A tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones held her finger-tip veil of silk illusion net, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and maidenhair fern.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Audrey Bird, and bridesmaids were Misses Beverley Bourne, and Rosemary Brook. All three were identically dressed in powder blue organza over taffeta featuring boleros full skirts and wide cummerbunds. They wore headdresses of roses to match their gowns, white shoes and gloves and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Anthony Lee attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Messrs. Morley Chard and William Gosling.

A reception was held at the bride's parents' home where the guests were received by Mrs. Bird, who wore teal blue crepe with rose accessories. The groom's mother was in powder blue brocaded taffeta. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

For their wedding trip to Quebec City, the bride chose a sheath dress in robin blue with a jacket featuring three-quarter length sleeves with brown accessories and corsage of white carnations.

On their return, they will reside at 30A Laurie Avenue, Scarborough, Ontario.

R.M.T. Hear Talk on CJBQ Radio Station

The regular meeting of the Registered Music Teachers Association was held at the home of Mrs. G. S. Martin, 33 Southview. The president, Sister Mary Avila, was in the chair.

During the business portion of the meeting, the minutes of the annual meeting were read and the annual treasurer's report given.

Sister Mary Avila introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Frank Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ, in his interesting talk about the radio station, he touched on subjects such as programming, and program structure, P.M. broadcasting, the responsibility and participation of the staff and future plans for radio station CJBQ's broadcasting.

Beginning in October CJBQ will have a basic affiliation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and will be carrying such programs as CBC "Wednesday Night," National Hockey and CBC "Stage".

Mr. Murray was thanked for his interesting talk by Miss Woodard, after which there was an open discussion regarding the "Scholarship Series," a radio program and piano students which was introduced by Mr. Murray, not only for the encouragement of young pianists, but also to discover exceptionally talented students.

A social hour followed the meeting, during which time there was a draw for an L.P. record, which was donated by Mr. Murray and won by Mrs. G. H. Reonie.

Sister Mary Avila thanked the hostess for a lovely lunch and an enjoyable evening.

Cross-Canada Survey

Canadian Women Adopt Double Knits, Light Souffle Wools, Luxurious Tweeds

By PATRICIA RUSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Casual, conservative and covered up is the way fashionable Canadian women will look in the coming fall and winter months.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates that women have adopted the free-loading but closely-cut allsweater as emphasized again this season by fashion-setters in Paris and New York.

And, as in international salons, Canadian women have turned from the customary frantic search for unusual designs to a concern for quality of fabric.

Tops in popularity are double knits, light souffle wools and luxurious tweeds.

Tweed will even be worn to cocktail parties, say fashion consultants at Robert Simpson Company. For example, a brown tweed suit worn with a scarf and large satchel bag during the day can be dressed up for evening with bronze patent leather shoes, a large pin and a bronze beaded bag.

FUR IS EVERYWHERE

Fur is flying high in Canadian fashion. It's being used for everything from hats to coat linings and trimmings on the new knee-high winter boots.

"It's the biggest fur trim season in 30 years," says Mrs. Mary Kosalle, Ottawa fashion expert. In the capital practically every major store has windows filled with fur-trimmed coats.

Women are "nuts" about fur, says Mrs. Claude Vancer, fashion co-ordinator of a Quebec City department store where about 80 per cent of the coats sold are fur-trimmed.

Mink, Canadian beaver, and Persian lamb are the most popular trims but fox, seal and many types of synthetic fur are also in demand.

Dresses and suits, as well as coats, will be trimmed with fur or will be worn with scarves, hoods or stoles for the covered-up or muffled look.

LEATHER FOR TRIM

Leather and suede are also popular trims, and in some centres suits made entirely of leather or suede are being shown.

Almost anything goes in millinery — berets, wide-brimmed cloches, bowlers, top hats, turbans, skullcaps, pillboxes. Hat materials include feathers, velvet and fur.

In Canadian show fashions there is a preference for lower, illusion or stacked heels for day time wear although high slim heels are still most popular in dance stiffes, such as Halifax and Vancouver.

Crescent, pointed and squared shoes vary in popularity from city to city. Crescent toes are most popular in Winnipeg. In Regina the triple-cordia toe is the fashion leader. Square toes are favored in Vancouver but have almost been completely rejected by women in St. John's, Nfld., and Halifax.

Color preferences vary. Red and black are popular in Halifax. Brown with related shades of gold, beige, bronze and rust are seen most often in St. John's, Ottawa, Toronto and Regina. In Quebec City dark brown and black are favorites with grey and red increasing in popularity.

COMBINE COLORS

Color combinations are catching on in Vancouver. Black will be combined most often with brown, and combinations of camel, grey, beige and brown will be available.

Some other regional preferences:

Toronto — Leather and suede trims on everything, with even suits and dresses made entirely of suede.

St. John's—Two piece double-knit dresses with full skirts.

Regina — Double-knit, three-piece ensembles.

Winnipeg—Closely fitted fur fronts.

Edmonton — Black coats trimmed with mink.

ARREST NEGROES

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Southern Rhodesian police Tuesday pressed ahead with a mammoth security drive that has brought the arrest of 1,094 Negroes and the restriction of another 192 in the last six days. The drive was launched following the banning of the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, the main Negro nationalist party in this self-governing British colony which has been hit by a new wave of anti-government violence.

U.C.W. Meetings

CANNIFTON U.C.W.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Church Women's Evening Group of Cannifton Church was held on September 24th in the church. The meeting opened by singing "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling" followed by prayer led by Vera Mitchell, who welcomed the new members.

Gladys Brenton gave the treasurer's report and Joy Putman the card and flowers report and it was decided to have a variety table at the Afternoon Group's bazaar to be held in October.

Vera Mitchell gave the introduction to "The Word and the Way" and suggested that some of the groups might use it for their worship service at later meetings.

Doris Pound took roll call, with 20 present.

Ruth Boyce brought a birthday box, and suggested that those who had had a birthday recently put something in the box. She then gave each of the ladies, who had had a birthday a small gift.

The worship period opened with singing the first three verses of "Jesus Shall Reign".

Gladys Brenton read the Scripture and led in prayer and Dorothy Dawson took the study book and gave an interesting resume of the Book "On the Rim of East Asia".

Margaret Shorey led in prayer for these troubled people.

Dorothy Dawson showed a film "Beyond the Bell", which was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked the group for their splendid program after which lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mother's Helper

WHEN THE WEATHER'S just right and there's sufficient space for a kite party, both you and your youngsters will enjoy it. Kites are inexpensive and easily assembled. Take along extra string, plenty of tail material, a picnic lunch or supper. A spare kite or two is good insurance against early disaster.

The Experts Say

National Ballet School Real Tough on Students

By PATRICIA RUSA K

TORONTO (CP)—Students at the National Ballet School have discovered that aspiring to become a prima ballerina is useless without aptitude for self-discipline and concentration.

Dancing requires total concentration because in every movement, arms, legs and eyes must be co-ordinated with the music and with other steps in a dance or exercise, says school principal Betty Oliphant.

Also students must discipline themselves to be able to handle each day a full academic curriculum, 1½ hours of ballet and extra classes in either history of art and ballet, modern dancing or Dalcroze eurythmics (a method of teaching music by movement).

The National Ballet School, a converted Doric - styled temple in downtown Toronto, is the only school in North America which offers a full academic curriculum from Grade 6 to Grade 12 with ballet instruction.

The disciplines learned through dancing are reflected in the student's academic work and study habits, says Mrs. Frank Hewurth, academic director of the school. "The school's best dancers are usually the best students.

"If the children fall behind in their studies, they have to miss their ballet lesson and there is no worse punishment than this."

MUST WATCH DIET

Students must watch their diets to keep their weight down, do daily warming up exercises, darn the toes of their ballet shoes every week, launder their practice clothes every night and above all "be punctual, thoughtful and considerate," says Miss Oliphant.

"Some day they may be dancing on stage with 24 other people and these things are important.

"And they are never allowed to give up. Even if their legs feel as though they are dropping off, they must finish their exercises."

Freedom in ballet comes only after an iron discipline during which technique becomes a part of a dancer, Miss Oliphant says. "And unless each movement is perfectly learned, a person will never become a good dancer."

Ballet should be taught as a science and can be dangerous if badly taught, Miss Oliphant says. "If the turned-out position of the legs from the hips; on which the five basic ballet positions are based, is not done correctly, cartilage trouble, thick toe joints and a curved back may result."

NOT TOO TALL

The ideal dancer should have a short body, long legs, a long neck, a good instep and would be about five feet, 4½ inches tall.

A girl should not be taller than five feet seven because it is difficult to get partners for tall girls. At present, only five of the school's 66 students, aged 10 to 17, are boys.

Each student's potential is assessed every year and students are taught to be aware of their limitations. "Although they are all aiming high, every one cannot be a swan queen so we try to teach them that dancing in itself can be a joy."

Not all of the students want to dance professionally. One girl hopes to work in stage designing and another would like to become a ballet critic.

And many students who have dramatic ability are channelled to play ballet character roles, Miss Oliphant says.

HELPED PRISONERS — Mrs. Lajos Banfalvi, who smuggled food and medical supplies to Allied prisoners in Japanese concentration camps during the Second World War, checks honor roll of the Canadian Legion Branch at Kitchener, Ont., with secretary Harold Gellatly. Mrs. Banfalvi, now 49, posed as an Irish national while living in Hong Kong during the occupation and helped many prisoners escape. She now is living at Kitchener. (CP Photo)

Darling of Hong Kong Society Wants to Help

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Lajos Banfalvi, darling of Hong Kong society before the Second World War, during which she secretly aided Allied prisoners of war, has been trying to find "some way I can be useful . . . in this wonderful country" since she moved here recently.

Credited with saving the lives of hundreds of Canadians during the war, Mrs. Lajos—then Mrs. Ellen Field—was known as "the shadow" to about 10,000 prisoners interned by the Japanese in Hong Kong.

"The shadow" slipped silently about Hong Kong, smuggling food and medical supplies into the POW camps, where her father and husband also were interned.

For nearly four years, with help from a Hong Kong medical officer and a Japanese officer who was a Lutheran minister, she carried on her secret activities. She helped many escaped prisoners toward the "Rice Route" to Chunking.

Mrs. Banfalvi herself escaped confinement in a prison camp following Hong Kong's surrender by burning her passport and claiming to be Irish (only Allied nationals were interned).

Before the war broke out, Ellen Field, wife of a British ship engineer, and their three daughters enjoyed the pampered life of the British colony.

Her first reaction to Japanese bombing of Hong Kong was outrage: "Like most Europeans in the Far East, I had always thought of the Japanese as an inoffensive, obsequious race. It was not easy to accept the idea that they might dare invade a British colony."

FLEES HONG KONG

After the Allies surrendered in Hong Kong, they were despised by the Japanese who insulted, beat and starved them in the camps, she said. Some 90 per cent of the prisoners died.

Just before Japan surrendered in 1945, she learned that the Japanese had discovered her activities and so fled with her daughters to the Portuguese colony of Macao.

After she was reunited with her husband and father a few days later, the family moved to San Francisco for four years, and then back to Hong Kong.

In 1950, Ellen wrote the story of her four war years, Twilight in Hong Kong, which is displayed next to Churchill's memoirs in London's Imperial War Museum.

A few weeks ago, the 49-year-old grandmother married Hungarian-born Lajos Banfalvi and moved to Kitchener. Her husband works as a precision tool maker in nearby New Hamburg. Now she is looking for a job.

Public Schools H-S Opens Fall Season

MARMORA — The Marmora Home and School Association of the public schools, held its first meeting of the fall term on Wednesday evening when a banquet was tendered the graduating class of 23 students, in St. Andrew's Upper Room.

Mr. Vaughan Glover presented them with diplomas and ladies of the Home and School pinned on each a corsage or boutonniere.

Following the banquet they were addressed by Mr. George Waldrum, who later spoke to the Home and School meeting on "Child Delinquency."

He was introduced by Mr. V. Glover and Mrs. J. R. Barker voiced the appreciation of the assembly. The new president of H-S, Mrs. Allan Wells, presided throughout the evening.

"WHERE FASHION COSTS LESS"

New Fruit Breads

by Mary Moore

The atmosphere in our kitchen was holidayish when we were baking this batch of fruit bread. I think we were glad to get away from typewriters because it turned warm so we were working in shorts which we thought had been put away for next summer.

I have three fruit breads for you and I do not know which one is best. They are all good. They are all different from those you have been making recently.

These keep and freeze well.

ORANGE BREAD

½ lb to ¾ cup orange rind, grated and shredded (see below), (about 4 large oranges), 1½ cups granulated sugar, cup water, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1¼ cups orange juice (see below) 2 eggs, well beaten, 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt.

Wash oranges and dry them. Grate rind on grater of 2 cd them. Shred rind on ¾" shredder from the other 2 oranges. Combine sugar and water; add grated and shredded rind; stir over heat until sugar is dissolved; cook slowly 5 minutes. (The peel and syrup should measure about 1¼ cups.) Remove from heat. Add butter or margarine; stir until melted. Cut oranges, from which you have grated and shedded rind, in halves and squeeze out juice. You should have 1¼ cups. Add orange juice and beaten eggs to syrup mixture. Sift and measure into mixing bowl flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add orange mixture and mix just enough to moisten ingredients. (Batter will be quite little bit lumpy.) Turn into a wax-paper-lined and greased 9 x 5 x 3" loaf pan (standard size). Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour and 10 minutes. Turn out on rack to cool.

See tomorrow for Fruit and Nut Loaf and Orange Molasses Bread.

Star of Bolshoi Ballet Happily Married Woman

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—She's the star of the Bolshoi Ballet and audiences go wild over her.

Her private life makes her just as happy. Married to a talented young composer for five years, she can't imagine what could make them quarrel.

What's there, left for her to wish for?

And she wants something new, something that's never been performed before, created for her.

Undoubtedly the first will happen in time: and why can't her husband, Rodin Schedrin, bring about the second?

"My husband can write excellent music, but I cannot find a Libretto."

NOT PARTNERS

She explained their happy relationship: "If he were a partner, for instance, there would always be something, such as, he didn't hold me up properly. This way, he composes and I dance, we compliment each other."

They're together most of the time. In Russia he's with her in the theatre or at their home outside Moscow. Here in New York, where the ballet company appeared before starting a cross-country tour, the couple can be found most late afternoons sitting unnoticed in their hotel bar, sharing a beer.

But if the ballerina were to need more company, she has plenty of family around. Her two brothers are dancers in the company and her uncle is the famous choreographer and ballet master Asaf Messerer. She comes from a well-known theatrical family and her mother a motion picture actress, is still active in Moscow.

Maya Plisetskya, who's been dancing since she was nine, dazzles audiences with regal beauty, incredible grace and dramatic intensity. But away from the stage she has a placid, well-scrubbed look that belies out her reputation for being one of the most even-tempered in the business.

Although she's in her mid 30s and is witty in her native language, she looked for all the world like a good-natured young girl who might find the big girls' table full for her.

Then Plisetskaya the great artist began to talk:

"After a Highly emotional performance I don't come out of the theatre. I leave me alone on the stage forever. I lose a part of myself each time."

Before a ballet she goes through the whole performance in her head while she's resting in bed.

"After an important performance I can't sleep until it starts again. Again and again I see the ballet in my brain and I can't sleep until it works itself out of my system."

Belleville F.W.T.O. Holds Dinner Meet

On Tuesday evening, the Belleville branch of the Federation of Women Teachers of Ontario, held the first dinner meeting of the current season, with 90 members in attendance.

The assembly gathered together under the presidency of Mrs. Irene Phillips, to welcome new members into the group. Elected staff representatives from each school in the city introduced newcomers to F.W.T.A.O. A hearty welcome was extended to all.

The president offered greetings to a number of retired teachers who were present using how listening it was to see them at Federation meetings.

Entertainment after dinner, in the form of delightful songs, rendered by Mrs Margaret Hillis (accompanied by Mrs C. Neale) was appreciated by the gathering.

A short business meeting followed, with discussion centring around the coming season's activities. Election of Mrs. H. Calnan as first vice-president and Mrs. J. Sine second vice-president followed, after which adjournment of the meeting was called.

U.C.W. Meetings

SCOTT'S U.C.W.

6TH SIDNEY — Twelve members and one visitor met at the home of Mrs. Earl Dafoe for the September meeting on Thursday evening of Scott's U.C.W. The president, Mrs. Carman Frost in the chair. The topic was "The Standards of Conduct in Business", with the Scripture reading from Matthew 5.

Roll call showed that seven calls had been made and 10 cards sent.

Mrs. M. Sine took as her bases for Bible Study, Nehemiah 4 — the responsibility of the laymen of the church. A lively discussion followed.

Mrs. D. Doolittle had charge of the study book, re "New Canadians". A story was read by Mrs. Cameron Sine. There was a discussion as to what the attitude of a church is, and what it should be with regard to the new Canadians and Canada's immigration laws.

An auction sale was held (small articles brought by the members) and lunch was served by the hostess.

MUST BE BILINGUAL

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) —Future presidents of the National Federation of Canadian University students must be bilingual, the group's annual meeting ruled Tuesday. The student group adopted a resolution affirming respect for Canada's two official languages.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Louis B. — She's too full or her Old World thinking. We won't be arrested.

Ilse B. — Louis was stationed with the Army in Germany and that's where I met him. I was born and raised in Berlin and, believe it or not, I wish I were back there now. I married Louis six years ago and ever since then I can't hold my head up high because we owe so much money to everybody. Nothing is fully paid for, nothing is really and truly ours. I don't need all the luxuries he keeps ordering. I don't mind hard work. Every German housewife does washing, ironing, dishes. I didn't ask for all the machines. I can manage without TV, without hi-fi, and without a swimming pool to boot, but Louis wants me to have whatever the neighbors have. He holds two jobs, buys anything he sees on time, and then leaves me at home to wait for bill collectors.

I want to get rid of things we can't afford and live sensibly.

Louis B. — My wife just can't get it through her head that in this country it's all right to pay for things a little at a time. She was brought up to believe that you must have every dollar saved up in an old sock or somewhere before you can go shopping, and that you must pay for it before you can use it. She doesn't realize that buying on time is no crime and that she should relax and enjoy the comforts we have.

Nothing has ever had to be repossessed yet, although I admit we've had some close calls. My regular job is in a gas station, but I work part-time in a radio shop and when things get tight I help out at a parking lot weekends. Does she think I want her to be the only woman still scrubbing things on a washboard? How about my pride? And I'll work my head off to make sure those vans never come to haul things away!

The Council: The vans may not come. Louis, but the taxi may — the taxi, that is, which whisks Ilse to Idlewild and the airplane back home, where women use brooms and men are solvent.

The problem here is Louis' wobbly ego. He must measure up to the neighbors in ways that show, he must prove himself to them, at all costs. And what costs! Naturally we ask why. For the answer, we and Louis — need a psychologist, if possible — must go way back to learn how his need for attention, distinction and acclaim became so insatiable. Understanding his early lacks and deprivations, Louis can perhaps be helped to make up for them in less hysterical, less dangerous ways.

Desperate for the approval of his neighbors, Louis is paying too high a price. Ironically, he is probably not even gaining what he's after, acceptance and, possibly, envy. Among his perceptive peers, he may well be the object of pity for his frenzied race with the bill collectors.

Most important, he may be losing Ilse, which will make his investment in material things a bet on the wrong number! His sense of values is as twisted as a pretzel. Instead of holding down two and three jobs to pay for wall-to-wall carpeting and a power lawn mower, he'd be wise to live within the yield of one job and spend more time at home with his wife. We surmise that, in addition to the nagging indebtedness, Ilse is grieving over the long hours of work it makes necessary keeping Louis away from the home. And when he's in it he's probably so exhausted he's no companion at all.

MANY PROBLEMS

ing trouble," Dr. Dalgleish said.

"These clinics seem to be politically inspired to harass doctors into working within the plan."

SOME LEAVE

Dr. George Peacock of Saskatoon, college registrar, said Tuesday 62 doctors left the province in August and 10 doctors registered. Of the 328 doctors registered at the end of August, about 600 were practising privately. The others were working in government fields or were retired.

Jack Kinzel, secretary of the medical care insurance commission, said that of 90 doctors brought under contract by the commission to the province in July to supplement the emergency services, 28 are still in the province. Thirty-seven of the 90 have shown interest in establishing a permanent practice in Saskatchewan, Mr. Kinzel said, and 12 of the 37 have made final arrangements.

Mr. Kinzel said the commission is processing 100 applications from doctors who want to come to Saskatchewan. Most of these are from Britain, he said, but some are Canadians. He said there are 96 doctors working under the medical care insurance commission and receiving payment directly from it.

The rest either receive direct payment from patients, who can collect reimbursement from the commission, or from approved voluntary private agencies mainly group medical services and medical services incorporated.

FEES NOMINAL

The private agencies submit accounts to the medical care commission for reimbursement. They charge nominal fees of $3 for individuals and $5 for families to act as agents.

Doctors accept the standard 85 per cent reimbursement from the private agencies, but could bill individually the full amount.

To the end of August, the medical care commission had paid out $31,682 on about 8,000 claims and another 13,654 claims were being processed.

This total of 21,634 claims did not include any from the private agencies.]

expected guests. Arrangements were quickly made to send these supplies to the ship.

DENY FIRE

The Association earlier had said a fire had broken out on the rescue ship but this later was denied.

A spokesman for the air-sea rescue co-ordination centre at Portsmouth said the injured were suffering from second-degree burns but "there was definitely no fire on board the Celerina."

An Associated Press correspondent flew over the Swiss ship as she rounded the Fastnet Rock on the southwest tip of Ireland and saw no sign of any damage.

Meanwhile, the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure was reported delayed on her passage to Shannon, in southwest Ireland, to unload four more survivors from the Super Constellation that ditched Sunday night 500 miles west of Ireland.

A Canadian Navy spokesman said the carrier now is due off Shannon Thursday, several hours later than expected.

The Flying Tiger plane ditched in the Atlantic with the presumed loss of 28 American lives.

The search for 16 missing persons has been called off, U.S. Air Search Headquarters at Prestwick, Scotland, said there was no possibility that a last-chance search would be made for them.

The Bonaventure also is bringing 12 bodies taken from the sea.

One of the survivors said on landing that contact with gasoline which spilled from the ditched plane had burned many who plunged into the sea, though there was no fire.

This account, by Pte. William F. McGlothern of Cottage Hill, Fla., indicated the probable basis for the erroneous report that there was a fire aboard the Celerina.

"Most of us were badly burned," McGlothern said. "There was no fire on the plane or on the Celerina, but while we were in the water after the ditching, the fuel was all around us. The high octane gasoline burned our bodies and the pain was bad. It even dissolved most of our clothes."

SNAIL BLIGHT

LESKEARD, England (CP)—A Cornwall woman received a tattered letter returned to her with a note from the post office. It read: "It is regretted that the enclosed letter has been partly eaten by snails. Normally, this does not happen, but due to the very wet summer snails have been infesting one or two of our letters boxes."

Vancouver Girl Studying Law Says First Year Of Course Is Hardest

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first year is the worst for a young woman studying law, says Wendy Moir who this fall began her second year in the law faculty at the University of British Columbia.

I wasn't there just to catch a husband, everything went just fine."

Wendy, at 22, is one of eight women among a total law faculty enrolment of about 250 at the university. She is one of three women in second - year law.

She also holds the distinction of being the first second-generation student in the faculty, which opened in 1945. Her father, Reg Moir, after setting out as a newspaper man, turned to law and graduated from UBC in 1954.

Miss Moir, a part-time reporter herself, having worked for a Vancouver daily for four summers as a women's-page writer, says she'd recommend law for any young woman willing to work hard.

"But it's pretty difficult at first. For the first two months last year, the boys all suspected I was there just to find a husband.

"When I'd convinced them I wasn't, things changed. They started to call me 'Wendy, fella,' because I'd made it as 'one of the boys.'"

Miss Moir says now there's no more pampered group of girls anywhere than those in the law school.

LIKES PEOPLE

During an interview frequently interrupted by greetings from young men in her class and young women from other classes, Miss Moir said she wasn't really interested in law at first, perhaps because her father was in it.

"I don't really know why I decided to take it, except that I like people and that's what the law is concerned with—people."

Born in Vancouver of parents both in the newspaper business — her mother, Nikki, is still a Vancouver reporter — Wendy grew up here but took her first year of university in Switzerland.

This summer she returned to Europe as a member of a Canadian group attending a seminar in Poland.

"But I've got to work next summer," she said. "I've got two more years of law school and then a year to article and I'll only make $200 a month doing that so I've got to earn some money."

She said she intends to go into practice here—"I'm not going through all this just to turn around and do nothing with it"—but if one of those male law students should propose, "well, I think it's a good thing for a girl to have training in some line."

"Anyway," she added, "I'll deal with that problem when it comes along."

Grieves Over Doctors' Verdict

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I had our third and fourth babies by operation, the fourth just three weeks ago. Our doctor had told us that I might have to be sterilized with this last baby, but he would not do it unless it would be absolutely necessary. We consented and it was done. He also told me that it was either the operation or probably my life next time.

Now that I'm home that is all I can think about and end up crying my heart out nearly every time. We had always planned on a large family and now that's gone. Right now I am doing a great many things that I've been told by the doctor not to do, to try and forget, but every time I see the boys it reminds me and there I am crying again. There is no one here to understand how I feel.—JUST 32.

DEAR JUST——It's deeply disappointing for you. Yet you should thank your lucky stars you are alive to tell the tale. And have four fine boys. Countless women would give their eye teeth for what you have.

You could lose it, you know. A depressed mother means depressed, unhappy children. You can always adopt, later—if you show yourself serene enough for a child care agency to want your help, for some little girl needing a home!

And it's stuff and nonsense about the loss of sex appeal.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TRUSTING TOM—Better face the facts. Your friend bertayed you and spent your rent money. Even after you had given her the money she needed.

Your reputation is at stake now. You may pity her, but you can't solve her problem of a stingy husband. There is no basis here for lasting friendship.

DEAR DORIS—I am twenty years old and have a very hard time making friends. I lack so much in confidence that it even hinders me in keeping a job.

In high school I was a real square. I was very religious, so much so that I didn't even believe in dances, make-up, etc. During high school is the time when a girl should make most of her friends from both sexes that sometimes last a lifetime. I made none! Later, when I did get dates, I should have acted more ladylike and less "wild." Now I have more sense but it sure is hard to live down my name. Can you help me?

Actually I have three problems: (1) to have confidence in myself, (2) to make friends, and (3) to show people that I have changed.—FRIENDLESS.

DEAR FRIENDLESS — High school poppycock! We make friends—for life—all our lives.

For your three problems I have three suggestions:

(1) Keep improving yourself; evening classes, good reading; a new skill, will increase your confidence.

(2) Take another look at the girls who work near you, your neighbors, fallow students. Be the first to smile and say "Hi"! Someone is lonely and needing the love you can give.

(3) Living down old sins is a slow process. Just be different. Dress, act, use make-up like a lady would.

Women's Institutes

CANNIFTON - CORBYVILLE W.I.

The September meeting of the Canniffon - Corbyville Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Sherry with 18 members and one visitor present.

The ladies toured the Hastings County Museum with Mr. R. Boyce and Miss B. Weese pointing out the interesting antiques, followed by a film of olden times with Mr. R. Boyce as commentator.

Mrs. J. Latchford, president, opened the meeting.

Reports of the standing committee — home economics and health — Mrs. P. Meale. A reading on "Reliable Retails", public relations — Mrs. F. Reid, a reading about the "Different Ways the Manitoba W.I. Donates and money raised through the year, flowers and cards — Mrs. D. Windsor, education — Mrs. D. Welch.

Thankyou letters and business letters were read.

After the meeting closed lunch was served by the hostess — Mrs. F. Hodgate, assisted by Mrs. W. Latchford, Mrs. F. Meale, Mrs D Milton and Mrs G. Moore.

Cardinal Leger Says Entire Conception of Life at Stake At Ecumenical Council

Invited to provide an article about the 21st ecumenical council opening Oct. 11 in Rome, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, a member of the council's central planning commission, supplied the following text.

By P.-E. CARDINAL LEGER
Archbishop of Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The history of the various councils makes us understand that each one had a different character due to the times in which it was held.

To grasp fully what will happen at the next council, it is necessary to consider it in terms of the modern world.

In the world of today which, as John XXIII himself says, has undergone profound changes, the council will affirm that it is the will of the church to meet new needs so that it may fulfil its mission of salvation.

In past centuries, the Bishops gathered under the pope's authority to define a point of dogma. Thus, at the Council of Ephesus, in 431, the fathers defined the divine motherhood of Mary. At the last Vatican council, in 1870, the definition of pontifical infallibility made explicit a belief that the entire church had always expressed throughout its life.

FACES BIG PROBLEM

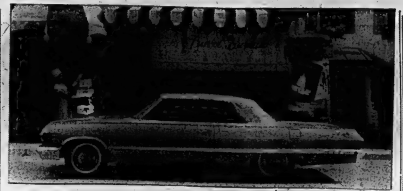
The forthcoming council will face a much vaster problem. It is no longer one or another point of dogma that will have to be clarified. Today, it is the entire conception of life that is at stake; life that is, in the Holy Father's words, completely turned "towards the mere enjoyment of the things of the world that modern scientific research now places easily at the disposal of men of our time. It is no longer a question of an error that must be fought; "it is the substance of human and Christian thought and life, of which the church is the trustee and mistress for the ages, that must be restored in value and in all its enlightenment."

Briefly, what will be involved at the second Vatican council will not be this or that truth; but rather the serious problem of the relationships in our modern world between nature and grace, between the natural order and the supernatural order, between the temporal life and the eternal life. This awareness of a responsibility that encompasses the world and mankind will not lead the fathers of the council into the temptation to return to a Christianity reminiscent of the middle ages. Pius XII himself clearly rejected this hypothesis when he said: "A return to the middle ages? No one thinks of it!"

CONCERNED WITH WORLD

The church will have to define very clearly the attitudes it must take and the means it must use to imbue the lives of men with Christian principles.

What most concern Christian opinion today is not only the problems dealing with the internal life of the church, but also all those which preoccupy contemporary humanity: world peace; co-operation among unequally developed peoples; the growth of population; the liberty of man in today's political, economic and social context.



In the light of humanity's present conditions, the council is taking on unsuspected dimensions. It becomes the council not only of believers, but of all men who believe in man and the moral values that make him great.

The forthcoming council wants to show the world the eternal youth of the church. It will concern itself with bringing up to date all that could be a factor of aging, if it was not renewed. It wants to adapt to the modern world certain aspects of the outward life of the church and permit the 20th century to play a vital part in the Christian Tradition by working towards the rejuvenation of the church.

ADAPT TRADITION

The church must draw on tradition and pass it on unchanged from one generation to the next. But the Tradition (teaching of the church) is not the simple repetition of what is said always, and the simple preservation of ancient ways of life. It is, on the contrary, the descent of a living reality entrusted by Christ to the church's hierarchy. The best way of respecting Tradition is still to adapt it to each generation and enrich it with that generation's best.

The forthcoming ecumenical council, called by Pope John XXIII, will be in line with time-honored tradition and will be another perceptible manifestation of the vitality of the church. To prepare ourselves for the grace that will be given us, let us apply ourselves to a better knowledge of the forthcoming council and what it will mean for our century.

Britain's Liberal Party Takes Sharp Left Turn

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's rejuvenated Liberal party, which has just wound up its biggest and most enthusiastic annual convention in 30 years, has taken a sharp turn to the left in its hunt for more national appeal.

It is obvious that the opposition Labor party is to be its main target and the growing political implications of the Common Market issue may give the Liberals a boost.

Meeting in Llandudno, Wales, the 1,500 party delegates set a rip - roaring pace as they gave their blessing to a number of extremist measures that - pol even the Labor party would entertain.

These, and the heat of party leader Jo Grimond's attack on Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell, gave credence to the feeling among observers that the Liberals expect to use the Labor party as a stepping stone in their mission to make Liberalism the only radical, non-socialist party of the left in Britain.

The fortunes of the Liberal party took an upward turn last spring when it surprisingly won the Orpington byelection and made good showings in subsequent votes. The party now has seven members in the House of Commons.

But its gains so far have been mainly at the expense of the ruling Conservatives, about two of every three new Liberal votes having formerly gone to the Tories.

Observers predict that the run-away Tory voters although they enjoy the byelection game of defeating the party in power, would get back in line if the chips were down in a general election. And the new left-wing look of the Liberal party that emerged at this convention may give second thoughts to any prospective rebels among the Conservatives.

With the other two parties annual conventions scheduled for next month, and the Common Market the main issue, the Liberals — unanimously in favor of joining — are in a strong position. Both the Conservatives and the Labor party have elements within their ranks quarrelling over the issue.

Prime Minister Macmillan, facing his party in conference in Wales, will have the task of pacifying rebels against union with the European community.

For Gaitskell the problem is more serious. He has stayed on the fence, saying that Britain should not enter unless terms are good.

But the Labor Common Market committee, made up of some 35 socialist MP's, has said it wants the government to continue negotiations on the basis of "getting in and not staying out" of the market.

If this movement grows — it claims the support of nearly 100 of Labor's 260 - odd MPs — it would undermine Gaitskell's call for a general election on the Common Market issue.

Certainly a Labor split now would take some of the pressure off Macmillan and help the Liberal cause.

Eldorado

ELDORADO — Mrs. Stanley Royal and son Robert, also Mrs. Margaret Breeden, of Creemore spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holgate.

Mrs. Lizzie Kilpatrick of Madoc spent a few days with Mrs. C. D. McCann.

TOGETHERNESS — Everybody's getting into the act and it's hard to say who's high man on the totem pole. Idea was to climb a greased pole and retrieve a hat perched on top, as part of the Queen's University initiations at Kingston, Ont. Added hazards were tomatoes tossed by intersted spectators. —(CP Wirephoto).

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart on the arrival of a baby boy.

The farmers are busy filling silos and getting their fall plowing done.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. E. G. Dovey and daughter Marsha, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Quite a number from this appointment attended communion service at Aiken's Church, on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shorey entertained a large number of relatives in honor of Mr. Shorey's niece, Miss Sandra Fisher, who was married on Saturday.

Mr. Clinton Striker called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer on Wednesay evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris spent the tea hour on Saturday night with his sisters Mrs. Edith Tucker of Belleville and Mrs. R. Logan of Hamilton.

Next Sunday the Wallbridge Church service will be at 9.30 a.m. and on the following Sunday, Oct. 7th, will be anniversary service with Mr. Brian Thrasher of the North Trenton pastoral charge.

A farewell party was held in the Orange Hall recenily when a large number of friends and neighbors on the Trent Road gathered in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kingston, who have sold their home there and have bought anoether on Craig St., Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Keene and son Danny, Belleville, were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

New Speaker of Commons, Marcel Lambert, Edmonton, Once Listed Killed in War

By DAVE BOWES

EDMONTON (CP)—A stocky, curly-haired man once reported killed in the war is the government's choice as Speaker of the new session of Parliament.

Behind him, Marcel Joseph Aime Lambert 43, leaves an already crowded career as lawyer, Rhodes scholar, soldier and politician.

He was named to succeed Roland Michener of Toronto, defeated in the June 18 general election.

Officially, Lieut. Marcel Lambert died on the shell - pocked sands beach of Dieppe, where he and his tank troop fought a losing battle under withering enemy fire.

In the casualty toll of the 1942 raid, Lieut. Lambert was missing, presumed dead. In Edmonton, his bereaving family held a memorial service for him.

"It was just one of those things that happened in a war," he recalled in an interview.

"Perhaps it was a mistake in identity by someone who reported seeing your body, or perhaps reported that a shell fell where you were known to be."

TANK BROKE DOWN

The young officer from the 29th Tank Regiment (w h i c h later became the King's Own Regiment) went ashore at Dieppe in the second assault wave, shortly after 5 a.m.

"My tank was knocked out almost immediately. But it wasn't from gunfire. One of the tank tracks broke on the heavy shingle. Under fire, it was impossible to repair it."

Stranded, the five-man troop remained in the fight on the beach in t o l l taken, prisoners about nine hours after landing. Before being taken Lieut. Lambert blew up his tank.

Four to six weeks after Dieppe his family got word that Lieut. Lambert was a prisoner of war. He remained in a German camp in Bavaria nearly three years with about 1,800 other Commonwealth officers.

Typically, in prison camp he used his time to advantage.

"We were fortunate to have a good library at our camp and I got most of my basic reading done — work that I didn't have to do later — for my honors economics course."

STUDIED AT OXFORD

Two years after the war, Marcel Lambert completed his war - interrupted course at the University of Alberta. He was Alberta's Rhodes scholar for 1940.

At Oxford, he studied law and returned to Canada in 1950, articling with the Edmonton law firm with which he has been associated since his admission to the Alberta bar in 1951.

Although his law practice has been a busy, general one, Mr. Lambert's political pursuits and membership in a clutch of community bodies have claimed as much attention.

"I've always been interested in politics, I suppose I came by it naturally. My father was politically inclined and my grandfather was once a member for the Northwest Territories."

As a candidate for the Alberta Legislature in 1952, he was defeated. He entered the federal field with his election as member of Parliament for Edmonton West in 1957 and was re-elected in 1958 and in 1962.

LIKES NEW ROLE

Mr. Lambert was parliamentary assistant to the minister of national defence in 1957 and was appointed parliamentary secretary to the minister of national revenue in 1959.

Apart from the political field, he has been active on the boards of several social welfare bodies — working on organizational and executive problems —and has been a director of the Canadian Conference on Social Work.

Of his designation as Speaker, Mr. Lambert said:

"As a lawyer, the quasi - judicial aspect of the Speaker's role appealed."

The necessary removal from the hurly - burly of partisan political life does not particularly concern him.

"If, as a French - speaking Western Canadian (his father was French - Canadian, his mother Belgian) I can make some contribution as Speaker, then there's some satisfaction in that."

At their new home in Ottawa, where Mr. and Mrs. Lambert and their three sons have recently moved, he hopes to find more time for family sports—an activity he admits he has largely come to participate in as a spectator.

A few weeks ago Marcel Lambert stood again on the beaches of Dieppe. He and scores of others had returned to mark the 20th anniversary of the Canadian raid.

Reflecting later on the worth of the battle, he agreed with those who see the attack as providing worthwhile, needed lessons. But he added wryly:

"It was a pity that so many of those who learned the lessons were not around to make use of them."

As he prepared to clear out his office here before moving to Ottawa, Mr. Lambert regretted having to cut many of the ties that have bound him and family to Edmonton. On the futue, he refused to speculate.

But acquaintances, who describe him as hard - working, ambitious and able, a man with a keen mind for detail, say Marcel Lambert as Mr. Speaker — or in any other role for which he may be tabbed— will make a significant contribution.

VALIANT FOR 1963 FEATURES STYLE CHANGE

Chrysler of Canada's popular compact, the Valiant, features in its 1963 series the most extensive styling changes since its introduction in the fall of 1959. A principal change is the extension of the wheelbase from 104.5 to 111 inches, providing improved handling and riding characteristics. The new Valiant look is further highlighted by a broad front-end treatment and a side profile having distinctive, simple and clean lines. Improved structural design, improved rust preventatives and increases in some metal thicknesses provide greater body strength and durability. The principal components of the engine to rear axle power-train on all 1963 Chrysler products are now backed by a 5-year-50,000 mile warranty.

A longer, lower silhouette is featured in the 1963 Buick. Longer overall by one and a half inches, the new regular size Buick is available in 16 models in four distinct series—Le Sabre, Invicta, Wildcat and Electra 225. The Le Sabre two-door hardtop is shown here. The Wildcat series has been expanded to include a four-door hardtop and convertible. All the regular-size Buicks feature vertically designed tail lamps, a wider horizontal grille and heavier, wider-looking bumpers.

Population Shows Increase Of 331,753

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population at June 1 was an estimated 18,570,000 persons, an increase of 331,753 over June 1, 1961, when the last decennial census was taken.

Population figures, released today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show Quebec with the largest increase during the year. That province gained an additional 99,789 residents to bring its population to 5,308,000.

Ontario's population was fattened by 104,908 residents, bringing its count to 6,342,000 at June 1.

The figures show Canadian males continue to outnumber females — 9,377,100 to 9,192,900. The preponderance of males was reflected in all provinces.

There were 21,700 Canadians 90 years of age or over and more than one-third of them—8,500—were in Ontario.

Sports Snapshots

By GRAHAM COX

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ed Brown of Sterling is confident his rink of four Canadian champions will make a good showing in the lawn bowling at the British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, in November.

One reason is that the 57-year-old semi-retired Winnipeg factory superintendent will be skipping a rink of all - stars. Formerly, club rinks that had won national championships were also national representatives at the BE games.

Singles champion Sterling Shields of Edmonton will play lead on the rink and will also take part in the singles competition. Fairy champions Archie Hoar and Ross Moir, both of Vancouver, will round out the team.

Brown earned his berth by skipping the Canadian championship rink this year from his home Norwood rink. Norwood, incidentally, is the only Manitoba rink ever to have won a national title and has done it four times. Three times Brown was on the rink, twice as skip.

ALSO CURLS

An ardent curler, the Vancouver - born shotmaker can only find two similarities between the games—the length of the playing surface and the importance of putting the right weight on the bowl.

There are important differences, aside from the fact that curling is done on a sheet of ice and bowling on a green. Brown says that where curling differs the emergence of Ken Watson, has essentially become a running game, bowling still retains the draw characteristics of the game as played by Sir Francis Drake while awaiting the Spanish Armada.

Also, where the button is fixed in curling, the jack — a small white ball to which the bowler bowls—is mobile. The position of the jack is determined by the skip of the rink winning an end—he bowls it at the start of the next end.

He also says that where the draw is now used in curling only to west a port, almost every bowl is a draw. The elliptical 3½-to-four-pound ball is capable of drawing as much as 10 to 12 feet in the last two or three feet.

Brown says he expects the greens in Australia, where he will be spring, will be faster than those his team is used to. "But this is just a matter of adjustment and we'll have practice time."

For both Hoar and Moir this will be the first taste of international competition. Brown was in the 1954 games and Sterling in 1958.

In the BE competitions, for which the Canadians leave Vancouver by plane Nov. 8, the rinks events will be played to completion first, with the singles and pairs to follow. All are round-robin events.

The trip to Australia will give Brown a chance to renew acquaintances with a young man who once lived on the same street. He's Harry Jerome, world 100-metre and 100 - yard dash record-holder.

Brown is enthusiastic about getting younger people interested in bowling.

"I'm sold on the idea that if we could get a few young bucks interested in the game, it could be built up. Two problems are getting the first few interested and the short season we have here, during the summer when there are so many other activities around.

"Western Canada is about the only place where the game is played that there is no jolly program."

Men's Fashion Shows Draw Bitter Comment

LONDON (CP)—The recent spurt of men's fashion shows here draws a bitter comment from one woman journalist on the booming profession of the male model.

Snorts Dee Wells, columnist in The Daily Herald: "If that's what men have come to, then no wonder we don't get to the moon."

Watching nine handsome executive types parading the runway at the British Menswear Guild's show, Miss Wells lamented: "Are there no more dams to be built? No more frontiers to push back?"

Modelling dragon-patterned dressing gowns and cotton bikinis is no job for a man, in Miss Wells' view.

"Can so many able-looking young men really have no loftier aim than to pirouette in their pastel pants before a lot of hawked - eyed press ladies?"

Male models are still few in comparison to girls on the books of most London agencies, and the highest salary they are likely to earn, around $9,000, is about a third what a top girl model could command.

But the profession has gained a rush of recruits and respectability in the last three years and there now are more than 100 full - time male models in London engaged in making the British man more conscious of his clothes.

Sagging Tweeds, Stolid Suits Out for British Men

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—The British male is about to blossom out as a fashion plate after years of sagging tweeds and stolid suits the same as father wore.

Hardy Amies, dapper dressmaker to the Queen, last year launched his British Line in conjunction with a chain of men's tailors specializing in low - priced ready - to - wear clothes. The line featured a broad - shouldered, athletically tapering silhouette with narrow trousers and a bold use of colored checks.

It was trim and slimming and had a considerable success with young men working to a tight clothing budget. Now Amies presents his second collection and it looks as if the men's fashion revolution is really under way.

The clothes soon to be worn by the up-to-date Briton have a pronounced touch of the Regency dandy; lean and elegant with a marked waistline and full - skirted, swaggering topcoats over the narrowest trousers ever — no more than 15½ inches.

There's a return to wide lapels and an imposing double-breasted look for formal town coats, but most suit revers are still narrow. The American drape influence in the cut of suit jackets gives way to more of a waisted effect, with sporty side vents and flap pockets helping to shape the coat to the hips.

Topcoats and raincoats are still short, swinging just above the knee, whether cut full and straight in closer fitting. The "ghillie" collar — buttoning to the neck—is a popular variation on ordinary lapels for rough-weather wear.

This year's collection shows an even more dashing use of color. Women reporters at the show murmured enviously over some of the rich Irish tweed mixtures and approved such dandified touches as astrakhan collars and a dazzling white linen suit that might have been worn by the empire - building hero of a Somerset Maugham short story.

NEW COUNTIES

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government has approved formation of three new counties, bringing the total in the province to 23. The new counties are in the Two Hills, Red Deer and Camrose districts.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Ontario Hockey Association rates a big pat on the back for its proposed organization of a junior "C" or "D" league in the central part of the county.

With hockey conditions what they are, the abyss that yawns in the faces of the greater majority of youngsters who reach the end of the juvenile trail became of age limit becomes greater every year.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association is doing, as it has always done, a tremendous job for the younkers from atom to juvenile, but there lis responsibility ceases.

And in this day and age where does an ambitious hockey youngster go when he comes to the juvenile trail's end?

In some cases there is a local or district junior "C" squad, depending on the size of the community. A few make it. A lesser number, and these are rare, are good enough to step from juvenile to a junior "B" team, but the odds on making the squad are getting tougher every year.

True, a few get a tryout but with competition fierce in most junior "B" centres and ambitious minor-league managers fanning far and wide in search of the chance, unless he is a Richard in the making, of the youngster making good is slim.

There are, of course, intermediate leagues of varying categories scattered throughout the country., But the chance of even a promising youngster making these grades is as remote as Khrushchev being nominated to Congress.

Usually these squads are made up of older players who have jumped the junior limits and others who have been playing for years and are ready for the pasture fields or rocking chairs.

In most cases the traffic is pretty rugged and no veteran of the ice lanes likes to see a young upstart just cutting his ex-juvenile teeth skate rings around him.

So the promising youngsters, and this occurs mainly in the smaller centres and communities of the district, finds himself at the edge of a hockey precipice. He has no place to go unless, as was said, he is a Hull, Howe or Richard in the making.

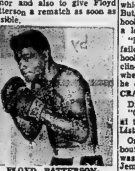
Hockey, sportswise, is second nature to Canadian youngsters. I can see no reason why they should be brought to an abrupt halt as far as playing goes, when they reach a certain age limit. A lot of these young fellows are beginning to feel and develop their true potential when they reach the end of the juvenile rope.

A lot of them are not good enough to "make" a junior "C" squad in a larger centre where player competition is much keener than the home communities. In most cases they have not had sufficient experience nor is there any chance of them getting it. They're at a dead end as far as playing in organized hockey is concerned.

And this applies to the centres included in the OHA proposed junior "C" or "D" circuit. They are Wellington, Stirling, Madoc, Marmora, Campbellford, Norwood, Havelock and Bancroft, and possibly others.

Thanks to the efforts of the OMHA and its district executive member Doug Patterson of Stirling, these centres have been productive of outstanding minor hockey teams from squirt to juvenile. They have been coached and managed by sincere men who have become and believe the youngsters should get their chance to play it under organized rules.

I think the OHA has made a fine move in the right direction. And those who govern and operate junior "B" and even junior "A" squads should appreciate the idea.



Leagues like this could very well be the feeder box of the future upper bracket junior squads and, who knows, a National Hockey League player may be in the process of making because he has had a chance to develop his potential and not be forced to hang up his skates at a tender age.

Two Hooks, 2 Minutes, New Champion

'Liston Bursts Patterson Myth'

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — A new the first real punch of the first-round knockout victory over Floyd Patterson, a rematch as soon as possible.

FLOYD PATTERSON

In the third-fastest title finish in heavyweight boxing history, 2:06 of the first round, Liston crumbled Patterson to the canvas with a couple of ponderous left hooks before a disappointing paid crowd of 18,894.

It was felt by some that Cus D'Amato, Patterson's guiding angel, had wrapped his boy in cotton. Floyd's championship path undeniably avoided what real punchers were around since Patterson, then 21, first won the crown, in 1956 by flattening an overstuffed Archie Moore.

Ingemar Johansson, who dethroned Patterson in 1959, said "Patterson looks like a little baby tonight." Ingo may get a shot at Liston after the new champ has his return match with Patterson.

WANTS FAST REMATCH

Patterson, 169, whose finish had been foreshadowed by 12 knockdowns in previous title bouts, wants another go at Liston within three months.

Patterson could swell his Ko's take as a loser Tuesday night by sharing a 30-30 split of the return match receipts.

Liston, 214, is ready at any time.

"I'll do some hunting and fishing the next two or three weeks," said Liston, who got his title shot by goading Patterson into it.

Liston rushed over to Patterson after referee Frank Sikora threw his arms around the wobbily champion following his knockout punch.

"He told me if the public gives me a chance," Liston said, "I can be a worthy champion, maybe a better champion than he was."

"I think I can prove just that — if the public gives me a chance," added Liston. "I think Patterson was a good champion. I disagree only in one thing he did. He shut himself off from the public. He didn't go to small clubs and play and stay from the public. This is something the world champion has got to do."

CLERGYMEN HELP

Liston—sitting ti a table before the noisy throng of newsmen and photographers — was flanked by three clergymen who played an important part in his rehabilitation from his grim early war with police and society.

These included Rev. A. J. Stephens, the Missouri penitentiary chaplain who first launched Liston to a dedicated boxing career; Rev. Edward P. Murphy, S. J., the Chicago priest, and Rev John McGinn, Yuma, Colo., who with Father Murphy counseled Liston towards the good life in recent years.

Liston's purposeful left hook which floored Patterson seemed

'Liston Bursts Patterson Myth'

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — A new the first real punch of the first-round knockout victory over Floyd Patterson, a rematch as soon as possible.

However, Liston said "I hit him as earlier right uppercut which left his foot off the floor. But, in the end, it was a left hook that started him going and a left hook that finished him.

"I knew I had him when he failed to clinch after a good left hook to the head. He had been clinching before and this time, when the referee said to break, he didn't."

CRACKS JOKE

Did Patterson hurt him at all?

"Only when he got to one knee at the count of nine," cracked Liston.

Only two heavyweight title bouts ended quicker. The fastest was Tom.my Burns' 1:28 KO of Jem Roche in London in 1908, and the second fastest was Jack 2:04 Joe Louis required to demolish Max Schmeling in their 1938 rematch.

The Comiskey Park gross receipts were announced as $665,000 and the net $582,119.26.

The big swag comes Thursday when the closed circuit TV reports are filed. Patterson's end on the basis of the live gate and closed-circuit TV receipts. The closed-circuit TV was an estimated $1,185,233 and Liston—pegged at a 15% take of all net receipts—should get a minimum of $382,015. He can get a cool $50,000 now and the remainder is held in escrow until he fights the rematch with Patterson.

Fight Fans Pay $27,000 A Minute

TORONTO(CP) —Toronto boxing fans took out $35,000 to see two minutes and 15 seconds of heavyweight championship action on closed circuit television at Maple Leaf Gardens Tuesday night were treated to early finishes in three local preliminary bouts as well.

The first of three preliminary matches, provided to kill the hours between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. EDT before the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson main event, lasted only two minutes and 35 seconds. Welterweight Larry Boznick of Eris, Pa., won a technical knockout over Nick Babic of Toronto.

The second attraction ended at 1:07 of the second round when the referee stopped the fight between heavyweights Tommy Glenn of Detroit and Billy Fifield of Toronto, giving the victory to Bell.

In the third, a junior welterweight match, the referee again found it necessary to stop the fight. He awarded Gary Conklin of Painesville, Ohio, the decision at 2:14 of the fifth round of the scheduled six-rounder over Toronto's Colin Fraser.

Another 2,000 Toronto fans saw the title fight in an Uptown Theatre, paying approximately $13,000 for the two minutes and six second show.

ORTIZ TO DEFEND

TOKYO (AP)—Carlos Ortiz of New York, world lightweight boxing champion, will defend his title here Dec. 1 against Teruo Kosaka, Japan's lightweight champion, promoter Akira Honda said Tuesday. The promoter also said that Ortiz will meet Kazuo Takayama, Japan's best flyweight, in a title fight on Nov. 7. Honda said he has guaranteed Ortiz $35,000 for the two fights.

'If The Public Accepts Me'

'I'll Be A Good Champ,'-Liston

By MURRAY ROSE

CHICAGO (AP)—"If the public will accept me I'll be a good champ."

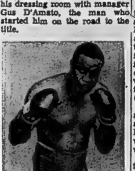
So said Sonny Liston, former convict who ascended the throne of boxing's most valuable championship.

In just two minutes and six seconds, Liston knocked out defending champion Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight title, earning approximately $400,000 for the brief, brisk workout. He is on the threshold of earning millions.

"If the public will allow me a chance to let bygones be bygones, I could be a good champ," said the surprisingly poised new champion.

As for the fast and stunning finish, Liston said: "I started it with a left hook and ended it with a left hook."

"I hit him with a left hook and he tied me up. The referee said to break and he grabbed the rope. That gave me the idea he was hurt and I hit him with a couple of good lefts. That was it."



WANTS RETURN BOUT

Asked about the contracted return bout, Liston said "it was too quick" even to think about the time and place, but added: "I'd like one as soon as possible."

They have a return clause calling for the second fight within

"I don't want to wait a year," said Patterson. "Maybe within three months."

The shocked ex - champion kept reporters waiting for about 30 minutes following the startling finish while he talked in his dressing room with manager Gus D'Amato, the man who started him on the road to the title.

"SONNY" LISTON

"I will know in about a week about a return fight," said Patterson. "Liston's punches are something you see coming. I was hit by a good punch and it had some kind of effect. Liston is in a better position to know. I have no excuses."

Patterson, more gracious in losing than he has been after some victories, also pleased for the public to give the rehabilitated Liston a chance.

"Now that he has scored a spectacular victory, I hope the press and public will give him the chance he deserves."

STARTS SLOWLY

In analyzing his quick dethronement, Patterson said: "I never had a chance to hurt him. I started slowly. It was to be a 15-round fight and I wanted to feel him out. He started faster than I expected. No, not faster in his moves. He just came on strong. His moves were slow and I saw everything he threw — the punch (left hook) that got me.

"I shouldn't have let him start that fast. I heard the count at five and then at six. I thought I was up at eight but I really wasn't. I knew it was over when the referee grabbed me."

Liston had a hard time with the newspaper reporters.—

"I'd rather get cheer in the fight him again than answer all these questions," he muttered.

There was a cheer in the dressing room for Liston when he told everyone he wanted a chance to be a good champion. It was the first cheer he had heard all evening. The entrance into the ring was greeted with boos and even the victory brought more gasps than shouts of acclamation.

SET HIS SIGHTS

Sonny said he always had his sights set on the world title, even during his Golden Gloves days.

"When I was in Chicago once for the Golden Gloves, Rocky Marciano was the champ," said Liston. "I met Rocky after I beat Ed Sanders in the Golden Gloves finals and he asked me if I ever thought I would be world champion. I told him "I expect one day to fight for it and I hope to win it."

Liston said he was surprised in the manner in which Patterson went down. "He just sort of eased down," said Sonny, "I kept looking at him ready to keep punching and he just sagged down."

U.K. FISHERMEN

There were 25,000 regular and 5,000 occasional fishermen employed in the United Kingdom in 1960.

Tax Boys Swoop Down On Theatres

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal tax agents swooped down on theatres across the United States Tuesday night and served orders freezing their receipts from closed - circuit television showings of the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight.

The internal revenue service in Washington refused to say anything about the country-wide raids.

Agents marched into theatres from Boston to Los Angeles and filed liens attaching gate receipts for the TV showing.

In Boston, the regional director of internal revenue, Alvin M. Kelley, said "the action taken this evening was to ensure payments to the United States of taxes derived from the entertainments."

There was no word on the amount involved, but it was expected to be in the millions.

Pre-fight forecasts had estimated a $5,000,000 take from the title match in Chicago, with most of the money expected from television showings.

Downes Verdicts Sugar Ray

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Terry Downes, former holder of part of the world middleweight title, outpointed Sugar Ray Robinson of New York in a ten-rounder at London's indoor Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Downes, 26, forced Robinson, from the start and the veteran American, five - times middleweight champion of the world, had no real answer to the tough Briton.

Yankees Nip Nats, Clinch 1962 Flag

By JIM HACKLEMAN

The New York Yankees officially clinched the 1962 American League pennant Tuesday by beating Washington's last-place Senators 5-3.

Two of the Yankees' long-time stars, left-hander Whitey Ford and slugger Mickey Mantle, fittingly led the Bombers to the deciding victory. Ford was the winning pitcher, Mantle paced the 18 - hit attack with four singles.

Moments after the final out, and with the flag safely in Yanks possession, Cleveland Indians polished off New York's closest pursuers, the Minnesota Twins, 5-1. That left the Yanks 5½ games in front with four to play.

For the Yankees it is the 29th league title, their 12th in the last 34 years and their third straight.

WAS A STRUGGLE

But it was a long time coming. Slowed down by injuries to Mantle, Bill and last year's relief standout, Luis Arroyo, and hampered by Sub-par play on the part of several other key men, the Yankees were never really able to take charge. Dwelling on their own, and forced to withstand the surprise challenges of the Twins and the Los Angeles Angels, what was expected to be a season-long romp became a season-long struggle.

Next up the Yankees is another World Series — this one against either Los Angeles Dodgers or San Francisco Giants, currently waging a stiff duel for the National League championship.

Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Detroit topped Los Angeles 3-2 when Al Kaline tripled in two unearned runs after two were out in the last of the ninth inning and Boston blanked Chicago 6-0 on Bill Monbouquette's five-hit pitching. The Kansas City-Baltimore game was postponed because of threatening weather.

The Yankees picked up a run in the first inning against loser Bennie Daniels on Bobby Richardson's single, a passed ball and Mantle's first hit. Then, after the Senators pulled even, New York took the lead for good in the last of the second when Dale Long singled, stole second and rode in on Tony Kubek's single. The Yanks nicked Daniels for another run in the third and then iced it against Steve Hamilton with two runs in the fifth. Bill Skowron later added a home run to the night's output.

WINS 17TH

Ford was touched for a dozen hits, all singles, and allowed three walks but battled through to the end for his 17th victory against eight losses. Washington stranded 11 base runners.

Pedro Ramos, an ex-Yank turned back Minnesota on seven hits and bested his fellow Cuban and former team - mate Camilo Pascual, who was after his 20th victory. Harmon Killebrew shot the Twins into a brief lead when he hit his 46th homer in the top of the second but Yanks took command in their half of the inning on Woodie Held's two-run homer.

Then in a wild third, Pascual walked one batter and two others scored on a throwing error by Zoilo Versalles.

Kaline belted his clutch triple with two out in the bottom of ninth after Jake Wood's single and an error by pitcher Ted Bowsfield gave the Tigers two runners.

Detroit centre fielder Bill Bruton suffered a broken jaw in a collision with Kaline in the top of the ninth and will be unable to play for six weeks, meaning that he probably will miss the Tigers' post-season trip to Japan.

Frank Malzone supported by Monbouquette's shutout pitching knocking in three runs with a pair of singles.

'Weatherly' Takes Series 4-1

Yanks Retain 'Ugly Mug'

Boston Monbouquette, now 14-13, struck out five and walked one.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Matchmaking will not wells tonight. But the 12th America's Cup stays in its New York yacht Club showcase until Britain takes the next crack at it, probably in a year or two.

An English challenge is expected, and yacht club officials said it would be accepted if it is received in the next 30 days. No date was set for the series.

The gallant Australian bid for the 111-year-old America's Cup ended off Newport Tuesday when the Americans defeated Sir Westerly defeated the Australian Dogo Gretel by a half-mile margin.

The victory gave the Americans, four of five races, four races to one.

It was the 18th unsuccessful challenge for the 'old' ocean sailer mug, which has never left the New York Yacht Club.

The gallant Australian bid was doomed to fail in the ill-fated pre-war challenges of Sir Thomas Lipton and T. O. M. Sopwith early in the final race.

Weatherly skipper Bus Mosbacher called the best sailor in the world at handling a skittish Moseley sailing ship into the wind, jumped off to a lead within minutes after the start.

Except for the stirring miscue rally on the third leg, which Mosbacher brushed off by sailing racing wider, Weatherly sided steadily to the lead, which doubled to three minutes and 40 seconds at the end.

As the two crews slumped to the deck at the finish, fire hoses threw streams of water into the air, and skyrockets sailed roman candles pierced the gloom.

CHAMPAGNE FLOWED

Weatherly broke out champagne and beer hidden below deck. It was well shaken up by the choppy sea, whipped up by almost perfect racing winds ranging from 10 to 16 knots, with fists in the 20's.

The crews shared genuine respect, and the Aussies had become so popular in this historic city that Americans in the spectator fleet run out and felt a tug at their patriotism as the challenge subsided.

"The Americans were too damn good," said Sir Frank Packer, chief of the Australian syndicate that mounted the challenge. "I suppose the sun will come up tomorrow just the same."

"The best side won the series," said Jock Sturrock, skipper of Gretel, who skunned American yachtsmen here by winning the second race of the series, and staging the closest pursuit in cup history in the fourth.

All in Sport

"I understand you're going hunting right after the series. Can you see anything smaller than a elephant?"

Games Fund Close to Objective

MONTREAL (CP) — President Jack Davies of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games Association of Canada reported to a meeting Monday night that its objective of $100,000 has almost been reached.

"We have about 90,000 raised so far and expect to get the balance before we depart for Australia," he said.

He said Canada's athletes will be quartered at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver for the day and night stop-over before leaving at midnight Nov. 9 for Perth, site of the 1962 Games.

The meeting named Carl Schwenker of Montreal as coach, team manager and consultant with the fencing team. He replaces Jack Dalton of Toronto, previously named manager who had asked that his name be withdrawn.

The meeting sanctioned Robert M. Baker as a replacement for Keith Donald on the rowing team's eights. Donald has decided to stay at home because of his studies.

FEWER MILLIONAIRES

The number of Swedish millionaires — persons with more than 1,000,000 kroner ($200,000) totalled 2,360 in 1961, a drop of 11 from 1960.

NHL Training Camps

Chicago Black Hawks, beaten in the Stanley Cup finals last spring, haven't lost a hockey game since.

The Hawks, third-place finishers in the regular National Hockey League schedule, racked up their fifth straight pre-season exhibition victory Tuesday night, defeating Cleveland Barons of the American League 4-2 at St. Thomas.

In other action Tuesday night, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins whipped minor league teams by identical 6-2 scores.

Leafs rapped San Francisco Seals and the Western League at Chilliwack, B.C. and Bruins avenged Monday's 2-1 loss to Hull-Ottawa Canadiens by whipping the Eastern Professional League team at Sackville.

Chicago's strong start must be pleasing coach Rudy Pilous, who spent all summer thinking about the Stanley Cup finals in which the Hawks bowed to Toronto in six games.

WIN OVER LEAFS

While the Hawks have played only two games against NHL opposition in their five - game streak both of those games were wins over Leafs.

Chicago was without centre Stan Mikita who is nursing a sprained wrist and bruised elbow.

American League clubs were also busy Tuesday night.

Rochester American hunched the powerful Springfield Indians 3 to 2, Bowmanville Buffalo Bisons, using players from the new Syracuse Braves of the Eastern Professional League, whipped Hershey Bears 5-0.

Ousted Suns, Meet Colonels

Crackers Capture Crown

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Atlanta Crackers captured the International League playoff crown Tuesday night by defeating Jacksonville Suns 3-1 in the seventh and deciding game of their series.

Cracker hurler Ray Sadecki cut down the Suns on five hits in the fifth and seventh and Joe Morgan's double in the eighth brought home Sadecki with the final score.

Jacksonville scored in the ninth after Sadecki gave up singles by Jose Pagan, Ray Barker scored when Mike de la Hoz hit into a force out.

INJURY NOT SERIOUS

NEW YORK (AP) — A track veternarian said Tuesday the injury suffered by Ridan in the running of the Discovery Handicap at Aqueduct was not serious, but the three-year old star is expected to skip the $100,000 Woodward Stakes Saturday.

Dr. Manuel Gilman said there was a two-inch cut over the left hind foot on the pastern of Ridan, who was expected to meet Kelso, Jaipur and others in the 1¼-mile Woodward.

Trimmed To Two Games

Giants Cut Dodger Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Walt Alston, the close-to-the-vest Los Angeles manager, turned riverboat gambler in a bold bid to take his first-place Dodgers a step closer to the National League pennant jackpot with his ace-in-the-hole Pete. But the second-place San Francisco Giants picked up the chips. Alston named his ace, 25-game winner Don Drysdale, to start against Houston Tuesday night with only one day's rest. Drysdale did well in his ironman effort, but got the Nationals' 98th inning home run off Ed Roebuck that gave the Colts a 5-4 decision over the Dodgers Tuesday night.

The defeat trimmed a full game off their lead and left them only two games in front of the pursuing Giants, who closed in as Willie McCormack, former National League star with Pittsburgh and Montreal, will handle the champion team. Last year's coach, Bob Scheffing, moved up to the manager's post.

Bobby Atterlaey, with Kingston Professionals in the Eastern Professional League last season, will coach the Atterleys, a Whitby resident, was a star with Whitby Dunlops, world champions in 1958.

Jim Gregory, trainer of the St. Michael's College Memorial Cup champs in 1961 and manager of the league - champion Majors last season, has been appointed coach at Nell McNeil.

Wren Blair, personnel director of Boston Bruins of the NHL, managers of Kingston Generals, said Tuesday night he will appoint a coach next week.

New Mentors In Metro Junior 'A'

TORONTO (CP) — Programs will be needed to identify the coaches when this season opens in the Metro Junior-A group of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Only one coach is sure to return in the six-team league. Four teams will bring new faces to the coaching ranks and the fifth — Toronto Marlboros — are still dickering with holdout Turk Broda.

Johnny Peanuts O'Flaherty, who took over the Unionville team late last season, has a team with a new name this year, Knob Hill Farms.

Four of the teams will play their home games at Maple Leaf Gardens, Marlboros, Knob Hill and the new Nell McNeil and Oshawa Generals, centre.

Brampton and Whitby will play at their own rinks.

BLIND FOLK SINGER—Blind folk singer Fred McKenna has used his, dark glasses and battered guitar as his trade-mark for the last two summers on CBC TV's "Singalong Jubilee." Fredericton Native, Blind Since Birth, Familiar to Canadian Television Viewers

By DAVE PIKE

HALIFAX (CP) — It's been said of Fred McKenna that, providing he lives a good agent and his blindness and obesity don't aborten his life span, he can become one of the top folk singers in North America.

But Fred and his blind wife don't want to leave the Maritimes right now. "My wife and I, we've had enough of the travelling, the constant living out a while. We want to quit that for a while, settle down, buy a house."

The 28 - year - old native of Fredericton, blind since birth, is familiar to Canadian television viewers as the gargantuan man with the dark glasses and battered guitar who has been flavoring CBC - TV's Singalong Jubilee for the last two summers with satirical remarks and pungent songs.

Ironically, Fred came up as a guitar-twanging, fiddle-playing entertainer because he was too awkward with his hands to learn a trade. At the Halifax school for the blind, he studied piano for two years, only to be told he'd never make it.

"Well, if all else fails now, I can always back on piano playing for a living," he said in an interview.

STARTED AT 16

He was about 16 when he started playing for dances, and he also went through the grind of performing with country and western stage shows, mainly in the Maritimes and the Gaspe country of Quebec.

Fred doesn't find that blindness interferes too much with his singing and playing. He memorizes songs from tape recordings, and CBC producer Bill Langstroth says he has a tremendous memory.

But blindness in private life does present a problem.

"Don't tell me blind people aren't discriminated against. People think that because you're blind - you're helpless.

"Most people are dead set against renting houses to blind people. They think they're going to sell fire to the place or run fall down a flight of stairs and sue them. I've been around 28 years and I've never set fire or tumbled down the stairs yet."

As he was speaking he neatly flicked cigarette ash into a tray.

JOBS ARE TOUGH

"It's tough getting jobs, too, jobs a blind man can do as well as anyone. But I've managed to make a living in a pretty tough business, and my wife has no trouble keeping the home."

In many ways, he feels that the hardest thing that ever happened to him was when he fell last spring and cut a ten don in his left hand. He hasn't been able to fiddle since, and for a man with bluegrass music coursing through his brain it's like Glenn Gould finding his fingers chopped off at the knuckles.

"All the time I was in the hospital I didn't know if I'd ever work again, and not because of it the kid was on the way. I figured I'd get the sack because I was over and I had exactly one month to limber up for the Singalong show. I had visions of using three - finger guitar."

He started practising a couple of weeks before his doctor would allow him, went on to the Singalong show to become one of its most popular performers.

At present, although he has several irons in the fire, Fred has no idea what he will be doing next summer. "But if I starve, I'll starve at home."

At the Belle

Yul Brynner stars as Arab Rebel in Technicolor Adventure Film.

Yul Brynner, whom the late Cecil B. DeMille described as "the most powerful personality I've seen on the screen", is an enigma to millions of movie - goers - a fascinating, glamorous personality on the screen, an an unknown, even mysterious quantity in private life.

His new Paramount Technicolor and CinemaScope thriller is loaded with tension, suspense, thrills and several romantic touches. Yul Brynner, the swashbuckling Arab leader dedicated to the overthrow of British government again scores with a strong character-ization adding another colorful role to his many screen portrayals. This role is ideally suited to his forceful personality. Sal Mineo, remembered for juvenile roles in previous pictures blossoms forth as a young rebel in this thrilling drama and is bound to attract larger legions of film fans because of his sensational role, co-stars with Jack Warden and Madlyn Rhue.

This suspenseful Technicolor drama, "Escape From Zahrain", is playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre in Belleville. Performances begin at 7.00 and 8.30 p.m.

Dr. Mutchmor Makes Reply to Minister's Letter

TORONTO (CP) — Rt. Rev. James Mutchmor said Monday the United Church of Canada is a church in the reform tradition in which every minister has the right to speak in accordance with his conscience.

Dr. Mutchmor, newly-elected moderator of the church, was commenting on a statement by Rev. Glynn Firth of Bathurst Street United Church here that the general public regards Dr. Mutchmor as a "narrow-minded bigot who is constantly up in arms over flies - flecked beer glasses and torn pari - mutuel tickets."

Mr. Firth read an open letter to his congregation Sunday calling on the moderator to correct this "most distorted picture."

"You are a sufficiently mature person that you can dismiss this misconception with a smile," said the letter.

ACCUSATION STINGS

"But there is also abroad in this land a picture of the United Church of Canada as a moralistic, small-minded sect which tries to legislate goodness through the whole nation, and there is enough truth in the accusation to make it sting."

Dr. Mutchmor said every minister of the United Church enjoys "freedom to prophesy." He added that this right was made explicit and reaffirmed at a 1940 general council meeting in Winnipeg.

He said he was not surprised at the letter because the general council meeting just finished in London, Ont., did deal with controversial issues.

Dr. Mutchmor said the letter, like all mail he receives, will go through the general council office and "if deemed wise will be laid before the next session of the executive or the executive of the general council the next time it meets."

Says Parents Arranged for $100 Abortion

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—A 17-year-old Toronto secretary testified Monday that her parents took her to a house in nearby Pickering last year and paid $100 to obtain an abortion for her.

The girl was one of five witnesses who testified at the preliminary hearing of two women and a man on 12 charges of using means to secure an abortion, and one charge each of conspiracy.

Mrs. Thelma Elolie Blackburn, 52, of Pickering faces 12 charges and Mrs. Clara Adeline Churchill, 56, of Toronto faces three charges. They face four charges jointly and four conspiracy charges were withdrawn.

Another witness, referred to as Mrs. G., a Toronto housewife, said she arranged in May this year to have an abortion costing $200 and was given directions to Ninga Kenaels in Pickering. A girl from Ottawa was in another room of the house at the same time.

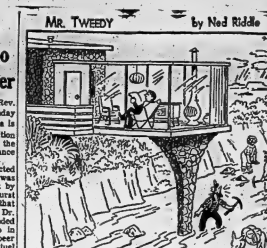
Mrs. G said Mrs. Blackburn told her that if she knew of anyone else who might require similar treatment she should refer them to her.

Henry Wright Simpson, 74, of Toronto appeared at the preliminary hearing on two charges of conspiring to procure an abortion. He was discharged on one charge and the second was withdrawn.

General Motors Increases Time Of Warranty

OSHAWA (CP) — General Motors of Canada announced Monday an extension of the warranty on 1963 model passenger cars and trucks to 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.

This doubles the time and mileage of GM's previous warranty.



The policy provides a manufacturer's warranty against defects in material and workmanship and covers both the original owner of the vehicle and subsequent owners during the warranty time and mileage.

The warranty will cover the entire vehicle including all equipment and accessories manufactured or supplied by GM, except tires and tubes, and delivered to the original retail purchaser by an authorized GM dealer.

Repair or replacement of defective parts under the warranty will be made by the dealer without charge for parts and, if made at the dealer's place of business, without charge for labor.

OIL DEVELOPMENT

Canadian-Australian Oil Company, a Canadian-owned firm, has entered the intensified search for oil in New South Wales, Australia.

International Shell Oil Makes Successful Bid to Take Over Canadian Co.

TORONTO (CP)—The International Shell group has made a second and apparently successful move to take over Canadian Oil Companies Ltd.

The directors of Canadian Oil Tuesday night recommended acceptance of the new bid, which amounts to $52.50 a share or nearly $5 per cent more than an earlier offer that had been rejected.

Power Corp. of Canada Ltd.—Canadian Oil's biggest shareholder with about a one - third interest— as already announced its intention to accept the offer.

Both bids were made by Shell subsidiaries, the first by Hesper Oil Co. Ltd. and Tuesday's by Shell Investments Ltd.

Hesper offered July 22 to pay $13,915,850 — or about $39 a share for Canadian Oil's business and assets.

The directors of Canadian Oil, last Canadian-owned integrated oil company, rejected the bid saying the firms value was considerably in excess of the offer.

At the time the company emphasized it was "the only major Canadian - controlled, integrated oil company left in Canada," and said its Canadian ownership was been a prime factor in its philosophy and progress.

OPERATES 2,000 STATIONS

Canadian Oil products sell under the brand name "White Rose," and the firm's advertising features the slogan, "Canadians all the way." The company operates about 2,000 service stations in Canada.

Announcement of the July rejection went by telephone hookup to some 600 Canadian Oil employees in Montreal, Moncton, Sarnia, Winnipeg and Calgary.

Under the new offer Canadian Oil stockholders would receive $52.50 cash a s are plus a stock purchase warrant entitling them to purchase a depository certificate representing one - quarter of a share of common stock of Shell of Canada at a price of $20 in the period from Oct. 1, 1963, to Sept. 30, 1972.

Alternatively, they would receive $52.50 cash and one paid and non-assessable 5½-per-cent preference share of Shell Investments at $20 par value, convertible from Oct. 1, 1963, to Sept. 30, 1972, into a depository certificate representing a one-quarter of a class B share of Shell of Canada.

TO BE REDEEMABLE

The preference shares will be non-callable for a five - year period but thereafter will be redeemable at the option of Shell Investments at par and accrued interest.

Shell Investments is a Canadian company and a wholly-owned subsidiary in the Royal Dutch Shell group of companies which owns 50 per cent of the outstanding shares in Shell of Canada Ltd.

A statement by Canadian Oil said that in light of all t e circumstances obtaining, "the existing ownership of the company could no longer be maintained."

"The obligation, therefore, became one of recommending to the shareholders of the company the offer which in the opinion of t e board was in their best interests. Accordingly, the offer of Shell Investments Ltd. is recommended for acceptance by the shareholders of Canadian Oil."

The statement added that written assurances "have been given by Shell that personnel of Canadian Oil will continue their employment or generally the same terms and conditions as they now enjoy."

Canadian Oil closed on the Toronto Stock Market Tuesday at $47.25 a s are after earlier hitting a high for the year of $48.25 compared with a low for the year of $34.25. It has an authorized capital of 6,000,000 shares of which 2,618,370 are outstanding.

This Was The "N" Of it All

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — When Gretel, the Australian challenger for the America's Cup, sailed across the finish line in defeat Tuesday they immediately broke out the "N" flag.

Throughout the two weeks of competition this had been the signal of the Australians "that we do not wish to race tomorrow".

But Tuesday was the Gretel's fourth defeat in the best-of-seven series and closed out the competition.

Trustees Told Not to Forget Public Thinking

By JOHN MATTERS

CALGARY (CP) — Canada's school system can best reflect the different community needs if it remains firmly in the control of trustees at the local level, an Ontario educationist said Tuesday.

Prof. F. J. Bartlett of the Kingston board of education said trustees are elected essentially to look after the educational needs of a community. Voters do not realize there are some aspects of the school system which are controlled by provincial governments.

Speaking to the 31st annual convention of the Canadian School Trustees' Association, he told delegates they must not lose by indifference or default "the great virtues of local tradition established over more than a century ago across the country."

Prof. Bartlett, president of the association, said trustees must make sure there is no de-emphasis on a sound basic training in English language and literature, history, geography, mathematics and science.

'MUST BE WATCHFUL'

"School trustees must even be watchful to protect the hard core of education essential to the full life of us all."

School officials cannot be satisfied with the system of education as it was five years ago, he said. Neither should they think that the school's responsibility ends when a child reaches an age when he may leave.

Prof. Bartlett said a conference should be held within two or three years to bring together members of the CSTA, Canadian Catholic Trustees Association and the Association des Commissaires d'Ecole Catholiques de langue Francaise du Canada.

Dean S. N. F. Chant of the University of British Columbia's faculty of graduate studies could usefully provide a "steadying influence" which bridges the gap between the public and the schools.

'Empire' Another Tired Tale of the Old West

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ob-vision networks, is hoping there's visually, it's only the small, relatively unimportant details of ranch life—per television's idea of it—that have changed in the last 10 years.

The foreman of the Carret spread (500,000 acres of cattle, lumber, wheat and mines) gets round by helicopter, summons a vet when the steers fall sick and uses a solid gold cigarette lighter to fire up his tailormade. But his fate fly in traditional style even if he isn't a flat gunfighter any gun at all for that matter.

The opening program of Empire on NBC Tuesday night was a typical and tired tale of the West. It was the plot about the man unjustly accused of murder and evel' included the lynching part. It turned out well, as il always does, after our foreman—played in stalwart fashion by Richard Egan —solved things with a little lecture to the mob instead of a shoot-out. That's new.

Study Planned Of Implications In Federal Aid

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian school trustees decided Tuesday to make a thorough study of the constitutional issues involved in federal participation in education.

The 300 delegates attending the Canadian School Trustees Association convention here gave their executive the go-ahead to work on a formula for federal cost-sharing within the terms of the British North America Act.

Lindsay H. Place, a Montreal lawyer who was elected association president at the concluding session, indicated the organization may seek some of the best legal opinion in the country to work on the project.

"It would be presumptuous to say we'll find a solution," he said, "but I think we may find something which they (the federal government) will find hard to back out of."

Under the BNA Act the responsibility for financing education is vested in the provinces, which in turn delegate some of the powers to municipalities.

Mr. Place said a meeting which the association had tentatively had with Prime Minister Diefenbaker last year gave him the impression the federal government did not plan to admit it had any responsibility for education.

He said the association will continue its legal talent and possibly call on the law faculties of universities for help in finding a solution to the constitutional issues.

Inquiry Told Banks Rewrote SIU Constitution

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—Hal C. Banks changed the name of his Seafarers Union of Canada, made its constitution is sidestep the government's ban on ties to international unions to disclose their financial affairs, the Norris shipping inquiry was told Tuesday.

John J. Wood, 48, former director of the licensed division of the Seafarers International Union in Canada, made the changes in sworn testimony before the federal investigation into waterfront labor strife and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

Mr. Wood, who spent 30 months in the SIU before defecting in 1949, was flown here from a government coast guard ship operating out of Frobisher in the eastern Arctic. He had been subpoenaed by the commission, headed Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

He said he led lake marine engineers out of the National Association of Marine Engineers (an AFL union) in 1936 —largely through an amalgamation deal that he said was rigged from start to finish.

"LIKE A FARCE"

The whole thing was done like a farce," he said, recounting how ballots were marked in the NAME engineers' favor of amalgamation and how he destroyed other ballots opposing the merger.

Mr. Wood said he finally quit the SIU because he felt:

"If I'm going to go to jail for doing wrong, I want to go to jail for doing a good job . . . not because somebody else done wrong."

He said Mr. Banks told him of the change in the SIU's name and said it was done to avoid coming under the government's Labor Day Disclosure Act. This measure, when first introduced, was aimed at international unions in which Canadian companies operating in Canada had no interest. As approved by Parliament, but delayed to apply to both national and international companies and unions, so far, the legislation has not been proclaimed.

The union headed by Mr. Banks was formerly known as the Seafarers International Union of North America Canadian District, but a new constitution adopted in June, 1951, established it as an autonomous Canadian union known as the SIU of Canada.

Mr. Wood said Mr. Banks promised the marine engineers in the SIU's licensed division complete autonomy. However, he added, the promise never existed in reality, with Mr. Banks holding the purse strings, negotiating contracts and signing them himself.

"I was just becoming a rubber stamp," said Mr. Wood.

He said Mr. Banks offered a carrot and stick to shipowners to repudiate the National Association of Marine Engineers and sign up with the SIU for increased wages. The carrot was an offer to reduce the number of seamen needed on coastal ships, while the stick was a threat to tie up ships of reluctant shipping firms, he said.

Picton News

Ross Parks Premier Breeder Of Holsteins

PICTON — Ross Parks of Bloomfield won both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards at the Prince Edward County Black and White Day held September 21st at the County Fair at Picton. His Holsteins had won the premier breeder award last year also. The runner-up for both premier breeder and premier exhibitor this year was John J. May and Sons, Picton.

Ross Parks' entries stood first and second in the milking three-year-old class and these two went through to take the Senior and Grand and Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Championships. The Grand Champion also being the best uddered female on the show. She was Vrie Ba-dam Dixie, while the Reserve Grand Champion was Anne Tenth Pabst. They were described by Judge A. M. Barr, Kemptville, as a pair of good, clean sharp young cows and both a fine quality and excellent udders. The Reserve Grand Champion stood next to the Champion in the best uddered class. A close competitor for the Senior and Grand Championship was the first prize milking two-year-old, Ardendale Prima Lass, owned by J. C. Denard, Hillier.

The Grand Champion had been Reserve Grand Champion to Bellhaven Pabst Pride earlier in the season.

Ross Parks took all the championships except the Reserve Junior Championship for females which was won by John J. May and Sons on the winning senior heifer calf, Maycroft Nellie Wells. The Junior Champion was the winning senior yearling, Pat Pabst Countess Alice, and Junior Champion was also the first prize junior yearling Calamay Fancy Rose, being both the Junior and Grand Champion for Ross Parks with the Parks' senior bull calf Parkdale Count Hector taking the Reserve Junior and Reserve Grand Championship. John J. May and Sons had the winning junior bull calf. John J. May and Sons won both the senior and junior get-of-sire classes taking the senior get on the get of Pabst Walker and the junior get on the get of Rosels "Hector. Ross Parks showed the winning produce of dam on the progeny of Park Acres' Apple Knight Colantha. John J. May and Sons had the first prize junior herd.

Other prizes awarded included: G. N. Rose, Picton, first dry aged cow; J. C. Denard, Picton, first dry three-year-old; J. C. Denard, Hillier, first prize junior two-year-old; Ross Parks, first aged cow in milk; first four-year-old in milk, first dry four-year-old and first junior yearling calf; John J. May and Sons, first dry two-year-old. A total of 35 head were shown by eight exhibitors.

Govt. Ban On Movement Of Pigs Lifted

PICTON — Lifting of the government ban on the movement of pigs, is making it possible for Picton livestock sales barn to resume operations on October 3. The quarantine imposed on all cattle barns last month due to the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the eastern counties. The ban was officially lifted on Monday in all counties west of Glengarry.

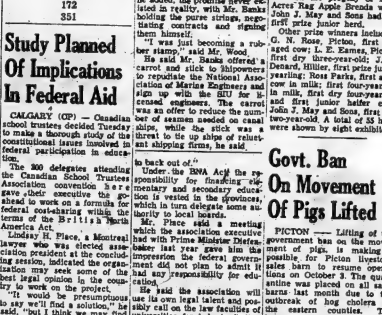
Quinte Cattle Breeders Association Special — 1st Elizabeth Eames; 2nd Jim Huffman; 3rd Barbara Doxsee; 4th, Lloyd Spencer; 5th Ronald Tomlinson.

Finalists in the F. J. Webster Showmanship Competition were Vancleif and Ron Ruston first and Marshall Tubbs second. Women; George Black and Larry Root, first and second beef calf Showmen. Janet Parks and Marshall Tubbs, first and second dairy Showmen. Each finalist was required to show dairy, beef and swine. Lyle Vancleif was declared the Champion Showman and Marshall Tubbs the Reserve Champion. Lyle will receive the Webster Memorial Trophy and Marshall will receive a calf blanket donated by the Prince Edward Co-Operative.

Walts Need Game to Tie OASA Series

PICTON — Though late fall and winter sports are taking the front pages, ball teams are battling for their championships in the Ontario Intermediate "C" softball semi-finals. They took their first game at Merlin (near Tilbrook) 4-2 at the weekend. The Merlin team consists of Merlin (Tilbrook) Saturday night. If a third game is necessary it will be played in Bellevue on Monday.



In Picton district softball league, Picton Elks overcame eliminated McFarlands and Wellington ousted Outlet Park Saturday night.

The Merchants and Wellington will meet the finals for the league championship.

Fire Destroys Sports Car

PICTON — Fire completely destroyed a Morgan sports car owned by Cyril Lalonde, R.R. 5, Picton. He was driving the vehicle on Highway 33, one mile west of Picton when flames began to shoot from beneath the hood. Before the Bloomfield, fire department arrived the car was a mass of flames. Mr. Lalonde escaped injury.

Christmas Store Hours Set By Merchants

PICTON — Re-organization of Picton Retail Merchants' Association this week saw Alan Anderson named president; Mrs. John Baird secretary and a board of directors to represent various types of business.

Following a discussion on store hours it was decided that during all December stores remain open Wednesday afternoons, also Wednesday and Thursday nights, Dec. 3 and 6, 12 and 13, as well as on Fridays. The week before Christmas they will be open every night. On Dec. 24 they will close at 5 p.m. and remain closed on Boxing Day.

Plans for a pre-Christmas parade of values promotion is to be finalized at a meeting on October 15.

Obituary

H. M. FYNE

PICTON—A Picton businessman for many years, Harry Mortimer Fyne, died in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, Thursday, September 20, 1952. He had been in failing health for a year and had retired from activity in the insurance field about two years ago.

Born on November 2, 1893, at Fish Lake, he was the son of Joseph Henry Fyne and his wife Sarah Thompson. His early years were spent at Demorestville and later farmed in Hillier township. He attended O.B.C. at Belleville and entered the insurance business at Wellington, in Shelburne for eleven years and in Picton for four years. He was a past Confidence of a large clientele.

Mr. Fyne was a great lover of horses, for many years showed his fine drawing horses at Picton and other fairs.

He was a member of the United Church and a citizen who was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Fred M. Campbell of Vancouver and two granddaughters, Judith and Nancy Campbell. His parents and brother, Jack Fyne, predeceased him.

Rev. V.E.R. Sufelt conducted the services at the Hick's Funeral Home Saturday afternoon. Interment was in Glenwood Cemetery, Bloomfield. The bearers were Clarence Calnan, George Jones, Les Thompson, Hilton McCartney, Frank M. Hawken and Ernest Bennett.

Among those attending the services were Mrs. Ed. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollingworth, Toronto; Frank Palmer of Bannockburn; Mrs. Harold Molora; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fyne, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fyne and many friends from Belleville and Wellington.

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South Africa, which switched to decimal coinage last year, is now considering adopting the metric system for weights and measures. It was announced Tuesday.

May Bring in U.S. Troops To Enforce Integration

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—With the possibility mounting that federal troops will be used to enforce court desegregation edicts, Negro James H. Meredith plans to try today for the third time to enrol at the all-white University of Mississippi.

Governor Ross Barnett—who has twice dallied federal orders in vaulting to let Meredith enrol at Mississippi — was expected to fly to the campus at Oxford and attempt to block the 29-year-old Korean War veteran's admission.

Barnett refused to allow Meredith to register with the state college board at Jackson Tuesday. Four hours later the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals directed the governor to appear in court in New Orleans Friday to face contempt charges.

The university's registrar, Robert B. Ellis, said he would be in his office today to register Meredith if he appeared.

Ellis said he would act under direct orders from the state college board and federal courts.

Barnett has vowed to go to jail rather than desegregate the university after he received his law degree with honors.

He also has threatened to close the school.

In Washington, Justice department sources said the department was determined to go through with Meredith's enrolment. The sources refused to forecast the department's next steps, but they did not rule out the use of federal troops.

Barnett brushed aside Tuesday's directive from the appeals court restraining him and virtually all of the state's peace officers from interfering with the registration of Meredith.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Sam Wahl of the office of the state college board office, He refused to accept copies of the court's directive and then read a proclamation asserting the state's sovereignty in the case.

Last Thursday, Barnett personally took over supervision of registrar and refused to let Meredith enrol at the university.

Quebec Court Jails Man for Ontario Crime

MONTREAL (CP)—Criminal court in Montreal sentenced an Ontario court Tuesday, giving a two-year prison sentence for passing counterfeit money in Elliot Lake, Ont., two years ago.

The transfer of powers was effected under a little-used and nearly unknown law allowing one province to delegate its criminal jurisdiction to another provided the accused is already in jail in the second province, and provided he pleads guilty.

Fernand Joseph Dallaire is serving a 3-year term for auto theft, and he pleaded guilty to the counterfeit offence.

Judge John O'Meara ordered the sentence for the Ontario offence served concurrently with the theft sentence.

CHAPLAIN APPOINTED

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. J.F. Leduc of Montreal, Que., of Iberville, Que., has been appointed Roman Catholic command chaplain of the army's western Command headquarters in Edmonton, it was announced Tuesday. Formerly deputy director of chaplain services at northern headquarters, Col. Leduc also has served at Camp Borden, Ont., with Canadian troops in Germany and at Eastern Command headquarters in Halifax.

VOTE AGAINST LIQUOR

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP)—Ratepayers voted Monday against the sale of liquor by dining and cocktail lounges in this community 15 miles north of Chatham. Dresden Clerk James Barnes said official figures would not be available until today.

CAMPBELLFORD

England Still Champion Of Liberty, Moral Ideals

CAMPBELLFORD — "England still has a conscience. She is still capable of going to war for another's cause, is still the champion of civil liberty and is still a leader in moral issues, culture and ideals. As long as this is true, England will count in world affairs". These remarks were the climax to an address by Rev. R. M. Verity at the Rotary Club on Monday.

Mr. Verity has been rector at Christ Church in Campbellford for the past three months, an exchange having been made with Rev. Owen Barrow. Mr. Verity comes from Fordingbridge, England, where Mr. Barrow has been preaching since July.

The speaker stated, at the beginning that England is still going strong; there is no unemployment and many of the traditional things associated with the country have been modified. He said that his son is attending Cambridge University, which required a high academic record rather than an aristocratic background as a condition of entry. Eighty per cent of the students there are supported by county grants.

HEAVY TAXES

Taxation in England is much more heavier than in Canada and death duties have forced most of the great estates out of existance. Of those remaining, many are open to the public for a fee. In this connection, Mr. Verity said he had thoroughly enjoyed a visit to the Upper Canada Village which gives a delightful peek at the past. He referred to the partial disappearance of classes among the people with mixed feelings, saying that he was sorry for the levelling down process in the country.

He stated that he regrets the high wages paid to youths immediately upon leaving school, and, he feels that the great purchasing power in the hands of those in their middle teens is quite often a bad thing.

The monarchy, like everything else, has been openly criticised by the press. Nevertheless, the Queen and Queen Mother are loved and secure in the affections of the people, he said.

TRADE UNIONS POSITION

He regretted the position taken politically by the trade unions and said the unions had won everything for which they had been formed and they should not exert undue political interference.

Great Britain is no longer a giant world power. The empire has largely disappeared; India has been given India, but trade and relationships are still most favorable. The Mother Country is plagued at home by Pacifists and other factors. The fact remains, however, that England can't disarm now. It is a historical fact that every weapon ever invented has sooner or later been used, and this fact puts her in the position of a "sitting duck." A small nation of 50 million people who must defend herself.

DODGE IS LONGER, ROOMIER IN 1963

Passenger comfort, one of the pre-requisites of happy motoring, is assured by the longer, roomier Dodge for 1963 from Chrysler of Canada. The Dodge wheelbase has been increased from 116 to 119 inches, adding six inches to its overall length which provides added space in the front and back seats and the trunk. The 1963 Dodge also features improved body anti-corrosion dip, fuel system and engine lubrication improvement, an alternator as standard equipment, and longer-life exhaust systems. The principal components of the engine to rear axle power-train on all 1963 Chrysler products are now backed by a 5-year-50,000 mile warranty.

McGill Uses TV to Solve Over-Crowding

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill University has inaugurated a system of lectures at long range.

About 125 students of a class of 500 were surprised Monday when they entered their lecture hall in the physical sciences building and found no professor. Just a screen five feet wide.

In due time, Professor J. S. Marshall appeared on the screen and delivered McGill's first television lecture on elementary physics.

Television is McGill's way of coping with the space problem. Last year, the same course had to be given in four shifts because one hall wouldn't hold all the students.

This time the class was split between two halls, one of them equipped with the professor himself and the other his image.

Astrological Forecast

For September 27
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Encourage independence on part of associates. Show appreciation for past efforts. Excellent for laying groundwork of future projects. Welcome new opportunities.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Necessary to confide in one close to you. Very important that you share hopes, wishes. Romance highlighted. You can find happiness through new person in your life.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Tendency is to scatter your forces. But strive to finish one thing at a time. Senseless to ride off in all directions at once. You are very restless. This can be advantageous if you move toward definite goal.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Exciting experiments involving friends, hobbies indicated. Good for writing, efforts in connection with profession. Give your best. Rewards will be forthcoming soon.

Leo (July 23 to August 21) Key is change, travel, creative effort. Good for putting thoughts on paper, for communicating with persons in a position to aid you. Cycle high, means those in authority are willing to listen.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Your appreciation of beauty, artistic endeavor wins admiration. If you like something today, say so! Fine for bettering domestic relationships.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Tendency to go to extremes should be avoided. Seek balance. Try to perceive the true motives of others. See them for what they really are. Evening is fine for relaxation with friends.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Favorable Mars aspect stresses ability to communicate thoughts. Means you can "get action" on ideas, favored projects. Very good for heart-to-heart talk. Understanding is key.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Important that you are generous, willing to overlook minor faults. Stress Universal Appeal. You gain by seeing project as a whole, and by advertising your aim.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Like Aries be alert to opportunity for added independence. Easy way out is not most beneficial today. Spotlight originality. Push ahead despite attempts to discourage you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Loved one may report error in budget on spell of extravagance. You should not take self-righteous attitude. Instead be understanding. You will be happier for so doing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Favorable Mars, Venus aspect today stresses love, mental stimulation. Steer clear of outside forces which beckon with the siren call of "super-bargains." Wait, ask questions. Be practical.

If today is your birthday you have achieved much, but now you want to meet new persons, accept added challenge. Next month sees much of what you desire coming to fore.

GENERAL TENDENCIES—News of space achievements and improved methods of communication.

SPLIT DECISION IN TWO LIQUOR VOTES

Today's Opening Of Parliament Showy Affair

Turnout Is Splashiest Since Visit of Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—Today's opening of Parliament shaped up as the splashiest since Queen Elizabeth visited Ottawa in 1957 to launch the Parliament of that year.

Some 1,000 formally-dressed parliamentarians and guests were expected to crowd into the ornate Senate chamber to hear the reading of the speech from the throne in English and French by Governor - General Vanier, sketching the Progressive Conservative administration's legislative program.

The governor-general, wearing the uniform of a major-general, and Mme. Vanier were scheduled to arrive at the main door of Parliament's centre block after a two-mile drive in an RCMP-escorted, horse-drawn state carriage from Government House.

A 21-gun salute was to be fired on Nepean Point on his arrival—repeated on his departure—and Gen. Vanier was to inspect a 100-man guard of honor from the Canadian Guards before entering the Parliament building.

FOLLOW TRADITION

Once the governor-general is seated on the Senate throne, the ceremonies follow a pattern that is centuries old.

The gentleman usher of the black rod, Major C. R. Lamoureux, walks down the long marble halls of Parliament to summon the members of the House of Commons to the Senate for the reading of the throne speech.

The people's elected representatives, because they are commoners, are not permitted on the floor of the upper house and have to crowd into limited standing space behind a brass bar just inside the Senate door.

Members of the Senate and their wives and guests are seated on the floor of the chamber and in the galleries. The evening gowns, uniforms of the military and distinctive national costumes of members of the diplomatic corps add a splash of color to the ceremony, televised nationally.

After the reading of the throne speech, parliamentarians return to their own chamber where the prime minister introduces the Bill of Rights which establishes the Commons' right to debate the speech regardless of whether it is specifically mentioned in the throne speech. It is a tradition and procedure to blank piece of paper which is not heard from again during the session.

Before the afternoon Senate sitting ends, the two houses of Parliament scheduled their morning sittings—the Senate for 10:30 a.m. and the House of Commons and the Commons to elect a Speaker.

The session's first major firework start Monday with the opening of the week - end debate, which can run a maximum of eight days.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT UP IN SECOND QUARTER

Higher Prices Account for Gain

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's national output, buoyed by rising exports and government spending, expanded to an annual rate of $39,424,000,000 in the second quarter of this year, up 1.3 per cent from the year's first quarter.

Higher prices accounted for about one-third of the gain, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in its report on the gross national product.

The economic expansion was slightly slower than the 2.4-per-cent gain registered in the first quarter of the year, when national output—adjusted to offset seasonal factors—hit an annual rate of $38,940,000,000.

The economy's growth rate made it appear likely that the government's April 10 budget forecast of a seven-per-cent rise in gross national product to around $38,025,000,000 for the full year would be achieved and perhaps exceeded.

To hit that mark would require a national output in the last half of the year averaging some $39,700,000,000 — only 0.7 per cent higher than the first-half average of $39,132,000,000. This compares with the 3.9-per-cent gain marked up in the first half over the closing six months of 1961.

CONSUMER DECISION

Today's report indicated there is plenty of purchasing power available to provide an impetus to the economy, if consumers decide to loosen their purse strings.

During the second quarter, consumer spending rose by only one half of one per cent—almost all of the increase due to higher consumer prices.

But personal incomes advanced 2.4 per cent, due mainly to exceptionally large payments to Prairie farmers by the Canadian Wheat Board. Personal saving showed "an unusually sharp increase." Labor income rose by 1.6 per cent, slightly less than the first-quarter advance.

Corporation profits, before taxes and dividend payments abroad, climbed three per cent to offset a similar decline in the first quarter. This left profits at record levels, more than 30 per cent higher than the low point of the business cycle in the first three months of last year.

With consumer spending sluggish, the main expansionary influences came from a five-per-cent rise in exports and a four-per-cent gain in spending by all levels of government.

ONE-PER-CENT GAIN

Discounting it for prices, there was a gain of about one per cent in the volume of the nation's production. Expressed

Rabbi's Wife Calls Mosley Anti-Semite

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Sir Oswald Mosley withstood a barrage of heckling Wednesday in defending his pro-war fascism and post-war philosophy at a gathering of 4,500 persons at the University of Buffalo.

He said he was no longer a Fascist in the pre-war sense.

Mosley, a 66-year-old Baronet exiled in England during the Second World War for his Nazi sympathies, spoke at the invitation of the student senate. The invitation drew hard denunciations on many fronts.

"Chuck him out," one women screamed.

"You are an anti-semite; you will die an anti-semite," shouted Mrs. Isaac Kelin, wife of a Buffalo rabbi.

In his address Mosley said he supported a union of all European countries under a common government.

"We must make Europe a nation with a European government forthwith," he said.

SEEN AS BALANCE

Mosley said a European government would provide a balance between the United States and Soviet Russia in addition and ease tension between the East and West.

Earlier, more than 500 students demonstrated in protest against Mosley's appearance. Some students jeered and others carried signs.

Mosley, Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller told reporters he personally deplored Mosley's appearance in Buffalo.

"But," he said, "this (the U.S.) is a free country and once the decision has been made that's their privilege."

Sarnia Indian Boy Sent to Jail For Missing School Due to Grief

SARNIA (CP)—A 14-year-old Indian boy was sentenced here to an Ontario training school after missing four days of public school classes following the death of a cousin.

The boy was resulted from the complaint of a Sania truant officer.

The boy was taken from a Sarnia public school by two policemen. He said they came to the policemen by the school principal and was lodged in jail.

The boy, a ward of the training school, had been placed with his parents who live on an Indian reserve. His parents said the boy was grief-stricken at the death of a cousin in an accident last week and so missed classes.

Rev. Ross Bradley, minister of the United Church on the reserve, said there had been a definite miscarriage of justice and the boy had been denied his rights of law. He said he has assumed responsibility for the boy and has retained the services of a lawyer.

R. J. Skippon, chairman of the board of education, has said an accusation that the board used incriminating tactics in handling the case was "completely unfounded."

A hearing was held in police cells until a probation officer arrived from Toronto and took him to the training school today.

Harold Hopper of the Ontario probation services office in London said his office had originated the order to pick up the boy.

He said the boy was not on probation but that he was a ward of the training school and the office could do nothing but act upon the complaint of the Sarnia truant officer.

Report That Long-Missing Gambler Seen Alive Jolts Royal Crime Commission

TORONTO (CP) — A' third-hand report that a long-missing gambler was alive jolted the figure has been seen alive jolted the Ontario royal commission on crime Wednesday into sending out an emergency call for a missing gambler linked to the report.

Felix Borelli, business and sporting man of Niagara Falls, Ont., will be today's opening witness as the result of a statement by gambler Joseph McDermott that Borelli recently reported the reappearance of Peter (Scrip) Mitchell, a fringe character in the Niagara area gambling world and occasional police informant.

Police had written off the elusive Mitchell as murdered and they indicated Wednesday the Borelli report has not changed this view.

While the Mitchell information speeded Borelli's appearance, he was to have been called as a witness at the inquiry later in any case, His name has been frequently associated with those of top gamblers McDermott and Vincent Ferlaro.

Surprise evidence Wednesday also turned the commission into a wafle a return appearance for

Mass Burials Are Planned For 300 Dead at Barcelona

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — The bereaved gathered their dead for mass burials in flood-ravaged Barcelona province today as the death toll mounted in Spain's worst natural disaster of modern times.

An official casualty list issued by provincial authorities said. 341 persons died in the rain-triggered floods, 546 were injured and 406 still were missing. More than 1,500 were without homes.

The raging waters destroyed at least 25 factories and partly wrecked 30 others, damage estimated at upwards of $80,000,000.

About 10,000 were left jobless by the floods, which laid waste a thickly populated industrial complex covering 150 square miles north and west of Barcelona, chief port of Spain.

Fed by a nine-hour rain and driven by hurricane - force winds, the racing waters quickly filled up river beds dry from a long drought, then swept far beyond the banks. They crumpled mills and bore

PAROLE BOARD HEAD WANTS LONGER TERMS

Habitual Criminals Could Be Helped

OTTAWA (CP) — The courts should be giving longer sentences to habitual criminals, the head of Canada's parole system said Wednesday.

Longer prison terms would give persistent criminals a better chance to reform and give society better protection, Parole Board Chairman T. George Street said.

"Even the prisoners I've talked to say it's a good idea," the former Welland magistrate told a press conference as he discussed his board's 1961 annual report issued Wednesday—a statistics-filled booklet printed by men in Kingston Penitentiary.

His views on long sentences for habitual offenders aren't included in the report, but it contains figures showing the effectiveness of the parole system.

FEW VIOLATE PAROLE

In the three years since the five-member board was set up in January, 1959, only 8.9 per cent of inmates released on parole have violated their parole.

Up to the end of last August, Mr. Street amplified, the rate was 9.2 per cent. By that time a total of 760 prisoners paroled.

"This is extremely low compared to other countries. But our system is very selective. We don't give parole unless we think there is a good chance for the man to reform."

Last year the parole board dealt with 8,330 parole cases—more than twice as many as 1959 now that its policy of automatic review of penitentiary sentences is in full operation.

PAROLES DECLINE

The number of paroles granted declined to 2,227 from 2,525 in 1960, Mr. Street said this was not due to any change in policy, but rather because of the "strictly selective" policy of the board.

Included in those paroled were 83 persons serving life sentences. Five of these were convicted murderers whose death sentences had been commuted by the federal cabinet to life imprisonment. Under the law, murderers with life terms must serve at least 10 years before becoming eligible for parole.

Mr. Street said 80 per cent of all criminals sentenced in Canada get terms of two years or less.

"If you give habitual criminals two years, it means nothing," he said.

Of 8,330 sentences, he added, didn't give parole officials enough time to meet with offenders and help rehabilitate them.

Mississippi Lieutenant-Governor Takes His Turn at Barring Negro

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—In a tense test of state vs. federal authority, two officials of the deep south state continue to bar Negro James Meredith as he integrate the University of Mississippi.

While the federal government wrestled with the decision of whether to jail Governor Ross Barnett-Governor Paul Johnson blocked Negro James H. Meredith from enrolling in the 104-year-old state university Wednesday.

It was Meredith's third unsuccessful try.

Johnson stood before a cordon of highway patrolmen at the Lafayette County courthouse as marshals arrived with the 29-year-old Meredith.

Johnson told the marshals his position was the same as Governor Ross Barnett's—that state law prohibits Meredith's admission. A few marshals tried to force their way through this human blockade.

It didn't work. They got back in their cars and drove off.

In Washington, Senator Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) said Mississippi's actions a kind of insurrection. He said the federal

Dining Lounges Win Approval, Bars Rejected

Votes Are So Close Recounts Seem Possible

Yesterday's liquor votes here ended in a split decision, unless possible recounts reverse the verdicts of one or other—or both—of the two questions placed before the approximately 18,000 eligible voters.

According to the preliminary count by election officials, under City Clerk Adam Stalker, who acted as returning officer, the sale of liquor with meals under dining lounge licences was approved by a vote of 6,149 in favor to 4,021 opposed. The affirmative vote represented 60.4 per cent of the total vote cast and the sale was thus approved by a small margin. A sixty per cent affirmative vote was necessary on both questions for their approval.

On the second question, the sale of liquor under a lounge licence, commonly referred to as a cocktail bar licence, the affirmative vote fell just short of the required 60 per cent. There were 6,033 voters who approved such sale, while 4,143 were opposed, the affirmative vote being 59.3 per cent of the total.

With the vote so close on both these questions, appeals or demands for a recount for a judge, would appear to be a distinct possibility, but this morning The Ontario Intelligencer is in touch with no official to obtain any comment from members of the finance committees which had sought affirmative and negative votes on these questions.

55 PER CENT VOTE

Of between 17,000 and 18,000 people eligible to vote on the question, only 10,176 voted on the more controversial of the two issues—the public lounge and 10,170 cast their votes on the dining lounge question, giving the plebiscite a turnout of roughly 55 per cent.

Three wards in the city rejected the questions with votes less than 60 per cent affirmative and the voting varied greatly. Ward Four gave the Ward three with 63.8 per cent for liquor with meals, Ward Two with 60.5 per cent and Ward One, with 60.5 per cent also supported the question. In Ward Two, the yes vote was 57.1 per cent and in Ward Five and Six the yes vote was approximately 55.6 per cent in each. The smallest poll, for which 270 people voted, went approximately 73 per cent for

Thinks Teaching Religion Breaks Law of 1852

TORONTO (CP)—The dean of Osgoode Hall Law School expressed the belief Wednesday night that a 1944 provincial regulation instituting religious classes in Ontario public schools contravenes an act of 1852 which is still on the books.

Dean H. Allan Leal suggested in an address to the Ethical Education Association that a test case on the regulations would "clarify the law" and remove uncertainties.

The dean said the Freedom of Worship Act, passed in 1852 by the United provinces of pre-sent-day Ontario and Quebec, is still on Ontario's lawbooks as part of the Rectories Act.

He said the law provided for "the free exercise and enjoyment of worship, without discrimination or preference."

In his opinion the 1944 regulation violated the "principle of egalitarianism in religious worship."

Dean Leal said he is opposed to religious indoctrination in public schools because it "would be a distinct possibility, but this morning The Ontario Intelligencer is in touch with no official to obtain any comment from members of the finance committees which had sought affirmative and negative votes on these questions.

Attorney - General Kennedy said the situation is serious.

"The question of federal power is at issue," Kennedy said. "That is, we'll use whatever is necessary to do the job, as I said a week or two ago."

The test may come Friday.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the 64-year-old Barnett to appear in New Orleans to face a contempt citation.

A similar order is set for Lieutenant - Governor Johnson Saturday before the same tribunal.

The key questions: Will Barnett appear in court? And if he doesn't, will the government arrest him?

Highlights in Recreation

S. JARVAH
Assistant Director

Know-how Recreation Director, his staff and their recreation program as it applies to you. Very few people other than those directly associated with the recreation department or recreation program are fully of the recreation program in their Community.

Surprisingly enough there is a large percentage of people who are of the opinion that a Recreation Director or his Assistants are merely interested in hockey and baseball.

The Recreation Director of today has on his shoulders, the entire recreation program of the city. There are some misinforming citizens even in the City of Belleville who feel that hockey and baseball constitute this "entire recreation program", as mentioned in the previous sentence.

When a municipality desires to initiate a Recreation program, the town or city council appoints a Recreation Committee. This Committee formulates policy and progress to Council and annual budget. Head of the Recreation program and responsible to the Recreation Committee, is the Recreation Director, and responsible to him are his assistants and office staff. Aside from the regular full-time staff, there is another group of people who play an important role in the Recreation program in this city. And they are the part-time and volunteer leaders who conduct the cultural, social, physical and special events in the Recreation program outlined by the Recreation Director.

The recreation program for the City of Belleville originates from the Recreation Centre. Here Recreation Director, L. G. Doran, and his assistant, S. Jarvah, set out to plan a recreation program for a city of over 30,000. Currently for the pre-teen and teenagers, there are the Quinte Young Timers and the Belleville Teen Town. Those interested in any type of Drama would certainly receive a warm welcome at the Belleville Theatre Guild. For the younger people in the community, the Senior Citizens Club provides enjoyment, good friends and a sense of belonging. Once again, as last year, we are conducting a wide and varied craft program which we are something for all. The Belleville Minor Sports Association handles the hockey, softball, baseball and soccer enthusiasts of the City, and of course during the summer months there is the summer playground program which last summer boasted a total attendance of over 50,000 for the 39 days that the playgrounds were in operation.

We could go on to mention the Coin Club, the Quinte Twisters, and the Chess Club, and if we kept going, we would find something for everyone, whether they be young or old, athletically minded, or inclined otherwise.

Thus, maybe now you have at least a glimpse of the Recreation Program being conducted for and by you in the City of Belleville. If you would like further information re any of the above clubs or organizations, please call WO 2-5463 or drop in at the Recreation office, 370 Pinnacle St. to see us.

Twin Sessions Will Be Held Each Evening

There will be two r each meeting the same at this year's Queen's U ty Summer School, ter Executive Program, D. F. D. Barrett, director of U. program announced today.

An increase in the numb of applications from high qualified executives in th Belleville-Kingston-Brockville area prompted the establishment for the first time of twin evening sessions.

The program, being offered for the fourth year, has attracted more and more applications each fall from area businessmen who desire to gain new insight into the art and practice of modern management through classroom study. Since the course was begun in 1959 nearly 300 executives from the Eastern Ontario area have taken the courses.

With the October 3rd beginning of this year's program still a few weeks away, over 90 applications have already been received and Dr. Barrett expects applications will exceed 130. Sixty-six was the maximum that could be accommodated in one group.

To avoid turning down qualified applicants this year, Dr. Barrett said the School of Business has decided to establish a second class that will meet the same night. Dr. Barrett said the other program lecturer, Prof. Frank Judge, will each teach their portion of the course in each section for six weeks and then exchange classes.

In other years each lecturer conducted six sessions followed by another group of six lectures by another professor. The new arrangement for two sections of the program continues this arrangement.

Dr. Barrett pointed out the higher number of applications indicates a greater degree of interest among business executives from the Brockville and Belleville-Trenton areas in the course.

Member Looks Forward to Big Session

A highly interesting session of parliament was anticipated by Lee E. Grills, member of parliament for Hastings South, as he and Mrs. Grills left for Ottawa for the opening of parliament today.

The session commenced this morning with the official opening slated for this afternoon.

I am looking forward to an interesting session of parliament, possibly the most interesting from my experience", stated Mr. Grills.

He said this parliament would be a challenge for the country.

"But if members put the principle of necessity above political expediency, I am sure this parliament will be able to carry on for some time."

But personal income, due largely to the heavy Prairie gain payments, rose sharply to a rate of $30,616,000,000 from $30,000,000. Deducting direct taxes, personal disposable income rose four per cent to $27,2,000,000, and the savings by individuals jumped 55 per cent to $1,500,000,000 from $1,000,000,000.

One of the main sources of strength in the economy was the five-per-cent rise in exports, covering both goods and services, to an annual rate of $8,240,000,000. Total imports of goods and services rose by only about three per cent to a rate of $8,000,000,000.

These trends whittled the country's balance-of - payments deficit for the quarter to $277,000,000 compared with $1,128,000,000 the first quarter.

There was little impetus to the economy from either capital investment or expansion of an export section in business inventories.

Business fixed capital formation rose fractionally to an annual rate of $6,280,000,000, with no change in residential building activity and a slight gain in outlays on machinery and equipment.

The report said capital expenditures, as a percentage of national output, was "at one of the lowest levels in the last decade."

A decline in wholesale and manufacturing inventory offset most of an inventory accumulation in retail and other industries.

Labor income rose to an annual rate of $20,000,000,000 from $19,700,000,000 in the first quarter, with the 1.6-per-cent rise coming with gains of 1.9 per cent in each of the previous quarters.

But the net income received by farmers, including the Canadian Wheat Board payment, slumped 65.5 per cent to an annual rate of $1,586,000,000 from $964,000,000 in the first quarter. This was the highest level since mid-1951.

House Endorses Use of Force If Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has completed action on a resolution endorsing the use of force if necessary to prevent Cuba from becoming a military threat to western hemisphere countries.

Passage in the House of Representatives by a vote of 384 to 7 Wednesday came after a full-scale debate on foreign policy and an unsuccessful effort by several members to have tougher language written into the document. The administration already has endorsed its wording.

The resolution is intended as an expression of unified support for whatever action Kennedy considers necessary. In essence, he would be free to determine when and how the United States should act to block the spread of Cuban communism.

The president has said he will do "whatever must be done" to protect the interest of the United States and its allies in this hemisphere.

By passing the resolution Congress went on record as being determined to prevent the creation in Cuba of a military capacity that would endanger the United States. Help the pledged anti - communist Cubans who seek "self-determination" for their nation.

A motion to send the resolution back to the foreign affairs committee was defeated 251 to 160. All but three of the supporters were Republicans.

Debate reached a fevered pitch at times.

When Representative L. Mendel Rivers (Dem., S.C.) commanded an immediate blockade of Cuba and said "let the chips fall where they may," there were applause and cheers.

Rivers was followed by a dozen colleagues who called for action, rather than words that might—in his opinion of Representative Katharine St. George (Rep., N.Y.) — "just a pious hope."

Representative Clarence J. Brown (Rep., Ohio) broke in with a call for action into the manner of "Teddy Roosevelt, who would have taken Castro's beard within a week."

This provoked Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., N.Y.) to object to "sheer jingoism and loose talk by plenipotentiary admirals and paper mache generals."

Acquit Man in $25,000 Break-in TORONTO (CP) — J. Bernard (Brian) Roach, 30, said during his trial that t detectives beat and kicked him in the face, confessed was so frightened he acquitted Wednesday night of a $25,000 break-in.

Roach, Brampton, Ont., and Frederick Rankin, 41, were both convicted by a county court jury on the conspiracy charge, arising from the entry and looting of a men's wear shop in March, 1961.

Roach, arrested two days after the break-in, testified that Detectives William Chambers and Stephen Dewar of Metropolitan Toronto police assaulted him for 15 to 20 minutes in a closed office at police headquarters.

He said he yelled from being punched and kicked but Det. Sgt. David Cowan said he was "not aware" that any beating took place. The jury visited the office Wednesday to make their own tests on the acoustics.

Dr. James R. Perkins, who examined Roach 45 minutes after his arrest, testified Roach had a cut on the least of fours old on his lower breastbone, over his left flank and kidney area and his left groin and orboth forearms.

In his conclusion, which he said was based on Roach's history, Dr. Perkins said he was a lookout during the entry and implicated Brancati and Harris. Rankin, he said, is innocent. Two men were convicted, four were acquitted this year.

Brancati and Harris will be sentenced Friday.

Revolutionary Army Seizes Power in Yemen

ADEN (AP)—A "liberal revolutionary army" announced today it has seized power in the kingdom of Yemen and an independent source in neighboring Aden said the new ruler, Imam Mohammad Al-badr was assassinated Wednesday night.

Cairo radio also announced the coup but declared the imam himself was deposed, not assassinated.

Apparently, the rebels are friends of President Nasser's United Arab Republic, with which the primitive little kingdom once had a loose federation.

The radio at Sana's, the Yemenite capital, broadcast the statement of the coup throughout the morning, interspersing it with U.A.R. army music.

Nasser and his program of Pan - Arabism are known to have support among some military men in Yemen, Saudi Arabia and other Arab states.

Sana's radio said "the liberal revolutionary army of Yemen" had "got rid of tyranny" and proclaimed the monarchy a republic. It made no mention of an assassination.

Al Badr succeeded the throne Sept. 19 after his father, Imam Ahmed, a frequent target of assassins, died of natural causes.

Compromise Trade Program Is Worked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's far - reaching trade program, with Senate and House of Representatives differences patched up, is ready for a star role in the present Congress' last act.

A compromise version worked out Wednesday night retained the main features Kennedy asked for—sweeping tariff-slashing powers to bargain with the European Common Market and a new program of relief for import-plagued U.S. businesses.

There were signs that domestic political considerations have picked this bill, rated top priority by Kennedy, for the finale of a session in which some lumps as well as some successes have come to pres dent' way.

The compromise bill will not come up in the house before Wednesday, Its handlers said. Leaders hope to complete Congress two or three days later —just about long enough for the Senate, also to act.

U.S. business hurt by imports could be aided by special programs of technical assistance, loans, and retraining allowances for workers.

IN MEMORIAM

CHAPMAN — In ever loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Annie Brown, who passed away one year ago, September 27, 1961.
It's lonesome here without you, dear mother,
We miss you more each day.
Sometimes I feel I cannot see the way.
Some days have gone sweet memories bring,
Our eyes shed many a tear,
Our hearts are breaking still,
As this ends our first year.
Sadly missed and remembered by husband Charles, daughters and sons-in-law, Joyce, Alma and Percy, Aletha and Bill.

REPORT THAT

Deputy Commissioner James Bartlett of the Ontario Provincial Police, who was pictured as introducing a "Mr. McDermott" to a politician who was promptly asked by his new acquaintance if he could "do anything" with then premier Leslie Frost about Ontario gambling.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Kingston, Ont., said he talked to Mr. McDermott only for a minute or so before cold-shouldering him at a 1955 meeting and he could not pick the gambler out of a knot of about 50 spectators in the hearing chamber.

The 41-year-old McDermott, who concluded 1½ days of grilling later, immediately swore he had never seen Mayor Simpson before.

Commission Counsel Roland F. Wilson said later the commission wants to re-examine Bartlett—who last spring denied reports that he had provided tipoffs to gamblers — but has been advised by his doctor that his health will not permit his taking the witness box now. The veteran officer had a heart attack after the earlier session with the inquiry.

PROVIDED TIPOFFS

In a day of wide-ranging evidence, the commission also heard Wednesday that Toronto "interests" regularly provided advance tipoffs on OPP raids on the ritzy Roseland Club near Windsor for years but ran into obscurity concerning the role of a man identified only as "Joe."

McDermott has persistently denied any financial tieup with the Roseland—his big operation was a Cookeville club—and two witnesses formerly associated with the now-closed Roseland did not book him firmly to it.

Club steward Arnold Pitts, 30, testified that on one occasion in 1957 club co-operator Frank (Cuddy) Gardiner got a telephone call, said "OK, Joe" and told the staff the police would be there that night, which they were.

But Pitts said he did not know whether the "Joe" referred to the caller or someone in the club, and he denied — as the commission counsel claimed—that he had told an RCMP interrogator that Gardiner said the raid information came from "Joe."

ON 'STRAIGHT SALARY'

Victor Finnigan, 36, son of Gardiner's partner, the late Leo Finnigan, told of alleged tipoffs from Toronto between 1954 and 1958 but could not identify these "interests" who he said owned no piece of the club but were on "straight salary, like working in a factory."

The younger Finnigan, who worked in the club, denied he had told the RCMP that McDermott was "involved" in the tipoffs but admitted he might have conjectured to that effect.

On receipt of one telephoned tipoff from Toronto, he testified, the club was able to have a photographer on hand to get a shot of an undercover police agent signing membership application papers in the Roseland.

The pattily - dressed McDermott, who has been taking big money during his stint in the box and having difficulty remembering the purchases of such items as airplanes, surprised listeners shortly before returning to jail by saying that he is "darn near" broke.

"A lifetime's work gone down the drain," he complained as he be named legal fees as a major cause of financial downfall.

FINED $6,000

His has been in court off and on facing various charges for more than a year, and at present he and Feeley are awaiting in jail the outcome of an appeal from a conviction of conspiring to obtain police information illegally. He was fined $6,000 on a gaming charge and the Cookeville club closed this year, and the pair now face $95,000 fraud charges.

His final session on the stand consisted largely of denials—in general and specific terms—of a variety of accusations in previous police evidence, that he corrupted or tried to corrupt officials.

The gambling kingpin, known to associates as an amateur lawyer, also revealed that about 1954 he travelled to Ottawa in a personal attempt to obtain the removal from the Criminal Code of a clause enacting against gaming house operators.

The clause—still in the act—permits a magistrate to examine the gambling house found-in under oath before charges are laid, and it was used in 1954 (without success) against the McDermott-Feeley club.

McDermott said that, learning Senator Arthur Roebuck of Toronto was a member of a Senate committee dealing with revision of the Criminal Code, he visited the senator, who, he claimed, said the clause was "terrible." His story ended there.

MAYOR SURPRISE WITNESS

Arnprior Mayor Simpson was a surprise witness at the opening of the afternoon sitting after McDermott had sworn in the morning that Bartlett had never introduced him to anybody, unless he had been "hypnotized"

Brighton Rink Winner of Turkey Tourney

Men's doubles rinks from Campbellford, Brighton, Trenton, Kingston and the host club took part in a turkey tournament held at the Lawn Bowling Club lawns on Wednesday afternoon and evening. There were fourteen rinks in competition and the games, all of which were of nature, played on perfect greens. The rain of the day before made them exceedingly fast.

A rink of Ed Solomon and Sam Metley from Brighton, were consistent and scored three wins out of four points each to capture first award, while Claude D. Tice and Bruce Miller finished in second place. Ed Dennison and Morley Gault of Kingston won the two game high score, while the two buddies, Doug Rowe and Ab Wonnacott from the Belleville club won the one-game high count.

Beautiful turkeys were given the winners.

A full course, delicious dinner was served by the women's section of the club between the second and third games and the bowlers did ample justice to all the good things. Tickets were sold among the players on a draw for a turkey and George McGee got the Christmas dinner. The bowling season is fast drawing to a close but it has been a successful one as far as the local club is concerned.

David Foley, Madoc (left), shows the form which won him first prize in the 6-17 year-old class at yesterday's match. Ken Eaton from the T. Eaton special prize as the junior champion plowman at the match. At the right is seen Gordon Bradfield, R.R. 10, Peterborough, only entrant in the open class. A previous entrant in all-Ontario matches, Mr. Bradfield will again this year compete at the International.

Sidney Jr. Farmer Top County Plowman at Match

Plowing for the first time in competition, 18-year-old Robert Hamilton, Sidney township Junior Farmer, was the top county winner at the first annual match of the Hastings County Plowmen's Association held yesterday at the Ed. Sexsmith farm east of Madoc.

Bob not only won his own class for entrants in the 16 and over class, but also won the utility class and took top honors for the best novice plowman at the match.

The utility class, described by spectators as much more practical than match plowing, saw the 11 contestants required to plow a certain area within a specific time. It was a "no holds" match, the judges were not allowed to touch the furrows by their hands.

COUNTY SUCCESS

County Plowmen's Association president Harleigh Hamilton of Sidney township, and his wife Marion, were present for day's all-day match as a "big success" and a big encouragement to holding future matches.

Between 150 and 175 spectators showed up for the match and evinced keen interest in the workmanship of the various contestants, the vast majority of whom were county junior farmers.

Association director Sidney Fitzgerald and county council agricultural committee chairman Tracey Adams said the match was good experience and would do something toward retaining the interest of junior farmers in the farm.

Judge for all classes at the match was Russell Morrison of Beaverton. He was assisted by Association secretary - treasurer Sidney McDonald of Stirling.

LIST WINNERS

Open Class — Gordon Bradfield, R.R. 10, Peterborough.

18 and over — Robert Hamilton, R.R. 1, Trenton, Larry Bertrand, Marmora.

Utility — Bob Hamilton, David Foley, Don Mumby, Wayne Tunmon, Don Bailey, Jack Howard, and Larry Bertrand. Other entrants were Ross Carlisle, John Morgan, John VanVolkenburg and Irwin Post.

As well as competitions there were machinery demonstrations at the match with a Madoc dealer on hand with various lines of equipment.

877 Boats Use First Lock of Trent Canal

TRENTON — The lockmaster at Lock No. 1 reports a total of 877 boats have passed through the first lock on the Trent this year, to date, Navigation on the Trent isn't over, officially, until Oct. 15, but things have slowed up to the point where very little, if any, more boat traffic can be expected.

While the 877 boats locked through falls short of the expected one thousand for this year, at least it's more than 100 over last year (672). With the increased publicity being given the Trent waterway, it is hoped that next year's total will top all records.

Right now traffic at the head of the Trent Canal is at a standstill because Locks 33 and 34 are being replaced. Last year, several locks in the lower part of the canal were replaced.

Meantime, work on the bridge crossing the Murray Canal on Highway 33 has progressed to the point where a Department of Transport official said yesterday that the bridge would be opened to through traffic by 5 p.m. on Friday.

Bridge flooring has been entirely replaced and the concrete work on the bridge have been reinforced. The job has taken more than three weeks to complete. This is the first time in 12 years that the bridge flooring has been completely replaced, although each year a certain amount of repair work on the flooring has been carried out. Friday's re-opening will be good news for motorists and truckers in the Quinte area, as the closing off of the bridge has led to a great deal of inconvenience.

Barbara Robertson Student's President

TRENTON — Yesterday, Student Council elections were held at Trenton High School. This year's president is Barbara Robertson and vice - president is Ron Beale. Council secretary will be Linda Lesevey; treasurer, Karen Johnson; social representative, Jim Aziz; literary representative, Isabel Williamson; boys' sports, Raymond Coleman and girls' sports, Susan Leavey.

Unsuccessful candidates for executive positions were Nikki Carter, Beverley Misener, Paul Green, Peter McDonald and Barbara Halladay.

To Take EMO Course

TRENTON — Next month, from Oct. 10 until Oct. 12, Councillor Ed Todd and possibly one other member of Trenton council will attend a special Emergency Measures Organization series of lectures at Arnprior. The course is designed to acquaint councillors from across Ontario with their roles in the event of a national emergency.

Meantime, Lt. Al King, public relations officer with area Army headquarters at Kingston, said today that there had been no official word as to when Trenton's three air raid sirens would be put through an audibility test. The sirens have been installed and ready for action for a matter of months.

Amery Opens Flour Mill at Port Colborne

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP) — Viscount Amery, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada, predicted Wednesday that Canada, the west will continue to be in demand in Britain even if the U.K. enters the European Common Market.

The top-ranking British diplomat, opening a $6,000,000 mill of Maple Leaf Mills Ltd., said Britain still hopes adequate concessions will be secured in her ECM negotiations to assure continuance of Canadian flour exports to Britain. But the exports would suffer under the trading block's present agricultural policy.

The new mill, which replaces one destroyed two years ago, is capable of weighing and transferring at the rate of 4,000 bushels an hour from any ship. The big load ships at 1,200 bags an hour and has a daily milling capacity of 8,000 bags.

ses used to produce uranium.

Following the tour, the visitors lunched at the McAlpine Hotel, listened to speeches from LODA president George Gunning and other associates of executive members and ended the day's activity with a dinner at the hotel.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

On the pistol range at Redneraville Wednesday evening, the following scores were shot:

The deer hunters' shoot with high speed rifles, on the rifle range was won by J. Hinchey with the best five-shot group followed by Don Wilson.

Next Sunday at 1.00 p.m. the final outdoor shoot of the season will be held. Teams from Picton, Trenton, Campbellford, Frankford and Marysburg are all competing for the John Labatt trophy, presently held by the Trenton Handgun Club.

The Don Bell trophy for the best individual shot will also be open for competition.

It is expected upwards of 100 shooters will participate. The public is invited to view this event.

Modern Lysistratas?

Any similarity between the leaders of the Voice of Women in Canada and Lysistrata of ancient Athens is, we feel sure, purely coincidental. Nevertheless, the Canadian women who have chosen this vehicle to further their efforts in safeguarding world peace might do worse than read Aristophanes. The fact that, in over 2,300 years of world history, Lysistrata and the members of the Voice of Women appear to be the only ones to share the conviction that the banishment of war is primarily a problem for the female of the species ought to be worthy of some consideration and study.

We are not suggesting a love boycott, the strategy which, in Aristophanes' comedy, ended the fratricidal Peloponnesian War, would solve the existing nuclear deadlock. True, the span of life do not seem to have changed much in the interval, except that today attention is drawn to these facts by beautiful women like Joyce Davidson appearing on TV, instead of by crusty poets writing plays to be presented at religious festivals. Nevertheless, in view of the lengthening of the span which has given the world such leaders as Konrad Adenauer, we fear that empty beds in the chancelleries of the world capitals might be somewhat less effective than in Aristophanes' day.

Time, and economic developments, however, have armed women of today with a weapon which could be almed with more deadly effect. Instead of removing themselves from the boudoir, and denying their husbands and lovers the solaces of their embraces, they could withdraw from office and school, from factory and mill. It so happens that the two main contestants in the Cold War, the United States and Russia, are precisely those lands in which the economy depends most heavily on the working woman. In the West, at least, these women would be within their legal rights if they ceased to labor outside the home. Many would be assured of sustenance; their husbands would be legally responsible for providing them with the necessities of life. In Russia, things might be a bit more difficult, but is there any valid reason to believe that, when the old men of the Acropolis failed to force Lysistrata and her comrades to relinquish the city's treasury and restore access to their own treasures, the old men of the Kremline would not likewise fail?

As for an objection raised by the Brockville Recorder and Times to the conduct of the Voice of Women of Canada, that the organization is too pacifist and would "win more respect by supporting Western policy," we have only to remember that Lysistrata had Spartan women on her allies and not only were they in both lands cold and empty but the women turned an equally cold shoulder to the territorial claims of both the Athenian and Spartan envoys.

Tempest-Tost

The United States, it appears, is like the state of matrimony. A poor, honest fellow has a difficult time passing muster, despite, in the one case, a statue proclaiming "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses" and in the other case the even more frequently proclaimed assertion that love, and love alone, is the key to acceptance. But once he is in either state, he finds it awfully difficult to leave it with a nickel in his jeans.

A Mr. Ingemar Johansson, who first came to U.S. shores with a few kroner, has had the misfortune to tip his hat to the Statue of Liberty once too often. His latest trip to the U.S. was for the purpose of observing first-hand the solution of a slight difference of opinion between two gentlemen named Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston. While he was in the country, Uncle Sam was unkind enough to raise the point of a little matter of a million dollars, which it is maintained Mr. Johansson still owes the U.S. Treasury as the result of three earlier altercations between him and Mr. Patterson. Moreover, Uncle Sam has decided that until such a time as Mr. Johansson is willing to go a few fast rounds with its internal revenue service officers, he will not be permitted to leave the country. This is a switch on the usual procedure. With something like two billion, eight hundred and twenty million people wanting to get into the U.S. only to find the turnstiles stilled, the one man with a new Swiss bank account who wishes to renew acquaintances with it finds that for him, and virtually only for him, the gates move in the opposite direction. It appears that the lamp which the Statue of Liberty raises beside the golden door is primarily for the benefit of the tax collector, to make certain that nobody sneaks out with a buck in his pockets.

Ottawa Offbeat

Panic-Proof Lambert Stars In Opening Day Drama

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — This is the date for which the Capital in general, Parliament Hill in particular, and lovers of political drama all across the country have been anxiously waiting since that touch-and-go at the polls on Monday, June 18.

Let us set the stage upon which the most exciting dramatic presentation in the land will be playing daily except Sunday, until some sudden, if not altogether unexpected, twist in the plot brings it to an end and rings down the curtain.

Watch it as the first act un-folds.

A few minutes before 11 o'clock this morning, the Members of Parliament, veterans and freshmen, straggled into the silent, empty House of Commons.

In the chair of Mr. Speaker was empty.

The former Speaker, Roland Michener, had been casualty in the June election, and so there was no presiding officer, no referee or umpire, to interpret the rules, call the low blows, keep time, and tote up the count of the votes to proclaim the winners and losers in the individual bouts over the different issues.

Before the House could get down to the nation's business, a successor had to be found.

A HARD CASE

So Prime Minister Diefenbaker — as earlier he said he would — proposed the name of Lambert, a third-term Conservative MP for Edmonton West.

Then the House, as an Opening Day ritual that comes each time there is a new Parliament, and in keeping with tradition the proposal of the new Speaker was approved by Liberal Leader Pearson and leaders of the NDP and Social Credit.

The House then dispersed, and met again at 3 p.m., when Mr. Lambert was duly sworn in as Speaker's Throne.

This will be a hard Parliament to keep cool, but Marcel Lambert himself is a hard case-hard-shelled and hard-boiled.

Other Speakers in their day have panicked under pressure, and intimidated by political threats, have come under the thumbs of strong men.

This happened in the Battle of the Pipeline that filled the old Liberal House of Commons with the new Conservative Government five years ago.

But Marcel Lambert, a Rhodes Scholar and an officer veteran of Europe, does not panick easily, and is too big a man to come under anybody's thumb.

So this Parliament, which will be unlike any that has gone before, in Speaker Lambert has probably found precisely the man who can successfully saddle and ride it.

The second act of Parliament's opening day's drama will be a prayer in the House after Mr. Speaker has been escorted, robed and tricorned dignitaries had paraded through the halls of the Centre Block to the Commons Chamber.

PLACE OF HISTORY

The scene are once closed and while there are no bars, there is supposedly a barricade — the remember of other times when kings and protestors ruled the realm, exclusively sharing power with Parliament.

There was a moment of waiting — silence . . . and then, suddenly, a thunderous rapping three times on the door, by the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod — and a swaying without, and the echo of his hammering — the door opens, and through the hushed House.

This is a scene as old as Parliament itself, and as new — and still, as the first time it was enacted.

Cautiously, even nervously, the Sergeant-at-Arms opened the Commons door, and at the crack of daylight showing . . . a red parrot out to discover the business of the messenger, who in centuries past, might have had a squadron of horsemen, or men-at-arms with him to enforce the Queen's will.

But the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod had come on a peaceful mission, bearing a message from the Governor General.

Should the royal messenger be admitted, shall the Commons hear the Governor's agent?

Permit him to enter . . . this is the twentieth century . . . but with a bow to tradition, make a ceremonial show of suspicion.

In marched the Gentleman Usher with the message: His Excellency the Governor General was commanded by the Senate to read to the Commons the Speech from the Throne . . . not written as it was once by the Sovereign, but composed by the Prime Minister.

So over the Senate trooped the Commoners to hear what program the Government proposed for the new Session . . . and Parliament got down to business, the great political drama begun.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 27th, 1942

The serious condition of the water standpipe of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission, revealed after sand-blasting operations had been started by workmen, is such that the useful life of the pipe must be considered as nearly over. Cleaning of the steel plate by sandblast operations has revealed defects which had been covered by a scale of rust. This information was embodied in a report of an engineer of the firm of Gore and Storrie of Toronto.

While playing a game of skill along the midway at the Belleville Fair last night, a member of the Belleville Municipal Band playing nightly before the grandstand at the Belleville Fair, laid his trumpet down beside him as he tilted his luck at a shooting game of skill. The musicina's luck was bad all round he lost the trumpet, the chance and also lost a valuable musical instrument.

Mr. Arthur Hall, old lady "barker" whose age has not affected health or vocal powers is attracting a large audience at fairgoers. The lady carries a lighting-like running of repartee playing to her particular wares, and her stentorian voice can be heard above the general babble of sound that is a part of all fairs.

September 27th, 1932

This afternoon the new quarters of the Belleville Hydro Electric Commission on Front Street were formally opened by the Hon. J. Robert Cooke, chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and his fellow commissioners, Sen. the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen. Also present were Dr. F. E. Cady, Chief Hydro Commission engineer, Major W. W. Pope, secretary of the Ontario Hydro Commission, Mr. W. J. Gage, secretary of the Ontario Municipal Electrical Association, Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P.P., Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. Mr. Meighen, the first governor-generalists and the anaemic "Dodgers" a holiday with a score of the old fashioned remedies that worked so well a few years ago. These are still used in out private schools where boys come out men and the men are gentlemen. What we seem to need in society is this: let's build woodsheds again where it will take a little Johnny and impress upon him that his escapade was not the best thing for him to do it again. If the remedy and the dosage are handled right he rarely does.

In our Reform Schools and Penal Institutions if his shinny had an application of the strap when it fitted the crime he misdemeanor would be very immeasurably better results than saying, "Johnny you really won't do that again, will you?" If our teachers and police did less gaily-coddling, there much better results might be obtained—less waste of time for those who are no-goders and more results from those who appreciate the advantages offered them.

And so we say to the top brass: let's try something new let's say "Bottoms Up" for a change.

Tilt of Hat Can Predict Driving Habits

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Bank employees who embezzle funds usually win my secret sympathy — if not my approval — when it turns out that they were outrageously underpaid and expected to handle huge sums of money every day; a person put in a position of high trust should have a commensurate salary.

Doctors, as any candid nurse will confess, make the crankiest and most apprehensive of patients when they fall ill; perhaps because they know too much guess-work there still is in the practice of medicine.

Although I have conscientiously tried to enjoy it summer after summer, I am finally forced to agree with Samuel Johnson that golfing consists of a stick and a string, with a worm at one end and a fool at the other."

Speaking of summer pastimes, I'd like to see a revival of that noble old English game of lawn croquet, which is one of the pleasantest (and most challenging) ways to spend a weekend afternoon in nice weather.

Nearly all the conscientious objectors I have met have been, in their personal temperations and conduct, as close to the Christian ideal as human beings can reach; I have also unfamentably ahead of their time.

Wives who claim to blame "the other woman" for losing their husbands astray overlook the fact that Josephine Wood Krutch's shrewd observation: "There is no such thing as a dangerous woman; there are only susceptible men.

It is a curious fact that men who wear their hats straight, without a tilt, are the worst motorists; they are the kind of driving such a driver, I know he will be quiet and considerate and a potential source of trouble until I pass him.

Our attention span is moving so fast that it's hard to believe that the very word "action-tist" was not in the language much over a hundred years ago; in 1840, the Rev. William Whewell wrote: "We need very much a name to describe a cultivator of sciences in general; I should incline to call him a scientist."

In the realm of sentiments, there seems to be a passion for moderation; looking through birthday cards the other day, I could find only two types, either the stickily sentimental, or the sickly humorous. None was simply tasteful, without an excess of either sweetness or sourness.

The master himself would have been proud of the Goldwynism I heard recently, when a man said scornfully to his friend: "Property is a fine thing to have, but talk about telepathy, it's all in the mind."

New Cost of Crime

Detroit Free Press

In Britain they are considering a plan under which the government would compensate victims of criminal violence for their injuries. Besides covering the cost of cracked heads and ribs, such a program would give taxpayers a local interest in encouraging a police policy of getting the criminal before the criminal can get to his victim.

To Your Good Health

Heat, an Approved Way To Help Arthritis Victim

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a heating pad good for arthritis? It seems to relieve the pains in my arms and back at night and in damp weather.

But I was told its use dries up the bones. Now I am worried. — A.M.

Go right ahead with your heating pad. It won't dry up the bones or do any other damage.

Heat is one of the universally approved ways of helping arthritis victims. It doesn't make very much difference how the heat is applied — by pad, by water bottle, heat lamp (with discretion), sitting near the fire or whatever. Any method that is handy is fine.

I hope whoever gave you the dismal misinformation about the bones "dying", sees this article and stops passing that story around. It would be too bad if anyone sacrificed the help of heating pads because of such an incorrect scare-story.

(My leaflet, "Don't Quit Because of Arthritis", is available to any reader by sending a self-unstamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for handling charges. Requests should be addressed to Dr. Molner, in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee III.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain impetigo? Once someone has it, how does he get rid of the house. — Mrs. E. R. L.

It's caused by the staphylococcus germ, and is fairly frequently occurring in your home, suspect "staph" carrier.

Meantime a patient should be isolated in one room, with utmost attention to prevent contamination from spreading.

In nurseries where impetigo recurs the cause is usually traced to attendants who, although not ill themselves, carry the staph germ in their noses and innocently spread it to others.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it safe for a person to eat a orange just when the orange is ripe, or wholesome to do so. — D. S. L.

Sure, but wash it first. Many people like candied orange peel. Some grind whole oranges in a blender.

Dear Dr. Molner: While hospitalized I heard a well-known physician, tell a patient that it was not possible to transfer athlete's foot (which she had) to other parts of the body, nor for her to give it to other people if she walked on hospital floors without slippers. He may be right, but a number of people I know say he is wrong. Can you say on the subject — A. L. B.

"If he'd said not "possible", I'd go along with his view. Athlete's foot is a popular name for a fungus infection (as is germ, yeast or virus) infection.

We don't know exactly how fungus infections are transmitted. But we do know that the athlete's foot fungus thrives on warm, moist skin. For a similar, moss may grow in a shady, damp corner of your back yard, but try to "plant" it in a dry, sunny corner, and it dies.

Thus walking in a hospital corridor barefoot isn't likely to give the ailment to anyone else. The floor is dry and 30 degrees cooler than your feet.

I prefer slippers for adequate and sanitary reasons, but I think athlete's foot spreads only under circumstances which let the fungus jump from its habitat to another area of skin adequately warm and moist. And that's also the reason why it doesn't spread all over the body. It's only on the feet that we wear shoes and socks. (Barefoot natives of the Central Pacific islands don't seem to have this trouble.)

Note to K. Twins are usually born about two weeks earlier than single babies, so your doctor was probably right in advising his estimate of when you would probably go to the hospital.

Letter To The Editor

Both Sides Asked How They Got Money

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

By the time this letter is published in your paper, the voting will be over and on behalf of many of the citizens of Belleville, I would like to call this challenge to the Vote-No Committee and to the Vote Yes Committee. Publish your facts of finance. Who has subscribed your campaign funds, has all the money come from? If you have nothing to hide, then let the people know. Save the thousands of dollars been given by some public spirited gentlemen who are interested in our citizens' welfare, (for or against sewage facilities), or is it big business?

Come on now, let the facts be published. Both sides claim the welfare of our city is at stake. Let us have the facts now and quick.

Your fellow citizen,
Reg Cooper.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is an old and sometimes absurd saying to the effect that it is not what you earn but what you save that counts. Two brothers with a fine family of seven illustrated the absurdity of the maxim. They were earning two years ago in a large town where there are only susceptible men.

It is a curious fact that men who wear their hats straight, without a tilt, are the worst motorists; they are the kind of driving such a driver, I know he will be quiet and considerate and a potential source of trouble until I pass him.

Our attention span is moving so fast that it's hard to believe that the very word "action-tist" was not in the language much over a hundred years ago; in 1840, the Rev. William Whewell wrote: "We need very much a name to describe a cultivator of sciences in general; I should incline to call him a scientist."

In the realm of sentiments, there seems to be a passion for moderation; looking through birthday cards the other day, I could find only two types, either the stickily sentimental, or the sickly humorous. None was simply tasteful, without an excess of either sweetness or sourness.

The master himself would have been proud of the Goldwynism I heard recently, when a man said scornfully to his friend: "Property is a fine thing to have, but talk about telepathy, it's all in the mind."

New Cost of Crime

Detroit Free Press

In Britain they are considering a plan under which the government would compensate victims of criminal violence for their injuries. Besides covering the cost of cracked heads and ribs, such a program would give taxpayers a local interest in encouraging a police policy of getting the criminal before the criminal can get to his victim.

they lived beyond their means. He was one of the most interested and delighted of a lifelong friends and I mourn-ed him when he died.

The eldest boy's ambitions justified by years of success, launched an industrial enterprise in which he stoked everything he had saved, and it went flat in two years. He died the same year as his brother, an embittered man, leaving behind him a family that doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain.

What is it that counts?

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Weakness among base metals drove the stock index to its lowest level this year, as industrials returned to their normal action on the stock market today.

Labrador and Noranda fell ½ share, and ¾ each—both to their lowest prices of 1962—while International Nickel dropped ⅝.

Canadian Oil calmed down substantially after yesterday's hectic performance, but it was still the industrial volume leader. On a turnover topping 22,000 shares, the stock climbed 1/8 to record 35 before easing to ⅞, ahead ⅛.

Power Corporation, biggest Canada Cement shareholder, jumped 3¼ to 69½.

In general, industrials weakened, with banks setting the predominant tone. Montreal, Nova Scotia, Royal, Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all showed losses ranging to one point.

Abitibi fell ½, Walker-Gooderham ⅜, Dominion Foundries and Steel ¼ and Interprovincial Pipe Line ⅛.

Canadian Husky rose ⅜ to 7 ⅜ on extra-heavy volume.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.92 to 330.08 and base metals .65 to 173.26. Golds showed their lowest since June this year. Golds gained 0.91 to 91.85 and western oils .84 at 110.32. The 11 a.m. volume was 601,000 shares compared with 690,200 at the same time Wednesday.

It was all Canadian Oil Wednesday.

With announcement that Shell Oil interests had offered Canadian Oil shareholders what amounts to about $52.50 a share, stock reacted violently, churning through more than 240,000 shares while rising to a record 54½, ahead seven points.

It saw seven special-listed transactions totalling 12,505 shares with ½ dollar value of $8,328,770. One of these—block of 86,505 shares with a value of $5,833,220 — was the largest such transaction ever made at the exchange.

Power Corporation, holder of about one - third of Canadian Oil's common stock, climbed sharply at the opening to 70¼ but fell back to 67, ahead one point.

Industrials in general weakened as the day progressed. Steels lost a point index point in the first hour, the main list declined steadily, closing with a loss of more than two points.

Dominion Bridge dropped 2¾ to a record 74¼ after announcing it's dividend has halved. Textiles dropped one point, and Consolidated Paper and Dominion Foundries and Steel ¼.

In base metals, Noranda was down by 3¾ after earlier touching 26½, W. Rent gained ⅛ this year, International Nickel ⅝ and Hudson Bay Mining ½.

liquor in dining lounges and was almost as strongly in favour of the public lounges.

If the present count of votes is accepted, liquor will be served in dining lounges, but not in public lounges, in the Belleville area. Beer will still be served in the areas in which it is now permitted, but there will be no extension of beer sales as a direct result of this vote. Areas' annexed to the city in recent years are "dry" as far as sale of beer is concerned.

TALKS MILITARY AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ayub Khan of Pakistan said Tuesday he had discussed with officials here some changes in U.S. military assistance to his country "within the framework of the present program."

Two Edmonton Men Sentenced To Hang Jan. 9

EDMONTON (CP)—Two Edmonton men have been sentenced to death for the capital murder of Frank Willey, 48, an Edmonton golf professional whose body has not been found.

Gerald Daniel Workman, 44, and William Huculak, 29, were sentenced Wednesday night to be hanged Jan. 9, 1963, at the end of an eight-day trial in Supreme Court here.

Counsel for both men indicated an appeal will be launched.

Neither had anything to say nor showed any visible emotion when sentence was pronounced.

Mrs. Willey disappeared the night of April 19 after leaving his home to deliver a set of women's golf clubs ordered by telephone. Several days later an unsuccessful search was started by police for his body.

ALLEGES MOTIVE

Crown prosecutor W. J. Shortell told the court Wednesday in his summation that the motive for the killing arose from Workman's familiarity with Willey's wife, Paris.

He said the original plan was to lure Willey, the father of two children, to a partially - built home in southeast Edmonton on the pretense of buying a set of golf clubs. He was murdered there and then take him to a highway to make his death look like an accident.

However, Huculak's inability to drive resulted in a traffic accident a short time after Willey had been hit on the head in the home, Mr. Shortreed said. This had resulted in a change of plans and the accused buried the body instead.

He told the court evidence had led the Crown to believe Willey went to the house and was killed included the type of blood and size of bloodstains found in the building, hair samples found in the same house and the fact that Workman had control of Willey's car a short time after the time he was to have delivered the clubs.

Fyral Lefever, counsel for Workman, said he doubted Willey would enter an unoccupied partially-built house to deliver a set of golf clubs and said there were many loopholes in the Crown's attempts to prove Willey was dead.

FINDS GOLD

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A woman recently found a nine-pound bar of gold worth $4,500 while digging in her garden in Barnaul, Siberia, Moscow radio reported Tuesday. The ingot, believed hidden before the revolution in 1917, was handed over to a bank.

SOCREDS, NDP

cial Credit members said in a statement: "We are convinced . . . that the people of Canada do not wish an immediate election."

The 13-member New Democratic Party group also indicated it won't support a Liberal non-confidence motion to be presented Monday by Opposition Leader Pearson.

An NDP statement following a five-hour caucus said Canada must have "a complete picture of its present situation and the measures to improve it."

The government's legislative program was to be sketched today in the speech from the throne. But it will not be unfolded in detail until after the eight-day throne speech debate starting Monday.

AWAIT DETAILS

Social Credit and NDP caucus statements made it plain there will be no early election call.

Of Social Credit's position, Mr. Pearson said after a caucus of the 100 Liberal MPs:

Mr. Thompson (Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson) wishes to avoid a general election at the expense of supporting this government in connection with policies which they themselves have opposed. that's their responsibility."

Mr. Thompson said Social Credit would support the Liberals only if the government's program were "completely sterile."

The Social Credit statement said Canada's problems "demand something better than a chain reaction of minority governments which an immediate election would bring about."

Mr. Diefenbaker also gave the caucus of 116 Conservative members a brief indication of the progressive nature of the legislation that will be introduced."

The NDP caucus was addressed by party leader T. C. Douglas who will try to win a Commons seat in an Oct. 22 by-election in Burnaby-Coquitlam after his June 18 defeat in Regina City.

Mr. Douglas said in an interview that the liberals were "a little irresponsible" in proposing a non-confidence motion before hearing the government's program.

Firing Squads Shoot To For New Plot to Kill Castro

HAVANA (AP) — About 300 persons have been rounded up and tried for a purported plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and clear the way for an invasion, informed sources said today.

The informants said two counter-revolutionary groups were accused of plotting disorders late August as a prelude to invasion and the overthrow of Castro's regime. Castro and other government figures were said to have been marked for death.

The two counter-revolutionary groups were identified as the anti - Communist Liberation Front and the Movement for the Recovery of the Cuban Revolution. The regime accused both of working closely with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The sources said those executed went before firing squads last week. Others were given terms across the entrance to Havana Bay. Twenty-seven others were sentenced to 30 years to 20 years in prison. All were tried by a revolutionary tribunal.

BEGIN WITH SABOTAGE

The sources gave this account of the charges:

The FAL's uprising, set for late August, would begin with sabotage of the big Havana light and power station near the docks. It would spread to all provinces, with landings in eastern Cuba.

The MRRC, which included many active and retired police officials, would attempt assassinations of Castro and other leaders. It also would try to capture police stations near the presidential palace in Havana and at Santiago de Las Vegas, near the International Airport.

Havana radio said Wednesday night that security officers had arrested five men in suburban Havana. They were accused of plotting to kill all government officials and several recent explosions and fires were also were attributed to counter-revolutionaries. "The recent arrests and executions have put a stop to counter-revolutionary activities and unrest.

Lift Roadblock Against Douks

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP) — Camped near here since August 16, Reuben Conkieloff, 27-year-old Freedom Doukhobor, said today, despite the lifting of two roadblocks, he will remain in his camp.

An RCMP roadblock stopped their progress before Sept. 1 days, was lifted Wednesday after Attorney-General Robert Bonner who had the latest meeting left to their own devices and that anything they did now was up to them.

In an interview later, Mr. Bonner asked the press to "lay off" the march, indicating continued publicity would only prolong any problem that may exist.

Season Spanner

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Dark plaided cotton is a good choice for a transition outfit, one of those season spanners that takes the wearer from late summer into early fall.

This two-piecer can be worn as a dress or with an overblouse as a suit. The wide collar and revers terminate in a surplice closing.

It comes in a variety of color combinations.

Yesterday I gave here a recipe for Orange Bread and promised to give you two more nut breads today.

...AND NUT LOAF

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; ¾ cup coarsely chopped nuts; ½ cup mixed candied fruits (same as used for fruit cakes); ½ cup raisins; ¼ cup shortening; ¾ cup granulated sugar; 2 eggs; ½ cup mashed ripe banana (1 large); ½ cup fresh or frozen orange juice.

Sift together sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in chopped nuts, candied fruits and raisins. In large bowl cream shortening. Add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Combine mashed banana and orange juice; add to creamed mixture alternately with flour mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Turn into a wax paper-lined and greased 9 x 5 x 3" standard loaf pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Cool in pan 20 to 30 minutes before turning out on cake rack. If desired, this loaf may be frosted with plain butter icing.

Sift together sugar, flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt; add nuts. Combine evaporated milk, orange juice, shortening and molasses. (It may curdle but do not worry). Add to flour mixture all at once; stir just to blend. Turn into wax paper-lined and greased 9 x 5 x 3" standard loaf pan. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour and 10 minutes. Cool 20 to 30 minutes before turning out on cake rack.

Note: Orange Molasses Bread and yesterday's Orange Bread make a good pair. If you need two loaves make and bake these together, for the baking time and temperature are the same.

What About Teen-Age Virtue?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Recently, I was shocked by my uncle when he told me that according to his experiences, 90 per cent of people who marry are non-virtuous before marriage.

I am a nineteen-year-old boy with very high moral standards and I have always felt very strongly about this subject.

Since I feel that this is something that should be discussed with someone who should know about such matters and whose reply will be accepted by both of us, I have decided that I would ask for your opinion:

Is society as virtuous as I've always believed or is it a society of hypocrisy as my uncle claims?—IN SHOCK.

DEAR IN SHOCK—All we know for sure is that sex is more openly discussed than it ever was before. The whole thing was kept dark—not only what people thought about it but what they were doing about it.

We do know that frank discussions make for understanding and happier marriages.

True, in some, sex curiosity leads to exploration. But folks tend to generalize when they know of one youngster who has "gone wrong." Willy-nilly, the adults set the pattern.

Children raised in good families still prize their virtue. I suspect your uncle's estimate is a gross exaggeration of the facts.

DEAR DORIS—I think Bachelor is dead wrong about women. I am a widow in her early forties and have been very happy with my marriage.—WIDOW.

DEAR WIDOW—Nice to hear from you. Happily married don't need a columnist and seldom write.

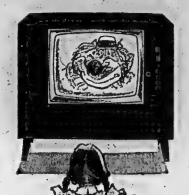
DEAR DORIS—During Easter I had a date with a very nice man named Tom. We doubled with his best friend Bill and my best friend Edna. He tried to kiss me once and I turned my face and never again did he try, much to my disappointment.



After that Edna kept saying how much he liked me but he never phoned. Once when I felt blue I said jokingly that I'd never date him again. So then she told him I was going steady with a guy I was nuts over, which is a lie.

She told me he saw me uptown and I never spoke. So he thinks I snubbed him. I didn't see him. If she is lying, how can I find out? How can I get him to ask me for a date?—DEZ.

This new 1963 Philips TV will still be going steady by the time she is (Monitron Control is the reason why)

How long will it be before the pigtails disappear? Quite a while. And chances are your Philips MONITRON Control TV set will still be giving you dependable performance. How do we know? Because of a new TV discovery!

Philips electronic experts decided to do something about a common household fault that often results in premature failure of the picture tube and other expensive TV parts. This common fault is power surge. To lick this problem, our experts developed the MONITRON, a small but incredibly sensitive electronic device which prevents these power surges reaching and damaging the expensive parts of your Philips set. Because of this added protection Philips has increased its picture tube warranty to 2 full years. Your nearby Philips dealer will be glad to show you Philips MONITRON Control TV . . . and you'll be glad to meet him. We picked him for his courtesy, his integrity, his ability, and his willingness to provide responsible "Follow-Through" service. See your Philips dealer today.

Advance Notice

By TRACY ADRIAN

Cell Chapman designed this handsome costume for dinners and fall theatre opening come autumn.

The outfit is made of amber silk satin. Its straight jacket is fashioned with a ring neckline and is fastened by four large satin buttons.

Argyll Chapter Sponsors Fine Tea, Fashion Show

Attractive flowers in multi-autumn shades adorned the office fleers' mess at the Armouries, yesterday afternoon, for the dessert-bridge and fashion show of hats and furs, under the auspices of the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

Receiving the thronging guests was the Regent, Mrs. Alba Cunningham, assisted by Mrs. K. F. Smith, of the hospitality committee, who most graciously welcomed each and all.

After a short period of getting acquainted, the ladies formed in line, each with her plate, anticipating the delicious desserts in store from the laden tables containing jellos of several varieties, lemon, raisin, pumpkin and apple pies; delicious cakes and ambrosia concoctions too numerous to mention, each one spelling disaster 'to the cherished waistlines. But surely one break in the severe routine of diet, according to the old proverb, 'the exception proves the rule', still holds true.

Those who served included Mrs. G. Miller; Mrs. L. Digby; Mrs. M. Smith; Mrs. L. Sibbis; Mrs D. Riordan; Mrs. A. Lazier; Mrs. C. Bristol and Mrs. J. Cousins.

Following the dessert an exceptionally fine showing of the latest hats, and furs took place, with the models Mrs. Fred Burtt; Mrs. Angus Duffy; Mrs. Amanda (Jack) Fullerton; Mrs. J. Black; Mrs. Ross Allan, and Mrs. Alex Cunningham, doing the honors. Mrs. A. S. McConnell, as commentator did a fine job

ATTRACTIVE HATS

The hats shown were most attractive and consisted of those from the Georgia Salon and from Marianne's Ladies' Wear. The new sleek hairdo has been responsible for the now design in hats, and the new fabrics used in their manufacture. Among those shown were some in cloche shape, in white, of loose fabric; with grey satin trim; a large black from Italy with grosgrain trim; velour fabrics in bone shades; with bone suede trim and an arbor green also with grosgrain trim; a beaver hat in Cellini blue; one in golden shade of velour, also an Italian import with feather trim. A new pill-box type in loose fabric, light in weight, caught the eye as did an ice-blue cloche from France with grosgrain interlacing.

High crowns still hold their own, and the autumn shades of brown, green and pinks were seen; a bowler style of loose fabric was quite pretty in Bordeau rose shade. A marlbon hat with cut velvet leaves in blue, and one in cream-pink marlbou were interesting. A high style Breton of black felt with grosgrain trim, an import from Italy, was a 'conversation piece'.

LUXURIOUS FURS

There is always something about luxurious furs which touches the hearts of distaff side, and those shown by Ashley were adorable. They consisted of dark grey Persian lamb, full length with shawl collar of mutation mink, bracelet sleeves, and with full back; natural beaver in three-quarter length, buttonless, with shawl collar, and cocktail sleeves; a black Persian was shown with cape collar of mink, and was full-fashioned; a natural Arctic seal was in shortie length, in glossy black with dyed mink collar, and cuffless sleeves, a smartly-lined coat, and most attractive. A Tyranvell sealskin was in shortie length, with large collar and full back, a durable coat, attractive and smart.

A black Persian lamb had a contrasting collar of black mink, and was in the favorite long style. A cross-crop Canadian beaver in jet black was also in full length, with elbow-length sleeves, and full in the back, while the Canadian squirrel in toast shade was just perfect for evening wear. Its collar was of mink.

Others shown were of pearl mink in jacket length, very dressy, and a China mink in simple style with cocktail sleeves; a sapphire mink collar adorned the King style coat, worn either in elbow or full length sleeves.

The stoles were alluring with their lovely matched skins; one in wild mink, of 12 skins, in deep black, and a wood mink of 10 skins, and a pastel mutation mink of 8 skins.

After the fashion show, bridge was enjoyed with the following prize winners: High score, Mrs. V. Whitehead; hidden score, Mrs. Gwen Gibson; low prize, Mrs. R. Rumsey. The three door prizes were won by Mrs. H. Wray, Mrs. L. Bott and Mrs. N. Clarke, respectively.

During the repast portion of the afternoon soft music was provided at the piano by Mrs. Butchart.

Appreciation is extended to the conveners, Mrs. M. Smith and Mrs. F. N. Sprague; to the convener of the fashion show, Mrs. Charles Bristol, and to the ticket convener, the hospitality convener and the convener of tables with their pretty little insignia servicettes; to the pianist; to Mrs. Les Digby for advertising, and to the Georgia Salon and Marianne's for the display of hats; to Ashley's for their beautiful furs, and to Mrs. A. S. McConnell for her fine commentary, and to all others for a most delightful afternoon.

The tea and fashion show was held to assist in the United Appeal.

Applegrove Acres

Beautiful "APPLEGROVE ACRES" nestles among the Apple Trees of Belleville's most famous orchard. This orchard is located just north of the Belleville Shopping Plaza, and for several years remained undeveloped as residential growth pushd eastward in leaps and bounds. Finally, in 1961, at the time the Shopping Plaza broke ground, APPLEGROVE ACRES was purchased by C. W. LAMBERT and DeMILLE CONSTRUCTION LIMITED. By early 1962 services had been installed and home construction was well under way.

Because "APPLEGROVE ACRES" was not developed until well after east-end residential growth had pushed far past it, it now enjoys a strategic location. Convenience to shopping, established churches, schools and bus service are all features to be enjoyed by the homeowner in "APPLEGROVE ACRES".

In developing "APPLEGROVE ACRES" the sub-dividers are prepaying all services that will be needed by the homeowner. These services include sanitary sewers, water, asphalt roads and curbs. In addition to the prepaid services, the owners, in order to enhance the entire sub-division, preserved all possible trees so that nearly every lot includes several shade trees.

"APPLEGROVE ACRES" is a fully approved N.H.A. sub-division which ensures you of maximum mortgage facilities at the lowest possible interest rates for your new home. And speaking of homes, the owners and builders in this sub-division offer the finest selection of new house plans to be found anywhere in the Quinte district.

"SERVING THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE OVER 35 YEARS"

XI Alpha Mu Opens Fall Season

XI Alpha Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi opened their fall season with a meeting on September 10th at the home of the president, Mrs. Spence Wonnacott, with 15 members present.

A warm welcome was given to Mrs. Sheila Lindsay, who has recently moved here from Kingston and all were pleased that she had decided to join with the chapter. After discussion of plans for the coming year, the co-hostess, Mrs. Jack Sinson, served delightful refreshments.

The second meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Vollmash on September 24th. Mrs. John Lennox, program chairman, took charge of the program and started the season off with a review on parliamentary procedure, details which are often forgotten, and suggested that the chapter endeavor to follow some of the examples given in her talk.

A social hallhour followed with Mrs. Lennox being cohostess for the evening.

PERSONALS

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Howard McGuster and Mrs. Roy Kleinsteuber were hostess to the Young People of the First Pentecostal Church to a wiener roast and a surprise birthday party for Miss Shirley Kleinsteuber. Several interesting games were enjoyed and the winners received prizes.

Shirley received lovely gifts for which she thanked her friends.

The evening concluded with the serving of birthday cake and ice cream.

U.C.W. Meetings

COLLEGE HILL U.C.W.

The Evening Unit of College Hill United Church Women held its first meeting of the season on September 19th, in the Church Sunday School rooms. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Frayne MacDonald, co-ordinator.

It was announced the general meeting would be held on September 26th, with Mrs. Ross Jeffries, head of Christian education, as guest speaker.

A brief summary was given by Mrs. Vessey on programming for the coming year. Plans were also discussed on catering for a wedding to be held in the near future.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Doreen Thompson. Mrs. Lorena Byrd read the Scripture taken from Mark 4:1-25. The meeting was closed by Mrs. Betty Bland.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sheldon Parkhurst are shown signing the register following their recent marriage in St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church, Winnipeg, Manitoba. The bride is the former Miss Wendy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Powell of Winnipeg. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parkhurst, of Belleville, Ontario. — (Photo by Winnipeg Photographers).

PARKHURST — POWELL

A double-ring ceremony was solemnized on September 1, 1962, in St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church, Winnipeg, Manitoba, when Wendy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George I Powell, was united in marriage to George Sheldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parkhurst of Belleville. The Rev. R. C. Chase, S.J., officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full-length gown of white georgette with draped bodice and sleeves. Her fingertip veil of French silk was held in place by a matching pillbox encircled with stephanotis. She carried a cascade of gold roses and stephanotis.

The main of honor was Miss Carol Minhinick of Winnipeg, with the bridesmaids being Misses Audrey Olauson, Suzanne Healey and Nancy Powell, all of Winnipeg. All were gowned alike in cocktail dresses of champagne, taffetine, green and yellow brocade with matching pillboxes. Each carried a cascade of tangerine carnations.

Mr. James Lacey was best man with Mr. Peter Powell, Mr. Leo Slinkard and Mr. Bernard Parkhurst as ushers.

The reception was held at The Viscount Gort.

The couple will reside in Belleville.

COST OF MILK

The cost of milk, if it had followed the same upward trend as income, would have quadrupled from 1939 to 1960 to about 44 cents.

Holloway Street United C.W. Holds Millinery, Fur Show

Holloway St. United Church was the scene Tuesday evening of a "Millinery and Fur Show" put on by the United Church Women and Woodley Furriers and convened by Mrs. I. W. Knight.

The models, Mrs. Cam Hitchon, Mrs. S. Callies, Mrs. V. Halsey, Miss Beth Robertson, and Mrs. C. Smith, under the direction of Miss Hazel Smith, showed many of this season's fashions in hats and furs.

The commentator for the evening was, Mrs. C. W. Coleman, who introduced the models and commented on the various creations worn by them.

The hats ranged through beautiful rich shades of blue, turquoise, rust, gold and the newest shade for this year, cherry red.

One of the sensations of the show was a printed wool wide brimmed high crowned "crushable" hat in turquoise and green on a white ground, the under brim in plain turquoise. Some of the new tailored hats one in brown tweed, and one in gold were seen. The latest in fur hats included a white fox satin trimmed pillbox; a satin banded pastel mink cloche, and maribou hats, in white and shaded blues.

RICH FURS

Then came beautiful rich furs in every length and color, and almost any fur one could dream of, including a 36 inch length blond sheared muskrat with a majestic black mink collar with fur pillbox hat to match, and black Persian lamb jackets and coats with matching cuffs or trimmings of other furs.

STOLES

Many sighs of longing and appreciation were heard when the stoles were shown, mink in sapphire; autumn haze; blue iris and Hudsonsga, shades.

Coats this year have large, small or shawl collars; are fitted or full and some featured patch pockets. The appearance in the show of Mink, a miniature black French poodle, enchanted the audience.

Welcoming the guests, Mrs. C. Pelmer and Mrs. Les Digby; treasurer, Mrs. I. W. Knight; looking after tea, coffee and replenishing convener, Mrs. J. F. M. Corquodale, Mrs. D. Keiller, Mrs. G. Reid, Mrs. D. Thompson; serving convener, Mrs. H. Hutt, Mrs. V. Bailey, D. Richardson, C. Vader, W. J. Coulter, R. Dorsse, F. Dickens, K. Parlee, O. Oddingtyne, A. Lucas, Mrs. McMullin, Miss Bette Jose, Mrs. A. Daniels and Mrs. V. Wannamaker, Mrs. Lowther, Mrs. K. Lewis, Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. Wm. Cone, Mrs. Ray Coulter, Mrs. Wm. Bateman, Mrs. P. Jones, Mrs. I. May, Mrs. E. Conley and Mrs. J. A. Dixon.

'Decor' was created by Mrs. Phylis Rowe using pale yellow 'mums and gladioli, compliments of Barbers' Florist.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Henri E. Rosenberg

Those who are engaged in helping other people with their problems, as counselors or clergy, equip themselves with an inbuilt "zeigarnik" which assists them to speak to the emotionally immature.

The largest number of people who have trouble managing their lives are victims of stunted emotional growth.

They are not so much "abnormal" or "neurotic" as they are underdeveloped. It is, of course, difficult to help such individuals by means of verbal therapy, alone — talking something out of a person, like talking something into him, is deceptive and often a vain victory. Real help — the kind that lasts — is not afforded us when someone else does "the talking."

It comes only when those who need help, undo their own doing and reshape their own living.

Yet, there are some tell-tale signs of emotional inadequacy — those which start the counselor's counter clicking — which can help us to recognize our own weakness.

For those who want to know what they look for in us, here's a quick guide which can also help us to help ourselves:

1. Are we inactive and passive in conversation? Do we need constant prodding by others? Do we just listen and listen, yet never incorporate what is said in what we say or feel?

2. Do we keep repeating ourselves when we do speak, stuck as it were to a single set of ideas from which we seem incapable of freeing ourselves?

3. Do we swing swiftly from a heightened mood of excitement and enthusiasm to a feeling of being only half-awake, no longer interested in what may happen?

4. Are we easily distracted from our involvement in the things we undertake and fly off in all directions at once?

5. Do we want immediate solutions, fast answers to the difficulties we encounter? And failing to receive them, do we sulk in disappointment ourselves and in distrust of others?

6. Are we satisfied to "obey" the decisions others make for us, glad that someone else and not us, is available to direct our thoughts and to determine our behaviour?

7. Do we fear that our simple and normal mistakes may be discovered and fearing more than we should, wrongly defend our every action?

These are some of the patterns of behaviour and thought a trained counselor watches for when he meets with those who seek his help. In the final analysis, however, help comes only to those who are willing to help themselves. At every turn along life's way self-awareness is the first step toward self-development.

When we become capable of seeing how we look to others, we may begin to ask the right questions and then, perhaps, find the right answers. Not from others, but from within ourselves.

Kinette Club Installs 1963 Executive

TWEED — The first fall meeting of the Tweed Kinette Club was held at the Hotel Tweedmuir, on Monday evening. After a lovely dinner president Kathy Moffat, was in charge of the meeting.

The president Kathy thanked the Kinettes for helping at the Tweed Rotary Clinic, the Clinic, and the Polio Clinic; also for helping the Kinsmen at the "Bingo" games in aid of the Community Centre. She also thanked the outgoing executive for its co-operation during the past year and wished the new executive a successful term.

The executive was installed by past president Janet White as follows: president — Mrs. Eileen Monaghan; vice president Mrs. Lillian Johnston; treasurer — Miss Elaine Chantler; secretary — Mrs. Helen McCallum; sunshine — Mrs. Myrtle Quinn; social — Mrs. Muriel Hall; telephone — Mrs. Ruth Crawford; bulletin — Mrs. Allen Thompson.

The new president, Mrs. Eileen Monaghan, chaired the meeting with many items of business to be discussed and asked for the full support of the club in the coming year.

Plans for a rummage sale in October were discussed and Mary Bancroft volunteered to convene it with further details after the October meeting.

A donation of $10.00 is to be sent to the Plainfield Home for Mentally Retarded Infants.

The draw prizes were won by Mrs. Daisy Rosevear and Mrs. Ruth Maines.

Club Activities

PR-ED. BELLEVILLE I.C.

The September meeting of the Prince Edward Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the Recreation Centre on Wednesday with 16 members and three visitors present.

The president opened the meeting and extended a welcome to all present after the summer's recess.

The treasurer, Mrs. Fox gave a report of the club's finances.

Mrs. Pierson, corresponding secretary, read two "Thank You" notes from Mrs. Mary Jewall, and the Clarence Reed family.

A short discussion was held on having a socialite afternoon for the October meeting, which was carried.

Mrs. Beddell group convener, welcomed all present and read a lovely little poem, "Just Folks" and Mrs. Townsend favored with two lovely solo's "Little Bare Feet", and "Roving, Not Drifting".

Mrs. Stumpe gave two nice readings, "Value of a Smile" and "How Fortunate We Are" and Mrs. Garbett favored with a recitation she had given 80 years ago at Albury Church, "The Bridge Keeper's Story".

Mrs. Townsend sang two more solos "accompanied by Mrs. M. Hobbs, "Good Night" and "Alarm Clock", which all enjoyed.

Mrs. Walters gave a short talk on voting "No", September 26th, after which Mrs. Mitchell conducted a spelling match, with Miss Jennie Moon and Mrs. Pierson being the prize winners.

Mrs. Beddell and Mrs. Trumpour and their group served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

By Patricia Lewis

SALES CLERKS SPEAK THEIR PIECE

Let's give the sales clerks of this nation their say in this column.

It seems that many writers have included, have written copiously and correctly about customer complaints of sloppy service, inattention and just plain discourtesy by a number of sales clerks in stores serving the public.

But there's another side to the counter, as it were. The grievances of sales clerks about the buying public are just as numerous and equally as justified.

There's the customer, for instance, who demands immediate attention even to the point of breaking in while the clerk is serving someone else. The salesgirl can try to smile and explain that she's busy with someone else, but she knows it will be a losing battle.

Then there's the sensitive shopper whose insult quotient is so low it can't be measured. Constantly miffed the salesgirl doesn't answer her questions promptly and subservviently. She interprets any lack of alertness as a personal affront.

And how about the woman who stalks in and demands the selling peerless mug at the sales price advertised last week? The clerk tries to explain that it was a special for that week only, but this rarely satisfies this fancy-come-lately, who secretly believes that the employees buy up the specials for themselves.

Clerks behind the bargain counters have a particularly hard time of it. They're expected to answer, at once, questions at the same time from a many bargain - hunters. Being constantly surrounded by shouting, grabbing hordes, no wonder many fake a perplexed eyebrow whenever the subject of customer courtesy comes up in the store's briefest sentence.

Then, there's the "Well, I don't know . . ." type of shopper who makes a cliff-hanger out of every purchase and expects the clerk to give unwavering attention while she makes up her mind. Chances are she'll be back next week after the item has sold out and criticize the way the store does business.

And so it goes. Most salespersons have to cope with a display of bad manners almost daily, and have learned how to deal smoothly with discourtesy. As store manuals say, "the customer is always right." We might add: except when they're rude, high-handed and generally ornery. Then they're dead wrong.

Hospitals Have Different Ideas About Fathers Being Present at Childbirth

OTTAWA (CP)—Two of Ottawa's largest hospitals have differing ideas on whether fathers should be present at the birth of their children.

Ottawa General Hospital, operated by the Grey Nuns, permits husbands to be with their wives during labor and, if they wish, they may observe delivery through a glass partition.

At Civic Hospital, operated by the city, an administrative staff member said husbands are not encouraged to stay with their wives during labor.

"This may change," the spokesman said. "If it does, it may take time. This is not only a medical problem, it is a matter of community custom and social attitudes."

Dr. Henri de Saint Victor, head of obstetrical services at Ottawa General, said many couples, especially young ones, are enthusiastic—even a little proud being together during childbirth.

"We like it that way and we encourage husbands to help them as much as possible. It may have a good influence on the mother's family."

SOME BAR VISITORS

Dr. de Saint Victor said not all women want their husbands present. Some felt they looked awful and didn't want to be seen that way.

The Civic Hospital spokesman said the welfare of the patient is the doctor's responsibility and the hospital's first consideration. The chances of infection increased with each additional person allowed close to the patient during delivery.

He said that a few years ago a U.S. hospital barred all visitors in the maternity ward, although the decision was unpopular, infection dropped sharply.

The Civic has no intention of adopting such a policy but the example serves to emphasize the dangers of infection which a hospital must guard against."

Mrs. Robert Milner, chairman of the Canadian Mothercraft Society in Ottawa, said that unless men have been prepared and helped, "being present at delivery can be quite upsetting."

She said society feels that if a husband has some training for his role, if both husband and wife agree and if the architecture of the hospital permits, the husband should be allowed to stay during labor. The husband should also be present in the delivery room if the doctor gives permission and there are adequate facilities.

Mrs. Edna R. Hall, an executive member of the Natural Childbirth Association, said all hospitals should provide facilities for husbands to be with their wives during labor. It was only a short step from there to the delivery room and she hoped husbands would be permitted there eventually.

Mrs. Hall said that if a man is trained in natural childbirth and understands what is happening he can be of help to his wife—sometimes just by saying the right thing.

"All hospitals feel that a woman needs companionship during labor and a nurse is usually with her," she said. "But we feel the woman's husband is her best companion if he has been trained in natural childbirth."

MARRIAGE AGES

Average age for marriage for women in the island of Mauritius is 18½ years, compared to 20.3 years in the U.S. and 23 in Britain.

Women's Activities

ST. MARK'S W.A.

BONARLAW — The September meeting of St. Mark's W.A. was held at Mrs. Woodbeck's cottage at Oak Lake in the form of a potluck dinner.

Everyone enjoyed a delicious meal and at two o'clock the president, Mrs. Fleming opened the meeting.

Mr. Fleming led in prayer. Mrs. Barlow welcomed all and thanked Mrs. Woodbeck for her hospitality.

Mrs. Fleming read the Bible reading taken from St. John.

Minutes of the last meeting were read; the treasurer, Mrs. Neal gave her report; Mrs. M. Tanner reported on quilt gowns and one was displayed. A letter was received from Springbrook W.A. inviting St. Mark's to their bazaar on Sept. 28th.

Mr. Fleming reported the furnace was being installed in the church.

Readings were given and a contest conducted.

The hostess served tea and cookies.

BE PREPARED

MONTREAL (CP) — Fur Marie-Hélène Quednau, working hours vary as world crises arise and are settled. As head of the eight-member team of French typists at United Nations headquarters, she works 30 hours a day for seven days straight last year during the Congo crisis. "If you were not strong and healthy," she said, "you would have a nervous breakdown."

St. John's F.G. Plans Future Activities

The Friendship Group of St. John's Anglican Church, Point Anne, held its first regular meeting of the season in the parish hall last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Audrey Chisholm opened the meeting and followed the usual order of business.

It was decided that the group start to prepare for their next bazaar by bringing some article to each meeting. At the next meeting each member was requested to bring an apron and a small package for the fair food, suitable for a boy.

The members were asked to meet at the parish hall on October 23rd at the home of Mrs. Norman MacDonald.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Isabel C. — He hasn't spoken to me in three months.

Joseph C. — All she talks about is leaving me!

Isabel C. — After World War II, having been left a widow with a 16-month-old son, I married Joe. We were both aware of the two strikes against the marriage — that I didn't love him and that he was 20 years older than I. Now we have an 8-year-old daughter, but our home is no real home for her and I wish I had the courage to break it up.

Joe has as little to do with me and our child as possible. I can count on my fingers how many times we have spoken to each other in the 17 year's we've been married. He comes home, has his meals, sleeps and goes out again. At present we haven't spoken to each other for three months. His present silence is because I brought up the subject of getting a job and getting away from him. Why go on living together this way?

Joseph C. — I knew Isabel and I couldn't have a perfect marriage, but I hoped she would try to make a pleasant home for me. I had never had a happy home. My mother died when I was a baby and I grew up in relatives' families and in an orphan asylum. Even so, I took care of my sick father and up to last year, when he died at the age of 91, I'd supported him in an expensive nursing home. But I didn't want to end up that way myself and I married Isabel to have my own home. I gave her and her baby a home, too.

I'm no talker. Ask anybody. And I'm certainly no talker when Isabel starts lacing into me about what a terrible husband and terrible father I am. If she was leaving me, she should have done so long ago. Now, with old age facing me, I see no time to talk this way.

The Council — "I didn't love him." There again is that poor old battered word "love" on which the ashes of this marriage are heaped. Yet a prominent marriage counsellor insists that love isn't as important to success in marriage as "liking". Isabel and Joseph must have liked each other 17 years ago. What happened?

We suspect that the spectre of failure loomed so heavily from their wedding day on that they were probably so convinced that the marriage was doomed to be a burdensome duranze test that neither of them put any real effort into turning liking to loving! It takes effort, even for those who start off with "loads of love". Because the love of a Golden Anniversary pair who have "worked on" their marriage is quite different from the love of an infatuated, enamoured pair who are full of promises of what they'll do for each other. Real love in marriage is based upon performance rather than talk. But Isabel had a good sulking over a marriage which lacked excitement, didn't even touch on Apple Blossom Festival last year. She has a licentiate of music and a bachelor of arts degree from Acadia University, Wolfville.

At 18, Miss Harris leaped off to Corner Brook, Nfld. because "I wanted to find a pioneering district in music so I could try out my personal theories."

I wanted a place where I would be able to design my own music program and teach private students and have one or two choirs rather than walk into a music classroom and teach disinterested children among the musically inclined."

She developed a deep attachment to Newfoundland "because it's so far removed from the hustle and bustle of Nova Scotia."

"They love their traditional folk songs. I don't think they're any more receptive in Newfoundland but they have the advantage of being closer to their music."

She was especially impressed by the television stations in Newfoundland.

"All the local stations will promote any student endeavors in the field of the arts, particularly in music."

Carol collects folk songs by "getting the words down on paper, memorizing the melody and then scoring the song when I go home."

"I go out of my way to visit the more remote spots in the Atlantic region, mainly because of my interest in folk songs. I find that in country areas it's very easy to make contact with the authentic folk singers, to tap the treasure at its source."

"The region has few original folk songs. We have inherited most of them from the British Isles, although Newfoundland has more than the other three provinces.

"Of course, the original songs are bred from years of hardship and tragedy and they've lost a lot of that in Newfoundland in years past."

Former N. S. Beauty Queen Will Study in London

By DAVE PIKE

HALIFAX (CP) — A former Nova Scotia beauty queen whose interest in folk songs "takes me on flying leaps just about everywhere in the Atlantic provinces" leaves for England this fall with a brand new husband to continue her studies in voice technique.

Carol Harris, slender, dark-haired 21-year-old native of Wolfville, N.S., says her objective "is to rouse a love and pride for music in Nova Scotia communities."

"I want to be the best teacher of music I can."

Just married to geologist Antony Berger, she will continue her studies while he attends the University of London.

Miss Harris, a soprano with sparkling eyes, was crowned queen of the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival last year. She has a licentiate of music and a bachelor of arts degree from Acadia University, Wolfville.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The September meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Tanner with 13 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. Tanner, opened the meeting.

The roll call was answered by "naming a preventable disease or condition and how this prevention may be achieved."

The correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. Harold Detlor, which consisted of a letter from Mrs. L. G. Lymburner, the FWIO president, who gave February 4, 1963, as the date for "Farm Radio Forum" broadcast. She also stated that the International Scholarship fund had reached $14,000.

Mrs. Charles Ross, Mrs. B. Kuglin and Mrs. Don Irish volunteered to canvass for the blind.

The conveners of standing committees reported, with Mrs. Allyn Pinkle, convener of education, reading an article on "TV Teaching"; Miss Jane Gay, historical convener, read an article from the "History of Hastings County"; Mrs. Don Irish, home economics convener, read an article on "How to Make Your Own Silver Polishing Cloth."

Mrs. B. Kuglin, health convener, told that the oral vaccine for polio has been discontinued.

Current events were given by each member.

Mrs. Bazil Kuglin, health convener, presided over the following program. She paneled out the following booklets for the members to look at: "Teen Home Nursing Manual," "Family Health Planning for Disaster," and "Home Nursing."

A film on "Shyness" was shown, demonstrating how the shy child can be helped and should be helped. A shy adult is often missing out on fun in his or her community and often misses out of a good job which is quite serious.

Mrs. Leslie Pinkle read "On This Lasich"

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

From the trim new front end to the stylish new rear deck, Chevrolet for '63 has the looks of the leader. Lines are crisp and clean—interiors are lovely and luxurious—the ride is Jet-smooth and silent.

Bold, brilliant engineering of the '63 Chevrolet brings you such under-the-skin improvements as self-adjusting brakes, impact-resisting safety door latches, battery-saving Delcotron generator, extended-life exhaust system, 6 months or 6,000 mile lubrication interval and Air-Washed rocker panels and front fender liners to reduce corrosion. But hold on, there's more. There's a brand new smooth-as-silk standard Six, and livelier-than-ever V8 engines in a choice of 13 models, plus a list of options and convenience equipment as long as your arm.

It's going to be a great year for Chevrolet—your year to go Chevrolet '63—it's exciting!

Chevy II Nova 400 Sedan

Chevy II made a name for itself in just one year. And this year it's even better, for the '63 Chevy II combines the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet (such as self-adjusting brakes, and 60 day/6,000 mile oil change) plus its own advantages — park-anywhere size, full-family room, pep and economy from the 4- or 6-cylinder engines and a full complement of optional power assists. Take a fresh look at the kind of car you need. Then take a good look at the new Chevy II — it's exciting!

Whitewall tires optional at extra cost.

Corvair Monza Club Coupe

Bright new accents, colors and interiors highlight Corvair's distinctive-as-ever styling for '63. Self-adjusting brakes, improved front suspension and extended-life exhaust system add to Corvair's already impressive list of automotive achievements. For the sheer fun of it, test drive a '63 Corvair — it's exciting!

FRIDAY, SEPT. 28th

A Personal Invitation . . . .

I would like through this medium to extend to the citizens of Belleville and Quinte District a personal invitation to attend the first showing of our new 1963 Chevrolet Models which will go on dispay for the first time — Friday, September 28th, in our Showroom at 31-45 Station Street, Belleville.

Our General Sales Manager, Mr. Lee, and his sales and service staff will be on hand to meet you and to assist in providing any information relative to our new product.

We take this opportunity to extend our appreciation on behalf of all the members of our organization to the people of this area who have in the past patronized us to the extent of purchasing over 35,000 motor vehicles. We have in all our transactions with our customers endeavored to give the best possible value and satisfaction for the money invested in the sales of new cars, used cars, and service from our Service Department. It is our sincere desire to render the same type of service to the people who entrust their dealings to us.

We trust that you will make it a point to visit us during the showing of our new models.

Yours very truly,

Tough new '63 Chevrolet Trucks

...THE ONES THAT WHIPPED THE BAJA RUN... TOUGHEST UNDER THE SUN...TO SHOW THE WORTH OF NEW ENGINES, FRAMES AND SUSPENSIONS!

Millions of years ago nature fashioned a proving ground for trucks that man can never duplicate. Today it is known as the Baja (bah hah) California Peninsula, Mexico.

If you think you build a tough truck, this is the place to find out.

From Tijuana to Cabo San Lucas at the lower tip is a thousand miles of trail that defies description and also anyone who challenges it, every foot of the way. This road bears no resemblance to the modern highways on the Mexican mainland.

You carry all fuel, water, food, other supplies. There are no corner supermarkets.

These pictures give you only a bare idea of the place. The road is fine for 140 miles below the U.S. border.

Then the beating begins. Rocks, ruts, washboard and washout punch, jab and jerk the trucks from stem to stern. Worse than corduroy, or driving along railway ties!

Loose sand makes them struggle and strain.
Dust chokes them. Heat roasts them.
Rivers drench them.

The Baja Run took this Chevrolet truck caravan 17 days to go the 1,066 miles. Hours and hours were spent in low gear. The most distance ground out in any one day was 200 miles in 19 hours; the least was 32 miles in 9 hours. Highest temperature encountered was 122 degrees F. at Dry Lake.

The Chevrolet caravan was made up of a Carryall, a ½-ton pickup with new 230-cu.-in. 6-cylinder engine, a ¾-ton pickup with new 292-cu-in.* 6-cylinder engine, a medium-duty unit with refrigerated van, a medium-duty diesel tanker, and a heavy-duty tandem.

All the trucks performed magnificently. Not one was forced to drop out because of mechanical difficulty. Each day's run was finished on schedule.

Trucks that can take this kind of beating can take on your toughest truck jobs. See these tough quality-built '63 Chevrolet trucks with all their new improvements at your Chevrolet dealer's.

*Optional extra cost

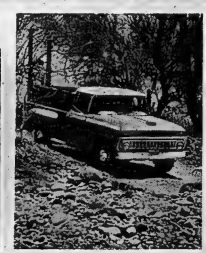
A General Motors Value



When you came to a river, you got wet. This Baja river bottom was covered with rocks, as was most of the road. What a test for '63 light- and heavy-duty suspension.

Tight squeeze for the medium- and heavy-duty units in this narrow gorge. Their new narrower front ends certainly paid off here (7 inches slimmer). Users who operate in close quarters will like this new '63 feature.

Sometimes the caravan crept along for hours in low gear. There was no traffic — just an occasional traveller on burro or horseback. It's that kind of route. It took 17 days to go 1,066 miles!

The new ladder-type frames on all models took severe punishment from this terrain (as did all components). Shown is the ½-ton pickup with new 292-cu-in. *6-cylinder engine.

Temperatures as high as 122 degrees F. burned the land in the desert area around Dry Lake — one more ordeal any truck that goes to Baja has to shrug off.

See the "New Reliables" now at your Chevrolet dealer's!

No Panic, Just Everyone Moved to Escape Hatches Way Ditching Described

Wasn't Little Boy That Beat Me Says Capt.

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—"I felt the way I was being kicked over, it wasn't by a little boy."

That's how Capt. Frank Walsh, an official of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, a union of deck officers on lakeships, described an attack on himself in Owen Sound five years ago.

Capt. Walsh said he was beaten up in a pitch dark parking lot—knocked to the ground and kicked repeatedly by his assailants.

The union officer was testifying Wednesday before Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, who is making a public investigation into waterfront violence and shipping disruptions that have plagued the Great Lakes in recent months.

Other witnesses have testified under oath that SIU President Hal C. Banks ordered that Capt. Walsh be "worked over" and that the thug who was done by an imported American muscleman identified as Jack Kasper.

"When I was knocked down, the boot put to me," he said Capt. Walsh. "Somebody started to kick me. I don't know whether it was one, two or 10."

CAN'T RECALL TRIP

He said he dragged himself to his feet, limped home and then drove 150 miles to his home—but can't recall the trip at all.

He said his right hand was dislocated, his skull was torn off his back, legs and arms, the side of his head was swollen, his eyes blackened and three teeth knocked out by his attackers.

Capt. Walsh was the latest in a series of witnesses who have told the commission about waterfront violence aimed at opponents of the SIU.

The commission also heard testimony Wednesday from Capt. John C. Wood and Richard Greaves, two union officers representing marine engineers who were once allies of the SIU.

Mr. Wood, who was director of the SIU's Marine Engineers Division for 30 months, said he saw documents stolen from the offices of the national association of marine engineers turned over later in the SIU offices.

Mr. Greaves, president of the National Association of Marine Engineers, said shipowners signed with the SIU lay their marine engineers because the SIU threatened to tie up their ships if they didn't.

Durum Wheat Prices Cut by 16 Cents Bus.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The battle was joined for the world's durum wheat markets Wednesday as Canada cut prices to compete with government-subsidized United States growers.

The Canada government announced Tuesday it will pay a subsidy of 15 cents a bushel on U.S. durum exports from all ports except those on the Pacific Coast. It was a reversal of a policy discontinued several years ago.

The Canadian Wheat Board, government marketing agency for grain growing Western Canada, announced Wednesday that it is cutting durum prices by 16 cents a bushel.

As far as overseas buyers are concerned, the net result difference in the price changes about evens up the difference in the values of Canadian and U.S. currency.

Europe is the main market for North American durum, used for spaghetti, macaroni and similar foods. However, latest reports indicate that the durum crop was much better than last year in Europe and in the Middle East and North America. The situation provides a reason for hard-sell tactics.

Another reason is the bumper crop expected this year on the North American plains. United States production this year has been estimated at 67,077,000 bushels compared with 38,955,000 bushels in the dry year of 1961.

Canadian production is expected to be a record 56,400,000 bushels compared with 15,800,000 bushels in 1961.

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP) "No panic, just everyone moving in to the escape hatches. Concussed and even a few jokes as waves smashed our raft around 1 to 3 a.m."

This was the way Pete Foley, a staff writer of the American armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes, began an eyewitness report on the crash of a Flying Tiger Super Constellation in the Atlantic Sunday. His account was published in Stars and Stripes Wednesday.

Foley described how two engines failed four hours after the plane took off from Gander, NDL., and the stewardesses began ditching drill on a precautionary basis.

"Spirit was high on the plane and many of the young soldiers aboard, mostly headed overseas for the first time, kidded the stewardesses and a few they wanted to be in the same life raft with them," reported Foley. SHOW NO FEAR

A frightened young bride and a mother of two small children showed no signs of fear.

"When the plane's third motor died the pilot announced 'we are going to ditch,'" Foley continued:

"Within minutes came the hard crash and the struggle to come out of the sinking plane through the escape hatches just everyone moving to the escape hatches.

"The seas were rough and the winds were blowing and in the black of night against choking and struggling swimmers could be seen.

"There were only the cries: 'Where are the rafts? Where are they?'

Foley described how the swimmers finally found an upturned raft, climbed and packed aboard it two deep.

GIVEN FALSE HOPE

The lights of planes, of fading flares and even the rising moon gave the survivors false hope that a rescue ship was coming.

The green running light of the Sun Valley Express, symbol for their first sure sign of help.

Foley said the Coleman search lights, guided by the pone flashlight which pilot John Murray had brought with him, spotted the raft almost an hour after the running light was first seen.

He quoted the ship's captain as saying: "If we had not for the flashlight, it would have taken much longer to find the rafts in the high seas and waves."

STAY TOGETHER

In Cork, Ireland the navigator of the ditched airliner told Wednesday how survivors sang and prayed together in a raft bobbed about in 10-foot waves for 12 hours before rescue.

Samuel T. Nicholson of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said "everyone was in a very magnificent mood. They were all game." He was speaking at an interview at Mercy Hospital.

"My job was to go back to the rear door and throw the life line and launch a raft.

"After the plane ditched I quickly got out of my seat. Water flowed in and was all over me.

"I pulled open the rear door and a wave of water literally knocked me over. I got up again and threw the raft out but unfortunately the rope was not secure, tying it to the aircraft snapped, so it floated away.

"I swam about and found the first. Two soldiers were swimming to it and I helped them get aboard and I told them to try and look for the lever to inflate the raft. I finally found it and inflated the raft.

"I've climbed on quickly and started shouting to other people in the water to join us.

"We got three women and 40 men on that raft and remember that was only supposed to hold 25."

Preston Votes In Dining Lounges, Bars

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — This town near Galt approved the sale of liquor in dining and cocktail lounges in a vote Wednesday.

A 65-per-cent vote in favor was needed from among the 54 per cent of the town's eligible voters who went to the polls.

They approved the sale of liquor in dining rooms with a 56.02-per-cent vote and cocktail lounges with a 63.84 per cent vote.

The vote saw the wets win the dining room issue 1,619 to 1,502 and the cocktail lounges vote was 61,816 in favor, 1,505 against.

Sen. Farquhar Resigns Seat, In Ill Health

OTTAWA (CP)—The resignation of Liberal Senator Thomas Farquhar, 87, of Little Current, Ont., has been received here an informant said Wednesday.

Senator Farquhar, seriously ill for some time, was unable to attend either of the last two sessions of Parliament. For this reason, the Senate would have been forced to declare his seat vacant this session.

The informant said the letter of resignation was sent by Sen. Farquhar's lawyer and that certain legal steps have to be taken before the resignation can take effect.

His resignation would bring to seven the number of vacancies in the 102-seat upper chamber, and reduce Liberal membership to 61. When Tuesday's five new appointments by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, there are 31 Progressive Conservative senators, The Senate also has two Independents and one Independent Liberal).

Senator Farquhar was Liberal MP for Algoma East from 1935 until he resigned in September, 1940, to permit Lester B. Pearson to seek entry to the Commons in a byelection. At that time Mr. Pearson had just been appointed external affairs minister in the Liberal government.

MUST REPORT

If Senator Farquhar did not submit his resignation, after missing two complete sessions, he would be considered by the Senate committee on standing orders and privileges and the adoption of the report the seat would become vacant.

This happened in 1957 when the Senate clerk reported that Senator Arthur Doyle of Peterborough had missed two sessions. The committee opened a file on the case, but the 24-year seal senator died before any action was taken.

This case was the first of its kind since 1915 when two Senate seats were declared vacant.

Farm Wagon Platform for Political Talk

WINGHAM, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer used a farm wagon as a platform Wednesday night to address 5,000 people attending a rally for the Oct. 4 Huron-Bruce provincial byelection.

Mr. Wintermeyer spoke in support of Liberal candidate Murray Gaunt, a farmer near this community 65 miles northwest of Toronto, in the byelection.

"Give Mr. Gaunt an opportunity to represent you in an effective way at Queen's Park," Mr. Wintermeyer told the gigantic rally. It consumed 400 pounds of turkey and 4,000 buns.

The byelection is being held to fill the vacancy in the legislature created by the death in early this year of John W. Hanna, 72, who held the seat for the Progressive Conservatives.

Campaign chairman Dr. J. Russell Scott (left) and J. J. Trudeau (right), chairman of the Belleville United Appeal, are seen with Lt.-Col. E. A. Baker, speaker at last night's United Appeal kick-off rally held at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. Mr. Trudeau announced advance donations of $5,100 and said one local firm was already within 95 per cent of its objective.

Must Help Your Neighbor Says Lt. Col. E. A. Baker In Kicking off Drive

"Be prepared to do for your neighbor what you would hope he would do for you in time of need" was the theme stressed by Lt.-Col. E. A. Baker, O.B.E., M.C., the guest speaker at the kick-off rally for the 1962 United Appeal held in the R.C.H.S. auditorium yesterday evening.

The speaker also stressed the importance of maintaining private welfare organizations. He noted that government had instituted very few such services itself and was incapable of attaining the humanistic touch and personal approach which a private organization offers because of the inevitable lapse and regulations inherent in governmental agencies.

He expressed his hope that private organizations would ever never be sacrificed to some government departments. The various welfare and service organizations came into existence thanks to both individual and concerted action by citizens and groups to meet the needs of their neighbors in distress in a free and democratic society, he concluded.

It was essential to maintain the humanistic aspects of organizations founded to assist those afflicted with various types of diseases or requiring assistance Col. Baker said. This might be best done, he suggested, by everyone taking an interest in the work of these groups and by accepting their findings regarding the field or disease with which they were concerned.

During his remarks the former managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (Ont. Baker lost his sight in World War I) noted that loss of sight did not necessarily mean loss of hope. He traced the foundation and activities of his own organization to illustrate how a voluntary organization can do great amount of good not only for those already afflicted by a handicap but can also do much to prevent others from experiencing the same problem.

"Your objective may be in need today, but it could as easily be you tomorrow," Col. Baker concluded in which wished the local United Appeal success in its campaign.

OUTLINES HISTORY

J. J. Trudeau, president of the Belleville United - Appeal, also spoke briefly outlining the history of the local appeal and the most recent changes in the organization. The most important of these is the need to raise $80,000 in this campaign, the largest amount ever set as a goal for the group, he advised.

Mr. Trudeau stated that it must be realized that the primary purpose of the United Appeal was to raise and provide enough funds for the 15 member organizations through a single campaign, thus avoiding the expenses and duplicate costs of each running its own individual campaign. In this manner greater value is realized from the donor's dollar.

In concluding, Mr. Trudeau said that he "trusted to the wholehearted support of the citizens of the - community" to achieve 1962's objective.

Dr. Russell Scott, the appeal's campaign chairman, noted that he felt there were very few families in the community who did not use the services of at least three of the 23 agencies in the United Appeal during the course of a single year.

MUST SHOW PURPOSE

Dr. Scott advised that during his experiences with people in this community he had noticed that they will readily cooperate to their utmost to put over a project once they know exactly what is happening. It was important, he advised, to make people realize that in donating to the United Appeal they were really giving to themselves.

Louis Maraskas introduced the guest speaker with the astute observation that Col. Baker had devoted his life to working for the benefit of his fellow men. Ernie Burnett expressed the thanks of those present for Col. Baker's address, which earned him a standing ovation at its conclusion.

Alderman Stuart Robb voiced the greeting of city council and mentioned that council was well aware of the valuable contribution which the United Appeal has made for the welfare of the community.

New Canadian Coins Will Be Issued in '67

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says a new series of Canadian coins, with portraits of Queen Elizabeth and Queen Victoria on the obverse side, will likely be issued in 1967 to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Confederation.

The paper said:

"The 1967 coins will be the first time two monarchs have appeared on a Canadian coin, and may be the only time two queens have appeared on any coin of legal tender.

"The reverse side of all 1967 coins probably will be unchanged."

The paper may also alter the metal content of the 1967 coins, The Globe adds.

The paper quotes officials at the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa as saying the government's centennial committee is studying the proposal but that no decision has been made. Any final decision would have to come from the cabinet.

WOUND U.S. SOLDIERS

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—Two American soldiers were slightly wounded Tuesday when their helicopter was hit by Communist ground fire near Soctrang, about 100 miles southeast of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday. The helicopter ferried safely to base.

Public Relations With States Said Damaged

OTTAWA (CP)—Concern was expressed in diplomatic circles Wednesday over possible repercussions from the disclosure that Canadian ships are helping to ferry goods between Russia and Cuba.

There was anxiety lest Tuesday's disclosure damage Canada's public relations in the United States, where periodically there has been harsh criticism of Canadian trading with Cuba.

Official sources indicated that the government's position will be that its hands are tied on the question of the ships since they fly the British flag even though belonging to Canadian-incorporated firms.

It was also noted that at least some of the firms themselves are evidently owned and controlled by British interests.

CAN DO LITTLE

Thus the Canadian government feels there is little it can do, either legally or through persuasion, to stop the ships from operating on the Russia-Cuba run.

All the same, officials here were braced for a possible new outburst against Canada by U.S. congressmen who have never become reconciled to the idea of this country continuing to do business with Communist-oriented Cuba.

The U.S. broke off diplomatic relations with Havana early in 1961, and it has also severed trade relations except for a limited flow of food and medicines.

But Canada-Cuban purchases from Canada have sunk to only about one-third of last year's level. These are mostly in cattle, swine, chicks and inedible tallow.

Jury Wants More Lights On Motor Boats

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—An inquest jury made eight recommendations for operating small boats Wednesday but ignored a recommendation by the coroner that all boat operators be licensed.

The inquest was into the death of Wolfgang Bloch, 20, of Toronto, who died in a boating accident on the Lake of Bays Aug. 25.

Bloch was piloting a boat loaded with four couples to a dance on Bigwin Island when the 14-foot outboard in which they were riding was rammed from behind by an 18-foot inboard.

Also killed was Mrs. Gordon Cave, 21, of Toronto, a passenger in the Bloch boat. Other passengers suffered shock, minor cuts and bruises.

The jury said that Bloch died following an accident caused by improper navigation lights and a degree of lack of caution in poor visibility.

Among its recommendations were:

Two additional red lights be placed in the stern of motor boats for night running; all sailing craft be equipped properly lit with navigation lights; a standard distress signal be recognized and enforced, preferably a red flashing light.

Letter From Paris Touches Off Flight to Freedom Aided by Detroit Paper

Editor's Note: From Paris to Ann Arbor, Mich., isn't far in these days of Space Travelers. But is a pretty Hungarian dancer, the cities were worlds apart. How she made this leap is a fascinating story of daring and spill-second timing. This is the first of four stories, made available to the Associated Press by the Detroit Free Press and the Knight Newspapers.

By DALE NOUSE

Detroit Free Press Assistant City Editor Copyright, 1962, the Detroit Free Press

DETROIT (AP)—The slender blonde glanced up and down the Rue de Faubourg in Paris, then quickly slipped an envelope into the ornate French mail box.

Praying she had gone undetected, Emese Szilenkay, a 20-year-old dancing student, then vanished into the crowd and rejoined a Hungarian national folk dance troupe.

That letter, postmarked the following day, arrived at Ann Arbor, Mich., shortly before noon two days later at a white frame house in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Marguerite Dinka, 29, a pretty housewife and Emese's older sister, trembled as she ripped open the envelope. News from relatives behind the Iron Curtain is scarce and seldom good.

To those without relatives under Communist rule, the letter might have been disclosure chatterly. But it was much more.

It said Emese (pronounced emma-shi) was then in Paris, but the troupe was going that day to northern France.

Then it added, in part:

DATES SET

"We shall be back in Paris again on the 19th, 20th and 21st of September. I promise I don't know how you could arrange a meeting with me one of these days. I would like very much if you could arrange it financially. Please excuse this hurried style, but I have only a short time. Once more, I would like it very much if this meeting could be arranged. My love to all of you. Emese."

Mrs. Dinka's brain whirled. The letter's meaning was clear. Emese knew she had a pleasant trip to Paris for an afternoon shopping spree was impossible for the Dinkas.

That evening, Mrs. Dinka and her husband, Stephen, 36, sat in their dining room. He is a research assistant physicist at the doctor's degree in epidemiology. Agitated and tense, they talked. Dinka, who is a naturalized citizen, was Budapest master butcher, who fled Hungary during the Russian front in the Second World War. When Hungary folded, he spent 36 months in Russian prison camps.

His wife, Marguerite, then 12 years old, kept two-year-old Emese safe in a crude bomb shelter until the Russians finally battered Budapest to its knees.

RECALL ESCAPE

Both remembered their own dash through the Iron Curtain.

After the October, 1956, uprising stilled, they sneaked out of Budapest on a train with their three children.

When Russian troops halted the train, they fled across icecrusted fields into Austria, with Russian flares seeking them and machine-guns stuttering.

Remembering all that, Dinka drove the morning of Sept. 13 to Detroit's federal building. Jack C. Stewart of the Immigration and naturalization service was sympathetic but pointed out the almost impossible nature of what Dinka proposed to do in a few short days.

A little later, Dinka came to The Free Press city room and asked, in Hungarian-accented English: "Please, may I talk with Mr. Frank Angelo?"

Managing editor Angelo was out of town, but Dinka told me he talk privately with someone.

He took a chair, and groped for the exact words.

"I would like to ask you to help me get a girl out of Communist Hungary. She is desperate to . . . as you say . . . defect."

He said Stewart had sent him to The Free Press.

Then he laid out his desperate plan to go to Paris and have the girl leave their Communist guards.

AGREE TO VENTURE

City editor Patrick Daniels and assistant executive editor Neil Neuharth recognized the odds involved, but agreed that The Free Press would finance the venture and render all possible help here and abroad.

The late Friday, Dinka had his passport and smallpox vaccination. He was to leave for Paris at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Meanwhile, Neuharth placed a call to the Ritz Hotel in Bradford for Mary Goodfellow, a Free Press correspondent on European assignments. Miss Goodfellow, a New Yorker familiar with Paris and French, was to be Dinka's working partner.

The mounting excitement was chilled by a sombre observation.

Mrs. Dinka pointed out that Emese, in her short letter had promised to write again, with her address in Paris. No letter had arrived.

Had the troupe's plans been changed? Or—worse—had Emese been discovered?

Dinka and I parted that evening, tired and discouraged. It had been decided that Dinka would make the final decision on whether he would go on what might be a wild goose chase.

At 6:30 a.m. Sunday we talked by telephone. He had decided to go.

NEXT: Rendezvous in Paris.

New Cuban Port for Red Trawlers Deepens Hold

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

George Ball, United States undersecretary of state, says the proposed construction in Cuba of a big new port for Soviet trawlers deepens Russia's hold on the Caribbean island.

This, he told a group of editors in Washington Wednesday, is "an unhappy situation" and that Cuba will be further exploited to serve Soviet purposes.

Pentagon authorities go even further, suggesting the trawlers, armed with electronic and other spying devices, increase the Soviet threat in the Western Hemisphere. They predict Soviet submarines may soon join the trawlers into Cuba.

The white official U.S. concern mounts over expanding Soviet power in the Caribbean, still greater fear is expressed that the Cuban issue may split the North Atlantic alliance.

State Secretary Rusk has appealed to NATO countries to refuse to ship any commercial shipping in hauling Communist cargoes to Cuba.

Except for West Germany, which responded quickly and favorably, most NATO powers virtually told Rusk there is little they can do at this time of peace and that anyway Cuba is mainly an American problem.

AMERICANS IRATE

This has further infuriated segments of the American public already embittered by the lack of forthright assistance by Latin American and European Allies toward ousting the Fidel Castro regime.

Many non - Americans fail to understand that Cuba is to us use has become a widespread symbol to American frustration in the cold war, a cold war that has given way to unbridled concern.

Newspaper columnists who have been attacking the Kennedy administration for lack of action now are turning their fire on U.S. Allies. Their argument is that Cuba is not solely an American problem because Soviet expansion does not respect geographic limits.

Columnist William S. White, writing in the Washington Star, suggests it would be wise for the Allies to understand the mood of Americans and the people.

"Cuba may be trivial to them (the Allies)," he writes, "but to Congress and the country it is far from that. It is the present mood of bewildered anger can, without much provocation become ugly indeed from their viewpoint."

PICKET FREIGHTER

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Yugoslav freighter which delivered Russian grain le Cuba was picketed at Port Houston Wednesday by Cuban refugees and members of the National Seafarers Action Committee. Longshoremen, afraid of violence, said they were advisable to load the Drzig, which came here from Havana to take on the 13,000 tons of flour for the United Arab Republic.

Colorful Parade Feature Of Demorestville Fair

PICTON — Rain which, threatened held off and occasionally the sun broke through overcast skies for the Demorestville Fair Wednesday afternoon.

The opening parade was a colorful one with ten township schools participating. Winning first for appearance, banner and marching was Big Island Southside, Mrs. E. Richards, teacher. With the theme "The First Canadians," the pupils were beautifully decorated outfits made from grain bags, beads, feather hats and their banner was of the same material. In second place was Solmesville school, the theme "Save the Elms," being carried out by pupils carrying live branches and dead branches, some dressed as "bugs" and the admonition that "DDT is unfair to bugs." Third was Demorestville whose pupils were dressed as Robin Hood and his Merry Men, in green costumes, feathered hats, etc. Fourth was Mount Carmel whose pupils in "March of the Trees" carried signs and wore banners.

As a gaily costumed group of gypsies, pupils of Big Island Northside, came fifth. Dozens featured maple leaves in decoration for 6th. "Make every day a fire safe day," proclaimed seventh place Jericho pupils who wore fire helmets. Crofton pupils represented the opportunities open in Prince Edward, while Bethel pupils were birds as did bands to depict "Southward Bound." Northport school said "Our aim is to boost Northport the beautiful," and snapshots and placards proclaimed the village's highlights. Woodville school pupils also featured the Robin Hood theme and S.S. 13 the Commonwealth of Nations, with pupils in national costumes.

P.S. H. L. Knight highly praised teachers and pupils on "one of the best parades yet."

BABY SHOW

There were 17 entries in the baby show. Sweepstakes award went to Dwayne, 9 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Decker, Mt. View airport.

In under one year class, winners were: Eleonor Susan, 9-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller, Picton; Timothy, 5-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Alder, Bethel, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pierson, Picton.

In 12-18 months class: Brenda Marlene, 17 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Reddick, R.R. 2, Picton, was first; Scott Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cole, second; Judy Lorraine, 13 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lowe, third.

During the afternoon the children enjoyed a program of sports.

At noon the W.I. catered to a large crowd at a sumptuous turkey dinner served in the village hall.

FINE EXHIBITS

The hall was a mass of autumnal color as flowers, vegetables, fruits and plants filled tables and walls were covered with posters, art, collections and other work of township pupils. There was a fine array of ladies' work and tempting home cooking.

Quilts, poultry, pigeons, rabbits and dogs vied for attention. The Call Club competition and horse show filled out an afternoon during which renewing of friendships was a dominant feature.

SPECIAL CROP

The wild rice harvest in 1961 netted $275,000 to Indians in the Kenora - southern Manitoba region and around Peterborough, Ont.

Kinsmen Hear Proposals for Commission

PICTON—Picton Kinsmen Club Tuesday night heard of the proposed recreation commission for the town when guest speaker was Sheriff H. J. Collver. The committee would be made up of representatives of local organizations and town council with the eventual possibility of a full time recreation director being engaged. Introduced by President Bob Barry, Mr. Collver was thanked by Bob Biddle.

Appreciation to the Kinsmen for their assistance to residents of Prince Edward County Home was voiced by superintendent William McWilliam. He pointed out ways in which groups could help make life more pleasant for the residents.

The club plans its Senior Citizens night on Nov. 27 when home residents will be entertained at a dinner and program. Mr. McWilliam was thanked by Past President Laverne Hegadorn.

Bob Dunnett was appointed secretary for the remainder of the term.

Members of the club assisted two nights in the canteen at the County Fair as part of their community service.

Guests at the meeting were Douglas Clarke, L.O.P.C. and Ed Shepard of Procter-Silex Ltd.

The club is adding to its membership and planning a continued program of service.

Mrs. Ken Walker had a quilting bee last week. Mrs. Roy Covert Mrs. Floyd Gorsline and Mrs. Charles Harrington were the helpers.

TWEED

Kiwanis Club Presents Charter Member With Gold Anvil

TWEED — Ten years of progress and community service were marked last Thursday evening at Hotel Tweedsmuir by the tenth anniversary commemorating the granting of the charter of the Kiwanis Club in Tweed. This was a wonderful night and charter president, Ray Woolfrey, is to be congratulated on all arrangements for the memorable event. Charter president Ray was in charge of the gong and gavel for the majority of the evening and officially opened the meeting and made good use of all the charter members present.

Cartha Cassidy led in the invocation which was followed by the toast to the Queen.

One minute silence was observed in memory of the late Sam Curry, who was the man responsible for bringing Kiwanis to Tweed.

Charter vice-president Wes Hamilton, introduced the head table which was graced by the following: charter president, Ray Woolfrey; president, Keith Baldwin. Lieut-Governor elect, Gerry Wishart; charter and present secretary, Tommy Thompson; guest speaker, Art McDonald, an old friend of many members and presently manager of the Bank of Montreal in Frankford.

Wes Hamilton introduced the charter members who were present as follows: Cartha Cassidy; Burton Vance; Ted Coopereye; Dr. Gib Allen; Carm Alton; Ken Burkitt, (now of Belleville club); Bill Countryman; Clarence Graham; Les Jardine; Art McCrary; Fred Porter; Jack Rashotte and Ed Way.

The club was also honored to have two inter-clubs visit them from the parent-club at Madoc: Ted Naylor, Bill Hart, Wes Hulin, Ev. Dixon, and A. Burton with the following from Belleville; John Trafford, Bev. Quinzey, Harold Thompson, Mac Moffatt, Cliff Baragar, Gerry Wishart, Ken Burkitt and Werner Daeschel.

Burton Vance was a busy sergeant-at-arms.

Ray Woolfrey read a letter of congratulations on their 10th anniversary from Kiwanis International.

Joe McDonald was the lucky winner of a ham which had been donated.

The guest speaker, Art Duncan of Batawa, public relations officer for the Hats Shoe Company, was introduced by Art McDonald. Mr. Duncan spoke on "Public Relations" and after his interesting address he was thanked by Ken Burkett.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation to the man of the evening, who has, in fact, been one of the mainstays and guiding lights of the club for the past ten years, "Tommy" Thompson. Tommy was the charter treasurer of club and still is and was also president in 1956. Tommy also has an unblemished attendance record as he has ten years perfect attendance. These accomplishments only come to such a sincere Kiwanian as Tommy.

PRESENTATION MADE

Tommy was presented with a beautiful gold anvil suitably engraved with duplicate of the accompanying Kiwanis insignia. This is not an ordinary anvil as it was the last casting made at Tweed Foundries before it closed. This anvil has been hoarded by Ray for some special occasion and could not think of anyone by, Jim Keenan and Ray Holmes.

The charter officers were: president — Ray Woolfrey; vice-president — Wes Hamilton; secretary — Jim Scott, (now in Toronto), and treasurer — Tommy Thompson. The directors were: Art Leman, (now in Maple); Cartha Cassidy, Burton Vance, Ambrose Trudeau, Dave Price (now in Sarnia), Ted Cooperye and Jim Halpenny.

Now for 1963...
General Motors Warranty
covers the entire new car or truck for 24 months or 24,000 miles!

Except for tires and tubes and those adjustments or part replacements recognized as normal maintenance items, every part manufactured or supplied by General Motors of Canada in every new 1963 Chevrolet, Acadian, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, Vauxhall and Envoy passenger car and in every new 1963 GMC and Chevrolet truck, Envoy and Bedford van is covered by the General Motors NEW VEHICLE WARRANTY—for 24 months or 24,000 miles from original retail purchase, whichever comes first—whether owned by the original purchaser or a subsequent owner.

Here is the complete warranty for all 1963 General Motors cars and trucks. The liberal features of this warranty have been made possible by General Motors leadership in the fields of automotive research, engineering and production. You are invited to read it in full.

NEW VEHICLE WARRANTY

General Motors of Canada Limited warrants each new motor vehicle and chassis including all equipment and accessories thereon (except tires and tubes), manufactured or supplied by General Motors and delivered to the original retail purchaser by an authorized General Motors Dealer, to be free from defects in material and workmanship under normal use and service; General Motors obligation under this warranty being limited to repairing or replacing at its option any part or parts thereof which shall, within twenty-four (24) months after delivery of such vehicle or chassis to the original retail purchaser or before such vehicle or chassis has been driven twenty-four thousand (24,000) miles, whichever event shall first occur, be returned to an authorized General Motors Dealer at such Dealer's place of business and which examination shall disclose to General Motors satisfaction to have been thus defective. The repair or replacement of defective parts under this warranty will be made by such Dealer without charge for parts, and if made at such Dealer's place of business, without charge for labour.

The provisions of this warranty shall not apply to any General Motors motor vehicle or chassis which has been subject to misuse, negligence or accident, or which shall have been repaired or altered outside of an authorized General Motors dealership in any way so as, in the judgment of General Motors, to affect adversely its performance and reliability, nor to normal maintenance services (such as engine tune up, fuel system cleaning and wheel, brake and clutch adjustments) and the replacement of service items (such as spark plugs, ignition points, filters and brake and clutch lining) made in connection with such services, nor to normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items due to wear and exposure.

This warranty is expressly in lieu of any other warranties, express or implied, including any implied warranty of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, and of any other obligations or liability on the part of the Manufacturer, and General Motors of Canada Limited neither assumes nor authorizes any other person to assume for it any other liability in connection with such motor vehicle or chassis.

Roman Catholic Church Will Take Stock of Itself At Ecumenical Council

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Roman Catholic Church, at various times in its history, has taken stock of itself in an effort to assure that its presence in the world always has a contemporary aspect.

One of these inventories will begin in Rome Oct. 11 — the feast of the Motherhood of the Blessed Virgin Mary — when 2,800 cardinals, archbishops and bishops gather in St. Peter's Basilica for 81st ecumenical council.

The stated aim is to make the church "more accessible to our separated brethren" without changing in any way the essence of its doctrine.

Pope John XXIII announced Jan. 25, 1959, his intention to summon the ecclesiastical hierarchy to take part in a rejuvenation of the centuries-old appearance of the church.

A questionnaire sent by the Holy See to all spiritual leaders of Catholicism brought 9,000 replies.

DRAFTS ARE SECRET

Twelve preparatory commissions were set up to correlate and classify the replies, from which draft decrees were drawn up. These draft decrees were later studied and amended by the central commission of the council, then sent to all council members, called fathers of the council.

The fathers have since been studying the draft papers, written in Latin and found in volumes marked "sub secreto"—secret.

While the details of these working papers have not been disclosed to the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics, their general topics are known by the individual names of the 12 preparatory commissions.

Discussions of the council will deal with theology, bishops and the administration of dioceses, discipline of the clergy and the faithful, religious orders, the liturgy, the sacraments, universities and seminaries, the Eastern churches, the missions, the lay apostolate, the press and entertainment, and Christian unity.

These and related subjects, contained in 2,000 pages, were studied by the central commission which last June 30 completed its seventh and last sitting on the third floor of the Pope's palace.

SECOND AT VATICAN

As in the case of the 20 previous ecumenical councils, the council will be named after its site—the Vatican. That is where the council of 1870, which proclaimed the Pope's infallibility on questions of faith and morals, took place. Thus the council, beginning next month, will be named the second Vatican council.

Until 1870, when Pius IX ended the practice, emperors and chiefs of state took part in ecumenical councils as the voice of the laity.

The church, this time, invited the laity to "participate" by presenting suggestions.

The bishops of Canada were the first to meet lay groups and ask them what the laity expected of the council. This example was taken up in several other countries.

Among Canadian initiatives is a plan of Rev. E. F. Kutarna, parish priest of Wishart, Sask., to hold a "parochial council" that will be run much like the Vatican's. Every parishioner has been invited to take part in the project approved by Most Rev. M. C. O'Neill, Archbishop of Regina.

The work of the second Vatican council will be carried out in the central nave of St Peter's, especially renovated for the purpose at a cost of about $500,000. Lighting will be the best ever and will allow the works of Michelangelo to be seen in all their splendor.

CRITICIZED SEATING

This recalls that in 1550, the year Pope Julian III convened the second part of the council of Trent, members of the parish of St. Peter's criticized him for the poor lighting of the apse.

In St. Peter's nave, the Pope's throne will be on a stand mounted on casters so that it can be moved around. The 10 cardinals making up the presiding committee of the council will sit at a table in the centre. At the sides, there will be the tables of Magr. Pericle Felici, general secretary of the council, and of his staff.

The desks and kneelers of the cardinals will be set up in eight tiers of 11 seats each. The other fathers of the council will be seated in 16 grandstands of between 50 and 84 seats each, set up along both sides of a central aisle. Microphones have been set up at various spots so that anyone wishing to speak need not walk more than 6 feet to reach one.

Other installations include a special pulpit, a table for short-hand reporters and another for the vote-takers.

A buffet, a first aid post and rest rooms have been set up just off the nave, where the fathers of the council will debate in Latin behind closed doors.

Dodgers Lead By Pair In Wire Dash

Four Games To Play

By MIKE KATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The front-running Los Angeles Dodgers have reduced their magic number to three and suddenly changed the National League pennant picture with a four-star production.

The stumbling Dodgers, who had lost six of eight games and half of their four-game bulge over the gaining San Francisco Giants, broke out of their slump Wednesday night with a 17-hit attack that overwhelmed Houston Colts 13-1 and left the second-place Giants two lengths behind with four games to play.

The cast included:

Frank Howard and Tommy Davis, the former playing the chief executioner by driving in five runs, and the latter stroking three hits and boosting his league-leading batting average to .346.

Johnny Podres, the sore-backed pitcher who scattered eight hits en route to his 15th victory.

STEALS 100th BASE

Maury Wills, who stole his 100th base, now has pilfered more bases than any other team in the majors.

The Giants kept pace with a 6-3 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals as Tom Haller drove in four runs with a homer and double and Orlando Cepeda accounted for the clincher with a bases-empty homer.

The Dodgers now need say combination of three victories or San Francisco defeats in the final four games to clinch the NL flag. The Dodgers have one game left with the Colts, then wind up with a three-game series against St. Louis. San Francisco plays the Cards once more, then tackles Houston three times.

Elsewhere, Wednesday night, Earl Francis and Bob Friend combined for a three-hitter as Pittsburgh Pirates edged the third-place Cincinnati Reds 1-0 in 11 innings, Milwaukee Braves made New York Mets the longest team in modern major league history by beating them 6-3 and Philadelphia Phillies whipped Chicago Cubs 6-5 on Wes Covington's three-run homer.

PODRES SETTLES DOWN

The Colts led in the first inning on consecutive singles by Al Spangler, Jim Pendleton and Johnny Temple, but Podres (15-12) settled down and was touched for only five more hits before he was taken out after seven innings. Jack Smith and Larry Sherry finished.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, chased George Banks (7-14) with two runs in the second inning and a pair in the third. Then Howard took over, hitting a three-run homer in the fourth inning—his 32nd—and a two-run single in the fifth as the Dodgers made it 13-1.

Wills provided the expected daring on the base paths when he and Davis executed a double steal in the third inning, Wills sliding into second ahead of Hal Smith's throw for his 100th steal. Davis cracked a run for the batting lead with Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who went 0-for-4 and dropped to .342.

The Giants opened the scoring in the second on Haller's two-run double. They made it 3-0 in the fifth when Felipe Alou singled home Chuck Hiller, Cepeda then accounted for the decisive run in the sixth when he tagged Curt Simmons (9-10) for home run No. 33.

MUSIAL CHASES PIERCE

San Francisco starter Billy Pierce (15-6) took a three-hitter into the eighth, but a three run pinch-hit homer by Stan Musial chased the veteran left-hander and brought on Don Larsen with St. Louis only a run behind. Haller's two-run eighth inning homer put it out of reach.

Francis (9-6) shut out the Reds on two hits for 10 innings before the Pirates finally broke through in the 11th against reliever Johnny Klippstein (7-6) on a double by Bill Mazeroski. Don Clendenon's bunt and Willie Stargell's double.

The Mets lost their 118th when Hank Aaron hit his 45th homer off Roger Craig (19-24), with two men on in the third inning. That clinched it for the Braves and Denver Lemaster (13-4), who went the distance with an eight-hitter.

Covington connected in the eighth inning off Cubs' starter Bob Buhl (11-14) following singles by John Callison and Roy Sievers as the Phils overcame a 5-3 deficit. Jack Hamilton (9-12) got the victory, the 18th in 23 games for Philadelphia.

Yukon Eric, "The Bulldog" Here Friday

The two dread-naughts of the professional heavyweight wrestling ranks, Yukon Eric and Dick "Bulldog" Brower will be in opposite corners when the main event bell rings for Friday night's weekly grappling card at Memorial Arena.

Yukon, the giant Alaskan lumberjack, will pit his amazing strength and rugged physique, against one of the most controversial matmen to wrestle in this area.

The Bulldog has stomped and hammered his way to one of the most impressive winning streaks in recent years but could be in for quite a surprise when he finds out that his northern opponent could only absorb a terrific amount of punishment but usually comes back to dish out more than he receives.

The semi-final will feature tag team action. The Italian partnership of Gino Marella and Tony Marino will go on the strutting Stanlee Stesmore, Steve and Bob.

The first attraction on the program will pit French Canadian strongman, Jean Baillargeon, against St. Louis Flash, Ray Gordon.

ADVANCE TO FINALS

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Sarnia Optimists advanced to the finals of the Ontario Baseball Association Bantam A series Wednesday by defeating Burlington Optimists 8-3 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series.

Sarnia now meets Peterborough in the Ontario final series which starts Saturday in Peterborough.

Pete Holds Slight Lead

Mantle, Runnels In Bat Battle

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the pennant again safely stowed away by New York Yankees, there are a few odds and ends to be cleaned up before the American League closes up shop for the 1962 season Sunday.

There's the nifty duel between the Yankees' Mickey Mantle and Boston's Pete Runnels for the batting title to heat things up as the clubs play out the string.

Then there's the possibility of some wholesale changes in the standings. Of the 10 teams, only the Yanks is first, Kansas City Athletics is sixth and Washington is last as the set.

Minnesota's runner-up Twins could drop no lower than third, thus are assured of a share of the World Series money, but Los Angeles Angels, Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers still are fighting for a cut of the loot that is distributed among the first f.ur finishers. As of now, Minnesota is six games off the pace, Los Angeles 8½, Chicago 10 and Detroit 11½.

THREE ARE BUNCHED

In the next echelon, Cleveland Indians, Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox are bunched within a two-game span.

Mantle, on a real tear the past month at a .452 batting clip, inched closer to Runnels Wednesday. Mickey was 2-for-4 as the Yanks downed Washington 9-5, boosting his average to .322, while Pistol Pete went hitless in four tries in Boston's 9-3 loss to Chicago and fell to .326.

In other AL games, Dave McNally, 19, made a brilliant-season league debut, firing a two-hitter as the Orioles trimmed the Athletics 3-0 in the opener of a doubleheader, but Kansas City copped a split by taking the second game 6-2. Rookie Tom Satriano's hitting powered the Angels over the Tigers 8-5, Minnesota and Cleveland were idle.

The Yankees spoiled the crusher to the Senators with seven runs in the third inning and a wacky inning it was, New York collected seven hits off Dog Rudolph during the spree, including a double and single by Hector Lopez. But there also was a pop fly by Mantle that fell for a double while three Senators looked on, another routine pop to shortstop that went for a sacrifice fly, a wild pitch, a walk and an error.

Ralph Terry pitched the first five innings for the Yanks and left with a 9-3 lead and his 23rd victory.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Tom Haller, Giants, drove in four runs with a two-run homer and double in 6-3 victory over St. Louis that kept second-place San Francisco two games behind Los Angeles Dodgers.

Pitching: Dave McNally, Orioles, making his major league debut, hurled a two-hitter in Baltimore's 3-0 triumph over Kansas City Athletics in first game of twi-night doubleheader, retiring the last 17 batters in order.

End Of Multi-Million Spectacles?

Liston Fists Golden Gates Killers?

By MURRA ROSE

CHICAGO (AP)—Sonny Liston's sudden annihilation of Floyd Patterson may have marked the end of boxing's multi-million dollar spectacles for two years or more.

If Patterson, the dethroned world heavyweight king, decides to go through with the return fight—promised by Liston—the promoters are going to find it difficult to sell ringside seats at $100 and theatre-television at $3.50 to $10.

That was the general feeling today of fans and boxing writers who saw an amazingly inept Patterson succumb in just two minutes and six seconds to the punches of the lumbering Liston Tuesday night.

Chicago, which also saw Rocky Marciano flatten Jersey Joe Walcott in one round at the hope, certainly has had its fill of high priced heavyweight fights. The newspapers here made that clear today.

DECLINED LICENCE

Championships Sports Incorporated, if it promotes the return, will have problems finding a city to put the show on. New York's Athletic Commission rejected the first one by declining to license Liston.

Those who saw Liston demolish Patterson can't see how the return can end in any other way but another swift Patterson defeat. Patterson had been primed for the fight of his life against Liston.

If the heavyweights ever draw big again, the redemption could come from young Cassius Clay, 1960 Olympic light heavyweight king. If he can handle ancient Archie Moore at Los Angeles Oct. 22, he may be on the road to a title fight by 1964.

Clay is unbeaten, big and strong, personable and articulate. Only 20, he figures to get bigger and stronger. He can punch hard and fast. The only question-mark is the strength of his chin.

Liston himself said he hopes to take on the No. 1 contender in turn after "I take care of Patterson in the return. I have promised him that and he will get it any time he wants."

There's also a $1,000,000 casualty clause in the contract for the first fight to guarantee Patterson a second shot.

TAKES VACATION

Liston was scheduled to leave for Philadelphia today and then take a vacation. He may get part of his estimated purse of $282,000 to help him enjoy the holiday.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports said Deputy Internal Revenue Service Collector Clyde Jr., district director of the Internal Revenue Service, indicated he would release some of the money of the live gate that was seized by the government Tuesday night.

"He said if we filed an immediate audit the government would make a quick decision on the deferred payment plan it is challenging now. We welcome this. It would enable us to go ahead with our plans for the future."

Bolan said the government seized the approximately $2,000,000 receipts of the live gate, closed-circuit television and radio to challenge the deferred payment plan under which some $2,000,000 was to be paid out over a 11-year period.

The lawyer-promoter said the decision would be of interest to the entire sports world since athletes in other fields besides boxing have petitioned in the past for payments spread over a period of years to lessen the income tax bite.

'One-Sided As A Lynching'

European Fight Comment

LONDON (AP)—Sonny Liston's first round knockout of Floyd Patterson in the world heavyweight title fight at Chicago Tuesday night was the top sports news throughout Europe Wednesday.

The fight drew more European interest than any in previous years. Here are some comments of European writers who were at the ringside:

Reg Gutteridge of the London Evening News: "It was one-sided as a lynching."

George Whiting in the London Standard: "Liston made hash of a man he always felt was easy meat."

Nils Magnuson in the Stockholm Aftonbladet: "There is no doubt that Sonny Liston will stay on the heavyweight throne for quite a time. Let us hope that our Ingemar Johansson never has to face Liston in the ring."

Copenhagen PT: "One can call Liston's first big punch a lucky one but that does not alter the fact that a world champion should never have allowed himself to be knocked down so easily."

Paris Soir: "Used to the good and just endings of Hollywood films, America wonders how she is going to adore its new hero . . . who is not exactly an example for young people."

FISHERMEN WIN

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia government announced Wednesday night it has turned down, at least temporarily, a bid by Nova Scotia Light and Power Company to harness the Gold River. The company's plan to develop the river 45 miles southwest of here was violently opposed by sports fishermen who said it would ruin the river's Atlantic salmon run.

Crackers Defeat Colonels

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Crackers jumped to a quick lead in the Junior World Series Wednesday night, beating the American Association champion Louisville 5-1 in the opener of the seven-game series.

Johnny Kucks allowed the Colonels only four singles and struck out seven for his 18th straight playoff inning without allowing an earned run.

The International League playoff champs collected six hits in seven innings off loser Connie Grob.

The two teams meet here again tonight in the second game.

Yanks Lead Canuck Golfers

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Seniors, took a lead of 18½ points to 7½ Wednesday over a Canadian team in the Devonshire Cup golf matches here.

Among the results: Jim Ackerman and John Roberts, United States, defeated B. F. Merwin, Sudbury, Ont., and George Cliff, Toronto, 2-1.

Remember Last Meeting

Bombers, Larks Tonight

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers will get a psychological shot-in-the-arm for tonight's Canadian Football League game against the visiting Montreal Alouettes.

Bomber coach Bud Grant admits it may be a trifle corny but said in an hour-long plan to pull out all the "psychological stops" before the 9 p.m. EDT game time.

His players will be shown movies of their 33-0 pre-season loss to the Alouettes and clips of newspaper headlines reporting the one-sided defeat.

The Montreal game was the only one the two clubs have met this season and Grant said his players remember it well and it won't happen again.

At a press conference Wednesday Montreal coach Perry Moss passed off the pre-season result with the comment his club was fit and ready for the game and everything went right.

BOTH HAVE INJURIES

Neither club is in good condition now.

Alouettes have seven players injured including halfback Don Clark.

Moss said his third - place Eastern Conference club would have to play at least two more games without Clark, the Alouettes' most explosive ball-carrier. Clark, out for most of the season with a kidney injury, will return Oct. 8 against Ottawa.

Moss said Vic Chapman, just acquired from Edmonton Eskimos, will dress for the game to do fair kicking.

Moss also said that defensive end Don Paquette has a torn knee cartilage and will be through for the season if it fails to respond to treatment.

The Bombers will be out to lengthen their one-point first-place margin over Calgary Stampeders in the Western Conference.

ELIMINATES MADRID

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The Belgian soccer club, Sporting Anderlecht, brought off the shock of the European Soccer Cup tournament Wednesday night when it eliminated Real Madrid, five times winners of the trophy. Anderlecht won the second leg 1-0 after tying the first leg 3-3.

So Do Hunters

Ducks Like Beaver Ponds

Give me a gun and some old marsh
And the whistle of wild duck's wings,
Where the roar from my shotgun makes the morn
And a thousand flying things.

This was the thought on the minds of thousands of duck hunters as they prepared themselves during the darkened hours prior to the opening of the duck season on Saturday, September 22nd.

For some it meant a long wait in the rain. In the northern parts of the Department of Lands and Forests Tweed District the east winds brought rain that lasted until the late afternoon of the hunt. But this did not dampen the spirits (some came fortified) of men who walked in blinds hoping for a duck to come within range. Some couldn't wait and shot at birds far out of range.

As one man put it when asked why he shot at ducks so far away! "how else do you expect me to get my gun off?"

Thirty hunters checked on a northern marsh shot 8 blacks, 12 wood ducks, 5 ring-necked ducks, 1 goldeneye and 33 hooded mergansers. Excluding the mergansers, this resulted is slightly less than 1 duck per hunter.

On the Prince Edward County marshes the hunters did a little better with teal, blacks, mallards and wood ducks, making up the bag. Two hunters best on taking more than is allowed, lost what they had along with their guns.

The beaver ponds are now by far the most popular places for ducks and hunters. A great many of these ponds on private property are being leased by hunters and farmers are realizing the value of these beaver floods.

The hunter success on these ponds was much better than on marshes and many of the persons checked had their limit of ducks.

Bag checks revealed teal, wood ducks, blacks and mallards in that order of abundance. In addition, there were numerous ring-necked ducks taken in the small ponds, a bird more commonly found and adapted to large marshes and open water.

Suns Split Playoff Melon

NEW YORK (AP) — Players on the Jacksonville Suns of the International Baseball League will split a $14,475.80 melon, for having won the pennant and finishing second in the Governor's Cup playoff, league president Tommy Richardson said Wednesday.

Richardson said that the prize fund, compiled by collecting a two-cent tax on each paid admission during the year, totalled $24,815.82. Last year the segregate was $24,141.42.

Atlanta Players, winners of the playoffs, will divide $6,203.95 while the Toronto and Rochester clubs, eliminated in the first round of the playoffs, will split $2,067.99 each.

BELLEVILLE AND DISTRICT LABOR COUNCIL

CHARTERED BY CANADIAN LABOR CONGRESS

MEETS
4th TUESDAY OF EACH MONTH — 7.30 P.M.

WILLIAM WARHAM
President

DAISY LaRUE
Corresponding-Secty,
226A Moira St. East
Address

The policy of the Canadian Labor Congress regarding United Community Funds is clearly stated in a resolution — "to co-ordinate Fund-Raising drives, through voluntary action where possible, for voluntary health and welfare services". The trade union movement has given strong support to many community drives throughout Canada.

It endorses budget giving and urges all members of organized labor, wherever possible, to take advantage of and use of the "payroll giving" plan available at their place of employment.

This plan enables a worker to contribute fifteen minutes pay each week throughout the year and it is sincerely hoped that this year will see a greater local participation by labor than ever before.

The Trade Union movement is happy to be associated with other groups in our society as we endeavor to make the 1962 United Appeal a real success.

Fraternally,
WM. WARHAM

Tunney Blasts Title Bout'

Fight 'A Terrible Hoax'

SEATTLE (AP)—Gene Tunney Wednesday called the Sonny Liston - Floyd Patterson fight "a terrible hoax."

The former world champion, visiting Seattle on business, viewed the title fight Tuesday night on closed-circuit television.

"The people who paid were burglarized," Tunney asserted.

"When you put on a fight and ask people to pay for it you must have some sort of guarantee they will see a show.

"It is shows like this that are rapidly killing boxing."

Tunney said he believes Patterson went into the fight a frightened man.

"He was so frightened he didn't even box," said the man who retired an undefeated champion in the late 1920s.

"Can anyone imagine the champion holding on in the first clinch?"

"And if they ever meet again the same thing will happen."

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor's Chop-erion, second in the Queen's Plate this year, won his second race of the year at New Woodbine Wednesday, romping home first in the $2,800 Covington Pasture race.

The three-year-old son of Chop Chop boosted his earnings past $26,000. Ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons, Chop-erion took over the lead at the half-way point in this mile and a sixteenth test for Canadian foaled three-year-olds and upwards, and finished three lengths ahead of Tres Suave. Chop-erion was the 6-5 favorite.

Will Try For Rematch

LONDON (AP) — Harry Levene, London boxing promoter said Wednesday that he is trying to arrange a return fight between Sugar Ray Robinson of New York and Britain's Terry Downes.

Downes, 26, outpointed Robinson in a 10-rounder at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night that had the sell-out crowd of 14,000 on its feet with excitement. He said he hopes to put on a rematch in London early next year.

Viewers May Be Taken On Kremlin Tour by NBC

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Company, which showed its chagrin last season when rival CBS scored a dramatic first with its tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy as guide, has been plotting to even the score with a tour of the Kremlin with Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev.

Negotiations have been carried on with Lucy Jarvis of NBC's news department making several quiet trips to Moscow since June to set up the project. Things have been going swimmingly—up to a point.

The network received the go-ahead to make color film of the Kremlin and NBC's European crew now has completed 13 days of shooting. But consent for the vital, critical element—Mrs. Khrushchev's narration—still is being sought.

The title Beverly Hillbillies explains a lot about CBS' new comedy series and, happily, the premiere Wednesday night promises a funny, rowdy and maybe even mildly satiric program.

The jokes will be based, of course, on the sudden shift of a primitive Ozark family—one of those moonshinin' hawg-raisin' possum-eatin' clans found primarily in a writer's imagination. It promises to be uninhibited and amusing if the writers remember to add enough branch water to the corn.

Recommended tonight:

The Nurses, premiere, CBS, 9-10 edt—CBS' late entry in the medical drama sweepstakes.

The Andy Williams Show, premiere, NBC, 10-11 — variety hour:

Also returning, Perry Mason at a new time, CBS, and Dr. Kildare, NBC.

The Trots

Owned by Golden Lee Farms, Montreal, and driven by Dr. John Findley, Miss Golden covered the mile in 2:06 4-5, defeating Superior Lee by a neck. Northwood Alex was a close third.

The winner paid $7.50, $3.90 and $2.50.

Fight Not Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission ruled Wednesday that the Paul Pender - Jose Torres middleweight bout in Boston on Nov. 2 cannot be called a title bout although Pender is recognized in this state as the champion.

The commission said that Torres, although a good fighter, has never met a rated contender since turning professional four years ago and never has been rated a contender. The commission said its views are shared by the European Boxing Union and the Britih Boxing Board of Control.

Pender is recognized as middleweight champion by New York, Massachusetts and most European associations. Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is recognized as champion in all other areas.

NHL Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Punch Imlach bases many decisions on training camp performances, a few of his holdout Toronto Maple Leafs may have trouble getting their expected raises.

Leafs blew a 3-0 lead Wednesday night at Vancouver and had to settle for a 3-3 tie with New York Rangers in a National Hockey League exhibition game.

In other action, Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings had to come from behind in the third period to defeat their minor league farm clubs.

Boston needed 3 goals in the third period to whip Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional League 4-3 at Kingston. And Detroit scored four times in the last period to down Edmonton Flyers of the Western League 6-3 at Edmonton.

Leafs have yet to win against an NHL opponent in four exhibition tries. Chicago Black Hawks whipped them twice and Detroit edged them in another game.

HE'S NOT HAPPY

For the coach of the team that is defending the Stanley Cup, this is not a happy situation.

Before Wednesday night's game, Imlach said his charges would have to start beating teams in their own league before considering asking for more money.

Eddie Shack and Frank Mahovlich sent Leafs into a 2-0 lead at the end of two periods, but Rangers, led by Ian Schinkel, pulled it out of the fire before 5,045 fans.

Schinkel passed to Dean Prentice for the first Ranger goal and scored the second with less than four minutes remaining in the game.

At Kingston, Bruins needed two powerplay goals, the last one with less than two minutes left, to halt the pesky Frontenacs.

Bruins left highly-rated rookie centre Bobby Leiter behind in Kingston after the game. Leiter, who played with Frontenacs last season, will open the season with the Kingston team.

Jimmy Skinner, Wings' chief scout, said in New Glasgow, N.S., Wednesday that Lowell MacDonald, 21, has been signed by Detroit.

MacDonald an outstanding junior last year with Hamilton Red Wings, will start the season with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Mrs. Tom V. King of Chicago surveyed her beehive - styled platinum blonde hairdo in a wall-length mirror and casually mentioned that "sometimes I'm brunette or brown and I've even tried to be a redhead — that's Tom's favorite color, you know — but he didn't like it on me so I don't use red any more."

She applied mascara, traced a pencil under her eyebrows and dabbed powder on her snub nose. Just over five feet tall and a well-proportioned 100 pounds, she could have been taken for the pony in a circus line. But her eyes gave her away.

The patented manner she has had since childhood of looking at the world in wide-eyed amazement identified her as Barbara Ann Scott. Her one-time high - pitched voice has been moderated to a rich tone.

B.A. was in Toronto to appear as a mystery guest on a television panel show. As an 18-year-old in 1946 she had dazzled the figure skating world with footwork to win the women's Olympic title for Canada. Her home town, Ottawa, and the rest of the country went wild over her.

HAS NO REGRETS

Before that gold-medal performance, she had won every title in the book from Canadian and North American singles to the European and world championships.

She loved every minute of it. But now, it's all behind her. She hasn't skated in seven years.

"I'm too old and creaky for that sort of stuff," the 32-year-old one - time golden - haired skater said in an interview.

"Sure, I may have missed a lot of things the normal child has but I'm glad I went into competitive skating while I was young, strong and healthy. Now I'm a beauty salon operator and housewife.

"Family? I've got a poodle and a parakeet."

Her mother, Mrs. Clyde Scott who lives in Toronto, keeps Barbara Ann up to date about figure skating in Canada. "I know all about the world championships won by Don Jackson. Isn't he cute? Ohh and Maria Jalinek and I was mighty proud by them. Those kids sure can skate."

HAIR MUST BE RIGHT

Now, she has two careers. She makes daily trips to her beauty salon in suburban Cliveoe where she has a staff of 25, and keeps house for her husband. He was her press agent when she was a pro in the Arthur Wirtz Hollywood Ice Revue and now is assistant general manager of the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Pointing to her hairdo, she said:

"When you're in the beauty salon business, you've got to look the part. I must keep up to date."

Her favorite topic is Tom. "He takes a month's holiday every year and we all go to Arizona—Tom, my mother and myself. He plays golf every day and I swim and go horseback riding. Tom is a real good golfer. Me? I shoot in the hundreds."

Their home is an apartment on the 14th floor of a building on Chicago's near north side.

"Tom loves fireplaces and so do I. We've got four of them.

"Pretentious? No, it's just an old-fashioned place," she said in wide-eyed wonder.

SCHOOL RUNNER DIES

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A 16-year-old St. Paul high school runner collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, late Wednesday just as he completed a cross country race.

Roger Pierson was taken by ambulance to a hospital but was dead on arrival. Physicians made a vain effort to revive him.

Francis Pierson, the boy's father, said the boy had no record of heart trouble. "The race was just too much of a grind for him, I guess," he added.

ARRIVES FOR FIGHT

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Willie Greaves of Edmonton, now fighting out of Detroit, arrived here Wednesday night for his Canadian middleweight championship fight at Glace Cry Saturday with challenger Blair Richardson of South Bar, N.S.

CHANGING TREND

In the first 60 years of the century the total of agricultural workers in Canada dropped to 11 per cent from 40 per cent of the total labor force.

Astrological Forecast

For September 28
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) New Moon highlights chances for making new, valuable contacts. Important to concentrate on adding to knowledge. You discover vital fact which helps avoid costly error.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Social evening with those in authority could enhance business prestige. Stress tact. Do more listening than talking. Share hobby, interest in pets, home improvement.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) New Moon favorably aspects your sign. Means today you gain inspiration from member of opposite sex. Good for attending to business details early so you can concentrate on relaxation and entertainment tonight.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Stay out of disputes involving family members. Be versatile, willing to listen and see all points of view. Those who criticize are trying to help. By curbing impulsive actions, you aid your own cause.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Fine for self-expression, but don't step on toes of superiors. Study carefully anything you put on paper. Avoid mailing letters written in anger. Tonight excellent for party, especially of surprise nature.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) New ways to add to income indicated. But you must be willing to accept added responsibility. Answer to recent problem is yes. Outcome concludes in manner completely unexpected. Be ready.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) New moon in your sign stresses personal approach to problems. Your cycle at finish job accurately, receive encouragement through vote of confidence.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Better for finishing than for starting new projects. Lend helping hand to friend who proved loyal in past. Refuse to mix emotions with effort to arrive at logical decision. Separate facts from wishful thinking.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Spotlight on friends, fulfillment of aspirations. Better to put off journeys, if practical. Avoid tendency to scatter forces. Key is independence, tempered with caution.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Use caution when it comes to spending for items which only duplicate what you already possess. Like Taurus, be willing to listen to suggestions. Take time to consider consequences of hasty actions.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Favorable new moon aspect points up ability to perceive answers to perplexing questions. Be moderate in appraisal of persons, situations. Don't be misled by foolish claims. Trust your own intuitive feeling.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) In all activities, check details. Be willing to wait for correct answers. Key is patience. Stress is on service. Means you must show what you can do. Others compare facts, figures. Make conservative estimate.

If today is your birthday you never do things halfway. It's either all the way or nothing. You are intense, sincere, but at times attract persons who do not possess these admirable qualities. This, good time to re-evaluate friends.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: New moon today puts spotlight on Libra. Look for Librans to make news. New projects are announced. The "new" makes way for the "future."

Robert Kennedy Plays It Safe In Mississippi

Halts Attempt to Enrol Negro as Crowd Gathers

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The Justice department called off a fourth attempt to enrol a Negro at the University of Mississippi and both sides in the controversy said this probably prevented violence and bloodshed.

But after averting a showdown Thursday with Mississippi state authorities, the federal government began building up its forces in Memphis, Tenn.—a 110-mile north of this college town. The buildup included an army unit, which the government said was set up today would provide logistics and administrative aid to hundreds of U.S. marshals gathering in Memphis.

Both the army and the justice department said the troops—a 110-man engineer's unit from Fort Campbell, Ky.—would not be directly involved in attempts to get Negro James H. Meredith enrolled at the university.

MUST PROCLAIM

Use of federal troops to overrule Mississippi state authorities would require a proclamation from President Kennedy.

On another front in the tense struggle between state and federal governments, a federal Appeals Court contempt hearing for Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett was scheduled today in New Orleans.

Attorney - General Kennedy dramatically applied Wednesday's fourth attempt to become the first Negro knowingly admitted to the university, saying the feared "major violence said blockaded for the citizens of Mississippi" would result if U.S. marshals and Meredith appeared on the campus.

Lieutenant-Governor Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi agreed. An Atlanta television station, WSB-TV, quoted Johnson as saying in an interview Thursday night that "if the state troopers hadn't been at ole Miss . . . that Negro wouldn't have lasted as long as it takes to aim a shotgun."

Johnson estimated a crowd of 5,000 were gathering on the university in anticipation of another appearance by Meredith. He said 500 troopers couldn't have turned them back if they had wanted to. "A lot of lives were saved by their (federal marshals) not coming."

ORDERS HALT

Kennedy halted Meredith's entry Tuesday night as the 29-year-old Korean War veteran was getting here with federal marshals.

A helmeted and club-carrying mob of students and segregationists waited at the university as they did Wednesday.

Life Of Govt. Hinges On Extent Of Sweetening Of The Program Outlined

Economic Council, Atlantic Development Bd. Promised

OTTAWA (CP)—The life of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority Conservative government may hinge on the extent to which he sweetens the initial —and, to the opposition, sour—outline of legislation presented at the opening of Parliament Thursday.

The speech from the throne read by Governor-General Vanier put the main emphasis on economic matters. It forecast establishment of a national economic council and an Atlantic development board. It promised measures to spur the country's export trade and to reduce the deficit on international payments.

"New budget measures will be introduced to provide further solutions to long - term problems," said the speech.

In past sessions, Mr. Diefenbaker has held his Sunday punch in reserve. Consequently, he is expected to elaborate on the throne speech when he gets the Commons floor Monday after Opposition Leader Pearson.

Today's abbreviated afternoon sitting was to be devoted to the traditional, moving and seconding—by government - supporters —of the address in reply to the speech from the throne, following the Commons' first question period of the session.

BEGINS MONDAY

The main assault on the government is expected Monday when Mr. Pearson will introduce a no-confidence motion. The 100 Liberals will need the backing of the 30 Social Credit MPs, the 19 Democratic Party members to oust the government, which has 116 supporters in the 265-seat House where there is one vacancy.

Though highly critical of the throne speech, Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, and NDP Leader T. C. Douglas declined Thursday night to say whether they will support the Liberals.

Mr. Thompson said he will present his own no-confidence motion which, if supported by the Liberals, would be enough to overthrow the government. Mr. Douglas said his party will wait and see what the government has to say.

Survival of the government will hang in the balance at least until Tuesday when there will be a Conservative vote on Social Credit or NDP no-confidence motions offered. The vote on the Liberal no-confidence motion won't come until Thursday.

ECONOMICS BULK LARGE

The economic aspects of the throne speech bulked largest because of the austerity program announced by the government after the June 18 general election and proposed policy of holding down the European Common Market.

But it covered a wide range of other matters as well, including a forecast of a Dominion-provincial conference on choice

WELLAND CANAL LOCKMASTER TELLS OF ATTACK

Justice Hears More Of SIU Activities

OTTAWA (CP)—A Welland Canal lockmaster and union leader told the Norris shipping inquiry Thursday that he was brutally attacked by two thugs a few hours before he was to preside over a meeting of canal workers to plan retaliatory action against the Seafarers International Union of Canada.

John McNamara of St. Catharines said the assailants slugged him over the head, inflicting wounds that required more than 50 stitches to close, and kicked him on the ground.

He said the attack took place outside his home June 19 just before he left to work the overnight shift as the Port Weller lock of the Welland Canal.

Later that day, he said, he was to preside over a special meeting of Welland Canal workers to decide how to support the Canadian Maritime Union in its struggle with the SIU.

LED TO BOYCOTT

The meeting was held without him. It led later to the July boycott of SIU-manned ships in the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence Seaway. The boycott lasted 30 hours and resulted in a government promise to launch a full inquiry into shipping disruptions, violence and marine labor strife.

Mr. McNamara was to be cross-examined today on his testimony before Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

Three deck officers testified Thursday about a bid by the SIU to move in on the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, a union of mates on Canadian ships.

The witnesses—Hector La Rose, Clifford Campbell and Ernest Billiard—said they were employed by the ships' owners or operated by Norman J. Reich of Montreal.

They testified that when they started the 1961 shipping season they were given a letter prescribed by the Merchant Service Guild. A short time later, they were told that a lower SIU scale of pay was being substituted for the guild's and the SIU had apparently signed a contract to cover deck officers.

GIVES SIU VIEW

SIU counsel Joseph Nuss contended that the SIU pay scale, while lower, was for a shorter work week, with overtime making up the difference with the pay rates of the guild.

Deck officers have said they were told by SIU officials that they had to join the union or be replaced by guild mates. They said they refused to join the SIU.

The Merchant Service Guild has won bargaining rights for the deck officers after a certification vote conducted by the Canada Labor Relations Board.

HASSAN FLIES HOME TO CLAIM FAMILY THRONE

Rebels Vow They Will Kill Him

ADEN (AP) — Yemen's princely delegate to the UN headed home in the face of death threats today to claim the family throne after rebels announced they had killed the newly installed monarch and proclaimed a republic.

The delegate, Prince Hassan, acted as broadcasts from Yemen's capital of San's said military rebels destroyed the royal palace with artillery Wednesday night, burying beneath debris his 30-year-old nephew, the new Imam, Mohammad Al Badr.

Hassan said as he boarded a plane in New York Thursday night that he was returning to the little Arab kingdom as the legitimate head of state and rightful heir to his ancient feudal throne.

Hassan's announcement brought a warning from a member of the so-called Free Yemeni movement in Cairo that if the prince set foot on Yemen's soil, he would be killed. The insurgent movement has operated on Egyptian soil with the apparent blessings of President Nasser.

A NASSER COUP?

One Arab source said the new ruler may have been forced out, then killed in a coup engineered by friends of Nasser's United Arab Republic. Many Yemeni officers are known to have been Nasser sympathizers.

Trumpeting claims that the rebels controlled the country, late night broadcast from San's said:

"The revolutionary command ordered army units to besiege the palace of the tyrant . . . shortly before 5 o'clock on the night of Sept. 26.

"Tanks and armored cars moved in and threw a siege around the royal palace, and the tyrant resisted. When the time of the ultimatum expired, army artillery began shelling Bashayar Palace until it became rubble. The tyrant was buried under debris in the capital. Men of the ousted regime were arrested and a republic proclaimed."

ROYAL FAMILY FLEES

The announcement came after members of the royal family fled and sought refuge in Aden. The group included women, children and Prince Abdul Rahman, youngest brother of the late Imam Ahmed, father of the slain Al-Badr.

Arab sources outside Yemen cast doubt on the rebel claims and speculated that an insurgent group might have seized the radio station at San's without gaining much further immediate power.

Prince Hassan, who some Yemeni sources claim should have inherited the throne when his brother, Ahmed, died of ulcers last week, also seemed dubious.

Synopsis: Rain is forecast to spread south of Lake Ontario this morning and continue in the eastern regions of the province throughout the day. Showers in northeast winds will accompany the rainfall. Showers in the southwestern regions are likely, ending over this area this morning or early afternoon. Southern Ontario will have cool and mainly cloudy weather Saturday.

Tug and Barge In Distress Near Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A tug with four men aboard and a barge with two men aboard were reported in distress on Lake Ontario today.

U.S. Coast Guardsmen, who were en route to the scene, said the boats were being pounded by waves 15 feet high 15 miles northwest of the port of Rochester.

They said the tug was taking in water through a split plate in its hull, and that the barge had broken loose from the tug.

Chief Warrant Officer Harold Baker of the Rochester Coast Guard identified the tug as the Russell Tweedy. The distress call was received at 2:40 a.m.

Baker said the cargo boat Mildred Trent is standing by the tug, and that the Norwegian tanker Blatberg is speeding to the tug's aid.

Gamblers' Former Partner Reported Missing at Probe

TORONTO (CP)—A disgruntled former associate who turned informer on gambling bosses Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley was reported missing Thursday shortly after Ontario's royal commission on crime heard he burned down a McDermott - Feeley gaming house eight years ago.

The petite wife of small-time bookie Ralph Clarke of Toronto told the commission that Clarke, an estranged partner and collection man for the pair, disappeared Sept. 19 while under subpoena as an inquiry witness.

Clarke had given the commission a preview of his evidence privately and under oath, and Feeley this month went all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada in a vain attempt to have the commissioner, Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, disqualified because of this procedure.

The bookie's wife Grace, holding back emotion, told the commission in a brief appearance in the witness box that Clarke just gave her to understand Sept. 19 —the day the commission started its current series of sittings—that he did not want to appear as a witness because of the publicity. She thought he might be in Montreal.

Commission Counsel Rolfird F. Wilson said a bench warrant will be issued for Clarke if he does not turn up quickly.

Ontario Provincial Police said later they are searching for the bookie, who was labelled by another witness Thursday as the man who collected $50K a month for McDermott - Feeley police protection and lawyer's fees from a Toronto crapshooting club in 1953-53.

The same witness — Dominic Simone, one-time operator of the craps joint—also testified that after Clarke split with the top pair, he saw Clarke set fire to the McDermott-Feeley Alpha Gambling Club in nearby Cooksville in 1954 and watched it burn down.

Political Tug-of-War Lengthens Honeymoon of Handsome Prince

MADRID (AP) — Handsome Prince Juan Carlos and his Greek princess bride, Sophia, were on a seemingly endless honeymoon because they are in the middle of a political tug-of-war which may decide whether or whether he becomes the next king of Spain.

At one end of the rope is the Spanish pretender Don Juan. At the other is Gen. Francisco Franco. Both have put in their bids, responsible sources here, say for the battle over Prince Juan Carlos' future.

Meanwhile, the prince and princess, married just July 14 in Athens, are back from a round-the-world honeymoon which seems destined not to end until Juan Carlos' father and Franco agree on his future.

The situation requires an early meeting of Franco and Don Juan, monarchists say. The prince's future position in Spain must be settled satisfactorily before he can come back here to live.

The young prince and his bride paused in Madrid after their honeymoon long enough to make a required appearance at the home of Franco for lunch. They have been travel-ling incognito since.

Flag since in the apparent hope that on their return the question of the prince's future would be settled.

Last week they spent only 20 minutes at Madrid's airport en route from Switzerland to Lisbon for a visit with the prince's mother. They plan two weeks there, then—if their future is then still remaining cloudy—they may go to Athens for a visit with the bride's parents.

In the making, contains a minority finding by three elected members of the committee and a dissenting view by the labor member.

The CCF government heard most of its compulsory medical care insurance scheme, in operation since July 3, on its first term report presented by the committee last September.

The committee recommended introduction or extension of programs in five broader areas—mental health, drugs, dental health, rehabilitation and home care.

One estimate in the report said total implementation of the 50 recommendations could mean an annual health budget in Saskatchewan of more than $374,000,000 by 1972. Public health, social welfare and rehabilitation probably will cost more than $61,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

The committee said "we believe it is unrealistic to assign any rigid rank or order of priorities in the complex interdependent field of health services and activities."

In the minority report, the three said: "The matter of priorities in other health services has been adversely affected by the decision to make personal health services through the mechanism of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act."

The basic effect will be to divert a very large sum of public funds to finance this single activity and we foresee the likelihood that other more necessary improvements in other health fields may be inadequately financed by reason of the limited resources of this province in relation to our total health needs."

The minority report also was signed by Chamber of Com-

PA Announcers at Football Games Not to Be Cheerleaders

WINNIPEG (CP) — Commissioner G. Sydney Hafer of the Canadian Football League does not want public address announcers at football games to become cheerleaders.

During the fourth quarter of a game between Montreal Alouettes and Winnipeg Blue Bombers here Thursday announcer Hal Perry suggested to the fans that clapping would keep them warm. On the next play Montreal's Ron Hagberg ran for 84 yards before getting the crowd it was remarkable what a little clapping could do.

Hafer sitting in the press box, immediately told Perry he wanted no more cheerleading.

Slippery Road Probable Cause Of 3-Car Crash

Ontario Provincial Police are searching for hit and run vehicle as the result of a three-car collision on highway No. 33, just south of the Batawa entrance about 7.46 a.m. this morning.

Three vehicles - were all northbound on highway 33 when a car ahead of a vehicle driven by John Henry Forbes of Trenton, for no apparent reason suddenly stopped.

Mr. Forbes tried to stop his vehicle before striking the car ahead of him. The Forbes vehicle was then struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Anthony Cervinka, also of Trenton. The Forbes vehicle as a result of being struck in the rear was spun around and collided with a hydro pole.

Mr. Forbes suffered minor cuts to his forehead. Constable Howard Adamson, investigating officer, said the pavement was extremely slippery as it was raining heavily at the time of the accident.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at approximately $350.

Investigation is continuing to seek the wanted vehicle.

Tweed Forest District

High winds reaching a velocity of over 45 miles an hour swept the Tweed forest area last night, bending trees and causing branch damage.

Little or just a trace of rain accompanied the wind.

There are no fires burning at present and the Hazard is reported as being normal.

Fall Exercise Carried Out By Hasty Pees

Last Saturday and Sunday the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (Militia), held its fall manoeuvres, "Exercise Buskie."

Officers and men from units at Trenton, Picton, Madoc, Norwood and Port Hope joined with the Belleville contingent at Madoc armouries.

While the men were busy with kit and eating, the officers and NCO's were welcomed by the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Joe Black, and briefed on the exercise by second in command Major Ken Willcocks. Exercise personnel under Major Gray of Madoc, were grouped under Capt. Bill Rothwell of Norwood and Capt. Charlie Bristol of Belleville; Sgt. Gifford of Port Hope, was senior NCO.

By 1.00 p.m. organization was complete, and the vehicles rumbled over the back roads to Farrell's Corners, near Madoc Landmark. After a light rain, the troops began training in earnest. Divided into two groups, attackers and defenders attacked and counter attacked and then decided the attackers had reached their objective two miles away. Finally, Kitchen's and Bristol's troops rejoined, and under Maj. Gray advanced on a compass march across country to the next enemy rendezvous.

There, at Krinsville, the "enemy", under command Derek Riordon, of Trenton, were entrenched. With covering fire provided by mortars and the road sections of Sgt. Nattress of Belleville, and Sgt. Trumper of Port Hope, the assaulting troops scattered the defenders.

An hour later, a very tired regiment was eating. Stew does going well after so much exercise. However, rest was not to be. In single file, the troops moved through the darkness to their night positions.

SUNDAY PROGRAM

Sunday morning, after several cups of breakfast, the remainder of the regiment arrived. Personnel this time was divided under Capt. Ken Broad of Madoc; Capt. Jack Wilder of Belleville, and Capt. Jack Hamilton of Belleville. CSM Ken Carswell of Belleville, was senior NCO.

Gaining from the previous day's training and experience, the troops moved in an organized body to attack Major Gray's and Capt. Keith Rose's defenders. The improvement in tactics was great.

After the exercise the commanding officer praised the troops for their morale under difficult conditions.

United Appeal To Open Drive With Parade

The regular monthly meeting of the United Appeal Board of Directors was held Monday night, in the YMCA.

As this was the last meeting prior to the campaign start, October 1st, there was an exceptionally large attendance.

Divisional chairmen, who had been invited to this meeting, presented reports that showed the overall campaign organization well developed and prepared.

Mrs. A. S. Lewis, reporting for the residential division, stated that two small areas have as yet not been fully organized for the "Blitz," on Tuesday, October 16th, and that so far between 400 to 500 volunteers have already offered their services for canvassing in this special event.

Officers and agencies have indicated their participation in the parade to be held Saturday afternoon, September 29th, through the downtown shopping district.

It was felt that the general public should, in some way, be made fully aware of the fact that certain organizations such as The Cancer Society, The Salvation Army and The Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children have constantly been invited to join the Belleville United Appeal but for public relief choice have declined to do so. It was believed that agencies conducting separate appeals in this community might possibly benefit from joining United Appeal until such time as it was proven that the latter's campaign objectives were fully achieved. Therefore, this parade in which the Belleville community is to be "truly united."

Late Delivery Of Steel Delays Bridge Project

Late delivery of the fabricated steel for the highway bridge structure in the village of Stirling has delayed completion of the project by approximately four weeks, it was stated today by an official of the Leighton Construction Company of Belleville, general contractors.

The contracting firm have been ready to install the steel bridge members for several weeks but the Toronto steel firm supplying the members have had delivery delayed. Fabrication difficulty was said to be responsible for the delay.

However, it is reported the steel is now ready for delivery and is expected within a few days.

Following delivery placement of the steel beams will take two or three days, after which concrete pouring will have to be poured.

The bridge should be open in about two, weeks' time, it was stated.

While the Stirling bridge on Highway 14 has been out for replacement, heavy trucks which normally would use the route have been detoured around by West Huntingdon.

Kennedy conferred in Washington with an army general.

Kennedy conferred by telephone with his brother, President Kennedy, for at least 10 minutes Thursday night on the Meredith case. The ag conference was in Wheeling, W. Va., to address a political rally.

Sources close to Barnett said the 64-year-old governor — who has vowed to go to jail rather than integrate the University — would not appear in court at New Orleans at the hearing.

CAN CITE HIM

The fifth United States circuit Court of Appeals will hear the Justice Department's request that Barnett be cited for civil contempt for defying edicts not to interfere with Meredith's admission. The judges could issue a bench warrant for Barnett's arrest if he does not appear.

Barnett was on the campus all day, apparently ready to step in personally again and block Meredith if the opportunity to fall arose.

At Hershey, Pa., former president Eisenhower described Mississippi's defiance as blatantly unconscionable and indefensible.

Eisenhower, who sent the 101st airborne division into Little Rock five years ago to enforce court - directed public school integration, said he was positive the Kennedy administration would do something to enforce court edicts in the Meredith case.

270 Teachers, Friends Enjoy Fall Dinner

About 270 teachers, with their husbands and wives, attended the annual fall dinner of the Belleville Branch 23, Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation held Thursday night at Club Canara when they heard Dr. Ralph W. Dent, Associate Professor of Psychology at the Ontario Agricultural College, speak.

Dr. Dent based his address on "communication between students and teachers — Uncertainty".

Dr. Dent stated that the student must first understand and interpret correctly what has been asked of him before he can answer. If he is asked a stated question and is uncertain what has been said to him, then he will be unable to answer the question.

Dr. Dent held a question and answer period throughout his address. He was introduced by W. Cochrane and thanked by G. Shaddick.

Former board member James Durrant, was honored by his fellow members of the board- last night for his service on the high school board. A presentation was made to him. Mr. Jack McArthur, who was also to have been honored, was not present for the dinner.

Head guests were introduced by chairman, Harry G. Birkenshaw and were trustees of the B.C.I., Quinte Secondary and Moira Secondary teachers were introduced by their presidents respectively, Mr. E. A. Orr, Mr. F. F. Reid, and Mr. W. J. Musgrove.

Mr. T. Simpson of the district high school board brought greetings to the gathering on behalf of the board.

A dance was held immediately following the speaker's address to conclude the evening.

Road Widening Program on No 2 Started

A road widening program which is reported will see No. 2 Highway at the Trenton Air Station widened to four lanes, has begun this week.

To allow for the widening, plus trees planted along the highway approximately ten years ago are being moved inside the air station fence. The entire trees, roots and all, are being moved by a special machine brought in from Kingston.

An engineer at the district highways office in Kingston, said the trees are being moved to allow for widening of the highway to take care of increased highway traffic in the vicinity of the air station.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I always insist on the truth because there is too much at stake," said actor-producer Dick Powell. Then he calmly told reporters he has been under treatment for cancer.

The 57-year-old show business veteran was cheerful throughout the discussion of his condition Thursday and said he was confident of making a full recovery.

Alluding to his apparent good health, he asked with a smile: "Do I look like a terminal case?"

Powell and his wife, actress June Allyson, met with reporters in the couple's Beverly Hills home.

The actor-producer, who heads the highly successful Four Star Productions, then disclosed that he has been receiving radiation therapy for a malignancy on a gland on the right side of his neck and another on a kidney in his chest.

DOCTOR PLEASED

He said that he has received six radiology treatments at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre and added that "the physicians in charge, Dr. Justin Stein, "is pleased with my progress and has told me he expects to eliminate the condition."

Immediate plans?

Powell said he'll return to his studio Monday to complete a television shows in which he will appear under contract to Four Star Productions.

The coastline star of movie musicals said the current illness first came to his attention a few weeks ago when he was in New York on a visit. The trouble was first diagnosed as an allergy. Later tests disclosed the malignancies.

Chinese Say Situation Has Worsened

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese newspapers today charged a report that "the situation has worsened" along the border between China's Tibet region and India's northeast frontier agency where fighting started eight days ago.

The Indian build-up continuing, the statement said, Five Chinese border guards have been reported killed and another five wounded, it said.

The statement, in the form of a report by the official New China news agency, said the fighting was "part of planned military aggression by the Indian side" along the entire Sino-Indian boundary.

"When China's territory has been invaded, and when Chinese frontier guards are suffering increasing casualties, the Chinese side has no choice but to fire back resolutely in self-defence," it said.

The report, which made no mention of Indian casualties, summarized the Chinese case about this sector of the frontier.

'FIRE WILDLY'

It was headlined in the communist party newspaper People's Daily: "Aggressive Indian troops continue to attack wildly in the border days: Situation at the Chedong area worsened."

Reports from New Delhi that India had decided to "eject" the Chinese by force if necessary they hold on this frontier have not yet been quoted here.

Some observers saw today's statement as the Chinese answer to three reports.

MRS. CECILIA SMITH
Toronto

The funeral of Mrs. Cecilia Smith of Toronto was held on Tuesday afternoon from the Rowe Funeral Home, Frankford, where service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Kenneth Stewart of Bucknorn. Interment was in the Frankford cemetery.

The bearers were: Marvin Dafoe, Harold Terry, Arnold Stickle, Cecil Frost and William Rose, Jr.

Mrs. Smith died suddenly Saturday at her home in Toronto. She was in her 72nd year.

Born in Sidney township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welbourn. She was a member of High Park Unified Church in Toronto and was a life member of the Rebekah Lodge, No. 135. Her husband, Marshall Smith, died in 1953.

She is survived by three nieces, Mrs. Stewart (Muriel) Dafoe, Harold Terry, Arnold (Vivian) Stevenson of Belleville, and Mrs. Kenneth (Jean) Rose, Jr., of Frankford, one nephew, Gordon Booth, of Toronto.

Russia's Grain Harvest Hit By Bad Weather

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's grain harvest, hit by bad weather, is likely to be disappointable, behind the planned targets, Western diplomatic sources here say.

They forecast on the basis of incomplete data so far published that total grain production will be less than that of last year — 137,300,000 metric tons.

Last year's planned target was 154,000,000 metric tons.

Premier Khrushchev, the leading campaigner for a more efficient agriculture, earlier in the summer called it was possible that this year would see a grain harvest record, beating the 141,000,000 tons of 1958, Russia's best year.

But since then reports from many areas of the Soviet Union have been disappointing.

Unusually cold and rainy weather in the Baltic states, Byelorussia, part of the Ukraine, the central region around Moscow and parts of the Ukraine and the Soviet Far East, Latvia, for instance, has had the rainiest June for a decade, with the exception of 1958, say Russian newspapers.

The harvest normally sunbaked central Asian "virgin lands" in Kazakhstan weather has not been favorable.

It may turn out that the weather of 1962 will be just about offset the undoubtedly great efforts being made during the year to produce a bumper harvest.

These efforts include the formation of new agricultural bodies, called agricultural management administrations, charged with on-the-spot operations to improve the efficiency of the country's agriculture, and especially

Hebrew Jewish New Year Starts This Evening

By RABBI J. BERGLAS

The New Year begins on the afternoon of September 26 to 30. The day of Atonement begins the afternoon of October 7 and finishes Monday night, October 8.

New Year's day for us Jews is not a time for frivolous rejoicing, but rather a solemn day of prayer. It is the Day of Memorial. When all creatures of the earth are remembered by the Creator and judged according to their merits.

The New Year brings the individual before his God; its teaching touches upon ideas of sin, repentance and the ideal ways of man on earth. The solemn season, is then, a season for all men, for all peoples.

Our religious New Year, Rosh Hashanah, celebrates no event in Jewish history, but is the day of remembrance of the anniversary of the creation of the world.

DAY OF JUDGMENT

Yet solemn and awe-inspiring thought this day is, we know that the Day of Judgment of the universe is kind and merciful. He is not out to punish us, but merely wants us to follow the laws and regulations He laid down for us for our own good. He has made this day of judgment a day of forgiveness and mercy.

During this holiday we pray not only for ourselves but for all mankind, that God will send His beisings upon all the nations of the world in order that allmankind will live together in peace and harmony.

SOUNDED SHOFAR

Through the days of the celebration of the New Year the Shofar (Ram's Horn) is sounded during worship. The sounding of the Shofar reminds the people of the story of Abraham and Isaac. Abraham was dedicated to fulfilling His religious obligations, he reached the point of offering his own son as a sacrifice. Thus when the Shofar is sounded it reminds everyone that they must dedicate themselves to fulfill their obligations. The most sacred Holy Day, Yom Kippur, is a day of contemplation, prayer and judgment, not for others but for all other children of God. The principle object of the Day of Atonement is "Repentance." Therefore we pray "Thee for life, Thee for death, to vouchsafe unto us and unto our children that the coming year may bring us life and health and happiness. May the time draw near, when nation shall no more lift up the sword against nation; when men shall hurt or destroy, when the whole human race shall work together for mutual benefit, peace and justice, for mercy and truth.

COLD AREA

On the average, Frobisher Bay in the Northwest Territories has 273 days of frost annually.

IN MEMORIAM

MCGARVEY — In loving memory of Hilliard McGarvey who passed away September 29th, 1959.

God knew that he was suffering,
God knew his pain was hard to climb
So He called him home in silence,
And whispered, "Peace be still."

We miss you more than words can tell,
By the valley of rest so fair;
Someday, somewhere we'll meet and then,
We will meet our loved one there.

—Dearly remembered by his wife Mary and family.

HARRINGTON — Fondest memories of Mrs. Mattie M. Harrington, who passed away September 29th, 1960.

Just as you were,
So we'll see you,
Treasured forever in my memory.
—Always remembered, Hilliard McGarvey and family.

MCGARVEY — In loving memory of a dear father, Hilliard McGarvey who passed away September 29th, 1959.

'Tis but a year ago today,
Dad called you home,
And we who loved you most of all,
Ask you were you not.
—Ever remembered by Eldon, Nancy and Roy.

FARRAR — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bert who passed away, September 28, 1959.

His charming ways and smiling face,
Are a pleasure to recall,
And how we loved him as he was,
And died beloved by all.

GAMBLERS'

to a shell as its solid doors and barred windows kept firemen out.

The embittered Simone, who called McDermott and Feeley "a couple of rats," said they double-crossed him by framing him into jail, stealing his clientele for their own club and later sending a warning emissary when he tried to get a refund on his fruitless "protection" money.

In the last few days, McDermott and Feeley have denied that they collected from Simone for protection, though they had helped bankroll his game, and claimed using strong-arm tactics when he later sought money.

JUMPS CUT

Simone testified his "high class" dice game netted $10,000 a month while it operated under auspices of McDermott and Feeley, who had started out with a 25-per-cent cut when they quickly and somewhat inexplicably jumped to 40 per cent.

As Feeley-McDermott collector, the dapper Simone said, Clarke took out also $100 a month ostensibly for lawyer Sol Gebirtig's fees for such duties as keeping the club charter legally in the clear.

A record missing gambling figure occupied the commission Thursday as it sought with little success to track down a report of the recent reappearance of Peter (Scrip) Mitchell, a hanger-on of Niagara area gambling joints and sometime police informant who disappeared two years ago.

Felix Chief Borelli, Niagara Falls, Ont., businessman and gambler, testified that a man in his position might hold as a friend a friend seen Mitchell around Erie and reported this to the OPP, who long ago had written off Mitchell as dead.

CONFIRMS REPORT

That was as far as the commission got, but Chief Inspector Harold Graham, head of the OPP's Criminal Investigation Branch, confirmed later that the force had received the Mitchell report and that the force still consisted of vague information about a man wearing sunglasses and driving a conspicuous some distance from the observer.

He said the report is being pursued but added the OPP is still convinced Mitchell has not turned up.

The 55-year-old Borelli made an earlier-than-expected appearance in the box Thursday because of his assertion in the Mitchell report—which the commission first heard on Wednesday from McDermott — that while there he was questioned with negative results about a series of references to him during the months of inquiry evidence.

He denied:

1. That he was a McDermott-Feeley representative for gambling clubs in the Niagara area or owned pieces of them, although he admitted to a string of gaming house connections including at least one guilty plea.

2. That he knew anything of a document blueprinting procedures for a raid on the non-McDermott-Feeley old Hamilton Club at Niagara Falls, which mysteriously found its way to the OPP in 1956 and led to a successful raid.

3. That he knew the missing Mitchell was being blamed for the detailed blueprint—Mitchell had vanished in the club.

GOT PROTECTION

Borelli asked and received the protection of the Canada Evidence Act—barring the use of testimony against him in any possible future court action—against another Niagara Falls man, Peter (Black Pete) Sacco.

Sacco, 54, who testified only briefly before the day's adjournment, admitted running a craps game with Simone in Niagara Falls for a few months in 1952, before he was raided and convicted.

Since then he had taken part in no illegal games, particularly in the Rainbow Club, where he was a frequent visitor, but confined his gaming to legal high stakes bridge and pinochle.

Simone, a nattily little man who said he now is reformed and works with three fruit companies, gave the commission a rambling, sometimes incoherent, usually fascinating, saga of the rise and fall of a small crapshooter touched by the Mc-Dermott-Feeley influence.

Some of his views on his one-time associates:

"They would throw their mothers to the wolves . . . they're two guys who'll never die in bed . . . they've got more enemies than Hitler."

Simone said he was operating a small sad-sheet floating craft game in 1952 when McDermott (Feeley was just a stooge, he said) talked him into setting up a stationary, well-guarded game which soon was paying off at $120,000 a year, with 35 per cent going to Simone.

Under the partners' protection system, he said, he was tipped off in advance to the one raid on the premises that preceded the successful and club-closing raid.

During the period, Simone said, McDermott said he knew when OPP raid warrants were signed and talked "openly" of a connection with Sgt. John Cronin, then on the anti-gambling squad and now retired and a model owner at Kingston.

Simone said McDermott at the time was a partner at the Cooksville club and double-crossed him when his Cooksville partners demanded he divorce himself from one or another of the two rival operations.

He said he was informed later that a doorman in the "foolproof" Simone entry system got into debt to the other club for some $3,500 and was forced to leave a door open for the raiders, who came up with what Simone described as a planted jar of crooked dice.

Broke after paying fines for both clubs, Simone got out of jail to find that McDermott had wrecked an operation to keep the club going and had transferred the customers to Cooksville's relief, from which Simone quickly found himself frozen out.

WIFE BADGERED

When he tried to collect some $6,000 he claimed the committee owed him for failure to protect, he was visited by a police officer—whose name he gave the commission privately—who advised him to let the partners keep the money, to stay healthy. His wife had been badgered by "associates."

Describing the burning of the Aloha Club—predecessor to the McDermott-Feeley Centre Road Club — Simone said he and Clarke were driving past it late one night when Clarke got out of the car, made his way in by the open entrance and set it afire. It was unoccupied.

Simone said Clarke, a while, then telephoned McDermott:

"Joe, your club is burning down. I don't have a look at it."

He said the building burned to a shell.

"Did you play the fiddle?" asked Mr. Justice J. C. Hoskin, the commissioner, as Simone finished his story with gusto.

Some other excerpts from the evidence under questioning:

1. Simone's refusal to swear to Americans controlling any fruit machines—but had heard McDermott and Feeley had a partner, who he presumed was an American.

2. He knew of no McDermott-Feeley political connections.

3. He knew that Borelli had a "piece" of a club at Fort Erie, Ont., but not details.

4. There was a ready market for the sale of dormant social club charters, for use by gamblers, in Toronto some years ago at prices up to $2,500.

Borelli denied that there were American interests in the operation of the "Marshall Navy or Frontier clubs." He did not know if Americans were involved in the old Ramsey club, which he said he went to "only once or twice."

After establishing that Borelli acted as host at his home, Mr. Wilson asked him why he said "pulled a gun" on two OPP constables at one time.

"They threatened me," said Borelli. "They wanted to take a lot of stuff out of the house and I said they would have to call the local police."

Subsequent questioning revealed that the two policemen blamed a spot of Mounty terrors

Future Will Tell Tale

The battle is o'er and the smoke is beginning to clear away from our plebiscite of Wednesday and it appears to have ended in a draw. The drys have no cause to go out and celebrate nor do the wets have reason to go out and drown their sorrows.

Now let the establishments that may be granted their licences in the future regard their rights as hard-earned privileges and guard them accordingly. Let them maintain decorous and attractive atmospheres in their places of business. Only by doing so can they justify the faith of those who voted in the affirmative and refute the arguments of opponents.

United We Stand

A society's degree of civilization is directly related to the manner in which it cares—or does not care—for its weakest members.

In a strong society the weak should be provided the means by which they too can become strong through a co-operative effort. As long as the individual concerned is putting his best effort into the attempt to overcome his difficulties, he is deserving of assistance from those in a position to help him.

And who shall be this brother's keeper? Will it be the individual? Will it be a universal welfare and assistance organization? Such a task is usually beyond the capability of the former and the latter is faced with the fact that one cannot be all things to all people.

Where mankind has been faced with major problems—and the proper care of our citizens is certainly in this class—it has best met these problem and difficulties by a united effort. Through the help of each individual to his personal best, our social system can prove its true worth in serving its members.

One such example of this co-operative effort is the United Appeal. Via its machinery the contributions of many people are amalgamated into one effort to ensure the operation of a number of individual organizations whose primary purpose is to meet some facet of the complex of human needs in modern society.

Whether the organization is concerned with health and rehabilitation, child care, disaster, emergency and first aid, or character building and citizenship training, there can be no argument but that its services are essential to our community.

In a society which is unable to provide enough hospital beds to meet the minimal needs of its people, there is a very great need for such organizations as the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

In a society where some parents consider children a liability, there is a need for such a group as the Children's Aid Society.

In a society where even government action is confused on the issue of providing for a disaster or national emergency, there is an urgent need for the maintenance of such groups as the Canadian Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance.

In a society which sees much of juvenile delinquency and moral turpitude there is an overwhelming need for the type of recreative and development activities of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, the Boy Scouts Association, the Young Men's Christian Association, and the local Minor Sports Association.

In a society which sees too many of us neglect winning the friendship of our next door neighbors or the people around the corner, there is a need to make new citizens feel there is a place for them here through the work of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire.

We are most fortunate that in this land of ours there is usually some organization to fill the gaps left by our personal and governmental deficiencies or weaknesses. ...We are equally fortunate that the majority of these organizations are not of the all-for-nothing school which undermines the individual's initiative. There are many countries today where the individual is left to perish physically because of a lack of such facilities or to deteriorate in character and individual integrity because such needs are spoon fed.

We should welcome the chance to support such as the United Appeal with no reservations. The success of its efforts will eliminate some of the weaknesses with which we poor humans find ourselves afflicted as a race.

It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never inflicts pain.—John Henry, Cardinal Newman.

Space Program Senseless

By Fred. H.W. Tillerton of Australian National University in the Sydney Morning Herald

In the United States there is considerable danger that the space program is getting out of hand. American pride has been so hurt and fears so aroused by Russian successes that they seem quite unable to take an objective view; they are blindly determined to match Russian achievements in the field whether it is sensible or senseless.

And today many of the best scientists inside and outside the United States consider the future program senseless and likely to harm the United States in the long run.

There are two main reasons for this criticism:

First, the primary motivation behind the program was to develop intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs). These could be positions of military targets around the world. Eventually they will carry nuclear warheads against enemy targets anywhere in the world. Once developed, sufficiently these rockets provide the capability of putting satellites into orbit.

These satellites can be used as "spies in the sky" and for other purposes of military strategy but the positions of military targets around the world. Eventually they will carry nuclear warheads against enemy targets anywhere in the world. Once developed, sufficiently these rockets provide the capability of putting satellites into orbit.

These satellites can be used as "spies in the sky" and for other purposes of military strategy but the basic reason behind the space program does not promise further benefits. Exploration of space is how beyond those which have come from the essential defence program itself.

The greatest usefulness is likely to come from the opening of new communication channels among the nations and eventually, the satellite system may compete in reliability and cost with underwater cable systems. The present Telstar satellite communication system has already been operated up, but after the initial interest in the novelty attaching to the Telstar relays, it became obvious that the possibilities are few.

Still others take their holiday at the big hotels and resorts which this summer had a bumper year. Those, who camp in the parks do so largely, a group which has gone in for mobile vacations only in recent years and which, without provincial parks, would be unlikely to do much travelling or to patronize the motels and cabins. The region the tourist trade which seeks out fishing lodges, luxury resorts, the best in overnight accommodation, has diminished very little with the growth of the provincial parks.

The provincial parks are supported by the provincial payers and their facilities are used by Ontario taxpayers, as well as by non-residents of the province. There will be few of these folk who will agree with the tourist operators who campaign against the parks and, in the final analysis, it is these people for whom the service has developed the parks both as a tourist attraction and in response to a demand for accompanied vacationland which the average citizen can enjoy at a price he can afford.

Death Jacket Great Hazard

Edmonton Journal

The Federal Department of Transport should investigate safe life jackets.

That is the documented report of a coroner's jury in Toronto. The jackets fail, it said, because they do not keep the face out of the water.

The coroner, Dr. Morton Shulman, charged it is "a terrible thing" although approved thousands of these jackets are sold and non-swimmers depend on them to save their lives."

Responsible critics have been saying — and demonstrating — much the same thing for several years.

DOT regulations, for example, say a jacket must "hold the wearer's head in the water of the water." But, Dr. Shulman found, they don't.

He said: "Captain Angus (a DOT witness) and others from the Department of Transport have testified these jackets do comply, but I've seen with my own eyes that they do not." Small wonder he resorted to the term as "false sense of security," "coroner" and "lethal" to describe prevailing practice.

The jury's recommendation is unassailable. It is up to the federal government to create a special, independent committee to investigate all phases of life jackets. And further, to design a jacket suitable for all types and sizes of boats.

This is by no means an impossible order. It seems to be the only way to get an "approved" label which means what the public expects it to mean — a life jacket, not a death jacket.

Attendance records of the Belleville Fair Board during the three-day exhibition just finished, it was announced today, Fifteen thousand people paid admission to the exhibition while another five thousand members of the armed services and school children were admitted free, through the courtesy of the directors.

The sum of $500.35 was realized as the result of the tag day to the Canadian Institute for the Blind, which was held in Belleville last Saturday, it was revealed this morning by Mr. A. D. Archibald who acted as secretary for the tag day and general campaign last week. Individual contributions made during the campaign will considerably swell this total, with donations of this nature totalling $209 to date.

Two crates of potatoes from the same plot of ground in the same season is the unique production claimed today by Mr. Cecil Sine of Sidney township. Early last spring Mr. Sine planted Cobbler potatoes and after digging them in July for market purposes, planted a second crop of Khatadins. The second crop was planted on July 11th and on Mr. Sine's farm marketing the second crop of potatoes from the one plot of ground.

In St. Thomas' Church where he had worshipped as a youth, the remains of Sir Gilbert Parker, who died recently in London, Eng., were laid this afternoon while the Burial Office was conducted by the vicar of the parish, the Rev. A. B. Payne. The Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, the Rt. Rev. John Lyward, a former vicar of the parish, was present and made a brief address. The Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, and the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice for Canada, were present at the service. Sir Gilbert's valet for 24 years, Mr. Henry Sabin of London, Eng., made the journey here to be present at the service. The city council, with Mayor Geo. O. Tice, city and county officials, representatives of military, legal, educational, fraternal organizations and citizens filled the church to capacity. Entombment took place at Belleville Cemetery in the marble tomb which Sir Gilbert had erected at the time of the death of his wife over twenty ago. The committal prayers were said by Rt. Rev. John Lyons and the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne.

The new public school on Pine Street will be opened on the 30th inst., and the prospect is that every room will be filled and it may be necessary to engage an additional teacher. Members of the Board of Education will be present at the opening. The principal is Mr. A. A. Wilkin.

Fire was discovered this morning at the residence of Mr. W. H. Baker on Bridge Street. It was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The house is owned by Mr. Timothy Daly.

Strictly Personal

Policeman's Job Can Be Unpleasant

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One major reason for both the relative and the absolute growth of crime in the U.S. is during the last few decades is rarely considered by any of the critics of the police or departments and lawenforcing agencies.

Just as we expect the school system to take over many of the jobs that home, or parents, should be doing for our children, so is the same true of the police force in our communities.

In their new book, "Man, Crime, and Society," the authors point out in conclusion that the line and staff duties of the police, which should be reserved for lawenforcement activities, become progressively caught up in a wider variety of activities that are not strictly speaking, of a police nature."

Recent survey data show that "while police may be engaged in the inspection of buildings (services as utilities, attendance of parades, operation of boys' clubs, traffic control (including the writing of tickets), inspecting motor vehicles, lecturing on safety (at home and so on), conducting lostand-found departments, etc., they spend only about a substantial manpower hours available to the police department may be devoted exclusively to lawenforcement activities."

In one Canadian city of 160,000, the authors found it was necessary for the Force of Police that as much as 90 percent of the time and energy of his department was devoted to the performance of activities unrelated to law enforcement.

A few American cities, for instance, have installed Parking Meter Maids to check parking violations at meters; but in most communities the police are used for this trivial task. Some have still use policemen as secretaries and stenographers, as ushers and glorified flower-makers at weddings, directing and "image making" for public relations.

Many, if almost of the functions arrogated to the police department, could be belong to society as a whole, especially such agencies as the family, the school, the church, and various 'character-building' institutions of the community, remark. By our default, as citizens, and by the abdication of responsibility by institutions, we not only expect too much of the police department, but we are quite dangerously invest too much power in it.

Given the chaotic quality of men who are attracted to police work in America; given the inadequacies of recruiting and training; given the low paranoid exposure of danger; given the political interference and public apathy — given all these, it is surprising that the crime figures are not even higher than their present rate.

No Reason to Remove Appendix in Fixing Hernia

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a doctor operates for any reason on the right side, in the vicinity of the appendix, isn't he supposed to remove the appendix? Can't he do this with or without the patient's consent?

I was operated on the right side, for a hernia and five weeks later I returned to the hospital for an acute suppurative appendicitis. Shouldn't he have done both operations at the same time? — P. J. K.

No, there was no reason for him to remove the appendix, in fact he had no right to do so without your consent.

Before an operation you sign a consent form, authorizing the surgeon to do certain things. If, in an operation inside the abdomen, the surgeon finds a condition in which it is necessary or desirable to remove the appendix, naturally he is entitled to do so — and should.

But, in such circumstances, the appendix is found to be inflamed, removing it is obviously a part of the task of correcting the abdominal condition. Ordinarily, appendectomy operations are done under a form of consent which includes such a problem. It is the surgeon, so that a surgeon, operating to remove a tumor, would be both empowered and obligated to remove two tumors if he found two. All of this is a matter of legal fly-specking. It's just common sense.

But now let's take a hernia operation. The patient's consent would permit the surgeon as might be necessary to repair the hernia.

This does not require penetration into the abdomen — inside the peritoneal cavity. So it is an obviously wise axiom never to cut into any area without good reason and adequate so. Risk, however slight, should not be incurred lightly. And entering the peritoneum involves added precautions.

Therefore, your surgeon was entirely correct in what he did and did not do.

The fact that the appendix became acutely inflamed five weeks later is coincidental — unfortunate but still coincidental, and had nothing to do with the hernia operation.

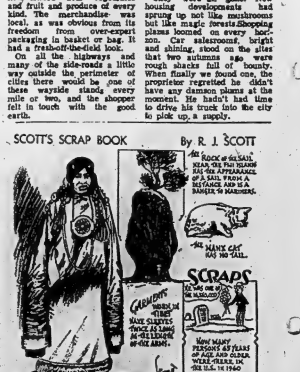
There was no way, in repairing the hernia, that the surgeon could see the appendix or know that it was in any inflammation. And obviously if you yourself had had any advance indication that the appendix was going to flare up, you would have told him so.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have to watch my calories carefully. What is the difference between bread, toast and rusk, in calories? As I understand it, the difference is small, but it seems to me that I've been told that toasting or drying process changes the nature of bread. Somewhere I've read that, in order to be a great President, John F. Kennedy must have a way too. —

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As recently as ten years ago, the housewife in the big cities could get a drive as more than five miles and find, at this time of year, wayside stands loaded with fresh vegetables and fruit and produce of every kind. The merchandise was at its best, as was obvious by its freedom from over-expert packaging in basket or bag. It was fresh-off-the-field look.



On all the highways and many of the side-roads a little way outside the perimeter of cities there would be found the wayside stands, every mile or two, and the shopper felt in touch with the good earth.

Yesterday, my wife and I went forth to visit one of two of our favorite stands that has been there for years, not so much to buy anything in particular as to feast our eyes.

They were all gone. New housing developments had sprung up not like mushrooms but as huge fungoid blotches of plaza loomed on every horizon. Car salesrooms, bright and flashing, were the chief that two autumns ago was a cornfield or a potato bonanza. When finally we found one, the proprietor regretted he didn't have any vegetables at the moment. He hadn't had time to drive to the fields into the city to pick up, a supply.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Oil continued to dominate action on the stock market today, although its price swings were unimpressive.

On a turnover topping 44,000 shares in the first hour, the stock dropping to 84¾, then climbed back to 85, unchanged. Power Corporation, biggest Canadian Oil shareholder, also remained unchanged at 8.

Meanwhile, industries inched ahead, with such issues as Algoma Steel, Aluminum, Massey-Ferguson and Atlas Steel all showing fractional advances.

Canadian Husky rose ½ to 7⅛ on moderately heavy volume.

Banks were a weakening factor in the main list, as Montreal, Royal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all declined in a ¼ to ⅜ range.

On the exchange index, industrials rose .13 to 339.21 and western oils .38 to 100.50. Golds dipped .10 at 91.33 and base metals .53 at 173.14. The 1 p.m. volume was 106,000 shares compared with 801,000 at the same time on Thursday.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 7 21-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Thursday the noon rate was $1.07 23-32.

Pound sterling stood at $3.01½ down 5-16.

LIFE OF GOVT.

of a national flag and "other national symbols."

The government's prescription for future economic health — basically spelled out in speech in throne speeches — promised "positive, constructive measures" to help reduce the heavy international balance - of - payments deficit and to produce an economic climate "hospitable to foreign investment."

It was the reversal of the traditional capital inflows, combined with a continued payments deficit, that triggered last spring's foreign exchange crisis and led to the government's so - called "austerity" program of June 24.

The speech promised removal "as soon as circumstances permit" of the special tariff surcharges on imports levied in June.

But its declaration that a balanced budget is the government's goal, and its emphasis on "restraint" in government spending, made clear that this aspect of the austerity program will continue.

The speech spoke also of the need for "increased concentration of available resources on essential national projects" geared to economic expansion.

HAS A HINT

There was speculation that "essential" projects might exclude such developments as a second trans-Canada highway and second oil pipeline from the West, both of which were hinted at in Conservative election speeches.

Other economic measures on the government's list included assistance to help industry and labor meet the impact of automation, enlargement of the lending role of the Industrial Development Bank, improved arrangements for federal financing of capital - cost exports, and a speedup of the trade department's export promotion campaign.

There was a hint that Ottawa and the British Columbia government may be nearing reconciliation of their opposing views on power development of the Columbia River. The throne speech said it was hoped that arrangements soon could be completed, enabling ratification of the Columbia River treaty with the United States.

TO EXPORT POWER

Large scale, long-term contracts for export of surplus electric power should be encouraged to expedite development of major undeveloped power sites and to bolster Canada's export earnings.

Some of the recommendations of the recent royal commission on transportation would be implemented, including removing "the need for" general horizontal freight rate increases."

New farm incentives would include expension of feed grain storage facilities in Eastern Canada and B.C., added lending power for the federal Farm Credit Corporation, and a national conference this fall on agricultural education and trailing facilities.

The speech also put forward unfinished business left over from the pre-election session last spring.

It said Parliament will be asked to ratify measures announced in the April 10 budget, such as tax incentives for increased sales of manufactured goods and expanded scientific research, and also the $50 increase in the personal income tax exemption allowed for dependent children.

SOME LEFT OVER

A batful of holdover controversial measures are also on the agenda such as Senate reform, establishment of an independent commission to take over the decennial job of redrawing boundaries of parliamentary constituencies, tax and tariff measures to restrict the flow of Canadian advertising dollars to foreign publications, and abolition of the closure rule on Commons debate.

There should be a resolution for "repatriation" of the constitution, giving Canada full power to make amendments without reference to the British parliament. The provinces would be invited to agree.

An Indian claims commission would be set up to recommend "equitable and final settlement" of Indian claims that treaty rights had been infringed.

New legislation would give Canadian ships a monopoly on trade between Canadian ports on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system.

The Northwest Territories would be divided into two territories—instead of the present three—and given greater self-government, as a step toward the ultimate creation of new provinces" in the north.

Any possibility of Mr. Diefenbaker might pull the rug from under the opposition and dissolve Parliament on the day it convented — Liberal Prime Minister Mackenzie King did that in 1940—disappeared as the Commons rose for the day.

Instead, the political war of nerves shifted to the statements outside the House by the opposition leaders.

Mr. Thompson said there was "darn little" in the government's economic program to replace what he described as prosperity. The government was persisting in the errors which had led Canada into its present "morass."

"It looks to all the Progressive Conservatives have got to offer," Mr. Nesbitt certainly not going to go too long."

IS DISAPPOINTED

Mr. Douglas said the speech was a great disappointment to anyone expecting an aggressive attack on economic problems. He was "appalled" by the reference to a balanced budget.

"If this means the government has placed financial orthodoxy above the task of putting people to work, we're headed for real trouble," he said

Mr. Pearson said the throne speech represented a "rehash of last April's budget and the Conservative election platform."

"It is a most disappointing and inadequate document," he said.

The speech contained "no real program to deal with unemployment, slow growth and the rise in the cost of living."

London, Ontario Mail Carriers Vote to Strike

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London letter carriers Thursday night voted to take strike action for higher wages.

The London Division of the Canadian Federation of Letter Carriers rejected a "work by rule" instruction issued from the Ottawa head office and voted 59 to 7 in favor of a strike.

William Johnston, president of the London Division said the results of the vote will be sent to Ottawa and that before any strike action here, letter carriers across Canada must also vote to strike.

White Caners Enjoy Program At Meeting

The September business meeting of the White Cane Club was held at the recreation centre Pinnacle St., Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

President Ken Bowerman welcomed President Pat Beversluis, the club and was sung with Maude Rollins at the piano. The minutes in braille were read by secretary Clarence Cavanagh. The president noted that the bingo boards are all made and are to be stored at the Kiwanis Centre in the locker for use on recreation night. These boards are donated by the Kiwanis Club. The next recreation meeting is to be held Monday night instead of the regular night owing to Thanksgiving Day coming Oct. 8th.

Artie Scott introduced the entertainers Jerry Clement, violin, Roly Whatamley, violin, Ken Hart, electric guitar with Irene Reid as piano accompanist. They were generously greeted with their old time familiar tunes and modern numbers. The remainder of the club meeting many of the tunes.

Refreshments afterwards were served by the Nineties and Mr. Allie Wright on behalf of the members thanked the girls for thanks to the Nineties and the entertainers.

Artie Scott moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Lions Club who are giving the club transportation twice a month for the members to the meetings.

McPherson of Regina, who, the report said, did not attend committee meetings following the interim report.

The three doctors—Dr. J. F. C. Anderson of Saskatoon, Dr. E. W Barootes of Regina and Dr. C. M. Houston of Yorkton—and Mr. McPherson, also presented a minority finding with the interim report in which they disagreed with the immediate need of a compulsory, province-wide medical care scheme.

Walter Smishek of Regina, the labor representative, also presented views dissenting with the majority report.

An immediate start on a $13,700,000 system of regional psychiatric centres was the committee's recommendation. A master Saskatchewan plan was developed in 1958 after study of new concepts in psychiatric treatment by Saskatchewan psychiatrists working with architects and the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The committee recommended construction of six regional 150 to 300-bed community - based mental hospitals over a 10-year span. One such hospital, costing $4,146,000 and six separate buildings, is under construction stage at Yorkton.

Each regional hospital would provide in-patient and out-patient services for an area with a population of 100,000. The committee said where possible these regional hospitals should be allied with general hospital facilities.

Expansion of existing drug benefit programs for in-hospital patients and public assistance cases, followed by a new program to alleviate high drug costs resulting from certain purchases, was suggested by the committee.

It rejected a comprehensive drug-benefit program, because of difficulty in controlling costs and possible high drug usage. The committee supported a full drug program.

Estimated cost of extension of drug benefits to hospital patients and social assistance beneficiaries is $3,500,000.

Retention of cancer treatment under the provincial cancer clinics was suggested, but the committee recommended abolition of the present $10 charge to non-cancer cases by the clinics for investigations.

Start to Pour Foundation for New Addition

Pouring of the foundation for the new $800,000 westside addition to the Moira High School is expected to commence within the next week, it has been announced by Kaz Kinsella, chairman of the Centre Hastings High School Board.

Heavy earth moving equipment has been on the site for the past three weeks removing top soil and preparing the ground for the new school addition, which will offer technical training to students in the Centre Hastings Area. The new addition will have an area of approximately 57,000 square feet.

East Huntingdon students, who earlier in the school term sought enrolment at Tweed High School are now using the facilities at the Madoc school, it was stated.

Over 35 students from the above area attended out of classes at the beginning of the fall school term, and directed to attend Madoc school.

Hastings county Judge J. C. Anderson dismissed the application of one of their number for a court order authorizing enrolment at Tweed school and said in his judgment that the area school board had the right to direct which school the students might attend.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jordan, 47 Grier Street, have returned home after spending two months in England visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. John Finley of La Grange, Ill.; Mrs. Lillian Vollkopf of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Margaret Drowan of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., spent a couple days with Mrs. A. Dunlop and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gilbert, 54 Everett St., also callers at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hollinger, Stirling; Mr. Joe Hollinger, Foxboro; Mrs. Sarah Dafoe, Corbyville; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Hubbs; Mrs. M. Thompson; Miss Doris Smith Mrs. H. Thompson; Miss Jean Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Doug Kellar and Margaret Ann and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clayton Kinzy, Belleville, are shown following their recent marriage in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Sharron Joan Angus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Ross Angus, Belleville was united in marriage to Douglas Clayton Kinzy, RCAF Station, Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Kinzy, Dresden, Ontario. The Rev. L. Arthur Page, rector of the church officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Large baskets of multi colored gladioli decorated the altar, while white satin bows designated each of the guest pews.

During the ceremony traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. John A. Withers who also accompanied the six choir boys as they sang "O Perfect Love" prior to the ceremony and the "23rd Psalm" following the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Murray Ross Angus, was radiantly lovely in a full-length bridal gown of white silk organza over taffeta with an over-all embroidery design featuring a high bodice accented by a keyhole neckline. Her fully bouffant skirt was caught together with little bows of the same material. She wore a pearl studded tiara from which flowed a bouffant shoulder-length veil and she carried a heart shaped bouquet of red sweetheart roses mingled with white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Gowsell, Belleville, in aqua and the bridesmaids, Miss Brenda Shurtleff, R.N. Belleville and Miss Connie Sickle, Belleville, in shrimp pink, were identically attired in cotillion length dresses of nylon chiffon over taffeta featuring eyelet bodices with rounded neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirts were accented at the back with large flat bows. Their headdresses were of matching material adorned with sequins and over the face veils. They carried bouquets of tinted carnations to match their dresses.

Mr. James Cowan, RCAF Station Trenton attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Scott Robinson, RCAF Station Trenton and Mr. Murray Angus, Belleville, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Army, Navy, Air Force hall, on Front Street, Belleville, where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white linen cloth centred with a three-tier, wedding cake topped with two white doves holding wedding rings, and misted about the base with white silk tulle. Tapering white candles and the bridal bouquet added to the nuptial setting.

At the reception a well-timed long distance phone call was received from the bride's sister, Mrs. William O'Callahan, who with her husband, stationed with the RCAF, are at present residing in France. Following the dinner a get-acquainted dance rounded out the evening's entertainment.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a beige linen dress with matching jacket, dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who chose an olive green linen dress with matching jacket, dark brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Windsor the bride wore a black and white pinstriped linen dress with matching three-quarter length coat, black hat and gloves, red purse and shoes and a corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Smith's Falls, Vancouver, BC, Windsor, Chatham, Dresden, Esterogin, Riverside, Trenton, Ridgetown and Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Gowsell, 91 Hunswood Drive, with Miss Connie Sickle as co-hostess; at a bathroom shower at the home of Mrs. Karl Belanger, 52 Cannilton Road, Belleville, and at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Hubert Smith, 19 Johnson Drive, Trenton, Ontario.

The couple will reside at 331 Front Street, Apt. 1, Belleville.

Two Students Honored by Community

STIRLING — Mrs. Clarke Rodgers recently entertained the ladies of Mill Street and surrounding area in Stirling, in honor of Miss Louise Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harding, who was to enter the Sick Children's Hospital for training and Miss Lamenie Klompmaker who is a student at Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

A program of contests and games was enjoyed and an appreciative address was read. Each of the girls received appropriate gifts for which they expressed thanks.

The hostess and her assistent served refreshments and the group ended best wishes for success in their new ventures.

KINNY — ANGUS

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, Belleville on Saturday, September 3, 1962 at 4 p.m. when Sharron Joan Angus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Ross Angus, Belleville was united in marriage to Douglas Clayton Kinzy, RCAF Station, Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Kinzy, Dresden, Ontario. The Rev. L. Arthur Page, rector of the church officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Large baskets of multi colored gladioli decorated the altar, while white satin bows designated each of the guest pews.

During the ceremony traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. John A. Withers who also accompanied the six choir boys as they sang "O Perfect Love" prior to the ceremony and the "23rd Psalm" following the signing of the register.

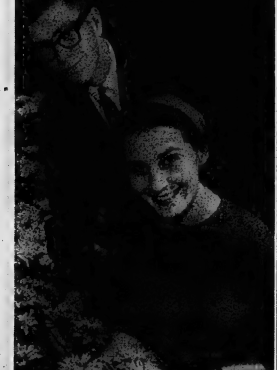
The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Murray Ross Angus, was radiantly lovely in a full-length bridal gown of white silk organza over taffeta with an over-all embroidery design featuring a high bodice accented by a keyhole neckline. Her fully bouffant skirt was caught together with little bows of the same material. She wore a pearl studded tiara from which flowed a bouffant shoulder-length veil and she carried a heart shaped bouquet of red sweetheart roses mingled with white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Gowsell, Belleville, in aqua and the bridesmaids, Miss Brenda Shurtleff, R.N. Belleville and Miss Connie Sickle, Belleville, in shrimp pink, were identically attired in cotillion length dresses of nylon chiffon over taffeta featuring eyelet bodices with rounded neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirts were accented at the back with large flat bows. Their headdresses were of matching material adorned with sequins and over the face veils. They carried bouquets of tinted carnations to match their dresses.

Mr. James Cowan, RCAF Station Trenton attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Scott Robinson, RCAF Station Trenton and Mr. Murray Angus, Belleville, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Army, Navy, Air Force hall, on Front Street, Belleville, where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white linen cloth centred with a three-tier, wedding cake topped with two white doves holding wedding rings, and misted about the base with white silk tulle. Tapering white candles and the bridal bouquet added to the nuptial setting.

At the reception a well-timed long distance phone call was received from the bride's sister, Mrs. William O'Callahan, who with her husband, stationed with the RCAF, are at present residing in France. Following the dinner a get-acquainted dance rounded out the evening's entertainment.



The bride's mother received the guests wearing a beige linen dress with matching jacket, dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who chose an olive green linen dress with matching jacket, dark brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Windsor the bride wore a black and white pinstriped linen dress with matching three-quarter length coat, black hat and gloves, red purse and shoes and a corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Smith's Falls, Vancouver, BC, Windsor, Chatham, Dresden, Esterogin, Riverside, Trenton, Ridgetown and Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Gowsell, 91 Hunswood Drive, with Miss Connie Sickle as co-hostess; at a bathroom shower at the home of Mrs. Karl Belanger, 52 Cannilton Road, Belleville, and at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Hubert Smith, 19 Johnson Drive, Trenton, Ontario.

HAPPY COUPLE — Lt. Michel Vanier, 21-year-old son of Governor-General and Madame Vanier, and Jovette Letourneau, 20, of Quebec City, are seen on Government House grounds. They are to be married at the chapel in Government House Saturday. (CP Wirephoto).

Mountain View Couple Mark Anniversary

On September 16, a surprise dinner party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Joyce of Belleville, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce of Mountain View, on the occasion of their 36th wedding anniversary.

The bride and bridegroom of thirty-five years ago, were taken completely by surprise. They were invited into a beautifully decorated room with pink and white streamers, and a wedding bell hung over a prettily decorated anniversary cake. Twenty-six adults and children sat down to a turkey dinner.

Following this, the family presented them with a pole lamp, along with their wishes for another 35 years of happiness.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Joyce and family of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gerow and Leon of Picton; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Joyce and family of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Joyce and family of Mountain View; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Joyce and family of Bayside, and Miss Hilda Joyce, of Mountain View.

BELLEVILLE SOUTH EAST DISTRICT

An impressive ceremony was held Monday evening at St. Joseph's parish hall when the Brownies of pack 9, with brown owl Mrs. J. Driscoll, and tawny owl, Mrs. M. Chartrand, met with the Guides of company number 14 for a flying up ceremony.

The Brownies formed a fairy ring with the Guide up wishes were presented to two golden banz Brownies, Louise Chartrand, and Mary Catherine Tugnette, by District Commissioner Mrs. T. Golden. The Brownies were challenged and welcomed by the Guide company by Captain Mrs. W. Jarvah and Lieutenant Mrs. F. Collyer.

Four other Brownies, not having passed all of the requirements for flying up, walked up to Guides and were warmly welcomed. Those walking up were; Mary Carol Black; Anne Beirne; Mary Louise Fleming and Carol Ann Henry.

COLORS LENT

Captain A. Coles of company 9 Guides graciously lent her company colors for the evening and accompanying her was Lynn Neill, Jean Pearson and Sandy Hatfield, who acted as color party for the ceremony.

After a program of games and singing, District Commissioner Golden, gave a brief talk on the importance in daily life of the fifth Guide Law, "A Guide is Courteous", and help the Guides to learn a new song.

Company 14 is to be congratulated on its efforts to get organized so quickly this fall. Belleville South East district reports nearly all Brownie packs to have a capacity 24 registered and Guide company is full to the maximum 36.

ENDORSES EXTENSION

TORONTO (CP)—A $4,000,000 plan to extend the city's East-West subway in both directions has been "heartily endorsed" by the Toronto Transit Commission, Chairman (Clarence Downey said Thursday. The extensions should be included in the present subway construction program, which will be completed by 1967, Mr. Downey said.

HICKS — BULL

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 15, at 2:00 p.m. in Christ Church, Belleville, by Archdeacon J. B. Cresgnall, rector of the church, when Jacqueline Jessie Bull, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Bull, was united in marriage to Bruce Duncan Hicks of Amelisburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hicks. Gladioli blooms adorned the altar and sanctuary and the guest pews were designated with white satin bows centred by gladioli blooms.

The church organist, Mr. John Creyden Withers presided at the organ console and accompanied the choir of six boys in their rendition of "O Perfect Love", before the ceremony and during the ceremony, the "67th Psalm", and "O For a Closer Walk With God", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white nylon bridal gown fashioned with Swiss eyelet front accent, waistline of pleated taffeta and flowing back panels. She wore a headdress crown of beaded seed pearls in flower form with shoulder-length veil of silk tulle illusion, and carried a Yuletide cascade of red sweetheart roses with rosebud-knotted streamers.

Mrs. Howard Adamson, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a white-length gown of pink nylon over taffeta with Swiss eyelet front bodice and accented at the waist with pleated tafetta. She wore a matching headdress, gloves and shoes, and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses mingled with mums.

Miss Elaine McNish, of Belleville, and Miss Ann Jamieson, of Carrying Place, were bridesmaids, the former in yellow and the latter in blue gown of Swiss embroidery on the bodices, with taffeta waistlines, full taffeta skirts with nylon tulle overskirts in waltz-length. Their headdresses were matching colors, as were their gloves and shoes. They carried nosegays of matching chrysanthemums.

Mr. Howard Adamson, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Gerald Bull, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Peter Keuning, of Belleville, R. R. No. 1, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parish hall, where the bride's table was daintily appointed with traditional white linen, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake flanked by tall candles, and clouded about the base with tulle and the bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother, attired in a gown de nore sheath in autumn gold, matching hat of autumn gold, with ostrich plumes, brown gloves and shoes, and corsage of bronze mums and baby's breath, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a two-piece ensemble of midnight blue crepe, with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to western color, brown accessories and gown with walking coat of gold points, the bride wore a sheath corsage of bronze mums.

Those attending were from Nova Scotia; New Brunswick; Toronto; Oshawa; and Belleville.

Prior to marriage, a miscellanous shower was held at the home of Mrs. James Bull, with Mrs. Florence O'Neill as hostess, and Miss Ann Jamieson as co-hostess. A presentation was made by the bride's co-workers at the Northern Electric Company of an electric sunburst wall clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks are residing at 85 Donald Street, Belleville.

Women Looked Best At Opening

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—The opening of Parliament Thursday was an occasion for women to look their best—and they did.

Blue was the predominant color guests chose for their gowns but splashes of color were added by women in pinks and reds.

The five women members of Parliament left the long gowns for guests. All wore street length clothes for the day-long sessions they attended.

Postmaster-General Ellen Fairclough chose a garnet wool crepe dress; Mrs. Jean Casselman was in a black silk suit; Mrs. Margaret Macdonald chose a brown wool suit; Mrs. Isabel J. Hardie was in a turquoise wool two-piece dress; and Judy La Marsh wore a two-piece black wool suit.

Mrs. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, was stunning in a turquoise gown of slipper satin. Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister, chose a sapphire blue velvet gown and white fox fure. Mrs. Patrick Kerwin, wife of the chief justice who was seated next to Mrs. Diefenbaker, wore pale pink chiffon.

TO WED SATURDAY

The official party included Lieut. Michel Vanier, son of the Governor-General, and his fiancee, Jovette Letourneau of Quebec City. They are to be married Saturday at Government House in a quiet ceremony. For Thursday's ceremonial, the bride-to-be chose a simple black dress.

After the hour-long opening, guests including the diplomatic corps, attended receptions tendered by the Speaker of both the Senate and the House of Commons.

There was a poignant moment at the Commons Speaker's reception when former Speaker Roland Michener, and his wife were welcomed by the new Speaker, Marcel Lambert and his wife. Mr. Michener, defeated in the June 18 election, was appointed to the Privy Council this week. Mrs. Lambert, who chose blue satin for the occasion, said she found her first official duty "exhilarating."

Mrs. George White of Madoc, wife of the newly-appointed Senator, said her day had been a hectic one.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Should Sex, Religion Be Discussed?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I'm 26, considered pretty, nice personality, very well built, which I think has been most of my trouble. I'm 39, 36, 39, so you can see what I mean. Yes, guys want to take me out, but only once, as I keep them at arm's length and then I never see them again. They all seem to think because I've got lots I should share it.

But my problem now is a wonderful fellow I met in June. We had been together several Friday nights and had wonderful times together. I've never had to keep him at arm's length, as he's never attempted to go further, which I had respected him very much for.

But the point is, since I came back from vacation, he hasn't come to see me once. So I wrote a note and asked him to please give me fifteen minutes of his time to let me know where I stand.

My aunt said not to let him know how much you enjoy your work and let him know how much you would like to settle down and keep house. But I don't think that's right, as it would be just like me proposing to him. Who's right, Auntie or me?

Doris, if you have any advice for me I'd love to have it as I'm deeply in love with this man. I can't sleep with things this way.—UP IN THE AIR.

DEAR UP—Forcing the issue will get you exactly nowhere. He's a friend, that's all. And at 36 he is also an artful dodger.

So-called "hints," about your desire to settle down, have started him running. Your note may have increased his pace in the wrong direction.

All you can do now is wait until he notices the emptiness, if ever.

DEAR DORIS—I am 48 and going through the change I also have ear trouble which makes me allergic to noise. My problem is my son, 16, wants to have his radio on at all hours. What can I do to avoid constant friction with him?

I dislike always being the "witch in the play" and I do admit it makes me irritable and nervy. Why must we have constant noise?—ALLERGIC TO NOISE.

DEAR ALLERGIC—You have rights too. Youth has no idea how Forty-Eight feels. Noisy entertainment is music to his ears.

Once more, I say communicate. Tell him about your predicament; that you count on him for help—just as he counts on you. He will respond to your belief in him.

DEAR DORIS—I am eighteen and quite fat.

I am also now legged and have a large lower abdomen. If I let it out I could wear a smock. And when I'm asked to go swimming I feel awful because I'm a lot fatter than the rest of the girls.

Could you please tell me how to lose weight?—JOAN.

* * *

DEAR JOAN—How you look is so important to Successful Living that the rewards or reducing can hardly be counted. It's diet, plus exercise, that will do it.

The article I am sending you goes into helpful detail about both of these techniques. Then you have to be tough with yourself.

DEAR DORIS—I read the letter asking about New Zealand. I'd like to mention a very interesting book which one may obtain at the library donated by the Australian government to the people of Canada entitled "Australian Profile," in color.

Some of your readers may also be interested in an Australian newspaper I have had a subscription to. Let me know and I'll mail a copy on.—MRS. C. S.

DEAR MRS. C. S.—Thank you. It's a wonderful and different country half way around the globe. Yet speaks our language; thinks many of our thoughts. Reading about it could inspire a new hobby—or a trip to "down under."

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO UPSET—Grown-ups often have an idea how much they upset their young people when they quarrel. People who laugh at you for feeling badly just don't know what they are talking about.

Remember; Dad and Granny are fond of one another underneath. These queer adults of yours are used to each other. This doesn't mean they shouldn't be more considerate of you and your mother.

If Granny has started nagging, perhaps she is not well. Ask your father for a time when you can talk to him all by yourself. It's a father's job to be concerned when his teen-ager cries herself to sleep.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When someone is consistently late, is it equally correct to leave a function more than an hour at times? I have a friend who often calls to say she'll be there some time, then shows up at her own convenience. It's her one weak point, but otherwise she's a lovely person whose friendship I value. Often I've had to break other appointments, waiting for her to arrive. Since she does call in advance, I don't want to offend her by being out when she finally does show up. Could you recommend a solution?

Answer: If someone is consistently and notoriously late, obviously it's because the person who is kept waiting has given no hint she resents such callous treatment. After waiting a decent interval, and more than an hour or so is certainly long enough, it can hardly be considered ill-mannered to leave to keep another appointment. If the late-comer can't be reached by phone to postpone her visit, a note can be tacked on the door saying when you'll be back. A few gentle reminders that she's causing inconvenience might persuade the chronically late to mend her own manners in regard to others.

Question: I've been married for only a few months, and already I have a bit of an in-law problem. My husband and I are planning to have a housewarming and intend inviting friends and relatives who gave us gifts so they can see how they look in our apartment. My mother-in-law feels we should include her bachelor brother—who is rude, sarcastic, and who can be quite disgusting at times. Since he gave us a lovely present, my mother-in-law thinks it would be inconsiderate of us to exclude him. Must he be invited just because he gave us a gift? I'll be a nervous wreck if he comes, and I dread to think of the impression she'll make on other guests.—Mrs. C. V., Perryton, N.Y.

Answer: To invite such an ill-mannered person may seem like the proper thing to do, considering the reason for the party. But a hostess' first consideration should be the comfort of all her guests. Anyone who threatens to make them or be a disrupting influence need not be invited. I'd suggest you ask him to a smaller family dinner at some other time, rather than risk having his rudeness or offend anyone at the housewarming.

BELLEVILLE

Mrs. V. R. — Here his whole life revolves around numbers, yet he won't help his own son with arithmetic.

Mr. V. R. — I'd confuse Alfie. I learned arithmetic 30 years ago. I don't know the modern methods.

* * *

Mrs. V. R. — School has just started and Alfie is already having trouble with his fourth-grade arithmetic. The child is advanced for his age. He's not quite 9. But he's having a terrible time with long division. I'd try to help him myself, but I figure that's one area where his dad is a natural and I should stay out of it. My husband is a certified public accountant, and arithmetic is his daily work. He can give Alfie a grasp of it all, teaching long division, fractions, decimals and the rest.

But he refuses. He makes some excuse about not knowing modern methods. As long as the answer comes out right, the method doesn't matter. I think he's too lazy to buckle down to teaching Alfie.

Mr. V. R. — Now look, I'm no pedagogue. I learned my figures 30 years ago in a very strict British public school, where they rapped my knuckles when I made a mistake. I'm sure that's not the way my wife would like Alfie taught, although personally I think it has its merits. You concentrate and learn fast.

But I've looked at his text and his workbooks. I can see that they approach it from backwards, sort of creep up on it. I can't bother with that. Besides, as I've said, I'm not good at making things clear to a child. I tried showing Alfie how to fly a kite yesterday. He couldn't keep patient with him, scolding him and making him cry.

He probably hates kites now. Why should I make him hate arithmetic, too?

The Council: We agree with Mrs. R. that a smart Dad like Mr. R. ought not go to "warte" when it's homework time in Alfie's day. It seems unnatural for him to hold back his knowledge. His problem is to hold back his temper, his impatience.

"Blood is thicker", is often the conclusion of a parent or relative when it comes to formal subject to a member of his family. He may be fine giving piano lessons to strangers, but he finds it hard to register and deliver with his nearest of kin. Worst Because the air is rife with distracting emotion.

Add to that, Mr. V's misgivings as to proper "methods", and we can understand his hesitation to step in where school teachers fail his son. But arithmetic is so basic and essential a tool that "all's fair" if it leads to Alfie's attaining a mastery over number relationships.

Actually many adults with no pedagogical background at all are now being enlisted by Parent-Teacher groups and other volunteer organizations as after-school tutors to help children keep up with others in their class. "Homework helpers" are much in demand in settlement houses and recreation centres. And of course paid coaching is available from the undergrads at any nearby college.

Our suggestion to Mr. R. is to give it a whirl. Pretend you're Alfie, punch-drunk from problems. Start him off with something simple, like how many ice-cream sodas at 20 cents each can you buy for a dollar? If your forebearance wears too thin, or Alfie kids around too much, here's our next suggestion: find a neighbor to tutor him. If the neighbor has a child, you can swap pupils. You'll probably succeed famously with somebody else's child, as we will with yours!

Otherwise, hire a patient, plodding "explainer" for Alfie. It may not require many private sessions and the rewards will be lasting. Alfie will not be bowed down too long with a sense of hopelessness. And before long he'll feel like the worthy son of a numerical wiz kid, and, talking the same language.

BEULAH U.C.W.

IVANHOE — The Beulah United Church Women at Ivanahoe met at the home of Mrs. S. D. Frest on Tuesday evening with an attendance of 12. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Elymer Rollins, the first vice, opened the meeting with a poem, "I've Found a Friend."

Discussion and plans were made for the special meeting in the church on November 1st. An invitation to a banquet at White Lake in the near future was received.

Mrs. Keith Bray gave a report of the School for Leaders, held in Whitby recently; also a solo, "Our Task." The program was taken by Mrs. D. McFadden and Mrs. George Wood. A poem followed with the hymn "By Christ Redeemed," and prayer by Mrs. Frest. Scripture reading was from 1st Corinthians 10: 11-12, by Mrs. D. McFadden.

Bible study by Mrs. George Wood was based on The Lord's Supper. The study book was taken by Mrs. D. McFadden.

Mrs. Rollins closed the meeting.

Lunch was served by the hostess and thanks extended.

Readers' Friday Column

LETTER:

A reader recently requested a recipe for English Trifle using gelatin. I would like to tell you how it is made in my husband's village in Derbyshire. I know some Yorkshire families who make it the same way, but I don't know if this is the general method in northern England and Scotland. The day ahead or early on day desired, line a decorative glass serving dish with pieces of cake ½" to 1" thick. Pour over fruit juice or fruit or sweet red wine. Spread drained canned fruit cocktail over the cake. Prepare a fruit jelly powder (as directed on box) using drained juice from fruit as part of liquid and allow to cool slightly. Pour over fruit and cake and chill. Any flavor gelatin may be used, but usually a red-colored one is used and cherry is the preferred flavor. The gelatin should soak right through the cake. A few hours ahead, prepare rich custard filling or sauce or custard made with custard powder, or use a vanilla pudding powder. Cool and spread in a ½" to ¾" layer over gelatin. Whip cream and spread evenly in another ½" to ¾" layer over custard. May be decorated with icing flowers or colored decorettes. Chill until serving time . . . Frances

ANSWER:

Thank you for this authentic recipe.

QUESTION:

Have you a recipe for pastry similar to that used in bake shops for their tarts which seems to have a biscuit texture? . . . Mrs. R. L.

ANSWER:

I am quite sure the pastry you are referring to is

FRIDAY

Poached Fillet of Halibut or Mackerel with Egg and Curry Sauce; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Brussels Sprouts; Endive and Spinach Salad with French Dressing; Angel or Chiffon Cake with Tutti-Frutti Whipped Cream; Tea.

DANISH PASTRY

Two and one-half cups sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, 3 or 4 tablespoons fine sugar, ¾ cup shortening (or half and half shortening and butter), 1 beaten egg, ice water (about 2/3 cup), 1 egg white, slightly beaten, 1 tablespoon sugar. Work in shortening with pastry blender. Add egg and just enough ice water to bind mixture. Chill. Roll half out to 9-16" thickness for 2-crust apple or raisin squares or ¼" thickness for tarts. Spread on filling for squares and roll out remaining pastry and moisten top and seal edges; for tarts fill 3-4 full. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. for an additional 20 or 30 minutes for squares, but only an additional 5 to 8 minutes for tarts.

Teen-age rocketeers, Richard and Don Unruh, have had some startling successes with their homemade rock-

eta. Above, the twins show their father how it's done.

Teen-Age Canada

Toronto Twins Explode Russian Space Exploit

By JACK HUTTON

Canadian seventeen-year-old twins Richard and Don Unruh have just exploded a Russian space exploit — and given other Canadian teenagers a space mark to shoot at.

Richard is the president of Toronto's East York Rocket Society which during the past few years has been firing homemade rockets as high as 5.3 miles into the atmosphere.

Don, just as avid a space fan, is president of the organization's test which will indicate whether teen - agers have the spatial reasoning ability needed in a rocketry.

Their select society, made up of about 15 teen-agers from East York Collegiate Institute, is particularly interested in pure research—but has fired rockets as high as 5.3 miles.

This created a dark shadow over the recent Moscow teen-age rocket competition where the winner—a 19-year-old boy—sent up a rocket slightly more than 300 metres. (The Moscow rockets, 30 to 50 centimetres, had a charge of 25 grams.)

"It sounds like they're hardly begun," said Richard, a Grade 12 student whose ambition is to specialize in astronautical engineering. "We passed that stage a long time ago and still have lots to learn."

MATH BOOKS

The basement of the Unruh home bears testimony to the dedication of the two young space scientists. One corner has been converted into a chemistry lab—a strong stomached wife snooks. (Example: Mathematical Handbook for Scientists and Engineers.)

Richard, writing a book on rocketry in his spare time, spends from one to three hours each night on rocket theory. And last spring he and his brother passed two other students after school on their research.

"This may sound like discrimination," Richard said, "but the fellows in the club agree that not everyone could do this sort of thing—only those interested with 120 IQ, or over."

Don, 15, has become interested in far-out space instead of motorcycles or the hit parade? "Well," said Richard, "intelligence may have something to do with it. We don't like wasting time."

When we were in public school," continued Don, "we both became interested in the application of mathematics to a great many things. Astronomy interested me for about half a year."

First rocket efforts of the twins were inspired by a paperback "Rocketry for Amateurs" which emphasized safety. They studied for about six months before launching their first effort.

"If anything isn't safe, we just won't try it," said Richard. "When we do our firing, one person is also safety officer and cannot range officer. We can't leave the possibility of an accident."

Propellant fuel for the first 50 firings was potassium nitrate (saltpetre) and sugar. But the space students gradually refined that until now they are using thiokol and potassium perchlorate.

Their rockets, when launched, sit on an aluminum launching platform and are wired to a junction box about 10 feet away. The rocketeers crouch behind this and 100 feet away sit at the other end of connecting pre-positioned wires.

"To fire this, we use a series of three safety switches," said Richard. "Sometimes we hear the bang as the rocket goes through the sound barrier but we always hear a loud swish that can be heard half-a-mile away."

Cost of the rockets varies, but always seems a big sum to the boys who may wind up with a twisted piece of metal. (They sympathize completely with Cape Canaveral's problems!)

Latest project: A 36-inch rocket with a potential of more than 15 miles. Probably the most unusual firing was the one from a fountain pen which soared well into air.

How do the other members react? "This made me concentrate on chemistry last year," said 16-year-old Eugene Polistuk. Donald Dowdell, 17, is the member with a metal lathe. "They keep it busy," he said.

I said at the beginning of this article that the boys had exploded a Russian myth. They also exploded a Canadian one — the myth that Canadian teen-agers don't care about anything but cars and the twist.

BRAIN-TEASERS

How did you do with the question last week of the three messages? You could make two five-letter words out of the letters U T I N E.

The answer, of course is UNITE AND UNITE.

Remember the one we tried one year ago — the man looking at a picture while saying, "Sisters are like big March, none, but that man's father is my mother's son." Who's in the picture? (Answer next week.)

Pope and 2,800 Bishops Will Open the Ecumenical Council With High Mass

By BERTRAND THERAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the most spectacular ceremonies of the Roman Catholic church will be held in Rome Oct. 11 when the Pope and 2,800 bishops wearing their white mitres attend the solemn high mass marking the opening of the ecumenical council.

After mass, Magr. Pericle Felici, secretary of the council, will place an open gospel on the altar. An opening sermon will be given by a bishop, then the bishops will pay homage to the Pope.

Pope John XXIII, after reciting the Litany of Saints and a prayer to the Holy Ghost, will deliver an address disclosing the aim of the council, then will start the hymn Veni Creator.

The first session of the council — cardinals, archbishops and bishops — will do little to merit the applause of the Pope and the church.

Some say this oath is a limitation on the freedom of council officials say it has no more influence on council decisions than the oath taken by a parliamentarian interfered with his legislative work.

They say the same degree of secrecy with which the 100-member council deliberations discussed and amended the working papers — will exist in the ecumenical debates.

PAPACY AMENDED

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, who was a member of the commission which drafted the constitution amendments commission, said while the papacy is not to be corrected and even considerably cut."

The working papers are not decisions completely settled by the Pope and submitted to members of the council for rubber - stamping. These draft documents will be studied and amended or rejected as the fathers see fit.

The first Vatican council of 1870 offers some examples of what a draft decree on the spiritual life of priests and priests was returned to a commission for amending, but it never came back before the council after Most Rev. Bruward DeCoutanse, Ypres, said after a long speech:

"Sorry this draft decree return whence it came and be buried, with the tears of its father in the bosom of the ... me, I shall express only one wish on its tomb: May it rest in peace and may it not have brothers in its likeness."

Bishop Thomas Connolly of Halifax, one of the nine Canadians at the council of 1870, argued against the dogma of the Pope's infallibility on questions of faith and freely expressed his view.

SPEECH CUT SHORT

As in all assemblies, the chairman sometimes intervenes to restore order.

In 1870 a draft decree on a single canon by all Catholics led Archbishop Haynald of Kalocsa, Hungary, to make such a long speech that the chairman, Cardinal Caipati, broke in.

"You have expressed sufficiently your views on the reform of the liturgy. To say more would be useless and a burden for the assembly. Put an end to this speech then it already too long and yield to another speaker."

Msgr. Haynald tried to continue but the cardinal cut him off.

"That's enough. To say more would only cause more annoyance. Let us stop there."

Such statements, among others, led Bishop Falon of Nancy, France, to write: "Many speakers give me the impression they speak with a revolver in their hand and the finger on the trigger."

The second Vatican council, as other councils, likely will be marked by debates that may recall the famous saying of Bishop Falon:

"Let's have our Right, and our Left."

VIOLENCE AT TRENT

In the light of past experience, the decrees flowing from the council will have been carefully studied and debated before they are adopted or rejected by the fathers' vote.

The "placet" or "non placet" — Latin for the yeas and nays — could drag over 18 years, from 1545 to 1563 — one bishop called it — in the light of whispers from another's beard.

Plus 1X probably was thinking of the council as well as the one of 1870 when he said: "Council is council but there are always three periods: the devil's, who tries to muddle everything; that of the bishops, who fuse everything; and, finally, that of the Ghost's, who clarifies everything."

Focus on Health

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Health-ful radiation; new information on drinking and driving.

RADIATION HELPS

The health hazards of high-dose radiation are well known, but a Rochester, N.Y., scientist has conducing anistudies that indicates a little radiation may be a good thing.

Dr. George W. Casarett of Rochester University's school of medicine and dentistry says life-long daily radiation does slightly above the maximum permissible rate for human have, in some cases, proven beneficial to the life span and reproductive capacities of male beagle dogs.

Dr. Casarett separated 60 dogs into four groups. The control group has received no irradiation. The second group has received three - tenths roentgens of irradiation per week—the maximum permissible exposure for human beings. The third group received six-tenths roentgens a week and the fourth, three roentgens weekly.

Dr. Casarett said that 40 per cent of the dogs in the control group have died. However, the death rate in group two has been only 25 per cent, group three 20 per cent, and group four 20 per cent.

His theory: Continued radiation produces a slightly higher blood count. White blood cells act to combat disease germs. Thus, the irradiated animals perhaps had better defenses against infectious diseases that killed some dogs in the control group.

His studies also showed that dogs receiving three - tenths of a roentgen exposure of irradiation maintained better reproductive capacities than the non - irradiated group. However, dogs receiving three roentgens weekly became infertile within a year.

ALCOHOL TOLERANCE

Why will "x" number of drinks fix one driver into a highway menace but leave another person with a passable amount of driving skill?

A National Medical Association subcommittee on alcohol says there is little difference among individual human beings on the ability of their brain tissue to resist the effect of a given tissue concentration of alcohol.

But there are other factors. A large man can take the same number of drinks as a small man and have a lower concentration of alcohol in his tissues. And a skilled driver can lose half his ability and still perform better than a slow-reacting poor driver.

Cross-Canada Survey

Canadian Ambulance Service Develops Complex Problems One of Which Is High Cost

By BOB TRIMBEE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In 1793 Jean Dominique Larrey, a famed French military surgeon, introduced the world's first ambulances and did much to aid in the campaigns of Napoleon.

The value of the ambulance service was recognized by others and lately became an integral part of modern medical treatment services, civilian as well as military.

In much of Canada it's a service that has developed complex problems.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows the problems have two main elements:

1. The inability of private ambulances service, operators to collect a large enough portion of their fees to maintain an efficient, high - quality service.

2. The high cost of providing that service.

The survey also shows an almost universal call among private operators for some form of gover n m e n t subsidization, either at the municipal or provincial level.

REGULATED LOCALLY

Local or regional circumstances cloud the main problems so that they tend to appear different in nature, even among cities within the same province. The growth of complex metropolitan areas in Canada adds to the confusion.

Within the Greater Vancouver area, for example, services are provided by private operators with a form of civic assistance, volunteer municipal organizations, private operators without municipal subsidies and publicly owned services, whose deficits are met by taxpayers.

Inside the same boundaries such services are guided by varying regulations for a B.C. as in most other Canadian provinces, municipal governments hold the jurisdiction over such operations.

An exception, however, is Saskatchewan where the provincial government sets regulations governing road ambulance standards. In Ontario, the provincial transport department regulates the operation of ambulances on highways.

But Dr. Matthew Dymond, Ontario health minister, says: "The province has no interest in taking over ambulance services. I can't by any stretch of the imagination see how this can be a provincial government responsibility, and I doubt it's a municipal responsibility."

J. C. Smith, manager of Metropolitan Ambulance Services in Vancouver, a firm which has a contract with the City of Vancouver says financing first-class service is probably the ambulance operator's biggest problem.

SAYS VANCOUVER BEST

He says Vancouver regulations are the best in the country, but the operator has to have city financial support to be able to live up to them. He firm has that support and under the contract with the city receives help in five different ways, depending on the degree to which the passenger can afford to pay.

"It's probable that the Vancouver arrangement is at least one of the best in Canada," he said. "It's not exceptionally good, but generally municipalities have extremely poor arrangements, none at all or token regulations."

While ambulance s e r v i c e standards across Canada have been criticized, he added, most municipalities or provincial governments are afraid to set stringent regulations about service because they might put themselves in a position of having to offer financial assistance to provide it.

Mr. Smith estimated it cost $30,000 a year to operate a fully equipped ambulance with a fully qualified crew 24 hours a day.

"There is a remarkable lack of support from the public, either through municipal or provincial governments. . . . The provincial g o v e r n ment from time to time discusses ambulance service, but when the money talk starts these discussions die."

The problem of payment, especially in accident or emergency cases, exists in all areas. Private operators in Ottawa say 90 per cent of the accident and emergency calls are not paid for. In Manitoba, operators say about 25 per cent of the revenue from this portion is lost through non-payment.

COVERED BY INSURANCE

Traffic and industrial accidents are paid for in Saskatchewan through the province's compulsory automobile insurance scheme and the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The WCB also pays for ambulance services in Alberta and operators say no amendment to the Alberta Motor Vehicle and Highway Safety Act, adopted last spring, has resulted in payment of 85 per cent of the fees for road calls.

Under the amendment, the injured party may claim payment of ambulance services from the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund, but must make restitution if such damages are provided for in a subsequent court action.

In other centres, such as Brandon, Man., ambulance service is a responsibility of the fire department. Fees received balance out the costs and control is left with the department.

In Winnipeg, the police department supplies ambulance service for persons injured in industrial accidents or other emergency categories. Several metropolitan Winnipeg suburban councils have contracts with private operators to provide this service.

By tradition, routine work is left to the private operators.

The Toronto public health department operates an ambulance service for emergency and indigent cases. Private operators handle routine calls and also emergency work outside the city.

FORM ASSOCIATION

Donald Elliot, president of the Metro Ambulance Association, says the association was started as an united voice for private operators and has been able to improve the co - operation in collections between the operators and the police, municipalities and hospitals.

"In the city we have no big problem, largely because of the effectiveness of the association and the co - operation of authorities," Mr. Elliot says.

Outside the city municipalities tell private operators how long they must press for payment of bills before the municipality either will pay the bill itself and try to collect the amount from the passenger or attempt to collect on behalf of the operator.

In Montreal, most hospitals make their own ambulance arrangements and the patient is charged for such services at the hospital. Patients who can afford it are charged the full fee.

The city operates an emergency cruising police ambulance service for street and sidewalk emergencies. This plan was instituted in late 1959 following complaints that private ambulances couldn't provide adequate service. Other civic governments are studying the Montreal p l a n with a thought to establishing a similar program.

The Quebec Highway Safety Council has suggested that provincial police adopt the Montreal plan on a province-wide basis, especially on deserted stretches of provincial highways. The government has taken the matter under advisement.

In New Brunswick, municipal governments operate and finance most of the ambulance services through hospitals. Funeral directors do the job in Nova Scotia.

Hospitals also have their own ambulance services in Newfoundland, but like the private operators they run into deficits. As in other provinces the key problem is in traffic calls, when the passenger says he didn't n e e d an ambulance, didn't call one and refuses to pay the bill.

In Calgary, three private operators have launched ambulance service insurance, good for anywhere in Canada. Rates range from $4.50 for single persons to $12 a year for a family. All three say the policies have met with public acceptance.

A key complaint of many who balk at ambulance service bills is the expense.

Across the country there is a surprising uniformity in fees. From Montreal west the basic charge within a city ranges from $10 to $15 with an additional mileage fee of either 50 cents or $1 a mile beyond the limits.

In Quebec City, where stiff competition and price cutting led to the problem of trying to operate an efficient service, the basic city charge is $10 with an additional $2 to $5 cents a mile added for out-of-town trips.

HALIFAX RATES LOW

By far the most economical rates are in the Maritimes and Newfoundland. Within the limits of Halifax a private operator charges $7 while a hospital-operated s i n g l e c h a r g e s $7.50. An additional 50 cents a mile is tagged on for outside calls. Within Saint John, N.B., the fee is a flat $5. Outside trips, made only for emergencies, are charged an additional $1.50 a mile return from the hospital to the point of call.

The basic fee at St. John's, Nfld., is $4, with an additional 40 cents a mile assessed on trips outside the city.

A basic $10 a call with a mile-balance, a private firm in operation for 50 years, say if they age rate added, a spokesman said: had to hire workers to carry

Dancer's Brother Was Met In Paris and Search Began To Free Hungarian Girl

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two Americans turned detectives on a cold, rainy Paris night, finally located the young Hungarian dancer they hoped to rescue. This is the second chapter of how Ezzes fabricated the story. It is made available exclusively to the Associated Press through the co-operation of the Detroit Free Press and the Knight newspapers.

The Detroit Free Press

PARIS (AP)—When I opened the door of my room at the Hotel Castiglione here, a big, powerful man with piercing and compassionate eyes smiled and said in a surprisingly gentle voice:

"I am Stephen Dinka."

This was the man with whom I was to try to steal a beautiful Hungarian dancer from the Communists.

Dinka handed me long memorandas and a lengthy personal note from Dale Nouse, the Free Press assistant city editor in Detroit was the third member of our rescue team.

Although he had been almost sleepless for close to 72 hours, Dinka was clearly and concisely of our plans to rescue Emese Szidelmay, the 20-year-old sister of Dinka's wife.

Other than the Communists, time was our biggest enemy.

The girl's cryptic letter, mailed from Paris to the Dinka home in Ann Arbor, Mich., had said that her travelling Hungarian national group would be in Paris Sept. 19 through 21.

Our task was to find the troupe, make a moonlight snatch and devise a scheme to help Emese flee.

SEARCH HANGOUTS

Calls to several French government offices proved fruitless as did Dinka's call to every Hungarian-sounding organization in the telephone book.

That night we halled a taxi and careened, as only Parisian cabs can, off to search. I knew Paris and I know where the young people and artists and tourists hang out.

But it was late when, in front of the Deux Magots on the Boulevards de France in the student sector, Dinka spotted a battered Bulgarian bus loaded with luggage.

The Bulgarians spoke only their own language, but I said over and over, "Hungarian . . . Hongrois."

One Bulgarian nodded, got out a card and pointed to it. "Hotel de la Paix," it read.

To our utter dismay, we found at least 20 hotels by that name in the city's one-to-one book. We prowled through half a dozen hotels de la Paix without luck.

Next morning we were back at the first hotel de la Paix. A woman said the students' union generally handled touring cultural groups. I asked casually if she'd call and find out where the Yugoslav, Bulgarian, Iraqui and Hungarian dancers were quartered. She called, and while our excitement mounted, routinely obtained all the addresses.

ASK QUESTIONS

The Hungarians were at the College Neederlaina. I knew the place—a complex of buildings on the southern outskirts of Paris where foreign students live in dormitories built by their governments.

At 10 a.m. I was asking careful but casual questions of a gatekeeper at the College Neederlaina. He said the Hungarians had gone sightseeing and would not return until late that evening.

With a French friend who had ventured with Scar on the reconning, we parked in a good position to get away in a hurry and yet keep the gate and dormitory complex in sight.

Dinka took the night vigil, pacing before the huge iron gate leading to a courtyard. It was closed and locked, but he approached gate next to it was open.

It was almost exactly 1:30 a.m. when he heard Hungarian voices, coming from a nearby subway. It was the students, chatting about a ballet they had seen, hurrying along to the cold rain.

The group strode past in the darkness and disappeared into the courtyard.

Dinka had passed within a few feet of him. But partly because of the night, partly because the students were crowded in collars and bobushkas, he failed to recognize the beautiful girl he had last seen when she was 13.

Next: Last Chance.

Loblaw Head Outlines Plan To Feed Hungry

TORONTO (CP)—The head of Canada's largest grocery chain, on Thursday night Canada should mark its centenary in 1967 by launching a plan to feed the world's hungry people.

George C. Metcalf, president and general manager of Loblaw Groceterias Company Limited, warned the West must outdo the Communist world in the battle to eliminate starvation.

"If Khrushchev's Russians turn their scientists loose on the problems of the deserts and unproductive land of the world, if the Chinese are first to crack the hunger barrier, then we can expect hundreds of millions of people to choose their philosophy."

Mr. Metcalf was addressing 1,100 members of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews at the last finishing a dinner.

A protestant, he was one of three men presented with the council's 1962 award for human relations. Sharing the spotlight were a Jew, Hamilton radio and television executive Kenneth D. Soble; and a Roman Catholic, Most Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of London and chancellor of Assumption University.

Bishop Cody paid tribute to Protestantism as he accepted his award.

"If protestantism is broken into its component pieces, as some say, then each little piece is worth picking up and treasuring for what is in it," he said.

"The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews . . . has done a tremendous amount of good . . . so much prejudice exists in Canada today that should be removed, so much distrust taken away."

Bishop Cody was honored for the "bridge of understanding he has erected" between differing religions.

Curtis Favors Atomic Arms For RCAF

HALIFAX (CP)—Retired, air marshal W. A. Curtis, former chief of the air staff, said today the RCAF should be equipped with atomic weapons.

He said the government soon will have to make a decision on whether to accept atomic warheads for the defence of Canada.

U.S. May Boost Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill that would increase both postal rates and the pay of postal employees has won Senate approval by an overwhelming vote of 72 to 3.

If enacted, it would mean a penny increase in postage for regular and air mail letters and a wage boost averaging about 10 per cent for 1,600,000 government employees.

The next step is up to the House of Representatives. If it takes the House as long as it took the bill goes to President Kennedy for signing into law. If the House balks, a joint conference would have to work out a compromise.

The House last January passed a bill designed to bring in $630,000,000 a year more in postal revenue. But this measure does not provide for an increase for postal and other government workers.

The last postal rate increase was in 1958, when the three-cent letter stamp in effect for 20 years was raised to four cents.

The Senate measure would boost this to five cents effective next Jan. 7 and increase airmail to eight cents from seven.

Heavy Trading In Oil Stock Being Probed

TORONTO (CP) — Howard Graham president of the Toronto Stock Exchange said Thursday, the exchange is checking to learn the source of heavy trading Wednesday in shares of Canadian Oil Companies Ltd.

Canadian Oil shares traded an unusually heavy 122,000 shares on the exchange Tuesday, rising $3.50 to $47.50. After the market close, Shell Oil Company of Canada Ltd. announced plans to offer Canadian Oil shareholders at least $32.50 share in cash and stock.

Mr. Graham said no evidence has been found of a leak of the news before the market close but the exchange wants to look at trading because it was so heavy and the price moved up sharply.

WINS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Film director John P. Frankenheimer must pay his ex-wife $50,000 annual support for the next 10 years under terms of a decree. Mrs. Carolyn Frankenheimer, 33, won the divorce Thursday after testifying her husband had failed to show her any love or affection. The couple's three children support for the couple's two daughters.

East Coast Longshoremen May Walk Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators begin last-ditch efforts today to head off a longshoremen's strike scheduled to begin at midnight Sunday. The walkout would tie up shipping from Maine to Texas and could affect even the luxury liners that ply the Atlantic.

It is a gesture designed to underline its determination, the association Thursday distributed placards saying "no contract—no work." At about the same time, the chief negotiator for the companies said:

"We apparently are headed for another strike, needless and costly paralyzing waterfront strike."

The dispute centres around the size of work gangs. At present, the gangs are made up of 20 men, but the industry wants them split to groups of from eight to 16.

Cuban Masonic Grand Master Has Been Jailed

HAVANA (AP)—The Communist newspaper Hoy says the Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge of Cuba was charged Thursday with being a counter-revolutionary.

The newspaper claims he had direct ties with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

The Grand Master, identified as Jorge Luis Cuervo, and four other men, also charged with Masons, were arrested in the Havana suburb of Miramar, the paper says. It gives no date but private sources said Cuervo was taken into custody last Friday.

Hoy says the group gave economic help to counter-revolutionary bands and tried to bring varying counter - revolutionary groups under one command.

The four other men are identified by Hoy as Humberto Gomez Pena, Juan Pacheco Ruiz, Eduardo Mohamuech Rab, and Gregorio Garcia Buet.

In Miami, meanwhile, the Miami News says the more than 1,100 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners will be released by Premier Fidel Castro within four weeks in exchange for a multi-million-dollar package of food and medicines.

TO SMOKE BILLIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans will smoke 487,500,000,000 cigarettes this year; spending a record $6,850,000,000 for them, the agriculture department predicted today. The consumer outlay for tobacco products was forecast at more than $7,800,000,000.

Across Board Freight Rate Hikes May End

OTTAWA (CP)—The government said Thursday it plans to ask Parliament to pass new transportation legislation aimed at ending across - the - board freight rate increases.

Without giving any details, the speech said that measures will be introduced "to give effect to recommendations of the royal commission on transportation."

"These changes are intended to remove the need for general horizontal freight rate increases which have borne so heavily in the past upon certain areas and groups of producers," it said.

The railways won a series of horizontal rate increases between 1948 and 1958, amounting to more than 140 per cent.

The government also said that previous freight rate subsidies—the $20,000,000 - a - year "roll-back" subsidy first introduced in 1959, plus the $20,000,000 interim assistance paid in 1961—will be extended.

Both these subsidies were left in abeyance when the last Parliament was prorogued on June 18 election.

There was no clue in the throne speech to indicate how far the government plans to move in implementing the far-reaching proposals of the six-man royal commission headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson.

The freight rate proposals of the royal commission were considered the fundamental change needed to free Canada's railways to compete against rival forms of transportation.

The freight rate blueprint called for a new basis for setting for freight rates between which the railways would be free to raise or lower rates for hauls and competition.

Premier A. D. Bennett of British Columbia said Thursday he expects the multi-million dollar international Seaway project to treaty between Canada and the United States will be ratified this year.

Bids on contracts will be called two days after ratification, he told a press conference.

The government also hopes to agree to the terms of the treaty until the federal government agrees to share the cost. Ottawa will pay the share of U.S.-generated power to be lost in the United States.

Mr. Bennett said he would seek no advantage in his approach to negotiations with Ottawa in the speech from the throne at Ottawa.

The speech said long-term export of surplus power on a large scale should not be permitted to impede the expeditious development of major resources too big to be supported solely by domestic demand.

SEES NEED SPUR

Carl A. Pollock, president of the Association, said at Saint John, N.B., the throne speech contained evidence that the federal government recognizes the need for long-term measures to spur Canada's economic growth.

He noted the throne speech indication that the government will strive for a balanced budget. "A balanced budget," he said, "is the only policy acquisite to full restoration of investor confidence. Fiscal policies and policies to this end should have the support of all thoughtful Canadians."

At Ottawa, John Magee, executive director of the Canadian Trucking Associations called the government's plan to extend "fullest encouragement to the role of private enterprise."

He said that today trucking industry was in a "fighting mood" as a result of the government's announcement.

The government was spending $100,000,000 a year on "subsidies that go into the railways' pockets and come out again in the higher freight rates" designed to cut the feet from under private enterprise.

Truckers had the right to expect support from other Canadians and were confident of getting it, he said.

79 Relatives Of Soldiers Visit Graves

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — Seventy-nine relatives of Canadians killed in action in Holland during the Second World War arrived here Thursday at the invitation of the Canadian war graves committee.

The committee has drafted a program to help a few thousand of Canadian next-of-kin to visit Canadian war cemeteries in The Netherlands by chartered aircraft. Expenses will be raised by collections.

The Canadians who arrived Thursday had to pay $150 each for the flight back to Canada. They will be the guests of the Dutch families during their stay here.

Conservatives Emphasizing Long-Range Development Projects in Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Squeezed by financial problems and its minority position in Parliament, the Progressive Conservative government appears to have emphasized long-range development projects in its legislative bill of fare.

But, if Prime Minister Diefenbaker follows his usual practice, there's more to come.

The speech from the throne, opened with varying degrees of criticism from the three opposition leaders whose parties hold the key to the government's continuation in office, contained one cautious hint it has been not to be in too great a hurry for another election.

It held out the carrot of "new budget measures . . . to provide further solutions to long-term problems." Informants predict there will be an early indication when the budget will be introduced with the intention of forestalling any hasty opposition action.

MAY BE NEW

As in past sessions, when Mr. Diefenbaker replies to Liberal Leader Pearson early next week, he may introduce new material.

This could be aimed at making it difficult for Social Credit and the New Democrats to combine with the Liberals against him. And it also might serve to round out with the throne speech an election platform in the event a three-party combination defeats the government and forces an election.

Both minority parties hitherto have given no sign of being eager for a quick election. Social Credit rejected the idea of backing a Liberal non-confidence motion and the New Democrats seemed to be saying let's see what the government plans and let's place the alternatives before the country.

The universal expression of disappointment from Mr. Pearson, Social Credit Leader Thompson and NDP Leader Douglas with the contents of the throne speech revived the question of a possible combination which would oust the government.

WOULD BE EASY, BUT—

But among the harsh words of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Douglas were included these statements:

Mr. Thompson—"If I didn't feel so strongly that an election was wrong at this time it would be easy to precipitate one."

Mr. Douglas—"Once we know what the various measures are, we'll be in a better position to decide how to vote" (on the question of non-confidence).

Great Britain May Be Faced With Full Scale War in Aden

By ALAN WALKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The army quieting in Yemen, the tiny Red Sea protectorate of Britain's vital military base in the Aden protectorate, further complicates a situation standing feud over the Yemen-Aden border.

With the reported assassination of 36-year-old Imam (king) Mohammed Al Badr, a millennium of autocracy in Yemen temporarily at an end, First reports of the revolt were sparse and confused.

Imam Mohammed promised modern reforms for the primitive country of concubines and coffee. He took over from his father, Imam Ahmad, who died last week. He never had the chance to carry them out.

Imam Ahmad's personal image stands out in the Arab countries. There was hardly a detail of administration over which he did not have complete control.

REFORMS MOVE IN

And when it became apparent Imam Mohammad would not follow the ruthless rule of his father, Russia and many leaders seem to have altered their stance.

British observers have recognized the possibility of revolt. Immediately after Imam Ahmad's death the formerly comic-opera questions of the isolated and curious kingdom—concerning mainly the personal appearance and habits of the minhes.

Will Yemen remain nonaligned or will it seek further Communist aid? Although Imam Ahmad had accepted much aid, he had always scorned socialism.

Will border raids on Aden increase?

Official Yemeni policy has always been that Aden is in fact "southern Yemen" and Yemenis make up the bulk of the Aden government population.

Whatever force rises to the top in the current confusion, Yemen probably will turn its attention to Aden, sooner or later.

INDICATE SPOT

British sovereignty in Aden has been maintained by a combination of military might and reliance on provisional agreements with the Yemeni ruler to keep back armed Yemenis. Now that rebellion has broken out within Yemen the British position is even more delicate.

As long as Yemen was ruled by a fiercely proud and superstitious, Britain was reasonably safe against organized attacks on Aden.

Now a military force seems to be emerging. Rebel leaders have called upon tribal chieftains to unite. And Britain may be faced with a full-blown war after years of border skirmishes.

RCN Bonaventure Played Important Part in Drama

HALIFAX (CP) — For 1,200 Canadian Navy personnel the creation of world wonder-weapon early next month is apt to seem anticlimatic to the ocean drama they took part in this week.

The RCN aircraft carrier Bonaventure, Canada's biggest warship, was steaming at a leisurely pace for NATO exercises in the eastern Atlantic when she suddenly became involved in a struggle with wind and sea to help survivors of a downed U.S. plane.

The Albion carrier, which left home port here Sept. 17, was under way for Iceland Sunday night, heading for Rotterdam.

At the same time a Flying Tiger Line Super-Constellation with 76 aboard was struggling to stay aloft over the choppy Atlantic west of Ireland. Within three of its engines feathered, the plane ditched.

Forty-eight of the passengers were rescued by the Swiss freighter, Gelria.

Bonaventure, carrying anti-submarine tracker aircraft and helicopters, swung from her course as the emergency messages crackled over her wireless. Austerity regulations, ordering each ship's commander fuel with as little fall-out steaming as possible, were suspended.

The carrier's engines churned full ahead through Sunday night and Monday morning.

She reached the ditch area 300 miles west of Ireland at noon Monday and launching of the trackers at first light to help in the search. The carrier, with two doctors, a nine-man medical staff and a sick bay similar to a small hospital, went to the scene primarily to treat injured survivors.

Four injured passengers were later transferred from the Celerina by Canadian helicopter in rough weather, with winds up to 30 knots. The "chopper" made 13 extra-trips to Celerina to put aboard medical supplies, clothing and stories. One of the Bonaventure's doctors boarded Celerina to treat other injured passengers.

Although Bonaventure's aircraft stayed in the search for two days, no more survivors were found. She took command of the search finally, running low of fuel she steamed to the coast of Ireland where the four injured and 12 dead were put ashore by helicopter.

Amalgamation Of Police Forces Is Suggested

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of the Ontario Police Commission has suggested a wholesale reorganization of the provincial police forces to make them virtually eliminate small police departments.

Judge Bruce J. S. Macdonald suggested that duties of present municipal police forces be taken over either by the provincial police or by a number of new amalgamated local forces with a minimum strength of 250 men.

The suggestion was made in Metropolitan Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa police chiefs, 200 men, and the Windsor and London forces were close to the 250 mark.

Judge Macdonald suggested that the new system be put into effect strength be attained by mergers of existing municipal forces. But where such mergers were geographically unfeasible, local police forces should be taken over by the provincial police.

The OPC report undoubtedly with violent resistance in some of these municipalities where there is a desire to curb the influence the police in the personal affairs of citizens. The judge said in the report, released Thursday.

OTTAWA (CP)—If you visit the House of Commons you don't know the MPs without a program, keep your eyes on the front bench. That's where most of the action begins.

Here are the leaders and the honored spots—in each party's block of the Commons; seating order is a mark of an MP's standing in the party and gives a good hint to long-service members.

In the new Parliament which opened Thursday there's more particular interest in front rows of the opposition parties.

Eleven new faces appear in the Liberal front: Judy LaMarsh (Niagara Falls), Allan Lefaive (Vancouver South), C. W. Carter (Winnipeg North), George E. Nixon (Algoma East), Hugh Macnaughton (Montreal Mount Royal), J. Roger Teillet (Nipissing), Jean-Eudes Dubé (Restigouche - Madawaska), Paul Hellyer (Toronto Trinity), Walter Gordon (Toronto Davenport), Jean-Jacques Blais (Gaspe-East) and Hazen Argue (Assiniboia).

All of the 30 Social Credit members are new from the last Parliament.

The party's eight front seats are occupied by Leader Robert Thompson (Red Deer), House Leader Real Caouette (Villeneuve), Jean Marcoux (Quebec Montmorency), A. B. Patterson (Fraser Valley), Bert Hicks (Cariboo), R. Andras (Edmonton Mill), Marcel Lessard (Lac St. Jean) and Gerard Perron (Beauce).

The New Democratic Party is also represented in the opposition's 18-member contingent commands only four front seats. It has only eight of these in the last Parliament.

Here's the front men are Harold Winch (Vancouver East) and Douglas Fisher (Port Arthur). They are flanked by two seats is empty, awaiting the possible arrival of Dr. Thomas C. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Mortimer Theophlus Alcyious Murphinski, of Warsaw, Dublin, the Gaza Strip, and a three-time loser at Gowanus High, Brooklyn, is my favorite mailed milk and coffe dispenser.

The name is fictitious to protect the innocent.,

Murph voted "dry" the other day because he figured the gin-dispensing lounges would up the periodical Asplrin-Bufferin stakes to, a daily double and he would be transferred to an opposite counter of his favorite drug emporium.

"But," sighed Murph, "the missus killed the vote. She maintains the A-B business upstairs would be negligible since the gin you get in a lounge frosted glass is not sufficient to raise the hackles on a gnat's withers. Besides, you meet the nicest people. You'd be surprised," Murph said the wife said.

He shook a coffee-stained forefinger under my nose. His hand trembled slightly because Murph is a confirmed, if innocent caffeine addict. The insidious aromas of mailed flavors have warped his mentality to a slight degree. He has three stars tattooed on the top of a bald pate, the brainchild of a Madison Avenue type who represents an instant coffee house.

Murph consented to have it done with an eye to the future. He figured if the city ever became a wallow of alcoholics because of the infiltration of the cocktail dens of iniquity, he could sell his skull advertising to a well known brandy manufacturer.

"You," he strained through a brownish-colored mousiache (he drinks the brand that roasts old coffee beans), "and another alleged sportswriter I know, should feel your wits. With him the result would be one, since two halves made a whole."

Murph bolted another beaker of brown brew. His eyes shone. The caffeine was getting in its nefarious work.

"Morally," he said, "you owe me $125. You have predicted the outcome of 500 sports events since I had my brother decode your columns. I bet a quarter on your crystal-gazing calisthenics, each and every one. So it figures, you owe me $125."

Murph fueled up again and shifted into high.

"You must have been loaded with smorgasbord two of the nights Patterson fought Johansson. You called the Swede. He lost. You called Patterson the first fight. Same result. You've goofed on the Yankees 18 straight times because an old girl friend was related to a Confederate nurse."

"You called Man o' War once to win, because you had a brother in the navy. He lost. You said Hog's Back would win the Preakness. It was scratched. Part of the reason the Canadiens have won so many Stanley Cups is because you don't have a yen for pea soup, and you called the Hawks, Wings or Leafs."

"The year you covered the subway series in N'York you blathered the Dodgers to win because a Flatbush flapper offered to buy you a Brooklyn brew. Wha Hoppen? The Yankees clobbered 'em."

"You've called a Grey Cup winner once since the Stampe won it in 1948. And I'm told that was a typographical error."

Murph went on down the long list of second-guessing goofs. He stroked his moustache and leaned on the counter. "This week you really flipped your crystal ball lid. Patterson, you said, in the fifth or sixth. Brother that one didn't smell, the aroma was much stronger."

Murph paused for a minute or so. Then he looked at me with a funny gleam in his eyes. "Tell you what," he said, "You call this one and I'll forgive the past." I told him I would try.

"What," he asked, "did the city fathers do with the $9,000 or so they levied on the taxpayers with the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, to pay the hockey players back salaries?"

The mental crystal ball was stumped for the moment. Then it came up with this one: "Ask the Seven Nays."

Colts Throw Dodgers, Giants Beaten

Koufax Back In Harness

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

This National League pennant marathon is taking on the look of a race between two tired turtles going uphill.

But if they aren't moving very fast, at least the finish line is in sight.

The pace - setting Dodgers have been backing up. And San Francisco's second-place Giants have been standing still.

The pestiferous Houston Colts applied the latest stopper to the Dodgers with a rallying 8-6 victory Thursday night at Los Angeles. A few hours before, St. Louis Cardinals broke in front with a commanding lead and held on for a 7-4 decision at San Francisco.

That left the Dodgers still two games in front of the Giants and the magic number at two-meaning any combination of Dodger wins and Giant losses totalling two in the remaining three games gives Los Angeles the flag. The two contenders open change partners, with the Cards moving into Los Angeles for the final three games of the season and the Colts going to San Francisco.

Since a string of seven straight victories pushed them four games ahead, the Dodgers have dropped seven of 10. During the same span, the Giants have managed to break no better than even.

BATTER RELIEF STARS.

The Colts took their last series against the league leaders two games to one with Thursday night's come-from-behind triumph. Relieving Dodger relief stars Ed Roebuck, Larry Sherry and Ron Perranoski for six runs in the sixth and seventh innings, Jim Umbricht provided standout relief for Houston.

Gene Oliver and Stan Musial spearheaded the Cards' against the Giants. Oliver warmed up with a double, then smacked a three-run homer that stood up as the clincher, while Musial collected five singles in five tries.

In the NL's only other game, Dennis Bennett fired a five-hitter as the stmling Philadelpia Phils won for the 10th time in their last 14 games, 7-0 over Chicago.

KOUFAX RETURNS

Even in defeat the Dodgers were heartened by the work of Sandy Koufax, their left-handed strikeout specialist who is just rounding into form after a two-month layoff due to circulation trouble in the index finger of his pitching hand. He went five innings before he tried, set down the first 12 Colts in order, struck out four and allowed three hits, including a two-run homer by Roman Mejias in the fifth that made it 2-2.

But the Dodgers' vaunted relief corps failed badly. The Colts hopped on Ed Roebuck and Larry Sherry for four hits and their four runs in the sixth, taking a 6-4 lead, and after Los Angeles rallied for a tie in the bottom of the inning, Houston scrambled ahead again in the seventh against Perranoski.

The Colts did the decisive damage on Carl Warwick's infield hit, and an error by Daryl Spencer, a run single by Al Spangler, a force play and ground out.

Umbricht took over with the bases filled and nose out in the sixth and wound up with his fourth victory in as many decisions. He gave up three hits and a walk, but turned back repeated Dodger threats.

The Cardinals lost little time taking charge against the Giants, rapping Lefty O'Dell for two runs in the first inning on singles by Curt Flood, Musial, Bill White and Charlie James. Oliver's double plus rookie right-hander Ray Washburn's single gave St. Louis another run in the fourth then came the Cards' big fifth climaxed by Oliver's big hit.

Where Was The Coach?

Willie Mays In Pennant Daze?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays took a walk Thursday—the kind of trip a rookie might take in spring training. And, with only three games to play, he apparently took San Francisco's hopes of a National League pennant with him.

This unusual stroll by the hero of the Giants' successful pennant drives in 1951 and 1954 came in the sixth inning Thursday as St. Louis Cardinals whipped San Francisco 7-4.

The defeat, combined with league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers' 8-6 loss to Houston left the Giants two behind the Dodgers, who still need win only two more games to clinch the flag both have three games to play.

St. Louis led 7-0 in the sixth Mays doubled home Matty Alou. Willie went to third on an infield out, the first out of the inning. Orlando Cepeda swung at a third strike for out No. 2 and Mays started to walk across the infield to centre field.

OUT BY A MILE

Catcher Gene Oliver whipped the ball to Ken Boyer and Willie was picked off by a mile. He thought Cepeda was the third out.

The next three hitters, leading off in the seventh instead of continuing the rally in the sixth, produced three runs. Tom Haller walked, Jose Pagan singled and Ed Bailey walloped a three-run pinch home run. But Willie wasn't aboard to score.

Mays had one chance for redemption in the ninth inning with two out and two men aboard. He struck out.

Could 'Reign' For Years

Future Up To Liston

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Sonny Liston looks as if he will have a long reign as world heavyweight boxing champion. Millions of persons with him well. Probably just as many don't.

It is up to Sonny to convert disbelievers by living a righteous, upright life worthy of an athlete holding such a lofty position.

He says he is determined to step fully out of the shadows cast over his past.

After he served a term in the Missouri State Penitentiary he received guidance from two Roman Catholic priests, Rev. Alois Stevens, and Rev. Charles, Dismas Clark. In recent years he has been helped by Rev. Edward P. Murphy, a Denver priest, and Rev. John McGinn of Yuma, Colo.

Foremost in the rehabilitation has been Liston's patiently understanding wife of 12 years, Geraldine.

Through it all Sonny walked in the shadow of gangland characters.

Testimony before Senator Estes Kefauver's Senate subcommittee was that Paul J. (Frankie) Carbo owned 35 per cent of Liston's contract. Carbo is now under a 25-year California prison sentence for extorting money from the earnings of Don Jordan, former welterweight champion.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, according to testimony, had a 12 per cent cut. He now is under a 15-year sentence with Carbo in the Jordan case. Another 12 per cent went to Frank J. Vitale, an associate of gangsters, St. Louis investigators reported.

Thus, 76 per cent of Sonny's earnings were being funneled into unsavory hands. But all the promoters wanted him for fights.

Liston told Kefauver, in effect, that he was a poor, ignorant boy raised on an impoverished Arkansas cotton patch as one of 25 children and that he would be a good citizen. He offered to let the senator pick him a new manager, but that was declined. It later was announced that Sonny had bought out his manager Pep Barone for $75,000 payable over two years.

Liston became the leading heavyweight contender and talk started about a title bout with champion Floyd Patterson. But before such a match could be set up, Sonny, on June 13, 1961, became embroiled in an incident in Philadelphia's Fairmount Park.

He and a companion curbed the car of a 29-year-old woman, driving alone at 3 a.m. The two men surrendered after a park guard had fired a warning shot. They were charged with impersonating an officer, extinguishing auto lights to avoid identification, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and conspiracy.

A police magistrate freed them after they apologized to the woman.

The Patterson fight went to Chicago when the New York Athletic Commission, after a 10-day investigation of Liston's background, outlawed the contest in that state.

Liston and Geraldine now live in a modest home in Philadelphia. His new manager of record is George Katz, a Philadelphia business man with a fine mark as a boxing manager. His advisor is Jack Nilon, president of a catering firm.

Sonny Liston is sincerely backed by true friends. The future is squarely up to him.

Bombers Shoot Down Crippled Als

WINNIPEG (CP)—Playing its close to the west along the Canadian Football League's battered the ailing Montreal Alouettes 31-28 Thursday night in Canadian Football League game before 16,320 fans.

The interlocking game, was expected to be a shoot-out for last the services of linebacker Ron Brewer, who suffered a broken ankle during the bruising contest, and had centre Joe Paradisiba sitting out the second half nursing an injured knee.

Also out already were two players in the reserve, injured list, including dazzling halfback Don Clark and defensive end Don Paquette.

As well as scoring two touchdowns, Montreal fullback George Dixon ran for most of his club's yardage, picking up 101 of a total ground offence of 238 yards in 22 carries.

ON A PASS

Montreal also got a touchdown on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Sonny Stephens to Canadian end Tom Cloutier, three converts from Bobby Jack Oliver and a pair of singles from Vic Chapman.

Winnipeg rallied trailed 7 after the first quarter, got two converts from fullback Roger Hagberg and a touchdown, a field goal, two converts and a single from fullback Gerry James.

Montreal fell behind 22-14 at the half and was still down 25-14 at the end of the third quarter.

Bombers also got a touchdown from all-star defensive end Herbie Gray, who picked up a pass from Stephens on the Winnipeg 35-yard line and scampered home.

SLOCKS TRIES

James had a tough day trying for converts as Montreal defensive tackle Ed Nickla blocked four tries.

Norm Rauhaus got even for being replaced as Chapman's punt on the Montreal 32-yard line and recovering it on the 15, setting up James' single on a missed field goal attempt from the Winnipeg 40.

Two other unusual plays enlivened the action, one when Montreal's Stephens caught his own punt on the Winnipeg 50 and carried it downfield before he was called for illegal offensive interference and had to give up the ball.

Urge Boxing Outlawed In State

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York legislative committee will recommend that professional boxing be outlawed in this state, the New York Post says.

The newspaper says the probe will be made from one of the state's top legislators who headed members of a joint legislative committee which is investigating the sport. The legislator, unnamed, is quoted as saying the committee's majority thinks professional boxing is beyond reform.

The committee was organized after the death of Benny (Kid) Paret last March as the result of ring injuries.

Also the reason for the majority's feelings, the Post says, was the criminal background of Sonny Liston, who won the heavyweight championship from Floyd Patterson Tuesday in Chicago.

The boxing commission has refused to license Liston to box in New York because he was in jail twice and has been arrested 19 times, on charges which included armed robbery.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—The four-year-old filly Golden Turkey finally came out a New Woodbine Thursday after 12 straight losers.

Golden Turkey managed only a pair of place finishes in her previous starts, however, winning only $1,500.

Jockey Marcel Bolin took the filly to the top from the gate in the mile and 70 yards And-over Purse and had no trouble keeping her there. Paidrag raced three and a half lengths back at the wire, with Queen another eight lengths behind.

Booster Club Said Interested

'Macs' Again Defer Entry

Ottawa Tiger-Cats Saturday

OTTAWA (CP)—Any thoughts that Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be a pushover now that quarterback Bernie Faloney is out-of action are not shared by Ottawa coach Frank Clair.

The Rough Riders meet Tiger-Cats here Saturday in a game that will have a great bearing on the hopes each club has of finishing first in the Eastern Football Conference this season.

Hamilton now is on top with 21 points. Riders have eight. After Saturday's game, both teams will have five more to play.

"If we can stop them Saturday, then we'll be only one point off the top and in a position to make a run for the playoff berth that goes to the leading team," Clair said Thursday.

"We don't have Faloney, but we have a good replacement in Jerry Keeling and he's good for a damaged knee," added.

Jim "Spike" Matthews attended the meeting, representing the Belleville Booster Club, and said that there was a possibility that that organization might back a city club if Montreal did not sponsor this season.

"We would need more time, however, before making such an announcement," Matthews said.

"There are only about five or six of last year's players eligible for junior this year. If the Macs do not operate as such, we would have to find out if the powers that be" would be willing to supply us with a few import players, and maybe some other players from the Booster Club representative ranks included.

The "powers that be" would be the Chicago Black Hawks and the "other assistance" would be of the financial type, it was suspected.

While the Kingston contingent of Fred Harkness and Danny McLeod did not say so in as many words, it was learned following the meeting that Kingston would likely withdraw from the grouping if Belleville did not have a team. It is unlikely that the other players on the Kingston roster would be willing to compete in a grouping consisting of five "junior C" clubs and only two "B" teams.

Although all eight clubs are in the loop, the same 22-game schedule as last season will be used, opening the week of November 12 when Peterborough visits Kingston.

Other meeting dates would have Trenton at Picton and Napanee at Gananoque on Thursday, November 16, Kingston at Belleville and Picton at Cobourg on Monday, Trenton at Cobourg at Trenton on Sunday, the 18th, and then Belleville and Peterborough and Gananoque at Napanee on Monday, November 19.

Trenton will again play Sunday afternoon games with Belleville at 3.30 and if Belleville has an entry, it will play Monday night at the same time. All other games will commence at 8.30 p.m.

A complete schedule will be drawn up and sent to the clubs shortly. The meeting agreed on one week to check and ask for revisions before the schedule is adopted as final.

Belleville business included the appointment of Mr. Howard Webster, of Napanee, as the group convener. He will be assisted by Jack Devine and Lorne Cook, of Kingston.

It was announced that the referees' school in this district will be held "on ice" this fall, rather than in a meeting room. It will be held as soon as ice is available in the Belleville Arena, likely around the middle of October, and all area officials are urged to attend.

Sawchuk Sold on Face Mask

EDMONTON (CP) — Terry Sawchuk, an 11-year veteran netminder with the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings, says he'll sold on the use of a face mask.

He used a mask developed by Jacques Plante in an exhibition game here Wednesday night. After the game he said in an interview:

"I'm sold on the masks now, except that I am going to make a switch or two in the one I wear. I'm going to use one that has a little ventilation.

"I don't know what it is really, but I feel I am playing better with a mask.

"Maybe it's the extra confidence that it gives me."

Firemen, Utilities Tie Series

The Firemen finally tied their City Interdepartmental softball league finals with Belleville Utilities last night, looping the F.U.C. squad 7-5 at the CNRA Park.

The victory tied their three-of-five series at one game apiece. Utilities won the series opener and since then the clubs have played two ties.

The next game will be played at the CNRA Park at five o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Tigers Get New Manager

DETROIT (AP)—Jim Campbell, young and aggressive, jumped into his new job as Detroit Tigers' general manager by making no pennant promises.

Improvement of a fifth-place team that had been expected to challenge New York Yankees for the 1962 American League championship is the first step, Campbell said.

The 36-year-old veteran baseball executive Thursday assumed the general manager's duties performed the last two seasons of vice-president Rick Ferrell. Campbell has been a club vice-president himself since 1956 and was placed in charge of the Tigers' minor league operations in 1960. Ferrell was retained in a new capacity as player evaluator.

Colonels Defeat Crackers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Loolis, ville Colonels took advantage of Atlanta errors and handed the Crackers a 3-1 defeat Thursday night in the Junior World Series.

The Colonel victory tied the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

A two-run splurge in the ninth inning spelled victory for the Louisville club.

Fred Oliva went the distance for Louisville, allowing the Crackers only three hits. Reliever Ed Bauta was the loser.

Grey Cup Telecast

Networks Fail To Agree

TORONTO (CP) — The presidents of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the independent CTV television network met here this week in a series of meetings on "the problems of the 1962 Grey Cup telecast," as well as football coverage generally."

A joint press release Thursday night by the two networks said that no definite agreement could be reached at these meetings between Alphonse Ouimet of the CBC and CTV's Spencer Caldwell, but "the sessions had been friendly and productive ones," and talks would continue.

The latest negotiations in the protracted dispute f ollow an Aug. 18 hearing by the Board of Broadcast Governors. The publicly-owned CBC and the private network presented their views on a BBG proposal to require every Canadian Television station to carry the eight-hour CTV's announced production of the East-West final.

No ruling was handed down by the BBG which left it to the two parties to attempt to reach a settlement by private negotiations.

The CTV network has paid $175,000 for the TV rights to the Grey Cup game. It matched the CBC bid to the Canadian Football League for exclusive rights to the game after the CTV turned down a $125,000 CBC offer for non-exclusive rights.

The Aug. 18 BBG hearing in Ottawa the CBC told the commission it said this would help CTV "feed" of the game with the private network's sponsorship because it said this would make the public system a "sales tool" of private interest.

Mr. Caldwell told the Ottawa hearing he could not understand why the CBC would not take the game with commercials from sponsors the CBC had been dealing with for years. He said the CBC's acceptance would give country-wide coverage—plus a CBC revenue of $41,000.

CFL Scoring Leaders

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg fullback Gerry James unseated Tommy - Joe Coffey from the top of the Western Football Conference scoring race with a 12-point outburst Thursday night.

James, a place-kicking specialist, had played second fiddle to the Edmonton end since the early part of the season. New totals give James 87 points to Coffey's 83.

James scored a touchdown Thursday and kicked a field goal, two converts and a single on a missed field goal in the 31-23 Winnipeg victory over Montreal Alouettes.

REVISE LAW

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—The National assembly passed a bill Thursday providing for detention of persons without trial. A Negro member, Francis Masanje, charged that this "is no longer a democracy, but a dictatorship." Home Affairs Minister Oscar Kambona said the measure will be used only against "those few elements" who seek to overthrow the government by force.

The Trots

OTTAWA (CP)—Bennie Boy, a three-year-old chestnut gelding, led a field of 11 horses Thursday night to win the feature Frontenac County Pace at Rideau Carleton Raceway.

Owned by J. C. Cameron Farms, Smiths Falls, Ont., Bennie Boy covered the mile in 2:06 3-5 to finish half a length ahead of the favorite Dr. Pride C. Henry's Allen was third.

The winner paid $32.40, $7.70 and $3.80.

This new 1963 Philips TV will still be entertaining by the time they are (Monitron Control is the reason why)

It will be a long time before they're old enough to entertain on their own. And when that day comes, the chances are that your Philips MONITRON Control TV set will still be entertaining you. How can we offer you this dependable service? Because of a new TV discovery.

Philips electronic experts decided to do something about a common household fault that often results in premature failure of the picture tube and other expensive TV parts. This common fault is power surge. To lick this problem, our experts developed the MONITRON, a small but incredibly sensitive electronic device which prevents these power surges reaching and damaging the expensive parts of your Philips set. Because of this added protection Philips has forgotten its picture tube worryaway in 2 full years.

Your nearby Philips dealer will be glad to show you Philips MONITRON Control TV . . . and you'll be glad to meet him. We picked him for his courtesy, his integrity, his ability, and his willingness to provide responsible "Follow-Through" service. See your Philips dealer today.

NHL Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A little needling from general manager-coach Muzz Patrick of New York Rangers may have paid off in terms of improved scoring punch by the National Hockey League club.

Patrick, disappointed at Rangers' 3-2 performance against Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday, said after the game the club would have to get Bert Olmstead.

"I know he can help us even from the bench. I can't get mad enough myself to fire up some of these guys but I think Olmstead could do the job."

But Rangers' chances of persuading Olmstead to play with them this season seem awfully slim.

Olmstead spent most of a day recently at the club's Vancouver training camp listening to similar pleas from Patrick. But he returned to his Scepter, Sask., home insistent that he couldn't help the team that paid $20,000 to draft him from Leafs last June.

SEALS LED

Thursday night, Patrick's complaints about the club's lackadaisical attitude seemed painfully accurate. Going into the third period of an exhibition game at New Westminster, B.C. the New Yorkers found themselves down 3-1 to San Francisco Seals of the Western League.

Only whatever the words were that Patrick used during the second intermission, they paid off, Nick Mickoski got Rangers' first goal early in the third period and Vic Hadfield put New York in front 3-2 before the two-minute mark and by the game's end the Rangers were ahead 6-3.

In other games on the pre-season exhibition trail three NHL clubs scored easy wins over minor-league clubs and a fourth settled for a tie.

The tie was between Montreal Canadiens and Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional League. The game, played in a new arena at Le Pupuis, Que., ended in a 3-3 deadlock.

At Hamilton, Chicago Black Hawks breezed in their sixth straight exhibition victory, trimming Springfield Indians of the American League 7-1.

Boston Bruins, playing at Peterborough, defeated Rochester Americans of the AHL 5-3. Cliff Pennington led the Bruins with three goals.

And at Saskatoon, right winger Metro Prystai collected four points in leading Detroit Red Wings to a 6-2 win over Los Angeles Blades of the WHL before 5,200 fans. He scored once and assisted three times.

It Sure Was Busy Night In TV's Obstetrical Wards

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It sure was a busy night in television's obstetrical wards.

Dr. Kildare, starting his new season on NBC, was having his troubles with a patient soon to experience motherhood. Two nurses, a couple of chemists busy on CBS, were handling everything from births and deaths to emotional problems with only occasional assists from the doctors.

I started with The Nurses, a new series obviously inspired by the successful doctor stories. The opening show concentrated on hectic events during one busy night in the maternity ward manned primarily by feisty, kindly head nurse Thorpe, and ideal girl, dedicated student nurse Lucas (Shirl Conway and Elma Beftman).

It will be an interesting series—if you aren't getting a little weary of stethoscopes, quieting room scenes, intimate clinical descriptions and medical jargon.

A number of variety shows, which lean heavily on big, important short business seems to be to brighten up their weekly hours with guest appearances, are running into logical but unexpected guest-star problems. At its base, the problem lies in television's growing pains in having a large number of sponsors participating in underwriting one show.

Some programs have as many as 30 non-competitive products advertised on a single series. Therefore, when one television star with a show of his own is wanted as a guest star on somebody else's show, it soon becomes an impossibility because of a conflict—sometimes a multiple conflict—of sponsors.

Recommended Viewing:

Tonight — Tex Dickens and His Fenster, premiere, ABC, 9:30-10 EDT—new broad comedy series about a pair of carpenters;

Returning with their shows, Close-Up, ABC, 7:30-8:30; Sing Along With Mitch, NBC, 8:30-9:30.

Saturday; — The Jackie Gleason Show, premiere, CBS, 7:30-8:30 p.m.—Gleason's return with Jackie returning with many of his old characters;

Sunday — Jack Webb Show, premiere, CBS, 9:30-10 p.m.—New anthology series based on true adventure tales;

Voice of Firestone, premiere, ABC, 10-10:30 — musical hour with Cesare Siepi, Rise Stevens and Mischa Elman.

MA JOHN MAJORS

VANCOUVER (CP) — At Leader presidents of the Western Hockey League, said Thursday the WHL will probably declare itself a major league as soon as there are sufficient arenas that seat 12,000 or more fans.

He said in an interview that Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco already have sufficient seating and Seattle will have next season. There was talk of new buildings at Edmonton, San Diego and Oakland.

Quinte Wins Over Moira, BCI Beaten

Quinte Secondary School swept junior and senior doubleheader from its Moira Secondary opponents yesterday afternoon in Bay of Quinte COSSA football action.

The Quinte juniors blanked Moira 19-0, while in the senior game Quinte broke a 13-13 third-quarter deadlock to chalk up a 32-13 victory.

Major scorers for Quinte in the junior contest were: John Beach and Don Embury, with a touchdown apiece.

Les Hall started for Quinte in the senior battle, scoring three majors. Ted Butcher and Wilmar Matthews added one touchdown apiece.

Moira majors were counted by Bill Moffatt and Dave Glenn.

Meanwhile, in Picton, the SCIYS dropped a 21-13 decision to the Prince Edward Collegiate seniors.

Here's That Oath Again

Brundage Broom Ready

CHICAGO (AP)—Avery Brundage, lifelong crusader for amateurism in sports, is 72 years old today and embarked on a new battle to keep the Olympic Games pure.

The International Olympic Committee president could pass for a man 15 or 20 years younger as he went about his strength to enforce the new Olympic rule which bans athletes who receive college scholarships as well as those supported by governments as has been charged against Soviet Russia.

Brundage was first elected IOC president at Helsinki in 1952 for an eight-year term, and then re-elected for a four-year term which will expire when the 1956 Games are held in Tokyo.

He feels as strongly as ever that an amateur must be uncontaminated.

Rigid application of the new rules could lift both the American and Russian Olympic teams. Enforcement in both cases well be up to the national Olympic committees and the amateur governing bodies, which in the case of the United States is the Amateur Athletic Union.

Brundage faces probably the toughest fight of his life to make the new rule stick. He's not afraid, however. As a wealthy man, the Olympic czar has spent most of life. He draws no salary and even pays his own expenses to and from international meetings.

Oscar Winner Schell Wants New Way to Make Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No man for false modesty, Oscar winner Maximilian Schell doesn't hesitate to take Humphrey Bogart's theory about acting awards:

The only way to really judge the best acting is to let each contender tackle the same role, say Hamlet.

If such ground rules are ever adopted by the Motion Picture Academy—and I doubt it the stodgy group will ever be so progressive—Schell is ready. He has already done his Hamlet.

He did it two years ago for German television and is here now to dub it into English for showing at the San Francisco film festival in September. Later it will get an art-house release throughout the country.

Schell passed during a dubbing session to discuss the Oscars and how he felt. He admitted that it has helped him financially—"the offers are better, though I haven't accepted any of them yet."

Schell won the golden nude last April for his role as the defender of Nazi war criminals in Judgment at Nuremberg. He claims it was the result of "a lucky constellation."

"Luck plays such a great part in acting," he said, "I was lucky that Burt Lancaster wasn't nominated this year, and Elmer Gantry, or he would have won.

"I was lucky that Stanley Kramer (the director) threw everything into the film, otherwise shots that ordinarily would not have been used. I did a better job in another film, but because the director kept cutting away from me, it wasn't appreciated."

I asked Schell how Judgment at Nuremberg fared in Germany.

"Oddly enough, it was the only country in which the picture did not make money," he said, "although I understand it did better business after I received the award.

"Why didn't it go well in Germany? I suppose because German people don't like to be told by Americans that they had done wrong. It would be the same reaction if I were a film of the Germans were to make a movie about Little Rock."

AT THE PARK — Pretty newcomer Cathy Furlong, as a fair astronaut, in a scene from "Assignment — Outer Space", a Rik Von Nutter release in Technicolor, now at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Dam on the Yellow River", in Technicolor, starring Anita Ekberg and George Marshall. Extra on this same program Floyd Patterson vs. Sonny Liston Fight Pictures. MAJOR STYLING CHANGES IN 1963 PLYMOUTH

The 1963 Plymouth from Chrysler of Canada has a new styling appeal. The new Plymouth is longer, with the added length giving to the rear deck and providing for a larger, more-accessible trunk compartment. Extensive front and rear styling changes are evident in the 1963 Plymouth, which has a full unitized body made more durable by additional corrosion protection, stronger structures and tighter sealing.

The alternator replaces the generator as standard equipment. The principal components of the engine to rear axle power-train on all 1963 Chrysler products are now backed by a 5-year-50,000 mile warranty.

Sunday School Lesson

Prophet From the Desert

By ROY L. SMITH

At the opening of this series of lessons we meet up with one of the most interesting characters of the New Testament, and at the same time with one who, in spite of his influence, has been given far less study than he deserves.

Twenty years ago this writer undertook to produce a biography of John the Baptist, and in doing so he read every book on the subject of John that had been produced/in the English language through a period of 80 years. There were only six of them!

Jesus and John lived and labored during the identical years, with the exception of the last that John seems to have begun his ministry sometime previous to Jesus' appearance at the fords of the Jordan for baptism. And John suffered martyrdom at the hands of Herod the Tetrarch about two years previous to Jesus' crucifixion.

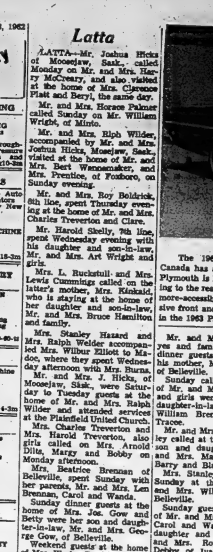
According to Luke's report of John, the two men were first cousins. Because of the fact that his parents were along in years at the time of his birth, it seems to have been the case that they died while their son John was 15 years of age. As the son of a priest John might have claimed an inherited right to membership in the priestly class, and have enjoyed economic security for the rest of his life. Instead he abdicated his advantages, fled to the desert and grew up in the midst of the wilds.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 30: "JOHN REVEALS THE CHRIST." Luke 1:5-25, 57-80; 3:1-20; Mark 6:14-29.

There is some reason, at this late date, to believe that as one time a novitiate at the Essene monastery which he later played such a conspicuous part in connection with the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Certainly some of the things he is reported to have preached, and some of his life habits, are remarkably similar to the routines of the Essenes.

About the time that John appeared, preaching his doctrine of the kingdom of God, there was a lively hope throughout the world that the "end of the age" was approaching.

Throughout the world there was a widespread belief that a cataclysmic change was about to overtake the whole world. The doctrine of the end of the age was stated by religions of all kinds, though the various faiths interpreted the doctrine differently.



Among the Jews the doctrine took on a form somewhat similar to the doctrine as it appeared at the time of Amos (750 B.C.). At that time it was believed that the end of the age was to be signalized by a wholesale revenge to be visited upon all of the enemies of Israel, but Amos warned the nation, saying that Israel was in fact that John seems to have begun his ministry sometime previous to Jesus' appearance at the fords of the Jordan for baptism. And John suffered martyrdom at the hands of Herod the Tetrarch about two years previous to Jesus' crucifixion.

Astrological Forecast

For September 22

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Control impulse to enter into senseless dispute. Be calm, objective. Otherwise, you waste effort, energy. Tonight fine for enjoying friends, and meeting new persons.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) What could be and what actually exists may be two different things. Face facts. Resolve that future actions will be based on reality.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Favorable lunar aspect today indicates possibility for revitalizing existence. Keep mind open for acceptance of new experiences. Follow through on challenges.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) —Greatest asset today is ability to create excitement, adventure. Otherwise, you feel bogged down by routine. In plain words, help yourself by making use of imagination. Give yourself a boost!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Perceive beauty all around you. Be willing to appreciate the best. But see that others do not try to take advantage of your good nature.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Avoid becoming depressed simply because every "break" does not fall your way. You might sees you coming up with vital, money-making ideas. Express yourself.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)— Be generous in attitude toward those who do not share your views. Much depends on your ability to maintain confidence in skeptics. Your actions, statements should ring with sincerity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —Might take some re-evaluating in connection with previous ideas. Be willing to discard "old-fashioned" concepts. Best course is one which leads to pioneering efforts. Be original.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Tendency toward impatience should be checked. Take time to utilise knowledge gained from recent experience. Casual conversation tonight could steer you on "right dirt."

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Otherwise, valuable promises, allies could lose confidence. Like Gemini [illegible] persons, experiences. You gain now through added knowledge.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Favorable lunar aspect today indicates clear viewpoint, long-range prospects. Depend on your own knowledge. Express confidence. Avoid those who claim to have all the answers.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Be receptive to changing attitudes. Being obstinate could prove costly. Evening excellent for entertainment relaxation. Pay heed to friend who explains complicated problem.

• • • •

If Today is Your Birthday — - - You possess intuitive knowledge of what persons, situations actually represent. You are seldom fooled by mob psychology.

• • • •

General Tendencies — Cycle remains up for Virgo, Libra, Scorpio. Reexamined methods appear doomed to failure.

Northern Tip of Nfld. Island Scene of North America's Earliest White Settlement

By JACK PICKETTS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Fragmentary relics of community life, with sagas of the ancient Vikings to colonize the northern tip of Newfoundland island as the scene of North America's earliest white settlement, says a Newfoundland archaeologist.

Dr. Ian Whitaker of Memorial University here says it is almost a sure bet that the first Europeans—the Vikings of Leif Ericson — tried to colonize at what now is L'Anse aux Meadows, uninhabited and remote.

Dr. Whitaker, recently returned from the site of excavations being made by a Norwegian couple, says he is "95 per cent sure" the find is a Viking settlement. It may predate Columbus by 400 years.

"It's the most important archeological find in North America, at least from a sentimental viewpoint."

If Dr. Whitaker and other scientists are correct, then L'Anse aux Meadows could have been the birthplace of America's first white child and the scene of the first killing of a white by natives.

For two summers, expeditions have been exploring the area. Dr. Helge Ingstad, head of one group, has reported he is certain the seafaring Vikings inhabited the region.

Its geographical features fit those described in the written sagas of the Norsemen. Dr. Whitaker says seven references "fit distinctly," including a description of Belle Isle, which can be seen from the site on the strait of that name.

The eighth does not. The sagas say that when the Vikings landed, they pulled their boats up a creek into a lake. The lake is there, but the scientists think it too far upstream.

Dr. Whitaker suggests that in Viking days — about the year 1,000—there may have been a sand bar across the bottom of the inlet over which the boats were pulled.

The excavations being made by Dr. Ingstad, a Bergen lawyer who found the spot, and his archeologist wife Anne have uncovered the remains of houses with characteristics of the Viking settlements in Greenland homes. Anals years 600 and 1060.

Use of driftwood, Dr. Whitaker says, might account for the variations in age.

This year, the scientists turned up what they take for a smithy — pit containing several hundred small pieces of metal and a big stone that appeared to have been used as an anvil.

A nearby bog points to the smithy being Viking. In it are small balls of a crude natural iron. The Vikings knew a process for smelting it.

But nothing has been found that is exclusively Viking, Dr. Whitaker says. There is a remote possibility that the Beothic Indians may have had a settlement there. But nothing is known of the building standards of the extinct Beothics.

Then, the site probably was scavenged by Eskimos after any settlers left, a common Arctic practice.

There were three Viking attempts at settlement, according to the sagas. First came Leif who stayed only a winter. He named the territory Vinland, a settler - attracting device used by his father Eric in frontier Greenland.

Next year, Leif's two brothers went to Vinland. One was killed by natives and buried on a high promontory overlooking the sea before the expedition sailed home. No remains have been found.

A few years later, the third settlement was started. The wife of the slain man, now married to another settler, gave birth to Snorri, reputedly the white baby. Nothing more was heard of him.

Dr. Whitaker, a sociologist with training in anthropology, took part in the excavations as a representative of the Newfoundland government after the Memorial University was asked by the government to form a commission for all historic finds in the province.

The university now has recommended to the government that a permanent board of trustees or guardians be set up for L'Anse aux Meadows.

It's a "very exciting place," Dr. Whitaker said, "but it would be disappointing to visit unless you have the type of from the few traces left."

VIKING ROUTES

Excavations at the northern Newfoundland settlement of L'Anse aux Meadows have uncovered what could be traces of an early Viking settlement. If true, it would be North America's earliest white settlement. Map shows assumed routes of Viking explorations from bases in Europe and Greenland and indicates easy access to L'Anse aux Meadows.. Many Motions, Bills Placed Before House

Nearly All Holdovers From Last Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—An innocent-looking document entitled "Votes and proceedings of the House of Commons of Canada, No. 1" made its first appearance of the 25th Parliament Friday.

The 57-page booklet, however, contains enough material to keep the Commons in session for a year provided an election doesn't intervene.

The document's contents include government bills — 19 pieces of government legislation, notice of 46 bills proposed by private members, 27 written questions by MPs, three requests for production of papers, and 43 resolutions by private members seeking Commons approval of various suggestions ranging from a national flag to parking meter rates at Montreal International Airport.

Nearly all of the government legislation is a holdover from the last Parliament which was dissolved in April for the June 18 election before it could deal with it. Besides this, all the tax changes proposed in last April's budget are repeated in "votes and proceedings." They hadn't been dealt with, either.

DEPEND ON GOVERNMENT

Whether the Commons will get through all this business, or how much beyond the government still has lots more in the wings—depends on how long the minority government lasts.

The country should have a better idea next week of the government's position. Opposition Leader Pearson will move non-confidence in the government Monday and there will be a vote Thursday night.

So far nobody did things along Friday in the Commons, save to thank the Progressive Conservatives still had their huge majority of the last Parliament.

First, there was the daily question period in which the ministry replies to—or fends off—opposition queries for information.

Immigration Minister Bell informed Stanley Haidasz (Lib., Toronto Parkdale) that the government will consider "possible changes" in regulations to admit 100 Chinese refugee families from Hong Kong after all the 100 have reached Canada at the end of November.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION

Justice Minister Fleming rejected the idea of dispersing Chinese Communist sympathizers like the 68 Sons of Freedom members now in a British Columbia prison.

If they were split up among other penitentiaries across Canada, they'd lead to "explosive trouble," Mr. Fleming said. He added jailed members of the sect are "unlike ordinary prisoners."

They "have already engaged in activities with attempted arson, refusal to eat and refusal to co-operate in order to conform with the routines" of the prison.

Mr. Fleming's statement was in reply to the public criticism by Tom Berger, Attorney-General Bonner of the British Columbia government's policy of building a federal penitentiary at Agassiz solely for the Freedomites.

DECLINES TRIVIALITIES

Speaker Marcel Lambert indicated he will come down hard on trivial questions during the question period. Only questions of urgent national interest are supposed to be asked at this time. Other questions can be submitted in writing.

ALONZO BOYD MAY BE PAROLED ON WEDNESDAY

Bank Robber Given Life Term

TORONTO (CP)—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, 48, sentenced in 1952 to life imprisonment, will be paroled from Kingston penitentiary Warden Victor Richmond said Friday night he did not know whether the report was true.

In Ottawa, officials connected with parole matters said they had no knowledge of the report and added that it is against the parole board's policy to announce its decisions. The officials are Parole Board Chairman George Street, Board Secretary Dorothy Gilchrist and Pen-

Cold Weather, Heavy Rain In Province

TORONTO (CP) — Northeast winds brought cold weather and heavy rain to southern Ontario Friday and delayed shipping on Lake Ontario.

Toronto had a high temperature of 47 degrees Friday for the coldest Sept. 28 on record. The previous record was 51 degrees in 1912.

The rain cut visibility on Lake Ontario to almost zero and brought shipping in Toronto harbor to a halt.

Near Rochester N.Y., a tug sprang a leak in the the storm and was reported from a point she was towing when the two-line parted.

The vessels drifted about 30 miles apart before being rescued by a 36-foot lifeboat sent out by the United States Coast Guard took the two crewmen off the barge.

GOES TO AID TUG

A Norwegian freighter, the Blatsberg, went to the aid of the tug, Russell, 20, and escorted her toward Cape Vincent, N.Y. At last report the two ships were nearing the cape, across the St. Lawrence River from Kingston, Ont.

No injuries were reported to the barge crew or the four-member crew aboard the tug.

About 1½ inches of rain fell on Toronto during the day, and other southern Ontario centres also reported heavy rains. Winds averaged 25 to 30 m.p.h., with gusts to 40 m.p.h.

In the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence River the wind caused six-foot waves and the water level dropped about a foot. The U.S. weather office said this was due to the north-east wind pushing the water towards Lake Ontario, against the natural flow.

Tour liners' cancelled their boat cruises and private owners were warned against taking their craft out.

Montreal Judge's Anger Raised By Extortion From Shop-Lifter

MONTREAL (CP) — Chief Magistrate Frederic Fauteux of municipal court threatened Friday to prosecute store managers who persecute shoplifters.

He was judging the case of a 21-year-old mother who pleaded guilty to stealing $6 worth of children's clothing from Kiddy City, Inc.

The woman testified that the manager of the store told her he would let her go free if she paid $20 over and above the cost of the stolen articles.

She said she was deserted since her husband's desertion months previously and she needed work clothing for her three-year-old son.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

FRIDAY, Sept. 28, 1962

The first question period of the new Parliament passed without the political fireworks some observers had expected.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Canada has no control over flight Canadian - owned ships of British registry which are carrying Russian goods to Cuba.

Immigration Minister Bell said acceptance of 100 Chinese refugee families from Hong Kong should be completed by the end of November.

Mr. Diefenbaker tabled the third and final volume of the report of the royal commission on transportation.

Gordon Chaplin (PC — Waterloo South) moved, and Clement Vincent PC — Nicolet - Yamaska) seconded the address in reply to the speech, from the throne.

MONDAY, Oct. 1

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to open the eight-day throne speech debate. The Senate is adjourned until Tuesday night.

CHARGE MURDER

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—A charge of capital murder was laid Friday against two prisoners of the federal penitentiary here in the death of a third prisoner. Cecil John Lavallee, 26, of Winnipeg and Gerald William Hayes, 30, of Edmonton were charged with the stabbing death of Malcolm McConville, 30, of Calgary.

Feeley and McDermott Labelled "Rats" at Inquiry

TORONTO (CP)—The air was foggier than ever with accusations and denials today as Ontario's royal commission on crime came another week closer to the time when it decides who's lying and who's telling the truth.

For scores of allegations, there were equally long strings of denials during the week. Sometimes, the denials came before the allegations. Memory lapses continued.

Apart from repeat orders of the standing mute course of reported police corruption, there was a side dish of old arson.

A prospective key witness said goodbye to his wife and vanished. There was a report that another gambler, long missing and believed murdered, had been seen alive, but it was foggy, too.

The Mafia was in and out of the testimony. The commission heard of big-money crapshoot-and-gamblers' double cross. Bosses Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley were labelled "rats."

Solid businessmen denied Mafia and McDermott-Feeley connections, some involving stag-story protection against use of their evidence against a partner, and some not. The name of another politician went into the record.

The latter was the late William L. Houck, longtime Niagara Falls Liberal political figure, who was revealed Friday as a local finance company mi-

Impending Trouble, Perhaps Violence, Looms at Ole Miss

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Clouds of impending trouble —perhaps violence — over enrolment of Negro James H. Meredith in all-white University of Mississippi piled up over the Sectron today at Memphis and New Orleans.

The New Orleans Lieutenant-Governor Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi has been ordered by the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to appear and show cause why he should not be held in contempt for defying Meredith's third try at registration.

The lieutenant - governor has not said if he will honor the summons.

Governor Ross Barnett ignored a similar summons Friday. The eight - judge court found him guilty of civil contempt and demanded he purge himself by 11 a.m. CST (1 p.m. EDT) Tuesday.

If he doesn't, the governor-barring "son of the state's head-on thrust against integration—faces a $10,000 daily fine and arrest. He would be held in custody of the U.S. attorney-general.

United Nations Operation In Congo May End in Spring

OTTAWA (CP) — There's a good chance the United Nations operation in The Congo will be wound up by next spring, informed sources said Friday.

This would mean return to Canada of some 300 Canadian soldiers and airmen serving with the UN force. The Canadians handle communications for the force throughout The Congo and run the air operations.

Main impetus for conclusion of the Congo undertaking, begun in 1960, is imminent bankruptcy. Costs are running at $10,000,000 a month and many UN members, notably the Soviet Union, refuse to assume any part of them.

Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant is determined to wind up the Congo operation by the time this temporary term of office expires next April. He doesn't want to preside over a bankrupt organization if he becomes permanent secretary-general. He holds a high card because most UN members are supporting him for a full five-year term.

Negotiations aimed at integration of breakaway Katanga province with the rest of The Congo now are going on. Informants said progress, though

FBI ARRESTS U.S. SAILOR ON SPY CHARGE

Two UN Russians Held, Allowed to Go

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI trailed an American sailor to Westchester County Friday night and arrested him on charges of passing naval secrets to officials of the Russian delegation to the United Nations.

The sailor, seized in his car outside a diner on the Boston Post Road, Larchmont, N.Y., was sitting with a Soviet UN delegation member. A second Russian was inside the diner at the time, the FBI said.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover identified the American as Yeoman First Class Nelson Cornelius Drummond, 39 - year - old Negro, assigned to the U.S. Navy base at Newport, R.I. Drummond is a native of Baltimore, Md.

Drummond, in handcuffs, and the two Russians were taken to FBI headquarters in Manhattan early today. Arraigned later before U.S. Commissioner Earle Hall, Drummond was held in $100,000 bail and taken to the Tombs' House of Detention.

FREE RUSSIANS

The Russians were released by the FBI under their diplomatic immunity after they were identified at FBI offices by three other Soviet diplomats. The FBI said the two Russians had not been questioned.

Hoover said Drummond, a 16-year navy veteran, had been under close observation since his navy duty in London, England, in 1958. In 1959, he was reassigned to the United States.

Drummond, the FBI chief said, was specially charged with travelling to New York Aug. 13 and 14. After the trips, he classified documents and a miniature camera were found secreted in the trunk of Drummond's car, Hoover said.

The camera, the FBI said, was bought by a Soviet UN employee in New York last February.

FOLLOW SAILOR

The FBI said Drummond was closely followed by diner in a car occupied by Evgeni A. Proskurin, 31, a second secretary, and Yuri A. Pavlov, 29, a third secretary of the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

Vyrodov entered the diner while Prokhorov parked the Russians' car. A search of the Drummond's auto, Prokhorov and Pavlov's automobile and the Drummond car, the FBI said, adding that Drummond was arrested, agents found—and seized—a packet between himself and Prokhorov — eight classified naval documents.

Drummond, in addition to his naval duties, had been purchased a bar and grill in Newport, the FBI said, adding that on several occasions Mrs. Drummond travelled to New York City and Drummond flew to Newport. He returned by car, turned with large sums of money.

If convicted of espionage Drummond could be sentenced to death or life imprisonment.

First Canadian Satellite Goes Into Polar Orbit

Myriad of Instruments Functioning Perfectly

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (CP-AP)—Alouette, a 320-pound Canadian spacecraft, went into a polar orbit early today and its myriad of instruments were functioning perfectly.

The Canadian space machine, the first designed and built by a nation other than Russia or the United States, had nearly completed its first orbit shortly after midnight when U.S. officials announced that it was performing its functions perfectly.

Its 150- by 785-mile orbit sections—largest ever carried into space—have been extended and signals have been received, the officials said.

Space officials of the two countries, in a 2 a.m. press conference in front of the Canadian and U.S. flags, called the launching a complete success.

EVERY 105 MINUTES

The new satellite, named after a Lark-like Canadian songbird, passed around the earth once every 105 minutes on latitudes of 600 to 650 miles.

"We feel that we have an important research tool which we can use for further explorations of space and to improve the problems of communication at high latitudes," said Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of Canada's defence research board.

He said he has notified Defence Minister Harkness that Alouette was ordered in a "flawless launch," and that is expected to solve a wide variety of space and communications problems.

U.S. officials said the Canadian spacecraft is as sophisticated as any of the United States satellites at present, and will accomplish the same things investigating the ionosphere as the U.S. Tiros satellite meteorologists in weather reconnaissance.

The satellite is designed to study disruptions in the ionosphere—an electrically charged layer of air—which interferes with radio communications.

WILL SHAKE RESULTS

The disruptions are particularly severe in the polar latitudes and the country is seeking ways to overcome the effects. Alouette will be tested with other interested countries.

The ionosphere starts 50 to 300 miles above the earth.

The Alouette also will record radio signals emanating from outer space.

Another of its functions will be to investigate the nuclear radiation belt around the earth that followed the multi-megatonne nuclear tests.

J. S. D. Baron of Moncton, N.B., in charge of design and instrumentation of the Alouette, said that the radiation belt probably will affect the satellite's 8,500 solar cells, reducing its active life?

Alouette originally was scheduled to transmit for a year, but now is expected to be active for about three months.

HAS LONG OPERATION

Johnson, superintendent of the electronics laboratory at the defence research board, said operations establishment near Ottawa, estimates it will be operated—42 inches in sphere-cal—for a long flight while 34 inches high—will orbit the earth for as long as 500 years.

U.S. Marshals Mass on Border For Possible Mississippi Action

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Hundreds of U.S. marshals and a company of army support troops were massed and waiting at the naval air station here today for possible action in the Mississippi integration crisis.

The Marshals swarmed into the base on orders of Attorney - General Kennedy who has authorized the use of federal force to have Negro James H. Meredith enrolled at the University of Mississippi in defiance of Governor Ross Barnett.

The army troops, part of an engineer battalion from Ft. Campbell, Ky., are trained to provide food, shelter and other logistical support for the marshals if a showdown of force comes.

Joining the force were 100 or more border patrolmen who are specialists in riot control, arrived from San Francisco.

Army and justice department officials said the troops would not be directly involved in any move to enforce a court order that Meredith be admitted to the university.

The soldiers arrived at the base early Friday after an all-night 500-mile drive from Ft. Campbell. A Pentagon official said the unit contained the 110 men of the 70th Engineer Battalion.

A cloak of official silence shrouded the building. Newsmen were barred from the post and guards requested identification of everyone passing through the gates. All questions went unanswered.

An unofficial naval source said the marshals were served at the evening meal Friday night. The same source said the troops drew combat rations for 540 meals, which would mean either one meal each for 540 persons or several

QUESTION PERIOD ON MONDAY MAY BE HOT ONE

Liberal Leader To Fire Opener

OTTAWA (CP)—Connoisseurs of the cut and thrust that normally accompanies Commons question periods shouldn't let their disappointment with Friday's opening performance run away with them.

There's a better-than-ever chance that future question periods, especially the one Monday, will show a lot more life than Friday's.

The Liberals and, possibly, the New Democrats were looking it easy Friday, partly to test the government's attitude—it'll be conciliatory or pugnacious? —and, perhaps, to get an idea of how here new Speaker, Marcel Lambert, would handle the potentially-explosive situation in a House where no party enjoys a majority.

Another consideration was involved from the Liberal standpoint. Liberal Leader Pearson will open the debate of his move for an early election on Monday, right after question period.

In past sessions, notably the second last one, Mr. Pearson delivered a lengthy oration leading up to a non-confidence motion.

Last January he stopped 30 minutes short of the supper adjournment. That gave Prime Minister Diefenbaker a short time to unload a series of noteworthy announcements that effectively cut into the publicity spotlight on Mr. Pearson in the evening newscasts and early editions of morning newspapers.

Liberal sources indicate that Mr. Pearson won't intend to give Mr. Diefenbaker the same opportunity this time.

Nor do his 99 followers in the Commons who are reported to be saving their best questions for Monday in anticipation of a response to the question period so that Mr. Pearson will still be on his feet by the supper hour.

Katanga Premier Tshombe accepted in principle U'Thant's integration program. One official here referred to the present negotiations as a "dominion-provincial conference."

U Thant's plan included, as a last resort, sanctions against Katanga if it continued secession. Canada went along with the general plan but it has many reservations about sanctions.

Canada likely will participate in some resolution at the UN General Assembly aimed at trying to free members which refuse to share costs of UN operations in past years.

The World Court has ruled by majority decision that UN operations such as in The Congo, Egypt and New Guinea are a legitimate charge on all UN members.

The Canadian government, in formulating said, believes assessments, on United Nations members for normal UN administration should not be applied to special UN operations. It feels distribution of costs in the latter case should be based on ability to pay.

If the UN cleans up The Congo business by next spring, it will do so at a fraction of years earlier than anyone thought possible in 1960.

ANAF President Honored by His Comrades

A good crowd of about seventy-five couples attended the dance at the A.N.A.F. Auditorium to see the Dominion president presented with a handsome clock, purchased by Bill Salter as MC introduced the guests, Comrade Jack Lundberg and Bernice, his wife. President Cec Brown then made a speech of welcome and congratulated Jack on attaining the highest honor possible in the A.N.A.F. and presented him with the plaque. The plaque read as follows:

"To our Dominion Command President, Jack" Lundberg. Elected in Winnipeg 1952. Congratulations and Best Wishes from Your Comrade Friends of the A.N.A.F. Veterans in Canada, Unit 301 in Belleville. Jack accepted the plaque with a few remarks of appreciation for the welcome of his Comrades and the high honor he received in being elected Dominion President, the first president so elected from Eastern Canada. President Brown then presented Mrs. Bernice Lundberg with a lovely bouquet of red roses with a few appropriate remarks. Then he presented Jack with a box of cigars.

The guests were played up to the stage by Pipe Major Ken McNevin and Piper Mike Evans. After the ceremony Jack and Bernice were given a standing ovation of applause. The crowd then continued dancing to the music of Hugo Dignis' Orchestra and to enjoy themselves.

At intermission the folks were well entertained by Jack Fitzgerald, the Big Watts Mouse 3 miles east of No. 2 Highway at the end the four lane.

Comrade Hank Ford, entertainment chairman, is to be congratulated in putting on another great evening of dancing and entertainment, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

Hostilaries Commissioner A. J. McLeod.

Mr. Godbout said he will check his files. Money to find out Boyd's status.

Warden Richmond said he knew Boyd's case was under consideration.

"Even before I came here in June, he had been interviewed by the classification staff and by the deputy warden and by a local representative of the national parole board," the warden added.

Mr. Richmond said Boyd has been a good prisoner ... I would say he had been quiet and well-behaved."

Boyd and three others—William and Leonard Jackson and Steve Suchan — became notorious after waves of crime and violence followed two breaks from Don Jail here in 1951 and 1952.

Warden Richmond said Boyd now has served 10 years, the minimum term before he could be released.

Sought by police in one of the greatest manhunts in Canada, the "Boyd gang" was finally trapped in a deserted farm 15 miles northeast of here on Sept. 16, 1952, without a shot being fired.

Rewards totalling $26,000 had been posted for information leading to their arrest.

Suchan and Leonard Jackson were later hanged Dec. 16, 1952, for the March, 1952, fatal shooting of Det. gt. Edmund Tong here.

William Jackson, no relation to Leonard Jackson, was sentenced to a total of 27 years in prisonment on two charges of armed bank robbery and two charges of escaping jail.

He received 20 lashes for beating and robbing a 93-year-old man.

Altogether the Boyd gang was charged with 11 robberies netting $116,526 of which only $36,000 was recovered.

A very small crowd of vendors and purchasers was seen on the local farmer's market this morning, due to the cold drizzle which prevailed over the district.

Very little produce was offered and as a result, prices remained unchanged from last week.

Nearly everyone who visited the market squares was clad in a rain coat, while others stood beneath homemade awnings, to shed the rain.

Gordon Watkin New President Bowling Club

Another successful season of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club is fast drawing to a close and on Friday evening at the Clubhouse, the members prepared for another year by the election of officers and the receiving of reports.

Gordon Watkin, a member of many years standing, was elected president of the club, replacing William VanFlasaal, who has held the post for the past three years. The retiring president was thanked most sincerely for the time and ability he has given the club and Mr. VanFlasaal stated in turning over the reins of office that the progress would not have been possible except by the hearty cooperation of every member of the club. The vice-presidents for a practically new bower in the person of Frank Avery, Ralph Tuck and Wally Jarvis emerges accepted the posts of secretary and treasurer respectively and each has done an excellent job for the club. Bruce Miller will be the tournament chairman for the year, while "Jerry" Hyde will be in charge of membership. Doug Rowe will again be the greens committee chairman and the greenskeeper, Charles Matthews, was thanked for the excellent condition of the greens throughout the summer. This executive will be assisted by the assistant of Jack Lawrence, Ken Bulford, Frank Hinch, Jack Wright, Claude D. Tice, Orie Smith, Percy Graham, L. E. Parliament and two vacancies were named honorary presidents.

MUCH WORK DONE

The financial report showed the club prepared to open the season free of debt, with $300 besides a great deal of improvement being made to the clubhouse and property. It was decided to fix up a part of the floor of the clubhouse for the Ladies Club with Orie Smith and Percy Graham, Walter Elliott being on the job of getting more lights for the new section and he will be assisted by "Jerry" Hyde. The Back Club will also be raised to conform with the Provincial regulations as the Provincial Inspector will likely be played in this city next summer, Orie Smith and Bruce Miller reported on tournaments and it was announced a monster tournament will be held on Thanksgiving Day with the Jack Fitzgerald Cup will be on a two-rink condition.

At the conclusion of the meeting the election took place by short meeting and elected the president Gordon Watkin as general chairman of the Corbin Gold Cup committee with "Jerry" Hyde as secretary-treasurer, Jack Lawrence as advertising head, Bruce Miller in charge of purchasing of prizes and a large committee for entertainment purposes. At the conclusion of the meeting the members enjoyed a social hour.

Former Quebec District Chief Gets 3 Months

QUEBEC (CP)—Rosario Lemire, 74, former Quebec district chief of the disbanded Quebec Liquor Police, was sentenced Friday to three months in jail for defrauding the Quebec government of $8,500 through falsified expense accounts.

His lawyer, Rene Letarte, said an appeal of the judgment will be made.

Lemire was acquitted of a second charge of falsifying expense note work for him and paying them through authorization of false expense accounts.

Judge Albert Dumontier said in passing sentence that he was taking into account Lemire's age and the fact he spent "an honorable career" for 45 years with the police. The fact that he has been found guilty is a severe punishment.

"The crime to which the accused has been found guilty is punishable by 10 years in prison; but I condemn you to three months."

Lemire, tall and white-haired, listened calmly and said nothing.

Boy, 15, Perishes In Fire Trying To Save Others

WEST HARRISON, Ind. (AP) The six children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson, Jr., in a fire early today—the eldest forgoing a chance to escape in a futile attempt to save the others.

The eldest son, Barry, 15, discovered the fire and called his mother, Mrs. Mary Colvin, 36, who was sleeping downstairs. They went back upstairs and failed in an attempt to save the fire.

The mother ran to a neighbor's home to call for help but Barry stayed. Firemen found his body beside a window, which he apparently had been trying to open.

The bodies of his three brothers and two sisters were found in and near their beds. The father, a truck driver, was away at the time.

Hastings F.A. Discusses 4 Resolutions

Mr. Russel Sills, West Huntingdon, presided at the regular monthly meeting of Hastings County Federation of Agriculture which was held in the Thurlow meeting in the Agricultural Office in Stirling.

There was a record attendance of interested members present.

After the opening exercises, group insurances was discussed at length, but no action was taken at this time.

Rae Cunningham, Perth, fieldman for Hastings, Lennox and Addington, reported on O.F.A. meeting in Toronto.

There were four resolutions discussed and passed: (1) That $3 premium for Grade A hogs be returned; (3) That the name of the breeder or consignee be made known to all buyers of hogs that go through the sales barns; (3) Laws concerning feeding garbage be enforced; (4) That herd accreditation be the responsibility of the farmer owner and not the government.

The 26th annual convention of Ontario Federation of Agriculture will be held on November 12, 13, 14, at Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The theme of the convention will be, "The Challenge of Change."

The following delegates were appointed: Mr. George Carlisle, Stirling; Mr. Russel Sills, West Huntingdon; Gordon Bailey, Harold; George Woods, Ivanhoe; Harold Martin, Madoc, and Mrs. Roy Sills, Hallowey.

Plans were made for the Zone 8 meeting to be held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Stirling, on October 15th at 10 a.m. Guest speaker will be the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Stewart. Everyone is welcome.

The committee appointed to look after the annual banquet consisted of: Russel Sills, Wilfred Forsythe, George Carlisle and Harvey Homan.

There were two resolutions submitted to be taken to the zone meeting: one concerning the sale of sand and gravel, and the other on the support by the government for cheese factories.

MILK MARKETING

Gordon Bailey spoke briefly on the Milk Marketing Plan which resulted in a talk and discussion on the changing times on milk cleanliness led by Ed McDonald, Agriculture Representative.

The members answered a questionnaire on the Canningham on marketing legislation and marketing boards of Ontario.

Mr. Sills closed this interesting and profitable meeting.

slow, is being made.

Premier Thomson accepted in principle U'Thant's integration proposal. One official here referred to the present negotiations as a "dominion-provincial conference."

U Thant's plan included, as a last resort, sanctions against Katanga if it continued secession. Canada went along with the general plan but it has many reservations about such sanctions.

Canada itself will participate in some resolution at the UN General Assembly about starving to force members which refuse to share costs of UN operations to pay up.

The World Court has ruled by majority decision that UN operations such as in The Congo, Egypt and New Guinea are a legitimate charge on all UN members.

The Canadian government, in formants said, believes assessments, on United Nations members for peace keeping administration should not be applied to special UN operations. It holds distribution of costs in the latter case should be based on ability to pay.

If the UN cleans up The Congo business next spring it will do so at least a couple of years earlier than anyone thought possible in 1960.

ANAF President Honored by His Comrades

A good crowd of about seventy-five couples attended the dance at the A.N.A.F. Auditorium to see the Dominion president presented with a handsome plaque. Comrade Bill Salter as MC introduced the guests, Comrade Jack Lundberg and Bernice, his wife. President Cec Brown then made a speech of welcome and congratulated Jack on attaining the highest honor possible in the A.N.A.F. and presented him with te plaque. The plaque read as follows:

"To our Dominion Command President, "Jack" Lundberg. Elected in Winnipeg 1962. Congratulations and Best Wishes from Your Comrade Friends of the A.N.A.F. Veterans in Canada. Unit 301 in Belleville." Jack accepted the plaque with a few remarks of appreciation for the wishes of his Comrades and the high honor he received. In being elected Dominion President, the first president so elected from Eastern Canada, President Brown then presented Mrs. Bernice Lindberg with a lovely bouquet of red roses with a few appropriate remarks. Then he presented Jack with a box of cigars.

The guests were played up to the stage by Pipe Major Ken McNevin and Piper Mike Evans. After the ceremony Jack and Bernice were given a standing round of applause. The crowd then continued dancing to the music of Hugo Diggins' Orchestra and to enjoy themselves.

At intermission the folks were well entertained by Jack Fitzgerald who put on a great act in pantomime, and Ken McNevin soloed on the pipes.

Comrade Hank Ford, entertainment chairman, is to be congratulated in putting on another great evening of dancing and entertainment, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

ALONZO BOYD

Hinterberg, Commissioner A. J. Maitland.

Mr. Godbout said he will check his files. Money to find out aout Boyd's status.

Warden Richmond said he knew Boyd's case was under consideration.

"Even before I came here in June, he had been interviewed by the classification staff and the deputy warden and by a local representative of the national parole board," the warden added.

Mr. Richmond said Boyd "has been a good prisoner ... I would say he had been quiet and well-behaved."

Boyd and three others—William and Leonard Jackson and Steve Suchan — became notorious after waves of crime and violence followed two breaks from Don Jail here in 1951 and 1952.

Warden Richmond said Boyd now has served 10 years, the longest term before he could be released.

Sought by police in one of the greatest manhunts in Canada, the "Boyd gang" was finally trapped in a boarding house in Belleville northeast of here on Sept. 18, 1952, without a shot being fired.

Rewards totalling $26,000 had been posted for information leading to their arrest.

Suchan and Leonard Jackson were later hanged Dec. 16, 1952, for the March, 1952, fatal shooting of Det. gt. Edmund Tong Gue.

William Jackson, no relation to Leonard and Suchan, was sentenced to a total of 27 years imprisonment on two charges of armed bank robbery and other charges of escaping jail.

He received 20 lashes for beating and robbing a 59-year-old man.

Altogether, the Boyd gang was charged with 11 robberies netting $16,536, which only $36,000 was recovered.

Small Crowd In Attendance At Market

A very small crowd of vendors and purchasers wa3 seen on the local farmer's market this morning with the cold and drizzle which prevailed over the district.

Very little produce was offered and as a result, prices reported last week changed little this week.

Nearly everyone who visited the market square, was clad in a rain coat, while others stood beneath homemade awnings, to shed the rain.

Gordon Watkin New President Bowling Club

Another successful season of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club is fast drawing to a close and on Friday evening at the Clubhouse, plans were completed for another year by the election of officers and the receiving of reports.

Gordon Watkin, a member of many years standing, elected president of the club, replacing William VanTassel, who has held the post for the past three years. The retiring president was thanked most sincerely for the time and ability he has given the club and Mr. VanTassel aided in turning over the reins of office that the progress would not have been possible except by the hearty cooperation of every member of the club. Mr. Watkin assumes office in a practically new bower in the person of Vice-President, Ralph Tuck and Wally Lavergne accepted the posts of secretary and treasurer respectively and each has done an excellent job for the club. Bruce Miller will be the tournament chairman for the year, while "Jerry" Hyde will be in charge of membership. Doug Howe will be match chairman and he and the greenskeeper, Charles Matthews will do their best to keep excellent condition of the greens throughout the season. The executive committee will consist of Jack Lawrence, Ken Bullock, Ralph Tuck, Gordon Wright, Claude D. Tice, Orlo Smith, Bruce Irvine, Jack McLean and "Cliff" Argue were named honorary presidents.

MUCH WORK DONE

The financial report showed the club prepared to open the season with a credit balance besides a great deal of improvement and additions to the clubhouse and property. It was decided to fix up a part of the floor of the clubhouse. Jack Wright will head the committee with Orlo Smith and Fred Graham. Walter Elliott took on the job of getting more lights for the front green, which he will be assisted by "Jerry" Hyde. The use of the clubhouse will be raised to conform with the Provincial regulations at a Provincial Police meeting that likely be played in this city next month. Mayor Sidney Gold and Bruce Miller reported on tournaments and it was announced the annual Labour Day Match will be held on Thanksgiving Day and the Jack Purdue Cup will be up for competition.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Gordon Watkin in a short meeting and elected the president for the coming year, general chairman of the Corbin Gold Cup committee with "Jerry" Hyde as secretary-treasurer, Jack Lawrence as advertising head, Bruce Miller in charge of purchasing of prizes and a large committee for entertainment purposes. At the conclusion of the meeting the members enjoyed a social hour.

Former Quebec District Chief Gets 3 Months

QUEBEC (CP)—Rosario Lemire, 74, former Quebec district chief of the city-run Quebec Loquor Police, was sentenced Friday to three months in jail for defrauding the Quebec government of $6,500 through falsified expense accounts.

His lawyer, Rene Letarte, said an appeal of the judgment will be made.

Lemire was acquitted of a second charge of having submitted rates work for him and paying them through subcontractor of false expense accounts.

Judge Albert Dumontier said in passing sentence that he was taking into account Lemire's age and the fact he spent an honorable career of 50 years with the police. The fact that he has been found guilty is a severe punishment.

"The crime in which the accused has been found guilty is punishable by 10 years in prison, but I condemn you to three months."

Lemire, tall and white-haired, listened calmly and said nothing.

At Sea, Aboard the Queen of Bermuda - One of the remarkable talents of man, setting him apart from the brutes, is his ability to take his civilization with him wherever he goes.

As we write, white-coated stewards scurry among the overstuffed chairs and lacquered panelling of the lounge in which we idle. From wheeled carts they unload the absurd little trays of crockery so dear to the English heart, dropping "thenk-yo" at everyone who so much as looks at them. It is 4 o'clock of an Indian summer day, and it is tea time here as surely as in Hong Kong, Hertfordshire, or anywhere else in the British empire.

No doubt it is also cocktail time on the S.S. United States, and the end of "repose" aboard the Italia, wherever they may be. A ship is an isolated instance of a vehicle for that society that built it. Here we are, hundreds of miles from any view save the endless blue Atlantic, and we might as well be in the lobby of Claridge's Hotel, or the Peninsula.

Except that most of the disadvantages have been eliminated. There are telephones, but they are rarely used for anything but ordering tea. There is no mail to bring bills or card collations of orders. There is a pride of French-trained chefs in the galley, and the keel sits low under its burden of filet mignon, foie gras, and Fraser River salmon to feed everyone forever. It is a triumph of culture, and if all is not right with the world here and now, it never will be.

On this particular day the sea is as uneventful as a Massachusetts millionaire. At night only the faint creaking of a panel somewhere in our stateroom reminds us we are not in a hotel room. In the grandly named Windsor Lounge, the afternoon, engrossed in a movie, we are startled by a faint roll as we would have met an earth tremor rocked Radio City Music Hall.

Most of the amenities, and some of the nonsense of a resort hotel move with us along the invisible highway of the sea. The Queen is a British ship, so there are draperied lounges, reading rooms and writing rooms, full of flower-printed and leather-covered furniture as in any English hotel. Naturally, there are daily tea dances, kippers for breakfast, brawn for lunch and savoury after dessert on the dinner menu.

But the Queen caters mostly to American tourists, so there are the free cha-cha lessons, the swimming pool (with built-in waves from the ship's motion), the cavernous social director and the nightly fun-and games for the staff ladies and men donning skirts as in any America resort.

The one thing a cruise is not as fast! "Time", Capt. W. E. Musson reminded us in his 23,000-ton charge moved at 18 knots, "is for using, not for saving".

A sea voyage does, however, restore some of the reality to travel. No longer is it a matter of concern that you may be seated between two Green Bay Packers, don't like the dinner entree, or wish you could have packed an extra pair of shoes. Among 23,000 tons, there are plenty of seats, a variety of food to coddle a maharajah (if you don't see what you want, ask for it), and enough buoyancy to hold all your suitcases full of all your clothes.

And books, for you'll never have a better opportunity to catch up on your reading. There is less to see at sea than in the air. Nor do you continually check your watch to see how many hours to landfall, for it's not the hours but the days that roll off in a lulling, loafing, unwinding sense of the passage of time.

A few hours before, we had boarded the refurbished Grand Old Lady of cruise ships on the of hazy-bright morning when Manhattan is at its best. Pier 84 filled with the excitement of a sailing, and on deck bonvoyagoers showered confetti on bon voyages beneath while the band struck up Dixieland versions of "Margie" and "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie".

A tug grandly named the Miss B. Moran shoved us out into the Hudson, tooted us goodbye, and left us to gaze at the wonder of the receding skyline with its miles of piers.

On the wharf at Hamilton, the Long Island Sound will be waiting, and motor launches and sail boats will scoot excitedly about us as Bermuda's biggest weekly event, the arrival of the Queen, set off the second of her twice-weekly New Year's Eve celebrations.

Until then, time is for using. Our deck chairs are waiting, and you'll excuse while we return to "Youngblood Hawke".

Ships Subject To British Law P.M. Decision

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Deifenbaker said Friday eight Canadian-owned ships carrying cargo from Russia to Cuba are under British registry and thus subject to British law.

He was replying to the first Commons question of the new Parliament. Opposition Leader Pearson asked for comment as press reports the ships were carrying cargo from Russia to Cuba.

Mr. Diefenbaker said five of the ships involved have been under British registry since they were built during the Second World War. Three had been under British registry since 1950.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said the ships would form part of allied shipping arrangements in an emergency. He was their present trade in conformity with the policy.

External Affairs Minister Green said Mr. Chevrier, as a former transport minister, should have a more sensible question. The ships had been put under British registry when Mr. Chevrier was a member of the government.

Mr. Chevrier said the ships pay income tax to the Canadian government.

Mr. Green said he had never heard of ships paying income tax.

Fire Destroys Big Home Near Air Station

TRENTON — Fire, which yesterday destroyed a two-storey brick house on No. 2 Highway, just east of Air Station Trenton, may have been started by an unattended wood stove.

Mrs. George Arthur, of R. R. 2, Trenton, started the fire in the stove, and went next door for a short visit with Mrs. R. Goulet at about 12:15 p.m. Mr. Arthurs was at work—and their two sons were in high school in Belleville.

Mrs. Arthur saw smoke coming from under the eaves of the house when she returned from the Goulet's, and she called Mr. Goulet, who phoned Trenton Fire Department. Trenton refused the call, because, as Trenton's Fire Chief Cecil Ellis explained earlier, the house was in Sidney township, and Sidney cancelled their firefighting contract with Trenton about six months ago.

Mr. Goulet telephoned the fire stations at Air Station, Trenton, and at Belleville. Both departments answered the call.

Belleville firemen arrived, and while they were fighting the fire, neighbors and passing firemen removed most of the furniture from the ground floor of the house. It was later stored in the Goulets' garage.

Because of high winds, and because the fire was rooted deep inside the walls and ceilings of the house, firemen were unable to save the building.

The loss has been unofficially estimated at $18,000 to $17,000. The house carried insurance for $10,000.

25th Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

TRENTON — Last Thursday evening, 25 relatives and friends of long standing met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rathbun, Victoria Ave., to honor the couple on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Official "hosts" were Jen, Roger and Elizabeth Rathbun.

Special guests were the maid of honor and best man of 25 years ago, Miss Jean Brotch and Reg. Campbell (Toronto).

Mrs. Ken. Crews, Mr. Rathbun's sister, presented an amusing and nostalgic program, "This Is Your Life," and Elizabeth presented, on behalf of the group, a silver rose bowl, filled with red roses.

Guests from Toronto; Kingston, Belleville and Trenton were present.

LOST FURNITURE

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hemstreet, First Ave., in Trenton, received word from their daughter, Donna, (Mrs. Clinton Justice) this week that she and her husband, Cpt. Justice had lost all their furniture in the North York yards train wreck near Toronto. Recently, Cpt. Justice was transferred from El Paso, Texas, to Oakville, and ordered furniture, which had been in storage in Winnipeg, shipped to the new family home.

PAY BIG BILL

At Thursday night's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, president Howard Azix asked club sanction to pay a bill for $862; representing the board bill for 70 girls and 40 boys at the Salvation Army Robin Lake Fresh Air Camp, held last summer.

In addition to the board bill, local Kiwanians pay for needed clothing for the campers; bus fares to and from the camp and supply incidental camping needs, such as toothbrushes. Club members also arrange for medical checks for the children registered to attend the camp.

This is only one of the many youth programs sponsored by the Trenton Kiwanians.

Aerialist Walks Out on Crutches

DETROIT (CP) — Aerialist Mario Wallenda, whose legs were paralyzed in a fall here last January, walked out of a rehabilitation institute here Friday on crutches.

The 22 - year - old acrobat boarded a plane for Sarasota, Fla., where he will rejoin his stepfather, Karl, and his mother, Helen, a former circus queen.

Wallenda was paralyzed from the waist down when he tumbled from a high wire while performing with the Great Wallendas at the state fair collseum. Two of the fellow performers were killed in the fall.

Wallenda spent four months in hospital before being transferred to the institute.

Quinte Keyettes Club Stages Initiation

Dancing gracefully with her mop, Beth Keene, a grade ten student at Quinte Secondary School, completed her initiation into the Quinte Keyettes club last night. Miss Keene, one of nearly thirty members initiated into the club, was dressed tastefully according to the Keyette initiation style. She wore leotards, with five bows running up the calf of her right leg, and a boy's running shoe on her right foot. She wore a knee sock and a snow boot on her left foot. She wore a full length apron, backwards, and had her skirt pinned up above the knees. She wore gloves with the fingers removed, and a pair of slacks pulled over her arms. For makeup, she used her own private stock of flour and cold cream, and wore her hair combed back, with five colored bows.

The initiation included a scavenger hunt after school hours, and stints, (such as dancing with a broom), during the evening. The Quinte Keyette Club has 62 members this year.

Belleville Mayor A. M. Haig seems to be enjoying the TB test which he and members of his family took yesterday at Avondale school. Clinic assistant Mrs. Gordon Barclay is seen giving the test. Seen with the Mayor are family members: Trudi, Archie, Christie and Andy, with Mrs. Haig in the background. Clinics now being held in the city are winding up an all-county survey commenced in August.

Hastings County TB Survey Is Nearing Its Conclusion

The mass tuberculin clinic, through which it is hoped to reach all persons in the county of Hastings, is nearing its end in Belleville with tests expected to end on October 9th.

The county tests commenced at Maynooth on August 22nd with three different teams from the Ontario Department of Health at work.

In the city the tests commenced on September 10th, and yesterday were being held at the Avondale public school, where approximately 300 persons attended.

Persons taking the test are asked to come back in a few days' time for a reading and X-ray if necessary.

MAYOR TAKES TEST

One of those taking the TB test at Avondale School yesterday was Mayor A. M. Haig. In fact the Haig household made it a family affair with all six members, Dad, Mom, and the four children attending the clinic.

"I cannot stress too strongly the importance of everyone taking the 'TB test,'" stated Mayor Haig."

And the Mayor's words were re-echoed by Miss Sheila McLean, Ontario Department of Health, TB Division, and Mrs. Gordon Barclay, assistant at the Belleville clinics.

Both women stressed that it was important that everyone should take the test whether or not they have received a card in the mail.

TO ALL OUR CITIZENS:

We are familiar with the annual campaign of the United Appeal which embraces many of our charitable organizations. It goes without saying, that all of these charitable organizations are necessary to the well being of our city. In fact, during these days of International and National uncertainties, their services are more imperative than ever.

The United Appeal way is an easy way in which all can give towards the assistance and betterment of those who are less well off. It is impossible to calculate or to over emphasize the need and to those many of you who are interested and engaged in charitable work, this will be an understatement.

I therefore commend to your generosity The United Appeal for 1962 and hope that through the combined efforts of all it may be well over subscribed.

Yours Sincerely,
A. McLean Haig, O.B.E.
Mayor.

What About O'Leary?

Of the five latest appointments to the Canadian Senate, only two are of more than passing interest and only one of these will leave the political observer with uncertain feelings.

Choice of two former Conservative members of Parliament and the president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association to fill vacancies appear routine.

The same cannot be said of the appointments of Allister Grosart and Mr. Grattan O'Leary. Both are national figures and will adorn the Upper Chamber with their presence. Mr. Grosart is credited with creating the public "image" of Prime Minister Diefenbaker which enabled him to lead his party to victory in three elections, in one by the largest majority ever won by any party in a Canadian general election. His elevation to the Senate will arouse little speculation, for there is scant reason to argue that he cannot continue to fulfill his public relations duties for the party just as well from the Senate Chamber as from the back room.

In Mr. O'Leary's case, though, there is the interesting little matter of the recommendations of the royal commission on publications in 1960 and 1961. Mr. O'Leary headed this commission and on more than one occasion made it evident that the problem before the commission was one respecting which he had strong convictions and regarded with a passionate interest. The recommendations of this commission, designed to curb or curtail the competition which Canadian periodicals have to face from U. S. publications, have not been implemented.

With a man of Mr. O'Leary's stature, nobody will suggest his acquiescence in a policy which he believed inimical to Canada could be purchased by a senatorship, or at any price. He has been strangely reluctant to employ all the opportunities which he enjoys as editor of the Ottawa Journal to campaign for prompt implementation of the commission's recommendations. This, though, has generally been ascribed more to patience and an understanding of the problems facing the Diefenbaker Government than to any possibility that he may have changed his views on the subject. His elevation to the Senate gives him a second platform from which to air his opinions and the average observer cannot escape the conclusion that Mr. O'Leary's Irish temper must be chafing under his self-imposed restraint. The question which arises, therefore, is whether the intention to act on the report announced in the speech from the throne means the main recommendations will be implemented virtually unchanged, or whether Prime Minister Diefenbaker is so valorous that he would doubly arm so doughty an opponent.

Legal Tangle

British gynecologists have developed an operation whereby barren women can have children. The operation involves grafting a new ovary into the body of a woman whose ovaries are sterile. There is a difficulty. The resultant babies would be illegitimate, in the opinion of British legal experts. This is based on the contention that a grafted ovary is akin to artificial insemination, not normal or natural. Even if the woman who has had a defective woman's ovary grafted into her body is married to the father of the child, the child would still be illegitimate. Obviously, the illegitimacy must stem from identity of the ovary. The law does not consider the woman who gives birth to the child as its mother. But if the conception were the result of artificial insemination, then the child would be doubly illegitimate. Have we here discovered a method of enjoying the benefits of having children, without any of the usually attendant legal responsibilities for their care and upbringing?

Jest Joycing of Course

The editorial office of The Ontario Intelligencer, being peopled by intellectuals who had just spent an exhausting week discussing the intricacies of the Common Market, was only mildly interested in remarks recently made by some person named Joyce Davidson, on the uninspiring subject of sex. Nevertheless, as their bounden duty, some members did read the newspaper and the following dialogue may perhaps be usefully reported for the enlightenment of our readers.

Veteran deskman: "It says here that Joyce said that women, unlike men, are animals."

Attractive matron: "Oh, nonsense. Men are just as much animals as women, if not more so."

Young sage: "Oh? Are you thinking of writing an article on animal husbandry?"

Caouette, New Tourist Attraction in Ottawa

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Members of the new Parliament, from Far Right to Way Left, on both sides of the House, and in all four political parties, have one problem in Common — what to do about fiqebrand Deputy Social Credit Leader Real Caouette.

Earlier this week, as the Honorable Members arrived in the Capital and made their way to Parliament Hill, it was obvious that Mr. Caouette was just about as big a sight-seeing attraction for the freshmen Members as the Peace Tower, the Mint, or the halls of the Centre Block.

In your mind's eye, picture the MP's settling into their new seats in the Commons, waving to friends and acquaintances, spotting where the Prime Minister and the other party leaders are sitting . . . and then craning their necks to get a close-up look at Real Caouette, busily at his desk, busking like an excited bee in sgt-tated whispers at his fellow Socreds.

If things keep up this way, the Ottawa Board of Trade next Spring will not have to make their annual plea to Defence Minister Harkness to assign the Canadian Guards from Camp Petawawa to another summer of Changing of the Guard on Parliament Hill as Canada's greatest tourist attraction.

ONE MAN BAND

It will be simpler and very much cheaper to provide a platform under the Peace Tower for Real Caouette and let him pull in the crowds.

On the basis of all the ogling he gets and the vast amount of curious interest he arouses, Real Caouette very possibly might outdraw the Guards, who with their bright red coats, scarlet tunics, 60-piece brass band and Highland pipers, have been averaging a crowd a day lately.

But kidding aside . . . Real Caouette is going to present a great deal more concern among all parties . . . including his own . . . than any other individual on Parliament Hill these past 30 years.

His fire-eating presence could complicate the whole difficult and delicate business of relations with Quebec and the rest of Canada.

He doubts being a Quebec nationalist or a French - Canadian separatist.

But the cold hard fact remains that this is the element to which he mostly appeals.

And that he has appeal . . . political appeal . . . in Quebec, is a fact of life that has to be which both Conservatives and Liberals reluctantly must reconcile themselves to.

Those 26 Quebec seats of his . . . depending on which side of the political fence you perch . . . could have denied the Liberals a majority, victory last June, or robbed the Conservatives of what might have been a majority.

STAGGERED

Some of Real Caouette's public pronouncements — such as his endorsation of Hitler and Mussolini as economists and his open admiration of the courage shown by relatively modest military or national service in the last war — have even outraged his own leader, soft - spoken Robert Thompson.

Thompson has attempted to rationalize his colleague in public claiming that Caouette really has not meant it quite the way it has sounded.

But in private he has been agonizing over it.

Caouette has no shortage of MPs, in the Conservative, Liberal and Social Democratic parties alike, who will be aching to give Real Caouette his oratorical fire and brimstone.

Only the Socreds, with Caouette boasting 26 of them, can be expected to stand still and remain silent when their Deputy, or "Co-Leader," as he calls himself, sounds off.

But what is troubling all Parliamentary hands except the Socreds is not so much what to do about Caouette, but rather when and how to do it.

Whether he outrages your sensibilities or not, he exerts a loyal, even fanatical appeal to a large section of Quebec.

And an open attack on him in the Commons will be regarded by his still-growing following as an assault on French Canada.

THE BLUEPRINT

There already has been open hostility to the working press gallery at his meetings, clearly showing that any criticism of him is deeply resented.

The attitude will be to be that to question him and wonder about some of the things he has said is nothing short of a "smear."

In his Quebec stronghold, Real Caouette has come to be above criticism.

So an attack on him in the Commons, especially by English-speaking Members and French-Canadian Parliamentarians, except in the Socred ranks, are in more than usual short supply — would set him up as a martyr.

That, at any rate, is the fear among these parties. And to make him a martyr, would be to strengthen his hand and give him more political glitter among the nationalist, separatist and other extremist elements.

The Capital, in recent months, has taken a plastering with Separatist slogans . . . "Down with Confederation" has even been scrawled in white paint across the base of the National War Memorial . . . and "Quebec Yes, Canada No," has appeared in yellow paint on walls and buildings, with the RCMP quietly, apparently, to do much about it.

Clobber Real Caouette too hard, too often in Parliament, his opponents fear and the Separatist sign-painters might even do a job on the Peace Tower.

Real Caouette can remain a hot political potato, too hot, almost, to be handled . . . except, perhaps, by ignoring him and simply pretending that he is not there.

Tito Revises Constitution

New York Times

Yugoslavia's new draft Constitution has drawn its inspiration from the most diverse sources of political theory and practice. It proposes a presidential form of government, resembling somewhat that of France, but hitched to a parliamentary system that has the strong stamp of the corporate state.

President Tito and his associates are once again trying to readjust the realities in Yugoslavia to their own determination to preserve the Communist monopoly of power, which is expressly reaffirmed in the new document. The Yugoslav leaders are far too sophisticated as men and as politicians to have overlooked for a moment the absence of public interest in the decline of parliamentarism, and by the pseudo-parliamentary system that was established by the Constitution of 1946 and revised on several occasions. The new Constitution is President Tito's reply to the recognized need for greater public interest and participation in the affairs of the country.

Under the reconstructed government system, Tito is to function as head of state with power to designate and remove Premiers, and to veto any Cabinet decision. Parliament is to be unicameral, but it will consist of five houses whose members will be selected by indifferent suffrage. There will be an upper house and four lower houses, ranging in competent in one specific area of economics, education and health, and general administration. But the decision of each lower house will have to be approved by the upper body.

One of the innovations of the new Constitution is what is described as a rotation system for the holding of government and legislative office. The regime apparently believes that the rotation of term will result in greater public interest in the affairs of state by opening the doors to office to more people.

Fear Germs From Space

Sudbury Star

Will outer space trips result in unknown deadly diseases being introduced to earth? Most space research is directed to the task of getting a person on the moon and returning him to earth, or possibly making a successful return trip to some other heavenly sphere.

There are other scientists and bacteriologists who are seriously concerned over the possible introduction of new diseases from outer space. They thought is that while these germs might be quite harmless in their outer space environment they could be deadly if introduced to earth. Only time can tell what takes when poking into the unknown.

Paralyzed Persons Should Be Exercised After Stroke

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a partial stroke about seven years ago. Since then I have not been able to use my left hand or foot. I am 71. As a child I had scarlet fever infection and am partly deaf in my right ear. Could the latter have caused the stroke?—M.E.

Scarlet fever has caused a good many cases of deafness. I doubt that it had anything to do with the stroke many years later.

A stroke is a disturbance of circulation in the brain. It is usually an obstruction which shuts off the blood flow to some area of the brain, and generally a consequence of hardening of the arteries, the normal result of aging.

At times a blood vessel gives way to high pressure, and the hemorrhage damages the brain in that area. Either way, some of the brain tissue is damaged and can no longer send messages out nerves, the "signals" ordering certain muscles to move.

The hemorrhage type tends to be more violent and sudden; the obstruction type comes on more gradually.

In either case, there may often be some degree of recovery from the paralysis. This can be helped by physiotherapy and exercises shortly after the stroke has occurred.

This treatment is not used as much as it should be. It's natural to have little interest in strokes until one occurs in our own families. I'll quote a letter from Mrs. Harry Burton of Mansfield, Ohio, which I received a few weeks ago:

"My husband had a stroke in August, 1960. He was in bed for 10 months. He was in the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill. for the booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request a dime in coin and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner, care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill. for the booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request a dime in coin and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope.

Bikini Fish Die in Trees

San Francisco Chronicle

A team of Italian filmmakers reported yesterday that a trip they made to Bikini to record animal life eight years after the first hydrogen bomb was set off there with a force of 20 million tons of TNT.

They saw great crowds of sea birds nesting and flying about and huge sea turtles moving across the beaches—as if they were none the worse for the big blast.

But on looking closer, the movie men found that the birds were nesting on piles of dead fish accumulated for years.

Either the birds had been made sterile, or the eggs had been killed, by the huge dose of fallout.

The centre of the atoll was filled with dead fish and sea life instinctively scrambled by radiation while still in the egg, had eggs of their own, and then plodded into the sun-baked interior, instead of finding what they usually do, which is swim back into the water to spawn, the movie men said. Pacific tree-climbing fish, which wriggle out of trees in search of insects and then turn immediately to the sea, play games in the water and then too long and dying in the trees.

Apparently their instincts too, had been destroyed by the radiation.

Eventually, healthy life will return to the atoll, the movie animals which litter the beaches are mute remnants of the divorce H-bomb explosion recorded.

"The survivors will be the real tragedy in a nuclear war," one of the Italian cameramen commented after seeing Bikini.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the earlier days of football, the players on the sidelines would wrap blankets around each other's shoulders when they came off the field, and several times in the October and November games, when I was playing for the American football teams came up with hooded sweaters of Canadian origin, an improvement on the clumsy blankets. The players would hastily haul on these overcoats, elephantine sweat shirts when they came to the bench.

But football players grew more and more elephantine as the years passed. Measuring the hooded sweat shirts had been adopted by sportsmen far and wide, as the ideal garments for fishing and hunting or riding in boats.

Apparently they couldn't make hooded sweat shirts big enough for the players by the mid nineteen fifties. So a large cape or cloak was introduced to the

Once again Queen's Park has "announced" that it is studying a minimum wage for the province's male workers. How long it the government going to continue substituting study for action? The question of a minimum wage for men has been "under study" for almost a year and has been a subject of public debate and discussion for decades.

Meanwhile other provinces except Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia have minimum wages covering men and women. The need for an adequate minimum wage in service industries is apparent. The average weekly wage for hotel and restaurant employees in Ontario last year was $41.60. Hourly rated employees in all service industries were getting $1.04.

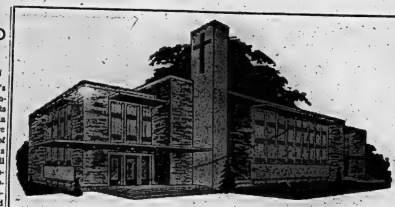
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

REPETITIOUS WHIP-POOR-WILL

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

The way in which Canada's large cities are overflowing into our former country districts makes us fear that certain forms of bird life will soon have no places to go. Families of loons, bitterns, and merganzers were brought up on every small lake in eastern and central Canada, and whip-poor-wills "whipped" nightly outside our summer cottages. Motor boats and paved highways are restricting the nesting sites of these birds of the back woods and deserted waterways. Modern, noisy civilization has invaded their territory.

As a matter of fact, few of us have been fortunate enough to have seen a whip-poor-will at all, and only one person in many hundreds has ever had the opportunity of observing one in a good enough light to know that it is just a little bit smaller than its cousin, the nighthawk, and looks very much like that bird. The mouths are like that bird. The mouths of both are extremely wide for scooping up flying insects when they are on the wing. The female whip-poor-will lacks the broad, white ends to the outer tail feathers and the white throat band of the male. In sharp contrast to the loon, the feet are placed far forward on the body. Not only is a whip-poor-will unable to walk, but it cannot even perch on a branch in the ordinary way. Instead, it lies along the bough.



CANNOT WALK

Mrs. Whip-poor-will lays her eggs right on the ground in thick woods. On the way home she generally drops to the ground several times as she cannot walk even a few steps. The two babies are cinnamon colored, so well camouflaged in the old leaves which surround them. They are never found unless by mere accident. It has been stated that when mother wants to move them she carries them between her thighs.

Father whip-poor-will spends the day sleeping in a dense thicket nearby and rarely visits his family.

Though whip-poor - wills are seldom seen they used to be frequently heard. Still, anybody who manages to really get far enough away from the turmoil of modern life may hear one. And if you hear it once, the chances are you will hear it very often, from early May until mid-July. Then listen for it again in mid-September.

Mr. whip-poor-will has definite singing perches — a certain rock, post, or saw-horse — and sings his name over and over at almost the same time each night. It might be 9.30 p.m. or 3 a.m. Each session lasts several minutes, often without pause between 100 or more "whips". If near enough, you can hear a little introductory "click" before each "whip," and the little rumble at the end of the session.

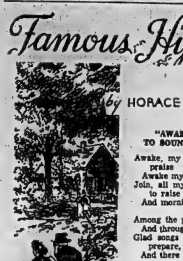
Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

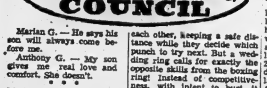


"AWAKE, MY SOUL, TO SOUND HIS PRAISE"

Awake, my soul, to sound His praise
Awake my harp to sing:
Join, all my powers, the song to raise
And morning incense bring.

Among the people of His care
And through the nations round
Glad songs of praise will I prepare,
And there His Name resound.

Be Thou exalted, O my God;
Above the starry frame,
Diffuse Thy heavenly grace abroad,
And teach the world Thy Name.



So shall Thy chosen songs rejoice,
And throng Thy courts above,
While sinners hear Thy pardoning voice,
And taste redeeming love.

Hymn lovers who know their Bible will not have to be told that when they sing Joe Barlow's "Awake My Soul, To Sound His Praise," they are singing the one hundred and eighth Psalm.

It was Dr. Isaac Watts, the English hymnist, who first put the Psalms of David into verse, and the collection of Psalms which Mr. Barlow published in America in 1785 and in several subsequent editions was put together in an attemp to correct and enlarge Dr. Watts' endeavour, and to adapt the English version of the Psalms to the changed thought and circumstances."

Mr. Barlow was a prominent author and politician during the stormy years of the American Revolution and in the years that followed. He was born in Redding, Connecticut in 1755, was graduated from Yale University in 1778 and died abroad — in Poland, in 1812.

Marian G. — He says his son will always come before me.

Anthony G. — My son gives me real love and comfort. She doesn't.

Marian G. — Less than a year ago I married a widower of 46. I'm 36 and was divorced from my first husband because of his unfaithfulness. I had many offers, but I chose Tony because I really loved him. But painfully that love is turning to hate.

A few days after our marriage, he told me right off that his son would always hold first place in his affec'ns. I thought a wife was supposed to. I try to show my love for him by waiting on him hand and foot, but he never shows any love for me. Among friends he belittles me and constantly praises his first wife.

When I speak of leaving him, he threatens me and says he's the boss and I'm to do as I'm told.

Anthony G. — We were no sooner married than Marian began to bicker with me because she's a college garduate and I only finished grammar school. Naturally she let her domineering ways with me to make me look like a yokel in front of our friends.

And at home she's forever during and hovering around the house, telling me not to sit here or stand there. She's even trying to tell me how to act toward my son, and that's none of her business. I've always helped Ned financially and I'll continue to do so, even though he's now a married man. I know I can always find friendship in his home, which is more than I feel I get in my own.

I'm sorry for her first husband now. Marian does nothing but complain.

The Council — When Anthony says that Marian does nothing but complain, we're reminded of the husband who said his wife does nothing but ask for money. "Do you give her any?" he was asked. "No", he replied, "but she never stops asking". So we have the rounded circle which isn't getting anywhere — Marian complaining and Anthony not listening.

This pair resembles prize fighters who, after the first clinch, circle the ring and eye each other, keeping a safe distance while they decide which punch to throw next. But a wedding ring calls for exactly the opposite skills from the boxing ring. Instead of competitiveness, with intent to hurt, it asks cooperation and communication for the purpose of easing each other's pain and brightening each other's life.

How about a fresh start, since the marriage is still so new, toward acting like a real husband and wife, instead of contestants for the crown as Champion Tormenter?

To Marian we say, forget about the son. Anthony may be using him as a smoke screen to keep you at a distance. Your goal must be on your husband, avoiding "tender" spots which hurt him, playing up areas in which he takes pride. In the episodes of life after he belittles you isn't he merely "getting back" at you for thrusts, digs or humiliations you may have subjected him to? His son, for example, is someone he knew long before he knew you, and he resents your proprietary and gratuitous counsel as to how to act toward the young man. Your better tack would be to regard this adult son as a symbol of Anthony's first marriage, rather than as your stepson. You can't expect to be included literally in the "bosom" of the family so fast. Some day, when a loving relationship between you and Anthony has been firmly established, you may be accepted as a mother to Ned too.

And to Anthony we urge a demonstration of more tenderness and appreciation for what Marian does offer him — a well-kept home, a genuine interest in his problems, a hypersensitivity about her college degree, etc. In making you feel behave boorishly and cruelly to her. We hope you each will concentrate more on how alike you are, and grow closer through what you had — and still must have — in common which attracted you in the first place.

"THE PRAIRIE IS MY GARDEN"

"It is this in life which of all things is tenderest—to remember together with unknown men the days common also to them and perils ended."—Archibald MacLeish.

Do you ever take a holiday in time?

This is what one writer calls his "aerial excursions into history" in "less eradicate what he calls a "Pastless Look" as examples, he says, most of us wear due to "living exclusively in the present." Holidays, he feels, should be taken in time as well as space.

To motor through the Dakotas is to combine both — especially South Dakota, when Sioux Falls is one's birthplace!

While eastern South Dakota has a pattern differing from the rest of the state, with prosperous dairy and row-crop farms and thriving towns close by, its wild natural beauty preserved in well-kept state parks and recreation areas, it never-the-less is a mere part of a state of infinite variety, with ever changing, ever delightful panorama of scenery.

Scenery ranging from Mount Rushmore with its great National Memorial and the magnificent Black Hills, to the badlands and eerily beautiful Badlands, tremendous plains and prairies, mysterious buttes, rich farmlands and bluewater lakes.

This land, well sliced by the Missiouri River was first claimed by the Verendrye Brothers who claimed the area for France in 1743, and were the first known white men. French fur traders coming up the Missouri followed later before the explorations of Lewis and Clark in 1804-5.

The Dakota Territory was created in 1861 and the first large wave of settlement came following the Homestead Act — an act which had, in fact, major event in a long series of efforts to get people to settle the western lands and to grow crops, raise cattle, sheep and pigs.

To build roads, schools, villages, towns — civilization. It began the organization even had a constitution, when "the people" meant the white Valley, and congress passed the first land survey program on May 20, 1785. By strange coincidence, it was exactly 77 years later, on May 20, 1862, that Abraham Lincoln briefly turned from war worries to sign the Homestead Act which was supported by the New York Tribune editorial writer, Horace Greeley, famed for his "Go west, young man, go west."

The movement had gained fire.

It is estimated that one in nine became a pioneer homesteader, and courageously staked himself and his family to the task of helping to build the country. In the Dakotas, Custer's discovery of gold (where Homestake, the large gold mine, to this day taps the wealth of "the richest 100 miles square earth") in 1874 brought a new rush of fortune-seekers, and when the Dakotas were admitted to the Union in 1889, South Dakota had a population of 300,000.

Today tradition and progress intermingle.

Powerlines hum across the paths explored by Lewis and Clark, jet trails cross the skies which fascinated us as we drove along great trails that met the horizon at foot-rather than eye-level), where the Sioux watched the eagle hunt, and water skiers revel where the river steamers navigarried buffalo robes and beaver pelts. The Missouri River (once numerously dotted with army posts to protect homesteaders and pioneers it undergoing an irrigation development program.

It is said to be the largest engineering project undertaken by man. Its reservoirs give South Dakota more than 2,300 miles of new shore line. Oahe Dam, for example is creating a bluewater lake 260 miles long, while bridges that rival even San Francisco's Golden Gate span vast lakes and reservoirs.

Facilities for swimming, boating and year round fishing abound. Pheasants outnumber people more than 10-1, and the state is third largest as a cattle producer, a leader in producing hard durum wheat.

We urge to mail some butterfly at a small post office where stamps are purchased. Appropriately enough, the new postal stamp commemorates the signing of the 1862 act showing a couple, not identified, before their prairie home against a sunset. This inspired vision of the hardy homesteader with his wife is up to us, and only one, individual, of a holiday in time.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

SUMMER JOB GAVE BOY MORE THAN MONEY

This is written two weeks after the boy got back from his summer job as a waiter. His was rugged — tanned, handsome, with lots of money for expenses during that year — and a problem.

This is the way he put it:

"Everytime I turn around, I say 'please' and 'thank you.' I get other adults' respect in the corridors at the school. But then I go a waiter there as other people around him, all sharing the same feelings, hopes and aspirations.

It's true that the boy in question, typical of many who take Summer jobs, was suddenly confronted with the necessity of applying in contrast to the "principle" of politeness as a way of life.

In a Summer hotel, the teenage waiter is told to say "sir" to a customer or "madam" of course, and possibly there are customers who see that he does. That goes for "thank you" and "excuse me," and the myriad other phrases required.

All of the good it it becomes a habit. After all, that's the essence of good manners — doing right thing automatically.

Teen-agers should not resent the restrictions of courtesy and good manners which their parents and their friends expect of them.

They may think that this is another case of the parents ever closing in on them and forcing them to "conform."

But another way of looking at good manners is that discipline at the beginning is necessary.

It starts at pre-school age, with the wise wielding a gentle hand in guiding. At school the youngster knows that he must report his day at a certain time, and no fooling.

In later school years, he learns that it is the habits and attitudes that fit in with the student community and when he gets old enough, observes other rules that are part of afterschool activities.

All this is education of prime importance, and a preparation for things to come.

Punctuality, politeness and propriety, if the habits are assorbed correctly, then become elements of daily living so natural that the teen-ager doesn't have to think of what to do or say as in a situation.

The Summer waiter, when he thinks about it, has earned more than his tips, if only he will use his new knowledge as well as he has learned to use the money he has earned.

A Lift For Living

Good Personality Achieved By Adequate Introspection

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Most of us think about ourselves too much but really look at ourselves too little. We are always "looking out for Number One." We say, "If we don't look out for ourselves, so many competitors and predators, even perils. So we feel that we must "keep our eyes peeled" for the best and quickest ways of getting ahead. We go on rushing and straining but we do not often really look into the inner depths.

James Truslow Adams once reminded us of this failure by recalling the experience of a friend in the upper regions of the Canadian Rockies. He hired a company of natives to carry his baggage. For two days, with American efficiency, he hurried them along with forced marches. But on the fourth morning, when he came out to start the caravan, he found the natives sitting on their haunches, a kind of primitive versions of "Rodin's" "The Thinker," sit-down strike. The native Hiawathan explained their refusal to move by saying that they had been going too fast. They could not get their souls to their spirits to catch up with their bodies. So it is with many of us. We have been going so fast that we have not taken time to sit down and look at ourselves.

But saying all this, there is a danger in being too introspective. There is a profound statement in the old Persian legend which tells of a father going on a long journey, and leaving his wife in charge of home. When the father returned he found that his wife had served to death looking at himself.

MORALLY CROSS-EYED

We may move and have our being as if there were no God. We may not stop to reflect on ourselves and be morally conscious of our own reflection. But looking of ourselves even to the extent of becoming morbid self-satisfied and morally crosseyed.

When I was a young fellow in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, the main streets were crowded on Saturday afternoon with shoppers and sightseers, but the show windows were at an angle which enabled me to see myself as well as what was behind them. I must confess that I often paid more attention to my necktie or clothes looked then to the suits on sale. Such is the vanity of youth.

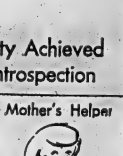
This danger of keeping our eyes too much on ourselves was pointed out by Dr. Henry Link in his widely-read book, "The Return to Religion." He said that the trend of our better psychology was to get away from introspection and self-analysis toward the emphasis on wise conduct. As illustrative of this change, he cited the incident at a leading Eastern college. Over one of the archways at that university is inscribed the old Greek and Socratic counsel, "Know Thyself." Some bright shrewd wag drew a chalk line beneath the Greek inscription, "Know Thyself" and wrote underneath it the words, "Behave Yourself." Self-knowledge not achieved by too much introspection.

SAME PRINCIPLE

The point is that we see our true selves only by looking at something which takes us out of ourselves. When the photographer takes your picture, he does not set before you a mirror and snap you as you want to see how you look. He catches you in some unself-conscious moment.

Jesus used this same principle of turning men from too much introspection. How does the Lord's Prayer begin? By looking at ourselves? Does it start, "Forgive us our trespasses."? No. Does it begin by glancing at our spiritual needs, "Give us this day our daily bread"? No. The Master taught us to start looking away from ourselves, when we pray to "Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in Heaven." Then having filled our minds with the greatness of God and His Kingdom, we come to consider our needs, our sins and temptations.

As Dostoevski wrote in one of his novels: "A man who bows down to nothing can never bear the burden of himself."



The late Halford Luccock perceptively called attention to the fact that the most ridiculed and ill-fated Peace Treaty of Versailles, which supposedly closed the First World War and really helped to sow the seeds of the Second, was signed in the famous Hall of Mirrors at Versailles. Lucccock suggested that the signers were too concerned with the reflection of their own national interests. The results would have been better if they had been looking not into the mirrors at themselves but through windows out at the world at large.

Have we been living too much in the mirrors of our own self-concern? Have we been running over and over, like a hypnotic chant, our self-centered meditation? Then we need to turn to God-centered action.

Would that the atheistic Communists of today might remember those words of an earlier Russian! And how about themselves?

Readers' Saturday Column

Letter: This is one of your daily readers from the West. I really enjoy your column. My husband and I have to watch the waistline. On the other side, my husband doesn't like much changing in my cooking. So I stick with my German recipes. But I try some of yours anyway. What I like, I save and clip. That small pound cake was very good. We came to this country 8½ years ago, and never regretted it. When you work hard and try to save quite a bit you get further ahead than at home. It was very interesting to read about your daughter and family when they were in Germany. One thing I found put, I can't use my German recipes for baking over here, I guess your flour here needs more liquid. Now the reason why I write to you is this: The hunting season is coming closer again and maybe some of your readers may want to try my way of doing the ducks and the deer. Everybody here liked it and enjoyed our duck dinners. I guess it is a good sign, when there are no leftover? It might sound a little bit extensive and more work, but we think it is worth doing it. I think from soaking in buttermilk gets rid of every taste and the meat is getting tender. After my husband has cleaned the ducks he cuts them in half and I soak them in buttermilk for 1 to 3 days. The roasting pan or a shallow dish will hold them. I leave ours in the basement. Before roasting time I wash and dry them really good. Salt and pepper them and brown them on all sides in butter in a heavy frying pan. Then I put them in the roasting pan. I take a large onion and put it to the side of the ducks.. Before I put them in the oven I add 1½ cups sour cream and 2 to 3 cups hot water over them. It depends on how many ducks you have. The lid goes on and I roast them for 2½ hours at 300 or 325 deg. Sometimes it takes a little longer. This way you get a nice gravy and the birds don't dry out. For the gravy I brown some flour in butter and flour and fill up with the juice in the roasting pan, after the ducks are finished.

With a roast of deer I do it the same way only I leave it in the buttermilk 2 to 4 days, turning once. Wash and dry it very good. Brown it in butter in a heavy pot and put a cut up onion in it. Return to roasting pan and fill up with one cup sour cream and 2 to 3 cups hot water. The amount depends on the size of the roast. Gravy is made the same way as with the ducks. I roast it in the oven (covered) at 325 for 2 to 3 hours. If you get an older deer..it may take a little longer.

Please excuse it if I made a few mistakes with my English writing. Thank you very much for all your advice and help in your daily column.

Mrs. A. F.

Answer: There is nothing to excuse! Your letter is delightful. Thanks for being so plain-talking and such a wonderful help to Canadian cooks just before the handing season opens.

DO YOU HAVE...

—a marital problem

—trouble with your children

—difficulty in budgeting your income

If so, the Children's Aid Society can be of help and invites you to talk it over with one of the members of its family service department staff. You will find them sympathetic and understanding. Help and guidance of a professional nature, after the ducks are in the freezer, is suggested and that you telephone for an appointment. Your call will be treated with complete confidence.

"Education Of Our Youth" Topic at H-S

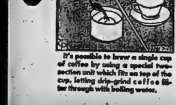
"The education of our youth is the responsibility of all," so said Mrs. L. Courtice, past area vice-president of the C" Ontario Federation of Home and Schools.

Thursday night at Bayview school, the opening night of Belleville and District Home and School Councils' presidents' conference, the speaker went on to say, "We owe it to the past, to the present, and to the future, for without continuous education all that we cherish as a heritage would speedily disappear.

"As all share in the benefits of education, all have a responsibility to see that sound education is maintained and developed,—we need more of it, not less.

"Your council is making a great effort to assess the interests and needs of its members and to serve them in as many ways as possible in order to gear their assistance towards a practical positive program. Such an attitude on the part of the administrators, should do much to develop close relationship between Home and Schools and the community and achieve those objects which are, after all, the fundamental and basic reasons for our endeavors in Home and School."

For those present Mrs. Courtice had much worthwhile information to pass along as she has been in Home and School work for over twenty years, now a grandmother, and still vitally interested in the work of Home and School for her grandchildren, and indeed for all children.



THANKS TENDERED

The chairman, Mrs. R. D Jones, expressed the thanks of those present and of the executive, to Mrs. Courtice who has assisted the ,Belleville and District Home and School Council on many occasions, and is always a welcome guest speaker, both for her knowledge and her delivery which is such as to hold the interest of any group.

The second night of this course is October 4, also at Bayview School, Dundas St. East, Belleville, at 7.30 with the "What"; of Home and School, Administration and Policies, when Mr. Don Maddocks of community program branch, Department of Education, Belleville, will present a film and discuss "Meetings and How to Make Them Effective." Everyone is invited to attend both on October 4th and October 11th, when the "How" programming and publicity will be the topic.

The Valedictory

The following valedictory was given by Miss Janice Coombes at the third annual Laboratory Technology graduation exercises.

"Mr. Chairman, honored guests, members of the board, fellow graduates, ladies and gentlemen - - -

We are all here this evening for one purpose, to witness the formal graduation of these 16 fully-fledged medical laboratory technologists. One goal reached, we are ready to put this year of hard work to use. But we must not forget that it is only due to the great efforts of our instructors, Miss McKinnon and Mrs. Tate, and our pathologist, Dr. Rota, that this end has been achieved. From these three have come our inspiration to follow the highest ideals of our chosen profession. Thank you.

Our appreciation must also be extended to Mr. Stone and the rest of the laboratory staff for their assistance and patience. Their readiness to lend a helping hand has led us many times from useless floundering.

Coming from a large family with five sisters and one brother, this unbalance of the sexes in our class of 14 girls and two boys is just ordinary. The boys at the beginning felt rather over-run but I am sure by the completion of the year they found that we were not so bad. I hope that this will comfort the sole boy of the new class.

SAID GOODBYE

Valedictory literally means 'a speech of farewell, a farewell to dependency and immaturity, but I am happy to say, not a farewell to all fellow students and Belleville General Hospital. To those of us who are, leaving Belleville to take positions elsewhere farewell and good luck!

This year has prepared us for a career in any part of this country or in fact in any part of the world. We can be proud to be medical laboratory technologists, doing our best while doing our bit to better this world.

Scholastic training has been described as a parallel to a baseball game—reaching third base of finishing high school is not so difficult but getting to home plate or completing a specialized education is the hardest. We have reached home plate. But life as we stand uselessly there can continue making more hits and runs, while learning new methods and ideas.

CAN THINK BACK

Facing you here this evening I think back to the normal opening of this school approximately one year ago. At that time, we were told repeatedly that you rests the success or failure of this school. With this in mind we studied; we practised; we sweat, we graduated. The decision of whether or not we have sufficiently succeeded lies with Dr. Rota although to us the class of '63 is evidence enough.

To you, the class of '63, we express our welcome but we also warn you that the year ahead will require plenty of honest work and concentration. To the hospital and the Board of Governors we extend our compliments and gratitude. From a class of three training in the limited facilities of the old lab, the school has advanced to a class of 16 in a bright modern lab with instructors and a house of its own. Thank you Belleville General Hospital and the School of Medical Laboratory Technology for making possible this year full of great changes, of happy memories, of lasting friendships, although of hard work.

In closing I wish to thank you, fellow classmates, for giving me this opportunity to express, on your behalf the sincere thanks and appreciation of the class of '62.

Capacity Attendance at 3rd Annual Technology Graduation

In spite of bad weather, a capacity audience of approximately 600 nurses, parents, and friends filled the auditorium of Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital, last evening for the third annual graduating exercise of the class of 1962 of the School of Medical Laboratory Technology, Department of Pathology.

Immaculate in their white hospital coats, the 16 girls, with sheaves of dark red roses, and the two young men, made an attractive picture as they slowly wended their way to the position at the western side of the auditorium, while the nursing staff occupied the two front rows.

Mr. Frank Domenico, former chairman of the Board, presided, due to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Vanoyer, and extended a cordial welcome to those present, congratulating them on braving the inclement weather, and to the graduating nurses on its achievement, as at the last graduation there were six and 16 now. For this increase, appreciation goes to Dr. Rota for his fine work.

Others who expressed their appreciation and congratulations included: Mr W. Doechsel, superintendent of the hospital; Dr. A. N. Rota, director Department of Pathology and Dr. F. R. Ross, president of the medical staff association of the hospital.

TECHNOLOGISTS' PLEDGE

One of the highlights of the evening was the technologists' pledge, led by Miss J. McKinnon, R.T. chief - instructor, to which the class answered in unison, and the other that of the presentations of diplomas, with Miss McKinnon presenting the graduation pins and Dr. Rota the cherished diplomas.

The guest speaker was Dr. W. E. Noonan, medical superintendent of Henderson General Hospital, who was introduced by Dr. Rota, and thanked by Mr. Domenico.

Dr. Noonan spoke at some length, stating that this graduation class was the outcome of a long period of events formulated by Dr. Rota. He expressed gratulated the class in accomplishing in one year what had previously taken two years, due also to the efforts of Mr. Daechsel and to Dr. Harold Scott, who had helped in its training.

"Hospitals", said Dr. Noonan", are educational facilities. They are educational groups, which include post graduate work; the work of interns; follow-up research work; and keep abreast with other hospitals in new developments; sponsor refresher courses; and undergraduate technical courses, as well as advanced courses. These include the operating room techniques; radio therapy; professional nursing; nursing administration, psychology and biochemistry.

"Hospitals involved in education have accomplished more than any other fields, and provide the best products".

ADVICE TO GRADUATING CLASS

Dr. Noonan also brought a few words of advice to the graduates, stating that 'he who stops learning is on the downward way', and urged them to keep abreast of the changes; must decide whom to equal; success is not so much ability as zeal; resolve to do much good; to be happy in the chosen work and to endure boredom, which is essential.

Those receiving diplomas were: Misses Joanne Adams, Belleville; Betty Lou Brickman, Trenton; Janice Coombes Frankford; Leona Embury, Carrying Place; Judith, Hazell, Belleville; Heen Cook, West, St. Catherines; Shirley Livingston, Frankford; Glenna Sprague, Trenton; Billie L. Taylor, Belleville; Marilyn Vanderveort, Belleville; Lynda Wardle, Belleville; Mrs. Deanna Brant, Deseronto; Mrs. Olive Nicholson; Trenton; Mrs. Eileen Cook, Belleville; Mr. John Jones, Belleville and Mr. Arthur Whitheed, Point Anne. Eleven graduates will remain in Belleville; five are being employed elsewhere.

Presbyterian College for Women Opens

TORONTO (CP)—The Presbyterian College for Women has a glittering new building of its own after making do with a series of converted homes in midtown Toronto for the last 65 years.

The new Ewart College—training centre for women missionaries and church workers in the Presbyterian Church in Canada —is to be opened formally today in a special service of dedication.

The name of the school is almost as new as the three-storey, redbrick residental college on the edge of University of Toronto campus. The name was changed from the Presbyterian missionary and deaconess training school 15 months ago in memory of Mrs. Thomas Ewart, who started the school in 1907 with classes in her own home.

Since then, the school has been held in five different buildings in central Toronto. It has occupied the present St. George Street site—just up the street from Knox Presbyterian Theological College—for 38 years.

But more than $600,000 worth of new building and furnishings has replaced the converted home on the spot and an annex a few blocks away.

GIVE ELBOW ROOM

Three classrooms, a library, assembly hall, a 90-seat chapel, dining room, common rooms and bedrooms for six of the 12 staff members and 58 students provide sit- conditioned elbow room plus space for expansion. College enrolment now numbers 25 and university students occupy the rest of the residential space.

Ewart works closely with the Anglican and United Church Women's training colleges and with the Canadian School of Missions, an interdenominational school of the Canadian Council of Churches where courses in sociology and anthropology are provided.

Officiating at the dedication is Rt. Rev. Ross K. Cameron, moderator of the church. Dr. K. Denton Taylor of Belleville, chairman of the college board, is speaking on the national campaign she led to plan and finance the new college.

Pr. Wales H-S Assoc. Holds Autumn Tea

Pink and white roses centred the candle-lit tea table as the executive of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association entertained the mothers of the kindergarten class at a lovely autumn tea on Tuesday afternoon.

The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. Vera Moyer, president of the association and by the principal, Mr. Bernard Wright. Miss Naomi Hoare, the kindergarten teacher, had some timely instructions for the mothers as she briefly outlined the curriculum for the year.

Mrs. Moyer introduced Mrs. Wanda Sine, primary supervisor of public schools in Belleville, Mrs. Sine stressed the importance that the kindergarten foundation plays in the preparation of the child for primary school work. But, she added, the home preparation of the child for school was of equal importance. Mrs. Sine asked the mothers to create a happy anticipation of school in the child, teach him confidence in caring for himself, encourage him to accept responsibility and above all, give him lots of love.

Mrs. Bernard Wright, Mrs. Lena Murray and Mrs. E. Hodgens presided at the tea table during the social hour which followed. Mrs. Betty Treed, Mrs. Carrie Oliver and Mrs. Helen Melbourne served.

Vice-president, Kay Bushell was the convener of this annual event.

Ask Henry

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—My neighbor's son has a girl friend and now he has a new knife. – I have three beautiful oak trees . . . You guess the rest.—THREE OAKS.

Dear Three Oaks—This is a simple problem. You don't need a sly answer. Just go up to the boy and tell him that you don't mind his new girl friend and that you don't mind his new knife, but you would appreciate it if he would not advertise his true love on your trees.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I'm 13 years old and entering high school. My boy friend is 13 and still in public school.

My girl friends tease me a lot about it but I love him very much. I've been going steady with him for six months. I don't want to break up with him but if these girls keep teasing me I won't have any choice.

Are these girls jealous or are they doing it for fun? Please try to solve my problem for if you don't I'll never sleep.—NERVOUS WRECK.

Dear Wreck—Just because your girl friends tease you, you would drop your true love! You should never be influenced by what other people say against your own judgment if you have any.

P.S.—Going steady at 13 leads to a nervous wreck.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—What do you do with a daddy who sings lousy? He has a really nice voice but he never uses it. He also makes up songs but he still sings lousy.—TIRED PATTI.

Dear Tired Patti:—I have another letter which makes a pretty good answer:

Dear Henry—I've got a daughter that says that I sing lousy, and that I make up lousy songs and still sing lousy. I wish she wouldn't criticize me so much but help me instead. Her name is Tired Patti.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—Why do TV stations have to have suffer reruns? I am bored to death watching the same thing all over again.—BORED TO DEATH.

Dear Bored—You shouldn't have watched so much in winter and then you would have had something to watch in summer. Be glad that "Ask Henry" has no summer reruns.—HENRY.

Garden Notes

Growing Your Own Geraniums

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Growing geraniums takes time. That is a factor in the cost of these popular bedding plants in the greenhouse they take up a lot of bench room for many months. You can grow them in a cool basement, sunroom, or bedroom window and have them ready to set out and to bloom in the spring. Slow growth in a cool room is just what you need to become plant wise and you will have the fun of growing them at no cost.

Home propogation of geraniums from cuttings is easy. Instead of allowing frost to finish off your plants in the bed, patio or planter or moving the whole plants to the basement where they often dry up and die, cut, or snap off top growth before frost strikes. You now have the tops of next years plants. All you have to do is grow the roots. The best length for cuttings is four to six inches. Take off the lower two leaves. If the stem is very sappy allow to dry for an hour before dipping in rooting hormone powder then plant in clean sharp sand, vermiculite or perlite. The medium must be kept moist at all time but not soggy wet. Perlite and vermiculite have a much greater water storage capacity than an equal volume of sand and requires less care.

NEED GOOD LIGHT

Set the cuttings one inch deep and place the pot where it will receive good light but not direct sunlight. They should develop roots in four to six weeks and be ready for potting.

Sometimes disease organisms attack the soft geranium stems and cause them to rot. These losses may be reduced by the use of hormone rooting powder since it helps new roots to form quickly and the sooner it is out of sand or vermiculite and into soil the sooner it will develop a good root system and disease resistance. Some growers dust the cut surface with end-o-pest before planting the cuttings.

You can start a new geranium plant from one leaf if you take a "heel" or little sliver of the main stem along with the leaf. It should be thick enough to include all the leaf axil. This contains the bud from which new top growth starts. Plant in sand or vermiculite with the bud exposed to light. It may be necessary to anchor to leaf with a wire bent like a hairpin. This leaf bud will root as quickly as stem cuttings, but will require more time to develop into a plant.

START HALF DOZEN

You can start five or six cuttings in a wide shallow pot. Pot on roots have developed into three inch pots. A pinch of vigor may be mixed with the soil for each pot. Twice a month feed with liquid fertilizer.

Since you do not want these plants to bloom until they are set out in the spring they can be grown in a north window all winter. Keep from freezing by placing several thicknesses of newspaper between the glass and the plants on cold nights.

If you are looking for a new hobby you might like to grow from seed fancy zonal geraniums, or crested geraniums. Seed catalogues and garden magazines list companies that stock these seeds. Planted by January these seedlings will be ready to bloom by June.

The Golden Years

Those Already Retired Relate Just What Their Life Is Like

By THOMAS COLLINS

Retired people, as a rule, do not need much balm for their wounds. By age 65 they have toughened up, and the barbs of the world don't hurt too much. They can manage.

So what follows here is not intended as balm. Instead it is a factual account — based on the many letters that are coming to me — of what is happening to "all the other people" out in retirement. If it gives some consolation to those who are growing old, then maybe they won't mind.

It should be emphasized that this is not an opinion piece by an expert, or a theoretical talk on how things might be. It is an account of modern-day retirement as people who are out there are telling it to me.

1. Most retired people aren't as rich as other people think they are. The average citizen who has retired from a normal job with a normal company is getting $200 to $225 a month from pension and investments. And even if the company he retires from has a good pension system — and it may not have — the average citizen has been switching jobs over the last 25 years and has not built a large pension fund.

There are exceptions of course. The corporation executives, now living in Santa Barbara or the Carolina Hills, who got some fat deals to go away and get lost. They may be getting $20,000 a year.

The next egg of "all the other people" in retirement usually ranges from $4,000 to $10,000, except that those people who owned a house and sold it have $14,000 or so salted away. They are the rich ones.

2. Most children of retired people, now between 35 and 45 and with families and ambitions of their own, intend to be attentive to their parents. Occasionally they are. But not very. They are most attentive when the parents have money, when the parents live close and it costs no money to visit them, or when the parents have the rooms and food to put the child's family up for a free vacation. Many retired parents feel they are failures or their children are ingrates when they are ignored. They're mixed up. The same thing is happening in best families all over, and all the time.

3. A long helpless illness is the deepest fear of most retired people . . . because of the bother and expense apparently and not because of the pain.

4. A feeling of being unwanted and unimportant is quite common for the men in retirement . . . at least for the first couple of years. Many men think this is a private crisis they alone bear. They tell themselves they are misfits after all. But the retired man down the street is in the same predicament and has the same thoughts. Men don't talk to others about this, just as parents don't tell neighbors their children neglect them. Everybody in retirement seems talented in putting up a brave front in such matters.

5. With some exceptions, wives cope with one of the most serious problems of their marriage when they help husbands come home to retire. Home is seldom set up for a daytime man to be around: a wife's routine, firmly set by her over the years, provides no role for a husband except in the evenings and on weekends. As she struggles to adjust to the new situation, and the husband struggles to adjust to her, temperaments in time will clash. But this happens not just to Mrs. Smith. It happens to Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Johnson, too. Mrs. Smith doesn't know this.

6. Loneliness in retirement is not a rare disease. Nearly everybody catches it from time to time.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE

The Board of Directors of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. is pleased to announce that plans and specifications for the New Family Y.M.C.A. have been completed and tenders called for the construction of the new building.

Opening of tenders will take place the first week of October, with construction to commence very shortly thereafter.

At the same time the Board appeals to those who have not made their commitments to date, to do so now, in order that the construction of the Family Y.M.C.A. may proceed as planned.

The Board also invites all individuals, groups and corporations who have not been contacted or who have not made a commitment or donation to share in this project.

First Ecumenical Council Held on October 11th, 1551, Only 40 Bishops Present

By BERTRAND TEHEAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

On Oct. 11, 1551, some 40 bishops meeting at the council of Trent, a small town in the Italian Tyrol, defined the dogma of transubstantiation — the Roman Catholic church's teaching of the conversion of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ in the Eucharist.

On the same date, but 411 years later, some 2,400 cardinals, archbishops and bishops will start the second Vatican council.

Analogies can be drawn between the two ecumenical councils — the 19th and 21st.

As at Trent, some prelates will be unable to attend because of political situations. This will be the case with Cardinal Mindszenty, primate of Hungary, living in the American legation in Budapest since the Hungarian revolt in 1956.

At the time of the second phase of the council of Trent, King Henry II of France refused the bishops of his kingdom permission to go the the council because war was about to break out with the German empire and diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican were about to be broken.

NON-CATHOLIC ATTEND

The forthcoming council—as in 1560—will be attended by the church's "separated brethren" who, this time, have been invited to send observers. Twelve non-Catholic Christian churches will be represented, including the Anglican church.

Because of the nearness of Trent, some Italian bishops attended the council only for important votes. Their arrival on the even days of votes led one member of the council to remark:

"Well! Here comes the Holy Spirit in a valise from Rome."

It was after this that a decree was adopted requiring all bishops to attend ecumenical councils, except for serious reasons, and not leave without the Pope's permission, no matter how long the council lasted.

It is not known how long the second Vatican council (the first was in 1869-70) will last. A bishop at the opening of the council of Trent in 1545 said: "We will be here only a few weeks." The council was spread over 18 years.

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, said recently:

The first session will last about three months. We shall be back in our dioceses for Christmas. I believe that the council will be recalled after Easter."

POPE DECIDES

Only the Pope, John XXIII, who is 80, can adjourn, recess or close the council. Clause 228 of canon law says that in the event of the Pope's death the council is adjourned until the next Pope orders it to resume its work.

What can be expected from the council? The likes of the draft decrees, details of which are secret, indicate in general terms the subjects that will be debated. The decisions of the fathers will be made after debates and after obtaining the advice of specialists in theology and canon law.

Since the call to the council was issued in January, 1959, priests and laymen have made a wide range of suggestions. Some are conservative, others extreme.

Here are some examples:

Establish a system of lay deacons to help priests in some of their duties; place the entire material administration of parishes in the hands of laymen; place age an age limit on cardinals and bishops; use modern language in religious ceremonies; decentralize the administration of the Church; shorten the celebration of the mass.

These indicate that the majority of the suggestions concern the manifestation of religion rather than points of doctrine.

While council decrees will be proclaimed on these manifestations, they will be subordinate to questions of doctrine.

SEEK UNITY

The council, said John XXIII, will throw more light on doctrine and will be an example of brotherly charity, in such a way that Christians separated from the Apostolic See will strive more strongly for unity and the way will be made easier.

The fathers of the council, aiming for this unity, will first try to strengthen the bonds among the faithful within the Catholic church itself.

To do this they likely will discuss, among other things, the editing of a single catechism for all Catholicism. An attempt probably will be made to establish a uniform calendar so that Easter and Christmas are celebrated on the same dates in churches of the Eastern and Western rites.

Christmas is celebrated Dec. 25 in Western churches and Jan. 6 in Eastern. Easter is set by different standards in the two parts of the world.

Bishops of the Eastern rites have a greater autonomy than Western bishops. This likely will be one of the topics discussed. It was barely touched on at the council of 1870 but was a background issue at all debates.

The fathers of the council also will consider such subjects as theology, the sacraments, clergy, liturgy, missionary activities, means of communications and the lay apostolate.

In order to prepare for this vast amount of work, Pope John withdrew for a week of prayer and meditation in the thousand-year-old tower of St. John in Rome.

Albury

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Beuford Peck attended the birthday surprise for Mr. Frank Hickerson at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jack Chatterson and Mr. Chatterson. Other guests for the turkey supper were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dempsey, Mrs. Luther Alyea, Mr. L. Drummond, to help celebrate the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese, Mrs. C. Peck, Mrs. Don Dempsey attended Quinte Chapter, O.E.S., No. 49, Amelisburg, on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lois Simpson and granddaughter Terry of Fort Lauderdale, spent a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Weese, and visited other relatives.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Burton Ostrhout on the loss of his father, Mr. Jack Osterhout.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese attended Tweed Fair on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Chase of Fort Erie, called on relatives on Sunday afternoon.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

To paraphrase the noble Bard of Avon, "To Junior 'B' or not to Junior 'B'. That is the question."

Part of the query was answered late yesterday when the Belleville Junior "B" McFarlands' management after two or three weeks of alleged uncertainty, threw in the towel.

Manager Keith MacDonald informed OHA convener Jack Devine that the McFarland sponsorship had been withdrawn due to excessive costs.

Two weeks ago at the inaugural meeting of the Eastern Ontario OHA junior "B" group, the McFarlands asked for and received ten days extension to file an entry. At the second meeting held here Thursday night they requested "a day or so." Yesterday they filed the answer.

This does not, however, necessarily mean that the city will not be represented in the Junior "B" circuit.

The Booster Club as intimated in the report to the Junior meeting Thursday night is definitely interested in entering a club.

President Jim Matthews stated yesterday that the entry depends entirely on what financial arrangements can be made.

The non-entry of a Belleville team could have varying effects on the Eastern Junior "B" circuit. It was already intimated at the junior meeting that if Belleville dropped out, leaving two "B" teams and five "C" squads in the league, the Kingston team would call everything off and seek another loop berth.

On the other hand a grapevine story that has cropped up persistently has it that if there is no entry from this city, the Picton junior "C" entry would up its status to "B", thus paving the way to the acquisition of the player remnants of the Belleville McFarlands now a defunct organization.

However the Picton club has formally filed a "C" entry. If it does not change its status, and Belleville does not enter a "B" squad, these players will be at a loose end, eligible to play for the geographically nearest "B" club.

So it seems the status quo and the "peace and prosperity" of the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League depends solely on whether this city files an entry.

On another front, Picton, prompted no doubt, by the outstanding fan reception of last year's junior OHA squad has reached upward and onward.

Under the generalship of its ex-sea-going sports mayor demo, Walt Fraser, the town tops in sports since Chamiah staged the first canoe race on the Hayward Reach, has filed entry in the Lakeshore Intermediate League, 1961-62, hunting grounds of the late lamented Belleville Pepsi's. Also entered are Uxbridge, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Trenton RCAF.

Walt expects such players as Keith MacDonald, Lionel Botly, Sam Mulholland, George Jacklin, Bob Fawcett, Joe Scott, the Staceys and other well-known district puck-chasers to join the club.

Fraser said he would like to enlist the services of certain Belleville players. However the OHA has the say in the acquiring of players for the transferred club. And he may run into a snag if he prefers former intermediate "A" stalwarts. Besides he must have the unanimous approval of the clubs in the group.

Meanwhile the City League is slated to hold another meeting at the Recreation Centre Monday night starting eight o'clock. President Sonny Belch says several important items are on the agenda and certain decisions must be made.

Dodger Flag Fate Is In The Cards

They Need A Pair

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers, who were supposed to have things all locked up last Monday, suddenly have their backs to the wall, time running out and the pressure mounting hourly.

It was Monday that the Dodgers held a four game lead and an apparent lock on the National League pennant.

Since then, however, Walt Alston's suddenly faltering heroes have lost four of five, San Francisco has grabbed three of four and the difference is only 1½ games.

Two nights in a row now the Dodgers have blown a chance to clinch at least a tie for the No. 1 spot. All they had to do was win. Each time they lost.

Friday night the margin was 3-2 in 10-innings. San Francisco was rained out in its game with Houston and faces a twin bill with the Colts today and a final windup game Sunday.

Los Angeles has two left, both against the Cubs.

The situation remains the same: A Dodger victory over a Giant loss gives the Dodgers at least a share of the top spot. Any combination of Dodger victories and Giant losses totalling two gives the pennant to the Dodgers.

For San Francisco to win, it would take two Giant victories and two Dodger losses. For the Giants to tie, they must win at least two, and the Dodgers lose two.

BREAKS UP GAME

Charley James was the chief tormentor of the stricken Dodgers Friday night, driving in the winning run with a two-out single in the 10th off Ron Perranoski. It was the Dodgers' 11th loss in 11 games for Los Angeles.

In the meantime, the champion New York Yankees came from behind in the seventh inning to beat Chicago White Sox and 43-year-old Early Wynn 5-3, spoiling Wynn's third bid for his 300th career victory.

In the other games, Minnesota clinched fourth place in the second place in the American League with a 9-8 rout of Baltimore, Detroit downed Kansas City 7-3, Chicago Cubs beat New York Mets 3-2, Pittsburgh stopped Milwaukee 8-2 on Bob Veale's five-hit pitching and Cincinnati took Philadelphia 6-3.

The Los Angeles at Cleveland doubleheader was postponed because of rain. Boston and Washington were not scheduled.

DAVIS SINGLES

Tommy Davis' single drove in a first inning Dodger run the 150th of the season for Davis, but the Cubs matched it in the second. St. Louis went up 2-1 in the fifth on Julian Javier's single, a triple by Stan Musial's single.

It rocked along that way until Maury Wills singled in the tying Dodger run in the seventh. In the 10th, singles by Curt Flood and Musial opened the inning, but the Cubs retired the next two. Then came James' single.

Wynn, seeking to become the 14th major leager to reach the 300 mark, had 4 two-hitter and a 3-1 lead through 6 2-3 innings. Then Clete Boyer doubled and Joe Pepitone hit a pinch hit homer. Four runs crossed after two were out in the eighth, three on Elvio Jang's homer.

Mickey Mantle failed to get the ball out of the infield in three official trips and his average dropped three points to .318, seven back of Boston's Pete Runnels.

KAAT GET WIN

Bob Allison's two-run homer, his 29th of the season, a two-run pinch single by Jim Lemon highlighted Minnesota's 17-hit attack against Baltimore. Camilo Pascual was routed in his 18th victory of the season.

Rocky Colavito and Al Kaline each hit two-run homers, Colavito's 37th and Kaline's 29th, in the Tiger victory over the As. The game was called in the seventh because of rain, and drew the small est major league crowd of the season, 588.

Veale, a left-hander recently called up from Columbus, had a no-hitter going through 6 1-3 innings for Pittsburgh before allowing a double and two singles.

Doon Clendenon drove in five Pirate runs with a homer, a double and a single.

Bob Will's two-run pinch double was the big blow for the Cubs as the Mets lost their 119th. Cincinnati jammed in seven runs on 10 hits in the first three innings, then coasted in against Philadelphia.

Ed Lopat, A's New Manager

Bauer Quits, Beats Finley Punch

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Lopat, who used to be known as the Junkman because of the variety of pitches he served up in his playing days, took on a new assignment early today that may merit a revival of the nickname.

The 44-year-old onetime New York Yankee southpaw agreed to manage the ninth-place Kansas City Athletics for the next two years a few hours after manager Hank Bauer resigned.

Owner Charles O. Finley of the American League club promptly announced that the Athletics will finish in the first division next year.

Bauer said he quit because Finley wouldn't inform him where he stood for next year. Lopat joined the Athletics this year as pitching coach and has three years of minor league managerial experience.

Finley, hiring his third manager in less than two full seasons of ownership of Kansas City, said Lopat, a former Yankee mate of Bauer's, agreed to manage through the 1963 and 1964 seasons.

The stormy Kansas City owner, who flew to Detroit to be greeted by a wave of resignations, said Bauer should have told the Athletics in their final two 1962 games today and Sunday.

TWO OTHERS RESIGN

Coach Jo Jo White also resigned and coach Darin Lodigiani said he intended to resign.

"There are no untouchables on this club," Finley responded when asked if the Athletics would consider trading Norm Siebern and Jerry Lumpe, their top hitters. "We'll trade anyone if we can help this club."

Finley said he would offer Bauer another job in the Kansas City organization. Bauer said he would consider it.

Packers, Bears Look Tops

By JACK CLARY

The National Football League's oldest rivalry will help decide the shape of the Western Conference when defending champion Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears meet for the 87th time.

Both teams have 3-0 won-loss records and are in a four-way tie for top spot in the west with Detroit and Baltimore, who meet in Baltimore Sunday. Green Bay will be host for the one and trails in the storied series 50 to 30 with six ties.

The Bears are battered physically. Halfback Charlie Bivins and starry linebacker Bill George are out while fullback Rick Casares, halfback Willie Galimore, defensive back J. C. Caroline and offensive tackle Fred Williams are due for only limited action. The Bears are the league's top rushing team but will shut down against the No. 2 rushing defence.

The Packers are physically sound and perhaps stronger than at this time last year, when they began their march to the conference crown and league title. Their defence allowed St. Louis only 7 yards rushing last week, while the offence again has Paul Hornung, NFL scoring leader with 29 points, and Fullback Jim Taylor, the league's No. 2 rusher with 197 yards.

In other NFL action, Washington, the surprise Eastern Conference leader at 3-0, and a tie in two games, opens its home season against St. Louis Cards (1-1), New York and Pittsburgh match 1-1 records in Pittsburgh match 1-1 records in Philadelphia (0-2), Dallas (0-1-1) travels to Los Angeles (0-2) and two winless clubs, Minnesota and an Francisco (both 0-2), meet in San Francisco.

In the American League, Denver is at New York, San Diego at Oakland and Buffalo at Dallas. Houston and Boston are not scheduled.

Mate, Boy Friend Shot

Angry Moose Charges Hunters

QUEBEC (CP)—Four hunters from Trois-Rivieres, Que., who had just shot a bull and cow moose had to run for their lives in Laurentides Provincial Park Thursday when another bull lumbered out of the bush and charged them.

The party led by Jean-Charles Gagnon said the moose, apparently angered by the death of its mate, was slavering at the mouth when it charged full-tilt.

The bull, with an antler spread estimated at 50 inches, was still guarding the body of its mate when the party returned Friday to try again to haul the carcasses away.

Ironically, the hunters took their full quota. When they shot two moose Thursday they could not—legally shoot the third. Finally they managed to scare it off until they could salvage their meat.

They were among 40 hunters who went into the park for four days. Last week in a special moose season that began Sept. 20 and ends Oct. 21, Liscenses have been given 300 hunters chosen by lot.

This week's group shot 19 of a possible 20 moose while the first group that went in last week shot 16 of 20.

Largest moose shot so far weighed about 1,200 pounds and had a 63-inch antler spread, not a record size but considered unusually large.

Got Proof Medical Plan Is Needed

TORONTO (CP)—The originator of Toronto's new medical plan for high school football says he's ready to produce proof that his plan is needed.

Fred Pollard, a teacher at Riverdale Collegiate and president of the Toronto Secondary Schools Athletic Association, announced Thursday that a doctor will be in attendance at all high school football games in the future.

It is a plan which has taken two years of organizing and which will be financed by the annual all-star high school game.

Several hours after making the announcement, Pollard went to a football game to watch high school football back for Don Mills Collegiate.

Fred Jr. was seated on his team's bench, suffering from a concussion, when his father arrived. There was no doctor at the game.

Pollard rushed his son to hospital for x-rays and observation. He was released Thursday night and may not be able to play football for a week or so.

The new medical plan will also provide that an ambulance be on hand within five minutes away from the site of any high school game.

WINS TITLE

OMAHA (CP) — Quillo Rinaldi, 25-year-old Italian, outpointed Britain's Chic Calderwood in a 15-round bout Friday night and won the vacant European light heavyweight boxing championship. Rinaldi weighed 176 pounds, one less than Calderwood.

Little World Series

Colonels Grab 2-1 Lead

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Louisville Colonels boasted a 2-1 lead in the Little World Series as they headed for their home field for tonight's, fourth baseball game in the best-of-seven series with Atlanta Crackers.

Selected will take the mound for the Crackers in an effort to even the series again while Larry Maxie is the probable starter for Louisville.

Louisville is the American Association playoff champion, defeating Atlanta in the post-season playoff for the Dixie championship. The $100,000 bonus southpaw from the University of Arizona struck out five and walked three.

The Colonels male their four runs in a wild eighth inning with the aid of an error and a hit on which two Crackers players suffered minor injuries.

Fritz Brickell lofted a pop fly between short and left field and Doug Clemens and Daryl Robertson both went after it. They collided, one run scored and Brickell got a double.

The International League playoff champion Crackers blew a 2-0 lead in the eighth. Righthander Alex Brice held the Colonels to four singles and struck out nine. Ed Bauta, who relieved him, took the loss.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Eltoro the Great, under jockey Jim Fitzsimmons, defeated Raven Wing by a length in Friday's featured Tan O'Shanter Golf, Curling and Skating Club purse at New Woodbine.

Third in this mile and sixteenth event, run on a very deep sloppy track, was Jammed Lucky.

As 4,894 rain - soaked fans watched Eltoro the Great posted his first victory in nine starts this season. The winner, favored in the mutuels, coupled with Raven Wing, produced a quinella return of $15.90.

Bulldog Beats Brute But...

Italianos Steal the Show

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Dick "The Bulldog" Brower almost another notch on his bone of victory here last night.

The ferocious "Bulldog" unleashed all his mayhemic power on "The Brute" Seymerineo to win the main bout in two straight falls.

But it was anti-climactic.

The Italianos, Tony Marino and Gino Marello committed one of the biggest acts of grand larceny ever seen in a city wrestling ring.

They stole the show, lock, stock and barrel from the top-billed Brute-Bulldog combination and there's not a man, woman, chick, nor child present who won't concur with that statement.

Marino, the agile gmynast and Gino, the 300-pound musclernan, had a ball.

They had the two Hollywood "blondes," the Statelees, Big Bob and Smilin' Stan as their foils in one of the best comedy routines ever seen here.

Wrestle-wise it was as one-sided as the Liston-Patterson ringette. Laugh-wise it drew the male belly type to the feminine shrill and the youngsters' choir-boy soprano.

The frustrated Stanlees tried every trick in their warbags. The Italianos met them with counter-trick, horseplay and sheer plain hellery. They had the crowd in stitches.

For insistance on one occasion they dropped Big Bob over the ropes, sunny-side up and administered a good old-fashioned spanking.

They used Tony's flat-soled beach slippers as fly-swatters and prat-paddlers. They tweaked the Stanlee noses and at one time had the blondes "hung" in the ropes while Tony playfully patted their cheeks.

Even Referee Bill Stack had a hard time keeping tongue in cheek.

Back to the main bout, the "Bulldog" took ten minutes of the first fall to flatten "The Brute." However, the bearded 300-pounder got in some good licks.

Brower made short work of the second fall, softening the "Brute" for his famous top-rope dive. That ended it.

The Trots

Owned by Edwin Lockhart of Carolina, Ont., and driven by Jimmy Zeron, the winner paced the mile in 2:08 4-5 and paid across-the-board prices of $7.80, $5.20 and $6.80.

Crandal on Top was second and Gay Robert was third.

TOOK HER SAVINGS

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto woman told a court Friday that a man who came to paint her house three years ago stayed long enough to help himself to her life savings, Mrs. Rose August, 40, was testifying at the trial of John Bobby Babig, 43, charged with defrauding her of $13,000. The trial continues.

Lawrence Leads Vegas Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nov. (AP)—David H. (Dutf) Lawrence, the Nevada state open champion, shot an eight-under-par 64 Friday to lead the way through the first round of the $30,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament.

Playing in only his fourth tournament as a pro, the 25-year-old Californian toured the par 36-28—72 municipal course in 31-33—64, tying the tournament and competitive course record.

Lawrence, who holed out a 25-foot chip shot for an eagle three and collected six birdies, took a lead of three strokes. Tied at 67 were Frank Wharton, 36-32; Ron Letellier, 36-32; and Larry Mowry, 33-34.

Favored Billy Casper Jr. had a 34-34—68.

Al Balding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, were among a large group at 70.

Russians Won't Play In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Camille Fleury, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Friday night Moscow Dynamos will not play in Quebec City during their tour of Eastern Canada in November.

He said two organizations which showed interest in having the Russian hockey team play in Quebec were not able to guarantee the required $5,000 for a game.

The four schedule calls for two games in Montreal, Mr. Fleury said. One will be played at the Maurice Richard Arena Nov. 16 and the second will be played at the Montreal Forum Nov. 25.

Other games are: Ottawa, Nov. 15; Kitchener, Nov. 18; Hamilton, Nov. 19; Windsor, Nov. 21; Toronto, Nov. 23; Timmins, Nov. 26; Halifax Nov. 28.

They'll Do It Every Time

Can Win It Sitting Down

Runnels Eyes Bat Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Runnels of Boston Red Sox can virtually clinch his second American League batting championship by the simple expedient of sitting down.

And if he does, it would be hard to fault the punch-hitting Texan.

Boston manager Mike Higgins ticked off Runnels' injuries and ailments Friday when the Red Sox had an off-day:

"He's played the last two weeks with a pulled groin muscle. He missed a game earlier this week because he had a stiff neck, which is still bothering him. And he has an injured thumb on his right hand where he was hit by a pitch a few days ago."

The 5-year-old Red Sox first baseman holds a seven-point lead over New York's Mickey Mantle going into the final weekend of play.

The Yankees have only two games left, and it would take a near-perfect performance by Mantle in those games to catch Runnels should the Red Sox player fail to play, or hit at about his present level. Boston has three games left, two today and one Sunday.

It works like this:

Runnels has an average of .3256. Mantle failed to hit in three official trips Friday night and his average dropped three points to .319.

To catch him, should Runnels fail to play, Mantle would have to have four hits in four trips which would put him at .3261 (with one walk to allow him to meet the required number of appearances), or five for seven (.3263) or six for eight (.328). Mantle leaped into contention Tuesday with a 4-for-4 performance. He still needs five appearances to be eligible for the crown.

NHL Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

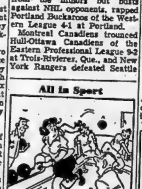
Unless they change their ways Boston Bruins will be favored to finish last in the National Hockey League again this season.

They were edged 2-1 Friday night by Hershey Bears of the American League, their second loss to a minor league team in the pre-season.

Elsewhere, Toronto Maple Leafs, whizzes against teams from the minors but busts against NHL opponents, rapped Portland Buckaroos of the Western League 4-1 at Portland.

Montreal Canadiens trounced Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional League 8-2 at Trois-Rivieres, Que., and New York Rangers defeated Seattle Totems of the WHL 7-3 at Seattle.

Bruins, who have won only 30 of 140 games in the last two seasons while finishing a poor last, are the only NHL team beaten by a minor league team in the pre-season schedule.



Hull-Ottawa also gave them their lumps. And Bruins had to be sharp with three last-period goals to defeat the EPHL Kingston Frontenacs 4-3 this week.

In the only AHL exhibition Friday night, Buffalo Bisons dropped their fourth game in five starts, a 4-2 loss to the defending champion Springfield Indians at Welland.

COLOR TV DOUBLES

ABC becomes the second American television network during the 1962-63 season to broadcast color.

All in Sport

One of the very first things to remember, dear, is that the ball goes forward!"

TROIS - RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—The president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association says he agrees with the idea of having Ontario Junior A teams drop out of Memorial Cup play.

"The Ontario Junior A teams whose players are subsidized should join the ranks of professionals and leave the Memorial Cup to the amateurs," Clyde McCarthy of Trois-Rivieres said in an interview.

"It is regrettable that the cup is played for, by all the junior A teams without showing any distinction between amateurs and pros."

McCarthy added that the Ontario clubs are better equipped because of the amount of money made available to them.

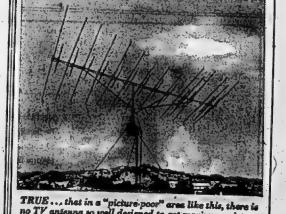
"Although good sportsmanship is shown by the majority of players, it is hard on the boys playing for glory against those getting money for the same efforts."

Another problem was that leagues outside Southern Ontario often lacked the funds necessary to give their fans a square deal. Three years ago, for example, Trois - Rivieres Reds had to play all five games of a playoff series in Moncton, N.B., because they lacked the money necessary for travelling back and forth.

The Reds started off well, but playing on foreign ice lowered their morale and they were defeated, he said. The story might have been different if they had played a couple of games at home.

Larks Ill On the Wing

MONTREAL (CP)—A bumpy flight brought the Montreal Alouettes home from Winnipeg Friday night.



A club spokesman said constant buffeting while airborne made a number of the players ill.

"But everyone was fine once we touched down."

Coach Perry Moss meanwhile called a workout for Monday to prepare for an Oct. 8 Thanksgiving Day game here against Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Als expect to have fullback Don Clark and at least two other regulars back from the injury list for the game.

Funnymen Must Always Have Their Serious Side

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's tough on new comedians to discover that the established comics have mapped up most of the known diseases for their pet projects.

The rules of show biz are such that a funnyman must also have his serious side—as spearhead for some worthy cause. Soupy Sales realized this as he started pushing into the television big-time as slapstick favorite of the younger crowd.

His chose as his particular cause that disease afflicting thousands of teen-agers—drop out.

The youngster who drops out of high school and goes no further with his education has been getting attention from many civic-minded persons, up to and including President Kennedy. The reason that the drop out is a waste of resources. Further, education is increasingly important in today's world, in which automation is replacing work once done by unskilled labor.

WORKS WITH KIDS

"I had been doing charity work, but it wasn't being directed toward anything," Soupy said. "Jerry Lewis has muscular dystrophy and the other comedians have their own causes. I thought since I had worked with kids, I should find something that affected them.

"Combatting the drop out is just as important as fighting any dreaded disease. This is a kind of disease that can blight lives, yet it can be cured by the people themselves, if given enough love, understanding and guidance."

Soupy has gone all out with special television and radio spot announcements to coincide with the return to school, plus bus ads, movie trailers and columns for high school papers. He also carries on the campaign with his daily television show in Los Angeles. The local station, KABC, has put together a 25-minute short called "drop out blackouts."

"Don't be a drop out," warns Soupy, and a body plunges off a high roof.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday September 30

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) —Best course is one which sees you observing twelfth signs. No time to throw caution to winds. Appreciate what you already possess. Trying for "long shot" proves foolish.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Despite encouragement offered by associate, take practical view. Tendency is to accept opinions of those who really do not have all facts. Let Taurus - common sense come to fore.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Harmony in home and understanding between those who "count" mean much more than any flashy action. Combine spiritual and practical knowledge tonight. Permit inner thoughts to "come forward".

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Actions taken today could prove premature. Heed spiritual counsel. Later, put thoughts on paper. The more time you take, the more advantage you gain. Remain loyal to one you vowed to trust.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Suddenly numerous answers tumble forth. Means you can use past experience for gaining added present knowledge. Being quiet "within" of utmost importance. Avoid restless, nervous persons.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Gain indicated if you are willing to read, listen and to push across original ideas. Means you can display "class" by smoothly standing pat. Play cards close to your chest. You could win handsomely.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Stake reputation on personal observations. Otherwise, tendency is for others to withdraw from your corner. Answer to vital question could be obtained by maintaining open mind and to Absorb knowledge.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Tendency is to hurry, overlook important details. Wise course would be to check carefully. Occupy yourself with vital factors which require attention and you will gain.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Family get-together encouraged. Maintain sense of humor. Avoid temptation to force your views on others. Do more listening than talking. You could Avoid making problems out of simple projects. Good for entertainment.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Very self-satisfying day indicated. If you're versatile. Don't insist on having everything completely your own way. Try something new. Favorable results indicated.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Person who helps you review recent promises is actually, a constructive influence. Fair-weather friends will desert you soon enough. But realistic individual remains loyal.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Cycle up. Means you can face major issues without flinching. You come up with the right answers by being forthright. Don't back down. You are about to win a long-standing struggle.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you elect to force your way, you lose out. But a little diplomacy can bring ultimate happiness. Be symbathetic. Realize that you can aid by helping others to "save face." Keep a secret.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Surprising, new faces about loved ones become visible. Exciting day because it marks self-discovery. You begin to really perceive persons, situations.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Like Taurus, you advance toward goals by taking sure rather than sensational steps. Be satisfied with a "little at a time." Take care of details early. Relax tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— Today fine for taking a chance on your own hunch, abilities. Though the odds may appear to be against you, you are on the right track. Exercise charm and tact.

If Your Birthday Is Today - - - - you are independent, original, not always easy to please. But you do go out of your way to please others. Many burdens lifted beginning next month.

General Tendencies — Cycle up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Day when passion rules reason. Channel your creative urges in constructive outlets.

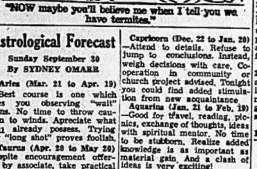
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Attend to details. Refuse to jump to conclusions. Instead, watch decisions with care. Cooperation in community or church project advised. Tonight you could find added stimulation from new acquaintance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Good for travel, reading, physics, exchange of thoughts, ideas with spiritual mentor. No time to be stubborn. Realize added knowledge is as important as material gain. Add a dash of humor. Then life is not only adequate, Seek knowledge.

If today is your birthday . . . you get your wish for more settled conditions" next month. Make arrangements now for constructive change. You have been confused emotionally. Now, take steps to throw off influences which depress you.

General Tendencies: International "thirst" for peace becomes obvious But certain tense situations cause leaders to boast about power, force and ability to overcome all obstacles.

For October 1



Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Start new month by reviewing security, financial position and prospects. Take conservative view, face facts. There is a very bright side. Use your ability to come up with new ideas.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Take one step at a time. Otherwise this becomes day in which you "slip up" on details. Truth is the best policy. If there is embarrassing situation, speak frankly. You won't be angry.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Excellent for exhibiting pets, hobbies. Share enthusiasm with family member. Trying to "outdo my self" leads only to frustration. Tonight, good for favorite entertainment.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Harmony of mental activity. Means your ideas come to fore; you are able to profit by applying them. Key is harmony. Don't waste time on petty disputes. Instead, be understanding.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Put finishing touches on present undertaking. Have for-

FEELEY

porily partner along with Benny Nicoletti, major gambler and reputed Mafia leader in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Complete founder Albert Iannuzzelli of Niagara Falls, Ont., one of the star witnesses against McDermott-Feeley hookups, reluctantly disclosed that the former Ontario Provincial CLUB ter without portfolio and federal M.P. had helped get the company's federal permit and owned five per cent of it. Nicolletti had obtained a 15-per-cent interest in the $100,000 firm for $7,500.

Iannuzelli testified that Mr. Houck had procured an introduction for him to the federal superintendent of insurance, F. R. MacGregor at a time in the early 1950s when the Mafia company was having difficulty getting a licence. Subsequently Iannuzzelli satisfied the official's objection to lack of expert personnel by getting an officer from another finance company.

He said Mr. Houck owned a five-per-cent share in Power City Gas Corporation—which later was sold to Niagara Frontier Gas—but he says Feeley owned the rest. Power City is now the name of the company which Iannuzzelli founded after the official's objection to lack of expert personnel by getting an officer from another finance company.

He said Mr. Houck owned a five-per-cent share in Power City Gas Corporation—which later was sold to Niagara Frontier Gas—but he says Feeley owned the rest. Power City is now the name of the company which Iannuzzelli founded after the official's objection to lack of expert personnel by getting an officer from another finance company.

PROTEST NAMING

Iannuzzelli at first gave the names of his partners in the commissioner, Mr. Justice W. D. Latchford, privately on a slip of paper, but later the commissioner read them into the record, with Iannuzzelli protesting to the last that he could see no reason for dragging in the dead legislator's name.

"Other people mentioned here are dead," Mr. Justice Roach observed.

TO HEAR POLITICIANS

Politicians are expected to be in the forefront next week when Commission counsel Roland F. Ennis and Friday Prosecutor-Secretary John Yaremko will have a witness battery of federal and New Democratic Party cross-examination on his recent hints of favoritism in the government's administration of social-welfare laws.

He submitted a 75,000-word brief and was followed with details by Deputy Secretary F. J. Cudney, also due for examination by the political lawyers.

Later in the week, the commission counsel said, the inquiry might have to adjourn awaited appearance of Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, who is known to have planned a speech alleging gambler - politician tie-ins touched off the investigation.

Under present plans, the next stage would be the equally-anticipated debut of Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, who has displayed no public enthusiasm for the inquiry and who will be forced — at least nominally — to act jointly opposing party counsel.

TO HEAR PROSECUTORS

Behind him are expected to follow such witnesses as Deputy Attorney-General W. B. Common, Crown Attorney Hugh Templeton W. C. Bowman and retired deputy C. B. Maybee, all of whom have been mentioned in evidence.

Apart from these, the commission is believed to have completed how the major portion of its examination into the allegations of malfeasance launched by Mr. Justice Roach in connection with "social" clubs and organized gambling generally.

Missing bookie Ralph Clarke remains to be heard—although efforts are seeking this former McDermott - Feeley pal who disappeared May 9 after giving the commission information pertaining to the operation of his now defunct betting agency.

The Liberal party is known, too, to have some witnesses lined up but it is not known whether they will reach the box.

Still to come is the subject of crime and law enforcement generally, an examination that may be curtailed if the commission is to report reasonably soon. It has been sitting off and on since late March.

TELLS OF CUT-IN

In its sessions this week, the commission came up with a self-asserted reformed gambler — Dominic Simone of Toronto — who told of cutting in McDermott and Feeley for 40 per cent of his $120,000-a-year craps game profits in return for bankroll assistance and police protection.

The dapper Simone said his "Riverdale Country Club" game rattled along pleasantly for 15 months in 1952-53 until McDermott one night let the police in, closed up the joint while the promoter was doing three months and welcomed the clientele permanently to his own club at nearby Cooksville, where Simone couldn't get past the doorman, he said.

"They'd throw their own mothers to the wolves," he told the commission bitterly.

But the now-respectable fruit merchant said he was "very satisfied later" when he learned the personality-ensnaring Clarke, also on the outs with the pair, set fire to the Cooksville Club on an unoccupied night. It burned to a shell as the barred entrances, ironically, kept out firemen.

As Feeley had done before him, McDermott denied most of Simone's story, admitting only that he helped bankroll the game (for which he won't be prosecuted now) and gave Simone some walking around money when he came out of jail broke.

TELL OF 'TIP-OFF'

Two insiders at another club — the defunct but once-roaring Club Seville — also preceded a police visit, but that was a tip-off to its query as the commission came to learn.

A procession of Niagara Falls tailors, businessmen and gamblers gave a succession of details of McDermott - Feeley links, Mafia mentions and financial connections with gambling clubs and payoffs for police protection—all suggested in one way or another in previous evidence.

Most prominent of these was Frederick Albert Hayes, owner of a onetime dishwasher who now owns a couple of motels and other businesses and who, with his brother and partner Louis, has been in connection with Niagara Falls' notorious Rawley's Club, around the corner from one of Feeley's.

Police acting on an anonymous typed document in 1956 had simultaneously raided the club and motel, claiming to have found $1,800 in U.S. cash at the motel running in close serial sequence to money found at the club safe, as well as dice of a similar type at both places.

SAY A DOZEN

For the money, the brothers suggested the coincidence of similarities from both establishments reaching the same Niagara Falls, N.Y., bank at the same time to pick up supplies. They claimed the dice were of different types.

Both scoffed at reports received by police that they were members of the Mafia, and said they did not know what that is.

Both described broke-and-be-protection of the Canada Evidence Act — announcing this through counsel William C. Rose of Toronto, who also is representing Mayor Harold Emery, former OPP Const. Robert J. Wright, convicted with that air of conspiracy in obtaining police information, and Frank (Chief) Sorrell of Niagara Falls, who did ask statutory protection against future use of incriminating evidence, denied association with the two Toronto gamblers and gambling clubs.

It was he who reported, at third hand, the possible sighting of Peter Ivan Scrip disappeared and hasn't been heard of since. Another Anthony knew nothing of why Scrip disappeared and hasn't been heard of since. Another had told people he was "going to see Benny Nicoletti (The Enforcer) Papalia of Hamilton.

New Yorker Nicoletti was linked to the Ramsey Club by OPP Const. George Cook, who said that in 1959 Nicoletti got his brother-in-law, Harold Edwards of Niagara Falls, N.Y., installed as figurehead club president. Edwards had told the officer that Nicoletti at the time had been forced out of his U.S. gambling interests and was moving into Canada.

Albert Iannuzzelli described Nicoletti as an old schoolmate and occasional visitor but said they have no gambling connections.

Little Body Reacts With a Stammer

DEAR DORIS—To Worried Mother: It is not your three-year-old that needs help. It is us mothers.

I had four healthy boys but wishing each one was a girl, so when my daughter came along, well, she got undivided attention. It would put her out to play in starched frilly dresses and really reprimanded her if she came in two hours later a little bit soiled. To me she was going to be a perfect little lady even at the tender age of two.

DORIS CLARK

So what happened? Stuttering, stammering, wetting the bed, headaches. She caught everything that was going. I never realized it was my fault, even though my doctor told me. It was only when she left home to go in training for a nurse that it gradually decreased. She was so bad she would not even phone her closest friend.

She is completely relaxed now and a very happy girl, but no thanks to her mother.—A CONSTANT READER OF YOUR COLUMN.

DEAR CONSTANT—But thanks to you for your True Confession. You describe a classic design for producing stammers and wet beds.

Lt.-Col. Duffy Tells of Plans In Emergency

PICTON — Co-ordinator of Emergency Measures Organization in the Quinte Area, Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, Belleville, addressed the Rotary Club here this week. In outlining the steps which would have to be taken in case of nuclear attack, the speaker said that rural areas would be called upon to provide shelter and food for those who had been made homeless from the densely populated areas. In this part of the country the plan calls for evacuees from Toronto or elsewhere coming here for emergency housing in the proportion of four for every one person now living here. This means that Picton should be organized to receive about 20,000 refugees, the speaker said.

A plan is an urgent necessity, not a dream, said the speaker, who also warned against hysteria. It is an individual, personal matter, to which each should give some thought. There must be thought in community terms of caring for those physically affected by the nuclear blasts.

Introduced by Dr. Gerald Allison, Lt.-Col. Duffy was thanked by Major R. Robinson.

E. Rosborough Beauty Queen For Sophiasburg

PICTON — Miss Erma Rosborough, 18-year-old Picton stenographer, was chosen as "Miss Sophiasburg" in a beauty contest held in conjunction with the dance which concluded Demorestville Fair, Wednesday night. There were eight contestants. The new queen was crowned by Miss Judy McDermaid, who won the honor last year. Miss Rosborough received a silver tray as well as the honor.

Mrs. E. Hicks Celebrates 90th Birthday

PICTON — The ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Edith Hicks on September 27 was marked by a family gathering at the home of Mrs. John Loney of South Bay. Mrs. Hicks is in good health and has spent most of her life at South Bay. Among those present at the celebration were: Mrs. Floral Gallagher of Regina, Sask; Mrs. Sidney Ryckman and Miss Anne Ryckman, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. Wendell Turner and daughter Vickie, of Sarasota, Florida.

Equinoxial Gales Cause Damage In Country

PICTON — Equinoxial gales and heavy rain did considerable damage in Prince Edward County on Friday. A number of large trees were blown down and many had branches torn off. Apple growers report a heavy fall of fruit, especially from trees on edges of orchards which bore the full brunt of the wind. However, they will not be a complete loss since they are sold for the manufacture of apple juice at which the Folkard Canning Co. at Bethel is busy.

The rain was welcomed by farmers though it delayed tomato picking. The bulk of this crop has been harvested but most factories will operate next week as there is a good demand for tomatoes and tomato juice.

WILL APPROVE

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta cabinet will approve a conservation board recommendation that Great Canadian Oil Sands Limited of New York be allowed to proceed with its plans for commercial development of the Athabasca oil sands Premier E. C. Manning announced Friday.

IMPENDING

ble for the defiant Mississippians arose at Memphis, Tenn., 97 miles to the northwest. There the federal government massed U.S. marshals and gathered groups of other federal peace officers.

This source also said marshals figured to use bayonets if necessary to move Meredith on to the campus. Whether the bayonets would be in the hands of federal troops or federal marshals was not reported.

The determination of the federal government to put Meredith into the university as the first Negro student ever knowingly admitted in 114 years is on record.

WILL OBEY ORDERS

Burke Marshall, assistant U.S. attorney - general, assured the Appeals Court in New Orleans Friday that court orders would be carried out by the justice department.

"We're prepared to respond to whatever emergencies may develop," said Defence Secretary McNamara in Washington.

Attorney - General Kennedy said: "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Equally determined, apparently, were the officials of Mississippi, despite withdrawal of their massed array of peace officers that turned back Meredith on his third attempt to enroll. Barnett, defiant in the face of the current contempt hearing, ordered part of his citizen force back onto campus Friday afternoon.

These county and city peace officers dispersed again by evening.

However, H. C. Strider, chairman of the state game and fish commission, announced that 250 supervisors and game wardens have been placed on the alert to take part in the school's segregation defence—if needed.

ASKS TO SECEDE

In Jackson, the state legislature turned aside a proposal for Mississippi to secede from the union. It enacted and Barnett signed into law a bill that declares acts of public officials in keeping public schools and higher education institutes segregated "are sovereign acts of the Sovereign State of Mississippi" and not individual fancies.

In Congress, conflict over the Mississippi situation came in resolutions and public appeals to President Kennedy. Seven northern senators signed a resolution that would express the sentiment of Congress that it support the executive branch in its effort to enrol Meredith "by every appropriate means."

'Church's Mission to World' Will Be Theme of Anglican Congress in Toronto in '63

By HILARY GORDON

TORONTO (CP) — Eighteen independent national churches comprising world - wide Anglicanism will be represented by about 1,000 delegates at the Anglican Congress to be held here Aug. 13-23, 1963.

The assembly will bring together people of many races, cultures and colors, including Japanese, Malayans, Africans and Indians as well as delegations from the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the United States and Canada.

World Anglicanism has a membership in excess of 40,000,000.

"The Church's Mission to the World" is the main theme of the Congress, the third in the history of the communion. Planning committees have presented a program calculated to evoke critical analysis of the way Christianity is facing up to conditions in a changing world.

Church leaders, keenly aware that the Christian church is under pressure on all sides by non-Christian ideologies and philosophies believe that a new approach is called for if it is to maintain any kind of relevance to the modern way of life.

Under the general theme, Congress delegates will consider the church's future on the religious, political and cultural frontiers, the challenges they present and the organization required to face them.

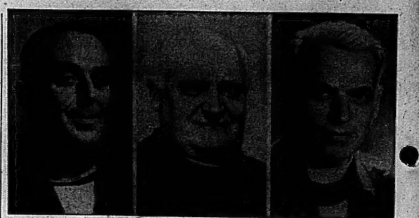
The inaugural service and later a missionary rally will be held in Maple Leaf Gardens. The hockey arena, when used for convention purposes, will accommodate about 14,000 people. Plenary sessions are scheduled for the Royal York Hotel and the closing service will be held in St. James' Cathedral.

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, Primate of All Canada, will be the chairman. Other leading figures will include Most Rev. A. M. Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Most Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

But, in the light of growing militant reaction in many parts of the world to Western dominance, the congress program promises to emphasize that the Anglican communion's supranational character will find emphasis in debates and resolutions. The congress, made up of bishops, priests and lay delegates, is not a legislative body, but its pronouncements will weigh heavily in determining general Anglican policy.

The younger churches of Africa, India and the Far East will have a prominent place on the agenda. For example, Rt. Rev. J. W. Sadiq, scholarly Bishop of Nagpur, India, is to be the theme speaker when the church's mission on the political frontlies is discussed. At the big missionary rally addresses will be given by Rt. Rev. Roland Koh, Bishop of Kuala Lumpur, Malaya; Rt. Rev. K. D. W. Anand, Bishop of Amritsar, India; and Rt. Rev. J. C. Vockler, Bishop of Polynesia, Fiji Islands.

Speakers from the other side of the world taking part in important debates will include Prof. Y. Endo of Central Theological College, Tokyo; Very Rev. T. O. Oludoyera, provost of Ondo - Benin, Nigeria; Most Rev. H. L. J. De Mel metropolitan of the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon; Rt. Rev. Chandu Ray, Assistant Bishop of Lahore, Pakistan; Miss P. Mzaga-Dal, principal of Kinnaird College for Women, Lahore; and Rt. Rev. W. N. Pangapa, Maori bishop of Aotearoa, New Zealand.



Islam's rapid expansion and the resurgence of Buddhism and Hinduism in Africa and Asia is a matter of concern to Anglicanism. So is the challenge of current philosophies, arising out of a scientific and technological age, which may clash head on with the Christian faith in the intellectual struggle of the future.

VATICAN COUNCIL

Christian unity takes on new importance in view of the forthcoming ecumenical council in Rome.

The Anglican Congress next August will provide the first opportunity for Anglicanism, as a body, to assess decisions arrived at in Rome. The communion, holding a position in which both Catholic and Protestant traditions are maintained, is looked upon as a "bridge" church in the ecumenical picture.

Congress speakers are expected to emphasize the need for a united front by Anglicans themselves and a better - informed laity as prime requirements for work in this sphere.

DISCUSS CHRISTIANITY'S FUTURE — Leading Anglicans from five continents will discuss the future of Christianity in the modern world at an Anglican Congress to be held in Toronto August 13-23 next year. Chairman of the assembly will be Most Rev. Howard H. Clarke, (left), Primate of all Canada. Discussing plans with him are Most Rev. A. M. Ramsey (centre), Archbishop of Canterbury, and Most Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. (CP Photo).
